Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennai and eGangotri

त्राक प्रमाणीकर्ण १६५०-१६५० PREFACE

This edition of the Kumārasambhava is specially prepared a view to meet the needs of students studying for Unixaminations. It would, I trust, be also of no inconsi-In se to the general reader. An attempt has been made, main at length the various difficult passages in the poem that the real poetic charm might be appreciated by persons en average intelligence. The reader would, I hope, find of nuch new matter by way of exeges is or interpretation. In Introduction, questions like the extent and the sources of poem, have been dealt with fully. It was first intended to blish an old Sanskrit commentary along with this edition. t as old commentaries are not obviously likely to meet the uirements of the modern student, Setumādhavācārya iendragadkar Shastri, at my request, very willingly unders, ok the task of writing a new commentary which, I am sure buld be found to be very helpful by the students -32

In the preparation of this edition I do

help nanda

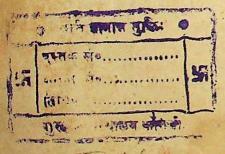

मंग प्रका तिका शास आही बहर अंग्रह

(Second Edition)

Rs. 4-8-0

1951

Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennal and eGangotri

891.21 K12K

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennai and eGangotri

त्यक भ्रमाणींकरच १६८०-१६८० PREFACE

This edition of the Kumārasambhava is specially prepared with a view to meet the needs of students studying for Unixaminations. It would, I trust, be also of no inconsiversi In se to the general reader. An attempt has been made, dera to er main at length the various difficult passages in the poem so that the real poetic charm might be appreciated by persons of giren average intelligence. The reader would, I hope, find Top nuch new matter by way of exegesis or interpretation. In the Introduction, questions like the extent and the sources of the poem, have been dealt with fully. It was first intended to publish an old Sanskrit commentary along with this edition. but as old commentaries are not obviously likely to meet the requirements of the modern student, Setumādhavācārya Gajendragadkar Shastri, at my request, very willingly unders, took the task of writing a new commentary which, I am sure would be found to be very helpful by the students. -321

In the preparation of this edition, I derived much help from the Trivandrum edition as also the editions of Jīvānanda and Mr. Ray and 'Kālidāsa et L'Art Poètique de L'Inde' of Dr. Harichand Shastri. My sincere thanks are due to these, especially to the Trivandrum edition, from the commentaries in which I have freely quoted in the Notes. Dr. A. B. Gajendragadkar, M. A., Ph. D., M. R. A. S., of the Elphinstone College was also kind enough to make several useful suggestions. Lastly, I must thank Messrs. A. V. Patwardhan, V. H. Barve and K. M. Bal of the Aryabhushan Press, Poona, for the excellent printing of the book.

New Poona College,

July 1923.

R. D. Karmarkar

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

4

Preface to the Second Edition

The first edition had been long out of print, but owing various causes, it was not found possible by me to und the task of bringing out a new edition till now.

Considerable changes have been made in this edition Sanskrit commentary had to be dropped, in order makes the volume of the book, and also in view of the fact the Notes do contain ample quotations from y expressed. The English translation and the prose-order of the Sanskrit stanzas, have been given just below them, for ready reference. The views expressed in the Introduction, about the extent of the Kumārasambhava, etc. have not been seriously challenged by any scholar, since the publication of the first edition nearly thirty years ago. I have not therefore made any changes in the Introduction proper.

I have to express my thanks to Prof K. G. Bedekar, M. A. of the M. E. S. College, Poona, and Miss Sulochana Nachane, M. A., and Mrs. Shilavati Oka, M. A., of the Research Department, Bhandarkar Oriental Institute, for their help in correcting the proofs and for many useful suggestions.

Lastly, I must express my gratitude to Mr. V. A, Patwardhan, the energetic Manager of the Aryabhushan Press, for printing the book in such a short time.

Poona
June 1951,

R. D. Karmarkar

de

SC

CONTENTS

with	(
versi	7
dera	In troducti	ion					VII-XXVI
to ex	Text (Car	ntos I-	·V)				1-90
so th	Notes to C	Canto	I.			1	91-142
ofmतिस	,,	,,	П		•••	•••	143-180
ं चुपि	17-	,,	Ш		•••	•••	181-223
	"	,,	IV				224-244
	,,	,,	V				245-290
	Appendix	A(E	xtract	from th	e Śivapurāņ	a)	291-306
	Appendix	B (P	roverbi	al passa	ages)		307-308
	Appendix	C(A	note of	n metre)	•••	309-311
	Appendix	D (In	dex of	stanzas)	•••	312-321
	Appendix	E (I	ndex o	f impor	tant words a	nd
		To	pics)			•••	322-32

dy she sly rst ide

A. ne, nt, the

A,

ABBREVIATIONS USED

Amara-Amarakosa Gitā-Bhagavadgītā Kādam-Kādambarī K. P.—Kāvyaprakāsa Kumāra-Kumārasambhava Manu-Manusmrti Mālatī-MālatImādhava Mālavikā-Mālavikāgnimitra MBH-Mahābhārata Megha-Meghadūta Mrccha-Mrcchakatika Mudrā-Mudrārāksasa Raghu-Raghuvamsa Rat-Ratnāvali Sarasvatī-Sarasvatīkanthābharana Sāhitya-Sāhityadarpapa Śāk-Śākuntala. Sisupāla—Šisupālavadha Uttara-Uttararamacarita Vikram-Vikramorvasiya

Kā

Ra

wit

poe hin

esp

and car

is a

Kupoet

who beir

secu

GodKāl

taki

nt

Kur विश्वत etc. at t of a not

Kir

INTRODUCTION

THE KUMARASAMBHAVA: A MAHAKAVYA

The Kumārasambhava is included in the list of the five wellknown Mahākāvyas¹ in Sanskrit literature. Of these five, Kālidāsa has the honour of contributing two, viz. Kumāra and Raghu. That the Kumāra is the earlier work of the poet, can not baldoubted. The Raghu contains a number of references to Ky Martikeya who is the standard of comparison for the Raghu race, and also to Kāma and the persistence with which these references are made, clearly shows that the poet expects his readers to know the Kumāra as he has painted him in his earlier work, the Kumāra. The style of the Kumāra especially in the first three Sargas, is obviously more laboured and artificial and the poet seems to be at great pains to write carefully rather than naturally. The search for poetic conceits is also quite apparent. All this points out to the fact that the Kumāra, at any rate, the beginning portion of it, was the poet's first work. Tradition also supports this view. Kālidāsa, who was first quite a block-head and was married to a Princess, being stung by the scornful words of his wife, determined to secure the favour of Gauri by penance, with the result that the Goddess conferred upon him high poetic genius. On his return Kālidāsa was asked by his wife, अस्ति कश्चित् वागर्थः, and the poet aking each of the three words as the beginning for three differint works composed the Kumāra, Megha and Raghu (the Kumāra begins with अस्ति, अस्युत्तास्यां दिशि etc., the Megha with निवत, कश्चित कान्ताविरहगुरुणा etc. and the Raghu with वागशी, वागशीविव etc.). The gracefully modest reference to himself by the poet at the beginning of the Raghu, reveals certainly the humility of a great poet, conscious of his ability and superiority, and not that of a novice, and is on a par with the sentiment3 ex-

¹ The five Mahākāvyas are: Raghuvamsa, Kumārasambhava, Kirātārjunīya, Sisupālavadha and Naisadha.

² क सूर्यप्रभवो वंशः क चाल्पविषया मितः। तितीर्षुर्दुस्तरं मोहादुङ्गपेनास्मि सागरम्॥ मन्दः कवियशःप्राणी गमिष्याम्युपहास्यताम्। प्रांश्चलभ्ये फले मोहादुद्वाहुरिव वामनः॥ 1. 2–3.

VIII

Introduction

pressed in the Sakuntala, indicating that Raghu and Samore or less together. Everything about the Raghu, the sty le, the finish, the accuracy of description, the ease with which the poet seems to write, etc., leads one to the conclusion that the Raghu is obviously the work of the poet when he was at the height of his power.

A Mahākāvya (long poem) is thus defined by Dandin, a comparatively old rhetorician (circa 6th century A.D.) as follows:

स्रगंबन्धे महाकाव्यमुच्यते तस्य रुक्षणम् । आशीर्नमिक्त्या वस्तुनिर्देशो वापि तन्मुखम् ॥ इतिहासकथे। द्वतमितरहा सदाश्रयम् । चतुर्वर्गफलायत्तं चतुरोदात्तनायकम् ॥ नगराणवशिरुकुं वन्द्राकों दयवर्णनेः । उद्यानसालेरुकोडामधुपानरतोत्सवैः ॥ विप्रलम्भेर्विवाहैश्च कुमारोदयवर्णनेः । मन्त्रदूतप्रयाणाजिनायकाभ्युदयैरिप ॥ अलंकृतमसंक्षितं रसभावनिरन्तरम् । सगैरनतिविस्तीर्णेः श्रव्यदत्तेः सुसंधिभिः ॥ सर्वत्र मिन्नकृतान्तेरुपेतं लोकरजनम् । काव्यं कल्पोत्तरस्थायि जायते सदलंकृति ॥ न्यूनमप्यत्र यैः कैश्चिदङ्गैः काव्यं न दुष्यति । ययुपात्तेषु संपत्तिराराधयति तदिदः ॥ (I. 14-20).

g

n

3

b

of

m

al

m

13

अ

₹₹

あ

स्व

-भा

-भृर

द्य

वा

mi

fro

अये Bl

bh

CO

that is, a long poem should consist of cantos, not too lengthy and having agreeable metre and having proper connection with one another; it should open with a benediction, a salutation of the mention of the theme and should be based upon a historical incident or otherwise; its hero should be noble and clever it should contain descriptions of cites, oceans, mountains, seasons, the risings of the sun and the moon, sports in garden and water, drinking parties, marriages, love-in-separation, the birth and rise of princes, embassy, marches, battles etc; the cantos should end with different metres and the hero should naturally be described as triumphant. It is not intended that every long

³ आपरितोषाद्विदुषां न साधु मन्ये प्रयोगविज्ञानम् । 1. 2.

⁴ For a fuller discussion of this question, see our paper 'The Chronological order of Kālidāsa's works' read at the 2nd Orienta Conference (Jan. 1922), and published in the Proceedings thereof.

I Kumārasambhava: a Mahākāvya

IX.

poem should contain all the above things. The purpose of writing such a poem, should of course be the acquisition of the Purusartha or the four-fold ends.⁵

The Kumūra admirably satisfies the above definition of a Mahākāvya. It is divided into eight cantos, written in an

5 The Agnipurāna (which is perhaps older than the Kāvyādarša) gives a practically similar definition, except a reference to Vedic metres and the deeds of unchaste women; सर्गवन्धो महाकाव्यमारव्धं संस्कृतेन यत्।... इतिहासकथोर्भृतमितरद्वा सदाश्रयम् । मन्त्रदूतप्रयाणाजिनियतं नातिविस्तरम्। शक्तर्यातिजग-त्यातिशक्यो त्रिष्टुभा तथा ॥ पुष्पितामादिभिवर्षेत्राभिजनैथारुभिः समैः। मुक्ता तु भिन्नवृत्तान्ता नातिसंक्षिप्तसर्गकम् ॥ अतिशकरिकाष्टभ्यामेकसंकीर्णकैः परः । मात्रयाप्यपरः सर्गः प्राशस्त्येषु च पश्चिमः॥ कल्पोडातिनिन्दितस्तिस्मिन्विशेषानादरः सताम्। नगरार्णवशैलर्तुचन्द्राकिश्चिमपादपैः॥ उयानसिळळकोडामधुपानरतोत्सवैः । दूतीवचनविन्यासैरसतीचरिताद्भुतैः ॥ तमसा मस्ताप्य-न्यैर्विभावेरतिनिभेरेः । सर्वदृत्तिप्रदृत्तं च सर्वभावप्रभावितम् ॥ सर्वरीतिरसैः स्पृष्टं पुष्टं गुणविभू-ष्णैः । अत एव महाकाव्यं तत्कर्तां च महाकविः ॥ (337.24-32). The definition given by the Sahityadarpana (14th century A. D.) is evidently more detailed and arrived at by a close scrutiny of the Mahākāvyas available in its time. It refers to the extent of a Mahākāvya as being more than eight sargas, and allows one of the sargas to consist of various metres, though usually the sargas should have a uniform metre, with a change only at the end. The poem should be named after the Hero or some other important character or the subjectmatter ; सर्गवन्धा महाकाव्यं तत्रको नायकः सरः । सहशः क्षत्रियो वापि धीरोदात्त्रगुणा -विन्वतः ॥ एकवंशभवा भूगाः कुलजा बहवोऽपि वा। शृङ्गाखीरशान्तानामेकोऽङ्गी रस इष्यते ॥ अङ्गानि सर्वेऽपि रसाः सर्वे नाटकसन्धयः ॥ इतिहासो द्ववं कृतमन्यद्वा सज्जनाश्रयम् ॥ चत्वार-स्तस्य वर्गाः स्युस्तेष्वेकं च फलं भवेत्। आदौ नमस्कियाशीर्वा वस्तुनिर्देश एव वा॥ क्रचित्रिन्दा खळादीनां सतां च गुणकीर्तनम्। एकवृत्तमयैः पर्येखसानेऽन्यवृत्तकैः॥ नाति-स्वल्पा नातिदीर्घाः सर्गा अष्टाधिका इह । नानावृत्तमयः कापि सर्गः कश्चन द्वयते ॥ सर्गान्ते भाविसर्गस्य कथायाः सूचनं भवेत् । सन्ध्यासूर्येन्दुरजनीप्रदोषध्वान्तवासराः ॥ प्रातर्मध्याह्न-भृगयाशैलर्तुवनसागराः । संभोगविप्रलम्भा च मुनिस्वर्गपुराध्वराः ॥ रणप्रयाणोपयममन्त्रपुत्रो-द्यादयः। वर्णनीया यथायोगं साङ्गोपाङ्गा अमी इह ॥ कवेर्रेत्तस्य वा नामना नायकस्येतरस्य ना । नामास्य सर्गोपादेयकथया सर्गनाम तु ॥ (VI Pariccheda). The Isanasamhita (date uncertain) gives the limit of the extent of a Mahakavya, from eight to thirty sargas. अष्टसगीन तु न्यूनं त्रिंशत्सगीच नाधिकम् । महाकाव्यं अयोक्तव्यं महापुरुषकीर्तियुक् ॥ For other definitions of a Mahakavya, see Bhāmaha's Kāvyālamkāra (I. 19 ff.) and Bhoja's Sarasvatīkanthābharana (V. 128 ff).

6 See next Section for the question whether the Kumara consists of eight or seventeen cantos.

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

le, the the

ı, a) as

gthy with on or tori

seaand irth

ally

The onta

agreeable metre and well connected with one another. It opens with the Vastunirdeśa by referring to Himālaya, the father of the Heroine. The great God Śiva is the Hero. The Vastu is based upon the well-known story of Kārtikeya and Tāraka in the Purāṇas. It contains the description of the mountain (I, VI, VIII), love-in-separation (IV), marriage (VII), embassy of the Saptarṣis (VI), sambhoga (VIII). The cantos end with different metres.

II THE EXTENT OF THE POEM

The Nirnayasagar Press edition of the poem contains seventeen Sargas, with the commentary of Mallinātha on the first eight of them, and the commentary of Sītārāma⁷, on Sargas eight to seventeen. A large number of the manuscripts at the Bhandarkar Institute, Poona, consulted by us, contain commentaries ending with the seventh or eighth Sarga and very few contain the text up to the seventeenth Sarga. Arunagirinātha and Nārāyana, whose commentaries are published in the Trivandrum edition, obviously regard the poem as complete at the end of the eighth Sarga. The question therefore arises, what is the real extent of the Kumāra? Does the poem contain only the first eight Sargas, and are we to suppose that Sargas 9-17 were added later on by some other poet?

2

I

1

S

tl

tı

क

a

01 se

is

·de

W

Pi

संभ

ide

an

th

क्र

a 1

dic

pla

WI

to

The arguments in favour of regarding the poem as ending with the seventeeth Sarga are as follows:—The story of the poem is left quite incomplete at the end of the eighth Sarga which describes the enjoyment of Siva and Pārvatī after marriage. The reference to Tāraka in the second Sarga does require to be carried to its legitimate conclusion, viz. his death at the hands of Kumāra Kārtikeya. The poem should, therefore, naturally end with Tārakavadha. Mahākāvyas usually contain a large number of Sargas and eight Sargas seem to be too

⁷ Sītārāma finished his commentary in the year 1870 of Vikrama (that is, in 1814 A. D.) as he himself tells us, संवत्सरेऽङ्काद्रि पुराण (१८७०) तुल्ये नभस्यमासे बहुले दले च । तिथावनद्गस्य सजीवनारे टीका कुमारस्य समापदेषा ॥ He is thus quite a modern commentator.

⁸ Raghu, Sisupāla, Naisadha, and Kirāt contain 19, 20, 22 and 18 sargas respectively. The Haravijaya contains as many as fifty sargas.

II The Extent of the Kumārasambhava

few for a poem to be called a Mahākāvya. The poet no doubt, is just within the limits of the definition of a Mahākāvya as given by the Isanasamhita which prescribes eight Sargas as the minimum for a long poem, but the Sahityadarpana, the definition in which is obviously arrived at after a close scrutiny of the Mahākāvyas extant in its time says that the Sargas in a Mahākāvya should be aṣṭādhikāḥ and not merely aṣṭa. If the author of the Sāhityadarpaṇa had known the Kumāra to consist only of eight Sargas, he would have in all probability amended his definition so as to include the Kumāra strictly within its province. It may be presumed therefore that the Sahityadarpana knew the Kumāra to consist of more than eight Sargas. As the poem is called Kumārasambhava9 'the story of the birth of Kumāra,' it is reasonable to suppose that the poem should at least describe the birth of Kumāra, if not more. The eighth Sarga ends with the suratavarnana of Siva and Pārvatī and the birth of Kumāra is described in the tenth Sarga. Nārāyaņa tries to explain away this point by remarking अष्टमसर्गे संसोगवर्णनेन कुमारोत्पत्तीर्वेन्द्पक्षेपोऽपि कृत इति सर्वमनवद्यम्. This would have been quite a satisfactory explanation if the Kumāra had been born in the ordinary manner. As a matter of fact, the transference of the semen successively to Agni, the Ganges and the six Krttikas, is an incident which no one can possibly dispense with in the description of the birth of Kumāra Kārtikeya. The poem would have been more appropriately named Sivavivāha or Pārvatīparinaya10 if it were to extend up to the eighth Sarga

9 The expression कुमारसंभव is thus explained:—कुमारस्य संभवः कुमार-संभवः. The word is then metaphorically identified with Kāvya, the identification being based upon प्रतिपाद्यप्रतिपादकभाव. It thus becomes an adjective to कान्य, and so we have the neuter form कुमारसंभवम् (if the expression is regarded as an adjective to प्रवन्ध, we would get कुमारसंभवः). The adjective कुमारसंभवम् again, is to be understood as a noun in the sense of a poem of that name, according to Vāmana's dictum, विशेषणमात्रप्रयोगो विशेष्यप्रतिपत्ती. Or, the expression can be explained as कुमारस्य संभवः वण्यते यस्मिन् तत्.

10 The drama, Pārvatīparinaya written or supposed to be written by Bāṇa follows closely the story in the Kumāra. Are we to take it that Bāṇa drew upon only a portion of the Kumāra and named his drama accordingly?

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

XI

of ed

I, ne nt

ns he as he in nd iain as rethe ose

ng the rga rri-

the

too

र्का इंद्रि इंस्य

22

as

Introduction

XII

only. Even if we grant the contention of Narayana that the tatparya of the poem is राम्मोश्रिताकर्षणमात्र, 11 and that what the gods want is not Tarakavadha, but only the creation of a General, it cannot be denied that there is a strong expectancy to know as to what happened to Tāraka. The poem thus seems to demand a better conclusion and one which would refer directly to the birth of Kumāra and the consequent fall of Tāraka. being the case, the reason why some of the commentators seem to ignore Cantos 9-17 must be sought elsewhere. This latter portion of the poem is decidedly inferior to the former and this might have led the commentators to ignore it. Some commentators18 do even comment on the eighth Sarga, the genuine character of which cannot be questioned, on the ground that it contains the description of the surata of Siva and Parvati, the parents of the Universe. The title 'Kumārasambhava,' for the whole poem up to the 17th Sarga, can be shown to be significant by taking 'sambhava' in the sense of both 'birth' and 'extraordinary greatness', so as to include the account of Kartikeya's birth as 11 नात्र तारकासुरिनग्रहः कान्ये साध्यः। तिद्च्छामो विभो स्रष्टुं सेनान्यं तस्य शान्तये ॥ (11.51) इति देवैः कुमारसृष्टिमात्रस्यैव त्रह्माणं प्रति प्रार्थितत्वात् । तारकासुर- निग्रहस्तु कुमारस्वेदवप्रस्तावकतया निमित्तत्वेनोपक्षिप्तः यथा किरातार्जुनिये दुर्योधनजयः । तस्मात् कुमारसभव इत्येव संज्ञा युक्ता । न चैवं सित तत्पर्यन्तं कान्यं प्रवर्तयिव्यमिति वाच्यम् । उमान्येण ते यूर्यं संयमारतिमतं मनः । शम्भोर्यतम्बमाकष्टुमयस्कान्तेन लोहत्वत् ॥ (11.49) इति त्रह्मणः प्रतिवचनेन शम्भोष्टित्ताकर्षणमात्रस्यैव परमसाध्यत्वेन प्रतिपादनात् । (P. 4, Part I, Trivandrum edition)

भी he po

W

hi

for ab Sa no Da no

Pool Na to required

to i inf

ste

defi reg

महिम् प्रासिद्ध संभवप स्योत्प तद्वत् whice the less meri quite to ke

¹² Nārāyaņa remarks (Pp. 212-13, Trivandrum edition, Part III) तत्र माधवनोक्तम्—अत्राष्टमः सर्गो गौरीसंभोगवर्णनाद् वाचयितुं श्रोतुं व्याद्यातुं च न युक्तः, एतच्छीळानां देवताशापादायुषः क्षयो मिविष्यतीति। दक्षिणावर्तेन पुनः, अस्य प्रकरणस्य शिवयोः संभोगविषयत्वाद् रसभावार्थान् विविच्य वक्तुं विभेमि। तस्माद्वन्यमात्रमधिक्रियत इति। Arunagiri thus criticises Dakṣiṇāvarta's view—एतदल्पज्ञताविळसितं यतः प्रसिद्धलौकिकोत्तमनायकव्यवहारमनुकुर्वतोरनयोमेहानट-योळीळामात्रात्मिकामु प्रवृत्तिषु परमार्थबुद्धिर्यसास्त तस्यवायं दोषः। यस्य तु सा नास्ति तस्य तद्विचनमपि शिवयोः स्तुतौ पर्यवस्यति। (ibid P. 214). Jivānanda also remarks तस्याव्याद्याने कारणं च विद्वळ्याख्रिणा यदुद्विद्वतं तद्वि भवितुमहैति। इरपार्वत्योः संभोगवर्णनस्य मातापित्रोरिवानास्वाद्यत्या तथावर्णनस्याप्टमे सत्त्वेन तत्रोपेक्षा—भभवात् तत उत्तरप्रन्यस्य तद्वागस्याव्याद्यानसंभवाच। well as the destruction of Tāraka at his hands. 13 Jivānanda in his introduction 14 says that Ujjvaldatta, referring to the word भेरि, remarks रवः अगत्भाहतभेरिसंभवः इति कुमारसंभवः, thus showing that he was aware of the existence of more than eight Sargas for the poem, as the expression in question occurs in XIV. 32. Sargas 9-17 therefore are genuine and do form a part of the poem.

II The Extent of the Kumārasambhava

XIII.

he-

he

3.

CV

ns

ly

ch

to.

on

ht

S18

of

he

of

em

ng

ry

23

स्य

पुर-

1: 1

मेति

तेन

वेन

on,

गेत्

र्तेन

में।

a's

तट• स्ति

ida.

ते।

स -

The above arguments, though undoubtedly there is some force in them, are in our opinion, not powerful enough to carry absolute conviction as regards the genuine character of all the Sargas 9-17. The genuine character of the eighth Sarga is now a settled fact. Mallinatha comments upon it, as also Daksināvarta, Arunagiri and Nārāyana. Arunagiri, who has no scruples to comment on the eighth Sarga and justifies the step he has taken, does not at all show that he regards the poem as in any way incomplete at the eighth Sarga, as also Nārāyana. The special pleading involved in taking sambhava to mean 'extraordinary greatness' is quite apparent and requires no comment. It is certainly unusual for commentators to ignore a large portion of a work on the score that it is of inferior merit15. The expression astādhikāh in Visvanātha's definition of a Mahākāvya is more in favour of those who regard the Kumāra to contain only eight Sargas. It would be seen that the Sahityadarpana, unlike the Isanasamhita, does not

^{13 ...}भवो भूतिर्मिहिमेति नार्थान्तरं सम्यण् भवः महिमातिशयः कुमारस्य महामहिमा अत्रेति व्युत्पत्त्या तत्कृततारकवध्रूष्पमहामहिमवर्णनादस्य कुमारसंभवनामता
प्रासिद्धा...। शिश्चपालवधादिवत् तारकवधादिसंज्ञाभागित्वं नास्य शङ्कृत्रियुं शक्यम्
संभवपदस्य तन्त्रोचितित्त्यायेन, उत्पत्तिमहिमातिशयरूपस्यार्थद्वयस्य उपन्यासार्थत्वेन कुमारस्योत्पात्तिमहिमातिशयरूपतारकवधरूपयोर्थयोर्वर्णनीयता शिश्चपालत्रधादौ च तदुभयाभावात्र
तद्वत् संज्ञाप्रसिक्तिरिति सुधीभिभीव्यम्। (Jivānanda's Introduction).

¹⁴ Curiously enough, Jivānanda's edition does not contain this expression रवः प्रगत्माहतभेरिसंभवः at all. He reads महास्वनः सैन्यविमर्दसंभवः which is also the reading of the Nirnayasagara edition, which gives the रवः प्रगत्भ etc. as a variant in the foot-notes.

less cavaller manner that sargas 9-17 are so prominently inferior in merit. Expressions like मुदे न ह्या किम बालकेलिः (XI. 41) possess quite a Kālidāsian touch. Besides, a poet is not obviously expected to keep the same high level of excellence throughout a long poem.

10

0

I

V

C

C

p

C

Ā

L

W

n

t

0

C

I

-10

Z

d

F

T

i

8

F

1

I

3

.

prescribe a maximum number of Sargas for a long poem. It gives only the minimum. The Kumāra of all the Mahākāvyas extant is the shortest and it might be presumed that Visvanatha had the Kumara in his mind when he wrote the definition. But to understand astādhikāh to mean as many as seventeen Sargas, seems to us to be quite unfair. It might at the most mean 'nine or ten'. In all probability, the expression is intended to mean 'eight or more'. The most convincing piece of evidence in favour of regarding the Kumara as consisting only of the first eight Sargas is the fact that rhetoricians do not seem to be at all aware of any additional Sargas for the poem. Harichand in his 'Kālidāsa et L'Art Poetique de L'Inde' shows that in all. 124 verses are quoted by various writers on rhetorics from the first eight Sargas, while none of them quotes a single verse from the remaining nine Cantos. When we take into consideration the fact that the works on rhetorics, ancient and modern, consulted by Dr. Harichand—and the list of works so consulted is well nigh exhaustive—quote verses from each and every Canto out of the ninenteen Cantos of the Raghuramia the complete boycott of Sargas 9-17 of the Kumara could be accounted for only on the supposition that they were not award of them. One can understand a Sarga or two being ignored but that the whole host of rhetoricians should ignore s completely the Sargas in question, is inexplicable except of the above supposition. In order to make the title of the poen more significant, we might perhaps regard Sargas 9 and 10 as genuine, as they refer to the extraordinary manner in which Kārtikeya was born. In Vikram, we have a reference to the Gandhamādana grove on the Kailāsa as being an ideal place for enjoyment.17 This reference would be all the more appreciated by one who has read the detailed description of such enjoyment in the eighth Canto and a part of the ninth Canto of the Kumāra, and is undoubtedly intended by the ¹⁶ These 124 verses are thus distributed in the various sargas:—I (32), II (6), III (27), IV (9), V (22), VI (9), VII (9), VIII (9).

¹⁷ वित्रलेखा—[उर्वशी किल तं राजर्षि लक्ष्मीसनाथममात्मेषु निवेशितराज्यकु गृहीत्वा कैलासशिखरोदेशं गन्धमादनं विहर्षु गता ।] सहजन्या—[स नाम संभोग यस्ताहरोषु प्रदेशेषु ।] Act IV.

ives tant

had

it to gas.

ean

ence

f the m to ows

s on 10tes

take cient

orks

eacl insa

1d b

war

ored

re s pt of poen

10 as hick

) th

place

more on of ninth

the

riou

(9)

ाज्य दे

पंसोग

Dr

of the kings of the Raghu race in the Raghuvanisa, to Kumāra Kārtikeya, would suggest the possibility of later Sargas being written by Kālidāsa, as the heroism of Kumāra is described only there. In view of the total ignoring by the rhetoricians of Sargas 9-17, it is very difficult to dogmatise on the present point.

At the end of the Vikramorvasiya, after Ayus had been crowned Yuvarāja, Nārada remarks19 that the installation of Ayus as Heir-apparent reminds him of the installation of Mahāsena or Kārtikeya as Commander-in-chief by Indra. It would be seen from the context, that this remark of Narada is not quite essential for the purposes of the play proper. Are we therefore justified in interpreting this remark as a reminiscence on the part of Kalidasa, of the description of the installation ceremony as General, of Kartikeya in Kumara (Canto XIII)? Is Kālidāsa offering a sort of apology by this remark, for the meagre description of the installation ceremony of Prince Ayus, and referring his readers to the more or less detailed description of a similar ceremony? Unless we see some such point in the above remark in the Vikram, the propriety of the passage would be lost. The passage in the Vikram thus seems in all probability to suggest the genuine character of the Sargas in Kumāra, that describe the history of Kārtikeya after his birth. Under these circumstances, we can arrive at no better conclusion than that Sargas 1-8 are definitely from the pen of Kālidāsa, Sargas 9-10 also are most probably to be ascribed to him and that it is not improbable that Sargas 11-17 should have also been written by him.

III THE SOURCES OF THE KUMĀRASAMBHAVA

The story of the $Kum\bar{a}ra$ (1-8) is briefly as follows²⁰:—The gods being oppressed by the demon Tāraka go in a deputation ¹⁸ See our paper 'The Chronological order of Kalidasa's works'.

¹⁹ आयुषो योवराज्यश्रीः स्मारयत्यात्मजस्य ते। • • अभिषेक्तं महासेनं सैनापत्ये महत्वता।। Vikram V. 23

²⁰ See also the synopsis at the beginning of each Canto in the aotes,

XVI

Introduction

Me

rev

on

WO

ha:

ma

no

col

 K_{ℓ}

Ad

In

wa

wa

aw

Th

Da

de

ba

A

Sv

θX

K

bi

th ur

re

th

K

ar

st

of

Ś

aı

K

ha

36 Si

to Brahmadeva who advises them to try to attract the mind of Siva by means of Pārvatī, as the son of Siva and Pārvatī alone would be able to kill Tāraka. Indra sends Madana on this mission, but Siva, angry at the interference thus caused in his penance, burns Madana to ashes. Pārvatī with the consent of her father, takes to rigorous austerities to secure Siva as her husband. Siva, after testing her love by coming to her in the guise of an ascetic Baṭu and freely abusing Siva to her face, discloses his own form and admits himself to be conquered by Pārvatī's penance. Siva then sends the Saptarsis to Himālaya to make a formal demand for the hand af Pārvatī. Himālaya is only too glad to grant this demand and the marriage of Siva and Pārvatī is celebrated with due pomp and magnificence. Siva and Pārvatī then enjoy themselves to their heart's content on the Gandhamādana and the Kailāsa.

The story of Kumāra and the death of Tāraka by his hands is referred to in the $Mah\bar{a}bh\bar{a}ruta$, the $R\bar{a}m\bar{a}yana$ and the various Puranas, such as the Sivapurana, Saurapurana, Matsyapura na. Brahmapurāņa, Kālikāpurāņa etc. As the date of the various Puranas is quite uncertain, it is difficult to say whether Kalidasa was indebted to them for his story of the Kumara. That the Puranas are not after all so modern as they were once thought to be, may be easily admitted, but this does not preclude the possibility of their being extensively revised from time to time. The extract from the Sivapurana as given by Jivananda. reproduced in Appendix A, would show a marked similarity to various expressions and ideas in the Kumara and very often even the order in which various things are described is the same in both the works. The similarity is so great that it canonly be accounted for on the supposition that one of them is the borrower. Did Kālidāsa slavishly imitate the Sivapurāna, or did the reviser of the Sivapurana take the opportunity of embellishing his work by importing ideas and expressions from the Kumāra which had become quite well-known in his time? The poetical conceits after conceits, which occur freely in the Kumāra, seem to be quite in the proper place in a Mahākāvya; they appear to be more or less foreign to the spirit of a Purana. Kālidāsa in Canto I. 26 incidentally makes a pun on the epithet Uma, but does not use the actual words 'Uma' in V. 3 when

XVII

III The Sources of the Kumarasambhava

of

one his

in ent er

the Ce.

by ya

y a va.

ce.

nt

ds

us:

na:

us.

er

a:

ce.

de

to.

a, to

n

e

S

to.

n

?

0

١.

t

TE.

Menā tries to dissuade Pārvatī from going in for penance. The reviser of the Sivapurana apparently regarding this as a blunder on the part of Kālidāsa puts in the mouth of Menā, the actual words 'U mā.' The chances are that the author of the Śivapurāna has incorporated in his work the ideas and expressions from Kumāra, and not vice versa. The Mahābhārata and the Rāmāyana may be presumed to have existed in the form in which they now are, in the time of Kālidāsa, but the story as given by them could not be regarded as a possible source for the story of the Kumāra, as the stories differ so materially. Thus in Vanaparvan Adhyāyas 225-233, the story of Kumāra is given as follows:-Indra, anxious to have a General for the army of the gods, while wandering on the Manasa mountain came across a maiden who was crying out for help and also for a husband. Indra drove away Kesin who was pursuing her, and asked her who she was. The maiden told Indra that she was Devasena, a daughter of Daksa, and that she wanted some one to marry her. Brahmadeva, being solicited by Indra on her behalf, declared her husband to be the future General of the Gods. In the meanwhile. Agni fell in love with the wives of the Saptarsis, and his wife Svaha, assuming the form of the wives of the seven seges, excluding Arundhatī, fulfilled Agni's desire. The six-faced Kārtikeya, who was born of Agni's semen, immediately after his birth, pierced through the Kraunca mountain and rent asunder the peak of the Sveta mountain with arrows. Viśvamitra brought up Kārtikeya who also fought with Indra but was ultimately reconciled to him. Indra appointed Kartikeya the General of the gods and made him marry Devasenā. In Adhyāya 231, Kārtikeya is declared by Brahmadeva to be really the son of Siva and Pārvatī, and Kārtikeya ultimately destroyed the Mahiṣāsura. In the Anusasanaparvan, Adhyayas 130-133, the gods are stated to have approached Brahmadeva to secure the destruction of Tāraka. And Kārtikeya is described to have been born of Siva's semen which was borne first by Agni, then by the Ganges and then by the Krttikas. In the Salyaparvan, Adhyayas 45-47, Kārtikeya is stated to have been born of Siva's semen, and to have killed Tāraka. In the Rāmāyana also (Bālakānda, sargas 36, 37) Agni is said to have first taken the tejas of Siva in Sarga 36, where Kartikeya is described as Agnisambhava, InXVIII

Introduction

Sarga 37, Kārtikeya is spoken of definitely as the son of AgnMac and the 21 Ganges, and the six Krttikas are spoken of as having Parbrought him milk. The account in the Puranas generally iclose the same as given by Kālidāsa, though differing in mino details. As a matter of fact, it appears that Kālidāsa need no pens have been indebted to any work at all for the story of the Par Kumāra. For, in his Kumāra there is very little that can bepiec said to have been really borrowed by the poet. The Kumāra i spe q pre-eminently a poem consisting, so to speak, of various penis su pictures and the story as such is made to fade into insignificance it m Thus, the whole of the first Canto consists of a detailed carr description of the mountain Himalaya and the beauty of inde Pārvatī. As many as seventeen verses describe Himālaya and Parvatī is described in nineteen verses. Thus out of the sixty Osa verses, thirty-six are given to the description of Himalaya and Parvati and the poet obviously could have written these without not being a debtor to any work. If at all, the reference to Narada and his declaration to the effect that Parvati would be Siva's The wife, may be said to have been taken from some earlier work. beir this Canto II is mostly taken up by the description of Brahma deva, in terms of the Highest, and the recital of the oppressive acts of Tāraka. Here again, there is no great possibility of the poet being a borrower. In Raghu X also, Viṣṇu is described in a similar manner and in both Raghu and Kumāra, the poet gives us his own view of the Highest, mostly after the manner of the Gītā. The oppressive deeds of Tāraka, or similar acts of Rāvaṇa in Raghu X, are quite conventional and do not argue any borrowing on the part of the poet.

is c

ful

to t Ku

one

as pie

an lite

to

cia in

The description of the spring and of Siva and Umā in Canto III, similarly can be legitimately said to be due to the poet's own imagination, as also the conversation of Indra and Madana at the beginning.

For the lamentaion of Rati in Canto IV, the poet need not have been indebted to any work. The reference to the curse on

²¹ इयमाकाशमङ्का च यस्यां पुत्रं हुताशनः। जनियम्यति देवानां सेनापितमिरिद्मम्॥ ज्येष्टा शैलेन्द्रदृहिता मानियम्यति तं सतम्। उमायास्तद्वहुमतं भविष्यति न संशयः॥ (Sarga 37, 7-8)

IV A critical Appreciation of the Kumārasambhava XIX

AgnMadana and its termination by the marriage of Siva and vin Parvati, seems to be an invention of the poet who thus secures a lly icloser connection of that episode with the story proper.

nino Canto V is mostly taken up with the description of Parvati's d no penance and the dialogue between Siva disguised as a Batu and the Parvati. This dialogue, which is justly regarded as a master bepiece of Kālidāsa, has much of the dramatic in it and appears to ra i be quite foreign to the nature of the Purāṇas. Even if Kālidāsa. penis supposed to have been indebted to some source for this episode, ance it must be granted that the racy way in which the dialogue is alled carried on and the poetic touches that enhance its charm in an of indescribable manner, are Kālidāsa's own. and

In Canto VI, we have the description of the Saptarsis and ixty Osadhiprastha, the capital on the Himālaya. This also does not appear to have been a mere case of borrowing.

hout

k.

ma"

sive

the d in ves

the

ana

any

in

the

and

not

on म्॥

11 8)

Canto VII describes the marriage-ceremony at full length. rada va's The poet repeats some verses from this Canto in Raghu VII. being evidently pleased with them. Nobody can doubt that this beautiful description is due to the poet's own imagination.

In Canto VIII, the description of the twilight, sun-set etc is obviously the poet's own.

It would thus be seen that whatever is striking and beautiful in the Kumāra, can not but be declared as having been due to the poetic genius of Kālidāsa himself. For the story of Kumāra Kārtikeya, he might have been indebted to more than one work, but as has been already shown above, the story as such has faded into insignificance and the beauty of the Kumāra as a whole has not much to do with it.

IV A CRITICAL APPRECIATION

The Kumāra, though it can not be declared to be the master piece of Kālidāsa, has undoubtedly a singular charm of its own and has always been a favourite with lovers of Sanskrit literature. In the first three Cantos particularly, one can easily see that the poet is not writing quite naturally and is at pains to secure as many poetical conceits as possible. This is especially noticeable in the detailed description of Parvati's beauty in Canto I. Not that this description lacks charm, but there is certainly not that natural grace which has justly come to be regarded to be the forte of Kalidasa. In all his other works, the poet describes the Hero as hankering after the Heroine. In the Kumāra, the position is reversed and the unprecedented sacrifice which Parvatī makes in order to secure Siva as her husband makes the most profound appeal to the reader. Noble aims demand equally noble sacrifices. Paryati was Uccaihpadalanghanotsukā and so she had to undergo unheard-of privations before she succeded in achieving her desired object. Anything that is secured easily is not worth having. This is the moral of the Kumāra. When Dharma begins to decay and Adharma reigns supreme in the world, the Highest is forced to take an avatara for the protection of the good and the destruction of the wicked as declared by the Bhagavat in the Gita.22 But it is up to the Universe also to show that it has done its best to deserve the advent of the Hero. Parvati typifies the forces of the Universe doing their best to create such a situation. the memorable privations which Parvati had to undergo in her task, the advent of the Hero was but a question of time. A Hero does not fall like manna from the clouds. He has to be created by the will of the people, and the more sincere and indomitable will of the people, the shorter would be the time taken by the Hero to come forth. The Gods headed by Indra, arm-chair politicians that they were, first tried to create a Hero by doing nothing except sending Madana to conquer Siva. This was a totally inadequate effort and sacrifice on their part; no wonder then that they secured an ignoble failure. The magnitude of the task demanded a far greater and more sincere move. And it was only when Parvati rose to the occasion and shamed the Gods by her immense sacrifice that the goal came to be in sight. Princess Parvati, habituated to lead a life of the utmost luxury. forsook her home, parents, ease, in fact, everything she held dear, and lived the sternest possible life of an anchorite which forced the admiration from even the professional ascetics.

1

F

I

I

h

I

r

I

C

0

p

0

b

h

g

a

t

a

tl

b

²² यदा यदा हि धर्मस्य ग्लानिभेवाते भारत। अभ्युत्थानमधर्मस्य तदात्मानं सृजाम्यहम् ॥ परित्राणाय साधूनां विनाशाय च दुष्कृताम्। धर्मसंस्थापनार्थाय संभवामि युगे युगे ॥ (IV. 7-8).

IV A critical Appreciation of the Kumārasambhava XXI

possibly could such a sacrifice go in vain? The destroyer of Madana had to come round and be a willing slave to Pārvatī.

re-

the

the

and ims

rda-

ons

ing

oral rma

an of t it to s of fter her ero

ted

ble

ero

ns

ing

lly

1011

the

it

the

ht.

ry,

eld

ich

OW

Canto I opens with a detailed beautiful description of the Himālaya mountain. Three points are maintly emphasised in this description, viz. the loftiness, sanctity and self-sufficiency of the mountain, Himālaya is the loftiest and the longest of mountains. He rises above the level of the clouds showering forth rain and the path of the sun revolving round it. He extends from the Eastern to the Western ocean and is as it were the manadanda of the Earth. The holy Ganges flows on his slopes and the sacred seven sages resort to his highest peaks and offer worship to the Gods by making use of the beautiful lotuses grown there. He is possessed of brilliant gems, great medicinal herbs, minerals of all kinds, lofty Devadāru trees, herbs shining at night time, Camara deer, and caves affording shelter to the mountaineers. The Siddhas, Vidyadharas and Kinnaras enjoy his slopes. All sacrificial requisites are to be found on him and Brahmadeva has thus rightly called him the 'King of mountains'. The description of Parvati, the idol of her parents and relations is equally elaborate and beautiful. All the conventional Upamānas, such as the lotus, the moon, the plantain-stem, are brought into requisition in this connection. Her feet are compared to the land-lotuses, her gait to the graceful movement of the swans, her thighs are declared to be superior to the plantain stems and trunks of lordly elephants. Her waist is compared to the altar, the three folds on the belly to a flight of stairs for Kama to ascend, her arms to the Sirisa flower. beauty of her face surpasses that of the moon and the lotus, her musical voice that of the cuckoo, and the tremulous glances those of the deer. In short, she is fashioned out of all lovely things brought together. This description, poetic though it might be, must be confessed to be highly artificial and to a certain extent laboured.

In Canto II, we have the praise of Brahmadeva in terms of the Highest. In Raghu X, there is a similar description of Viṣṇu. In all his three dramas the poet has praised Siva in the Nāndī verses. From this it is clear that the poet was not a bigoted follower of any particular sect, but was more or less catholic in his views. The description of the Highest in both Raghu and Kumāra contains expressions that seem to be suggested by the Bhagavadgitā. To describe Brahmadeva, who in his reply to the Gods speaks of himself only as the Creator, as the Highest, is to a certain extent a questionable procedure. poet himself seems to have felt this and so in his Raghu X. he makes the Gods praise Visnu in place of Brahmadeva, though the Ramayana describes the gods as having waited upon Brahmadeva on that occasion. Brahmadeva is said to be the unborn self, the one existing before creation and manifesting a variety of forms in association with the various Upadhis. He is the creator, the maintainer and destroyer of the Universe. without beginning or source and pervades everything. the source of the Vedas, the God of the Gods, the father of the Pitrs etc. He is also both the Purusa and the Prakrti, the sacrificer and the sacrificial offering, the knower and the knowable. The poet thus reconciles both the Jnanamarga and the Karmamarga and brings into line the tenets of the Samkhya philosophy with the principles of Vedantism. Brhaspati, on behalf of the Gods makes a clever speech, cornering Brahmadeva by remarking that the latter himself is responsible for the trouble of the Gods. He recites many acts of oppression by Tāraka, which must have been already known to Brahmadeva. In Raghu X, the poet improves on this way of referring to the acts of oppression by making Visnu allude to them, instead of the Gods.

Introduction

ł

C

1

h

b

v

V

a

1

i

a

j

i

h

j

ŀ

1

f

In Canto III, the conversation between Indra and Madana, the former's solicitude for the latter and Madana's boasting temper, are pointed out in a very interesting manner. Then follows a detailed description of the sudden mainfestation of spring. The poet often forgets that it is the sudden manifestation of spring that he is describing. The description is mostly conventional and should be compared with a similar description in Raghu IX. The description of Siva and Pārvatī is highly poetic and interesting.

In Canto IV, we see that the poet is a master-hand in describing the Karuna sentiment. The lamentation of Rati, is beyond doubt, one of the most charming passages in Kālidāsa's

IV A critical Appreciation of the Kumārasambhava XXIII

oth ge-

his

the

he

he

gh

1a-rn

ty

he

is

is he ri-

le.

ar-

ya

on

a-

OF

OV

a.

18

of

a,

ıg

n

of

ıi-

is

ar

tI

D.

3

works. The description is quite natural and pathetic in the extreme It should be compared with Aja's lamentation in Raghu VIII. When Rati, after regaining consciousness, finds her husband burnt to ashes, she first blames herself for not having died out of grief, remarking that women are usually hard-hearted. She fails to understand why Madana whom she had never displeased, should abandon her all of a sudden. Surely he could not have taken seriously to heart the various punishments she had inflicted upon him in joke for his supposed want of fidelity towards her. Perhaps he did not really love her at She would join her husband in the other world by following him in death, but the loss of Madana to the world at large would be absolutely irreparable. Who, when Madana is dead and gone, would good the lovers to their destination in spite of various obstacles? Without Madana, the intoxication of ladies by wine would be a sheer matter for ridicule. The moon, the mango-blossom, the swarm of bees, the cuckoo, would all become useless and fail to please any one. Madana had arranged the flower-decoration on her body with scrupulous care but even before the flowers had faded away, he had died suddenly. He ought to have at least finished off the paint on her foot before he left her. She must hurry up to kill herself and join Madana in heaven before the heavenly damsels would succeed in alluring him away. Even if she were to follow him in death, people would still blame her as she had been without Madana at least for a time and this stigma would stick to her for ever. She would not be able to perform even the funeral rites of Madana, as his body also was gone along with his life. Noting that Madana's friend Vasanta had not been there to console her, she is afraid that he too must have been burnt by the thoughtless and angry Siva. On seeing Vasanta who made his appearance just then, she began to weep still more bitterly and ultimately implored him to prepare the funeral fire so that by throwing herself into the fire with Madana's ashes by her side, she would join her husband in heaven. A Pativratā is expected to follow her husband wherever he would go. Would not Vasanta help her in this respect? Even inanimate objects, like the lightning and moon-light show by their action that wives should follow the path of their husbands. With the ashes of her husband by her side, the funeral fire would be a veritable bed of flowers for her. And Vasanta should make the fire burn more quickly with the help of the Southern breezes, so that she would reach her husband the quicker. After her death, only one handful of libation should be offered to herself and Madana, so that they would share it in heaven. And Vasanta should especially note that mango-blossoms should be offered as a funeral offering; for was not Madana very fond of them?

XXXV

Introduction

A heavenly voice at this stage declares that Rati should not abandon her body but on the contrary preserve it with great care as her husband would be restored to her when Siva would marry Pārvatī. Brahmadeva's curse had deprived Madana of his body for the latter's audacity in creating an incestuous passion in the former for his own daughter and the curse would end with the marriage of Siva and Pārvatī. Rati was successfully persuaded by Vasanta to give up her resolve of following her husband in death, on the strength of this assurance by the heavenly voice. In Raghu VIII, the poet enters into a philosophical disquisition about the meaning of life and death, in order to console Aja. Such a consolation would have had no effect on Rati, as indeed it had none on Aja either.

Canto V describes vividly in a few strokes, the contrast between Princess Parvati and Parvati the anchorite, and gives a detailed description of the various kinds of penance practised by her. Siva disguised as a Batu approaches her, and after some formal questions wants to know the reason of her penance, as she already possesses noble birth, beauty, wealth etc. for which people ordinarily go in for penance; on learning that she wants to secure Siva as her husband, the Batu ridicules tha idea of Princess Parvati, the belle of the universe, being mated with Siva, a pauper, the wanderer in the cemetery, associated with various inauspicious practices, and possessed of a deformed body. Pārvatī replies warmly to the objections raised by the Batu declaring that no one could understand the real greatness of Siva and it would be a great mistake to judge him by the ordinary rules of conduct. She winds up with the declaration that she loves Siva with all her heart, whatever the Batu might think of him. Siva convinced of the sincere love of Parvati for

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

l l

9

f

_

I gg c

f

i

C

C

d

a

h

I

t

I

.

0

IV A critical Appreciation of the Kumārasambhava XXV

him, shows himself in his true form and declares himself to have been conquered by Pārvatī's love.

le

'n

10

a, ld

e-ld at

ld

of 15

d

s-

g

10 i-

9r

ct

st

a

y

18 or 10 ed b

be

 \mathbf{b}

10 ss

n

at

TC

The dialogue between Siva and Pārvatī reveals the poetic genius of Kālidāsa at his best. It is spirited and full of bitter sarcasm, and the irony of the situation in making Siva find fault with himself is extremely well conceived, and the well-sustained tension is brought to an end by the dramatic surrender of Siva to Pārvatī.

Canto VI is comparatively a tame one. It contains however. the beautiful description of the Osadhiprastha, the Capital of Himālaya. The very first verse however is quite significant and gives us the poet's views about love-marriage. Pārvatī requests Siva to make a formal demand for her hand in marriage, to her father Himālaya, as the father is the only proper authority to dispose of his daughter. In stanza 85 again, the poet says that in the matter of the disposal of daughters, the father should usually act according to the wishes of the mother Thus the consent of the parents should be a condition precedent in the case of the daughter's marriage. The poet seems to have felt strongly on this point as is clear from the way in which he depicts Sakuntalā in his Śākuntala. All the woes of Sakuntalā are shown by the poet as being due to her neglect of this fundamental principle. Had Sākuntalā, like Pārvatī, insisted upon her lover's applying to Kanva for her hand, no shadow of a calamity would have ever fallen upon her.

Canto VII describes the marriage ceremony at great length. It should be compared to Canto VII in Raghu. The description is both detailed and extremely life-like. It is extraordinary to find that the marriage-rites have undergone absolutely no change since the time of Kālidāsa. The poet's description reads like that of the marriage of a popular Hindu Prince in our own time.

Canto VIII describes in a beautiful manner the enjoyment of the newly wedded pair. The description of the twilight and sunset etc. is also quite charming.

XXVI

Introduction

The Kumāra thus amply testifies to the great poetic genius of Kālidāsa. The poem abounds with beautiful aptly chosen similes which are rightly regarded as the special province of Kālidāsa alone. Kālidāsa is usually known as the master-hand in dealing with the Sṛngāra sentiment, love-in-union as well as love-in separation. But in graphic descriptions also, whether of mountains or of marriage-ceremonies, he is equally in his element. The poem teems with proverbial quot tions covering a wide range of topics, clothed in Kālidāsa's graceful and pithy language, and the poet would have still deserved to be called the greatest poet, by his Kumārasambhava, even if he had not written his other equally beautiful works, such as the Raghu and the Śākuntala.

तोया

पृथुपा

द्येषः

adh deve East f [h

nour dmo

lem E vi ॥ श्री ॥

us

en of nd

as of his

ng

hy he ot

ıd

कुमारसंभवम्।

अस्त्युत्तरस्यां दिशि देवतात्मा हिमालयो नाम नगाधिराजः ॥ पूर्वापरी तोर्यनिधी वर्गाद्य स्थितः प्रथिव्या इव मानदण्डः ॥ १ ॥

CONSTRUE: उत्तरस्यां दिशि हिमालयः नाम देवतात्मा नगाधिराजः पूर्वीपरौ तोयनिधी वगाह्य प्रथिच्याः मानदण्डः इव स्थितः अस्ति ।

यं सर्वशैलाः परिकल्प्य वृत्सं मेरी स्थितं दोग्धरि दोहदक्षे ॥ भारवन्ति रत्नानि महौषधीश्च पृथूपदिष्टां दुदुहुर्धरित्रीम् ॥ २॥

CONSTRUE: दोहदक्षे मेरी दोग्धरि स्थिते सर्वशैलाः यं वत्सं परिकल्प्य पृथुपिष्टां धरित्रीं भास्त्रन्ति रत्नानि महीषधीः च दुदुहुः।

अनन्तरत्नप्रभवस्य यस्य हिमं न सौभाग्यविलोपि जातम्। एको हि दोषो गुणसंनिपाते निमज्जतिन्दोः किरणेष्वियाङ्कः॥ ३ ॥

CONSTRUE: अनन्तरत्नप्रभवस्य यस्य हिमं सौभाग्यविकापि न जातम्, एकः होषः हि गुणसंनिपाते इन्दोः अङ्कः किरणेषु इव निमज्जति।

- 1:—There is, in the northern direction, the supreme Lord adhirājah) of mountains, possessed of a divine nature devatātmā) by name Himālaya, who having plunged into the Eastern and the other [that is, the Western] ocean, stands as f [he is] the measuring-rod of the Earth.
- 2:—Having designed whom as the calf, while [the countain] Meru, clever in milking, stood as the milker, all the countains milked of the Earth [transformed into a cow] dmonished (upadistām) by Prthu, brilliant gems and mighty that is, important medicinal] herbs.
- 3.—Of whom, the source of countless precious objects, tow did not become the destroyer of beauty; for, a single lemish sinks down [that is, is lost sight of] in the gathering virtues, like the spot on the moon in the rays.

१ वारिनिधी २ विगाह्य

यश्चाप्सरोविभ्रममण्डनानीं संपाद्यत्रीं शिखरैर्विभर्ति । बलाहकच्छेद्विभक्तरागामकालसंध्यामिव धातुमत्ताम् ॥ ४॥

CONSTRUE : यः च अप्सरोविश्रममण्डनानां संपादियत्रीं बलाहकच्छेदविभक्त-रागाम् अकालसन्ध्याम् इव धातुमत्तां शिखरैः विभर्ति ।

आमेखलं संचरतां घनानां छायामधःप्रस्थगैतां निषेव्य । उद्देजिता वृष्टिभिराश्रयन्ते गृङ्गाणि यस्यातपवन्ति सिद्धाः॥ ५ ॥

CONSTRUE : आमेखलं संचरतां घनानाम् अधःप्रस्थगतां छायां निषेव्य दृष्टिभिः उद्वेजिताः सिद्धाः यस्य आतपवन्ति राङ्गाणि आश्रयन्ते ।

पदं तुषारस्रुतिधौतरक्तं यस्मिन्नदृष्टापि हतद्विपानाम्। विदन्ति मार्गं नखरन्धमुक्तेर्मुक्ताफलैः केसरिणां किराताः॥ ६॥

CONSTRUE: ्यास्मिन् तुषारस्नुतिधौतरवतं हतद्विपानां केसरिणां पदम् अदृष्ट्वा अपि नखरन्ध्रमुक्तैः मुक्ताफलैः किराताः [केसरिणां] मार्गं विदन्ति ।

न्यस्ताक्षरा धातुरसेन यत्र भूर्जत्वचः कुञ्जरिबन्दुशोणाः। व्रजन्ति विद्याधरसुन्दरीणामनङ्गलेखक्रिययोपयोगम्॥ ७॥

CONSTRUE: यत्र धातुरसेन न्यस्ताक्षराः कुजरविन्दुशोणाः भूर्जत्वचः विद्यायर-सुन्दरीणाम् अनङ्गलेखिकयया उपयोगं त्रजन्ति ।

4:—Who, by [his] peaks, bears richness in minerals, accomplishing the amorous decorations of the celestial nymphs [Apsarases] and diffusing redness in the portions of clouds, like an untimely twilight.

5.—Whose sunny peaks, the Siddhas resort to, [when] oppressed by showers [of rain or frost] having enjoyed the shade thrown on the table-land (prasthah) below, of the clouds moving along the slopes [of the mountain].

6:—Wherein, the Kirātas [mountaineers] know the track of the lions who have killed the elephants, even without beholding the foot-prints, the blood from which has been washed of by the melting away of the snow, by means of the pearls dropped from the interstices of the claws [of the lions].

7:—Where the barks of Bhūrja trees, with characteristinscribed [on them] with mineral fluid, and red like the spots on elephants, become useful for the purpose of love-letters of the Vidyādhara damsels.

१ सानुगता

प्रथमः सर्गः

यः पूरयन् कीचकरन्ध्रमागान् द्रीमुखोत्थेन समीरणेन । उद्गाह्यतामिच्छति किनराणां तानप्रदायित्वमिवोपगन्तुम् ॥ ८॥

CONSTRUE: यः दरीमुखोत्थेन समीरणेन कीचकरन्त्रभागान् पूर्यन् उद्गास्यतां किन्नराणां तानप्रदायित्वम् उपगन्तुम् इच्छति इव ।

कपोलकण्डः करिभिर्विनेतं विघद्वितानां सरलद्भाणाम् । यत्र स्नुतक्षीरतया पस्तः सान्नि गन्धः सुरभीकरोति ॥ ९ ॥

CONSTRUE: यत्र कपोलकण्डः विनेतुं करिभिः विषष्टितानां सरलद्भाणां स्वत-क्षीरतया प्रसूतः गन्धः सानूनि सुरभीकरोति।

वनेचराणां वनितासखानां द्रीगृहोत्सङ्गनिषक्तभासः। भवन्ति यत्रीषधयो रजन्यामतैलपूराः सुरतप्रदीपाः॥ १०॥

CONSTRUE: यत्र दरीगृहोत्सङ्गानिषकतभासः ओषधयः वनितासखानां वनेचराणां -रजन्याम् अतैलपूराः सुरतप्रदीपाः भवन्ति ।

उद्वेजयत्यङ्कुलिपार्धणभागान्मार्गे शिलीभूतहिमेऽपि यत्र । न दुर्वहश्रोणिपयोधरार्ता भिन्दन्ति मन्दां गतिमश्वमुख्यः ॥ ११ ॥

CONSTRUE: यत्र शिलीभूतिहमें मार्गे अङ्गुलिपार्ष्णिभागान् उद्वेजयित (स्राते) अपि दुवेहश्रोणिपयोधरातां अश्वमुख्यः मन्दां गतिं न भिन्दन्ति ।

- 8:—Who, filling the regions of the holes of the bamboos with the wind issuing from the cave-mouths, wishes as if to assume the state of one giving the Tāna to the Kinnaras about to sing in a high pitch.
- 9:—Where the odour, produced on account of the juice [or gum] that flowed, of the Sarala trees rubbed against by elephants to remove the itching of [their] temples, renders the slopes [or peaks] fragrant.
- 10:—Where the medicinal plants, whose lustres are reflected [or, poured] in the interior regions of the houses in the form of the caves, become at night time the lights at sexual enjoyment, without any feeding of oil, for the foresters in company of their wives.
- 11:—Where, the horse-faced [Kinnara] damsels, oppressed by the hips and breasts difficult to be borne [on account of their heavy weight] do not break off [that is, alter] their slow gait, even though the track, with the snow solidified [on it] oppresses the regions of the toes and the heels.

भक्त

૧ ૧ ઉપ્ટિમિઃ

u अस्ट्रा

द्याधर-

comaphs

the ouds

rack nold off earls

eters pots

दिवाकराद्रक्षाति यो गुहासु लीनं दिवा भीतिमिवान्धकारम् । शुद्रेऽपि नूनं शरणं प्रपन्ने ममत्वसुच्चैःशिरसां सतीव ॥ १२ ॥

CONSTRUE: यः भीतम् इव दिवा गुहास जीनम् अन्धकारं दिवाकरात् रक्षातिः नृतम् उचैःशिरसां शरणं प्रपन्ने क्षुद्रे अपि सति इव ममलम् (अस्ति)।

लाङ्गलविक्षेपविसर्पिशोभैरितस्ततश्चन्द्रमरीचिगौरैः। यस्यार्थयुक्तं गिरिराजशब्दं कुर्वन्ति बालव्यजनश्चमर्यः॥ १३॥

CONSTRUE : इतस्ततः लाङ्गूलविक्षेपविसर्पिशोभैः चन्द्रमरीचिगौरैः बाल-न्यजनैः चमर्थः यस्य गिरिराजशन्दम् अर्थयुक्तं कुर्वन्ति ।

यत्रांशुकाक्षेपविलिजतानां यद्दच्छया किंपुरुषाङ्गनानाम् । दरीगृहद्वारिविलीम्बीबम्बास्तिरस्कारिण्यो जलदा, भवन्ति ॥ १८ ॥

CONSTRUE : यत्र अंशकाक्षेपविलिज्जितानां किंपुरुषाङ्गनानां यहच्छया दरीगृहद्वास्थि विलिम्बिबिम्बाः जलदाः तिरस्करिण्यः भवन्ति ।

भागीरथीनिर्झरसीकराणां वोढा मुहुः कम्पितदेवदासः। यद्वायुरन्विष्टम्गैः किरातैरासेव्यते भिन्नशिखण्डिवर्हः॥ १५॥

CONSTRUE: भागीरथीनिर्झरसीकराणां वोडा, मुहुः कम्पितदेवकारुः भिन्न-शिखण्डिबर्हः यद्वायुः अन्विष्टमृगैः किरातैः आसेव्यते ।

12:—Who protects from the maker of the day [that is, the sun] darkness that being as it were frightened lies during day [concealed] in the caves; indeed, of exalted persons [lit. those who hold their heads high up] [there is] an affectionate regard (mamatram) towards even a vile person (kṣudraḥ) who has sought shelter, as towards a good man.

13:—Whose title 'the Lord of mountains' the female Yak deer make significant by their mass of hair [or, fans in the form of hair] white like the rays of the moon and with their charm spreading around by the wagging of their tails this side and that.

14:—Where, for the [newly-married] Kinnara ladies, extremely (vi) overpowered with shame at the snatching away of their garments [by their husbands], the clouds, with their forms (bimbah) hanging at the doors of the abodes viz. the caverns, accidentally become the screens [to shut out the light of the luminous herbs].

15:—Where the breeze, wafting along [with it] the sprays from the stream of the Bhagirathi, which has just (muhuh)

[🤊] शिरसामतीव र बाँडः

प्रथमः सर्गः

सर्तार्षहस्तावचितावशेषाण्यधो विवस्वान् परिवर्तमानः । पद्मानि यस्यायसरोक्हाणि प्रवोधयत्यूर्ध्वसर्म्यूक्षैः॥ १६ ॥

CONSTRUE: सप्तर्षिहस्तावचितावशेषाणि यस्य अग्रसरोरुहाणि पद्मानि अधः परिवर्तमानः विवस्वान् ऊर्ध्वमुखैः मयूखैः प्रबोधयति ।

यज्ञाङ्गयोनित्वमवेक्ष्य यस्य सारं धरित्रीधरणक्षमं च । प्रजापतिः किल्पतयंज्ञभागं शैलाधिपत्यं स्वयमन्वतिष्ठत् ॥ १७ ॥

CONSTRUE: यस्य यज्ञाङ्गयोनित्वं धरित्रीधरणक्षमं सारं च अवेक्ष्य प्रजापितः ग्वयं कल्पितयज्ञभागं शैलाधिपत्यम् अन्वतिष्ठत् ।

स मानसीं मेरुसखः पितृणां कन्यां कुलस्य स्थितये स्थितिज्ञः ।• मेनां सनीनामपि माननीयामात्मानुरूपां विधिनोपयेमे ॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE : मेहसखः स्थितिज्ञः सः पितॄणां मानसीं कन्यां मुनीनाम् अपि -सानमीयाम् आत्मानुरूपां मेनां कुलस्य स्थितये विधिना उपयेमे ।

कालक्रमेणाथ तयोः प्रवृत्ते स्वरूपयोग्ये सुरतप्रसङ्गे । मनोरमं यौवनसुद्वहन्त्या गर्भोऽभवद्भधरराजपत्न्याः ॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: अथ कालकमेण तथोः स्वरूपयोग्ये सुरतप्रसङ्गे प्रवृत्ते (सित) सनोरमं योवनम् उद्वहन्त्याः भूधरराजपत्न्याः गर्भः अभवत् । shaken the Devadāru [trees] and which has dishevelled (bhinna the peacock's feathers, is enjoyed by the Kirātas who have pursued the deer [or game].

16:—Lotuses growing in lakes on the top of whom,—the remainder after being gathered by the hands of the Seven Sages,—the sun, revolving below [that is, on a lower level] causes to blossom with his rays directed upwards.

17:—Having observed whose state of being the source (yonih) of sacrificial materials and strength capable of sustaining the earth [the sustainer of people], the Lord of creation [that is, Brahmadeva] himself brought about his sovereignty of the mountains, with a share in the sacrifices designed [in connection with it].

18:—He, the friend of Meru [mountain], who knew the correctness of conduct [or, limit], married, for the perpetuation [or stability] of his race, with [due] rites, Menā, the mind-born daughter of the Pitrs, adorable even by the sages, and worthy of himself.

19:—Then, in course of time, as sexual enjoyment befitting their beauty, of the two went on, the queen of the mountain, possessed of a charming youth, became pregnant.

ति

7-

he

ay

88 rd

as

ak

he eir

de

EX.

of

ir

he

ht.

VB.

)

१ यज्ञभागः

कुमारसंभवम्

असूत सा नागवधूपभोग्यं मैनाकमम्भोनिधिबद्धसख्यम् । कुद्धेऽपि पक्षिच्छिदि वृत्रशत्राववेदनाज्ञं कुलिशक्षतानाम् ॥ २०॥ CONSTRUE: सा नागवधूपभोग्यम् अम्भोनिधिबद्धसख्यं कुद्धे वृत्रशत्रौ पक्षिच्छिदिः

द्धा

प्

अ

W

C

[t da

01

g c]

b

10

t]

अपि कुलिशक्षतानाम् अवेदनाज्ञं मैनाकम् असूत ।

· 15

अथावमानेन पितुः प्रयुक्ता दक्षस्य कन्या भवपूर्वपत्नी । सती सती योगविसृष्टदेहा तां जन्मने शैळवधूं प्रपेदे ॥ २१॥

CONSTRUE: अथ दक्षस्य कन्या भवपूर्वपत्नी सती पितुः अवमानेन प्रयुक्ता योगविसष्टदेहा सती जनमने तां शैलवधूं प्रपेदे ।

सा भूधराणामधिपेन तस्यां समाधिवत्यामुद्रपादि भव्या। सम्यक् प्रयोगाद्रपारिक्षतायां नीताविवीत्साहगुणेन संपत्॥ २२॥

CONSTRUE: भन्या सा भूधराणाम् अधिपेन समाधिमत्यां तस्याम् उदपाहिः सम्यवप्रयोगात् अपरिक्षतायां नीती उत्साहगुणेन संपत् इव ।

प्रसन्नदिक पांस्रिविविक्तवातं शङ्कश्वनानन्तरपुष्पवृष्टि । शरीरिणो स्थावरजङ्गमानां सुखाय तज्जनमदिनं वभूव ॥ २३ ॥

CONSTRUE: प्रसन्नदिक् पांसुनिनिक्तवातं शङ्गस्वनानन्तरपुष्पवृष्टि तज्जनमदिनं स्थानरजङ्गमानां शरीरिणां सुखाग्र वभूत ।

- 20:—She gave birth to Maināka, fit to be enjoyed by a Nāga damsel, who formed friendship with the sea and [thus] was non-cognisant of the agonies of the cuts of [that is, wounds caused by] the thunderbolt, even when the enraged enemy of Vrtra [that is, Indra] was clipping the wings [of muntains in general].
- 21:—Then, Sati, the daughter of Daksa, the former wife of Siva [in her last birth] and the chaste one, who had relinquished her body through Yoga, goaded [to this course] by the affront [given to her lord and herself] by her father, approached that wife $(vadh\bar{u}h)$ of the mountain, [that is, Menā] for [re-] birth.
- 22:—She, the auspicious one $(bhavy\bar{a})$ was begotten by the Lord of mountains of her [Menā] who had been given to penance, like prosperity produced by the virtue of energy in polity not failing [to produce the desired result] owing to proper application.
- 23:—The day of her birth, on which the quarters brightened [or, cleared up], when the breeze was free from dust and

१ नुर्ध

तया दृहित्रा स्तरां संवित्री स्फुरत्प्रभामण्डलया चकारो। विदूरभूमिनवमेघशव्दादुद्धिलया रत्नरालाकयेव॥ २४॥

CONSTRUE: स्फुरत्प्रभामण्डलया तया दुहित्रा सवित्री सुतरां चकाशे नवमेघ-ञ्चाब्दात् उद्धित्रया रत्नशलाकया विदूरभूमिः इव ।

दिने दिने सा परिवर्धमाना स्ट्योद्या चान्द्रमसीव संखा। पुषोष सावण्यमयान्विशेषाञ्ज्योत्स्नान्तराणीव कसान्तराणि॥२५॥

CONSTRUE: लज्योदया दिने दिने परिवर्धमाना सा चान्द्रमसी लेखा इव लावण्यमयान् विशेषान् ज्योत्स्नान्तराणि कलान्तराणि इव पुपोष ।

तांभ्यार्वतीत्याभिजनेन नाम्ना वन्ध्रियां वन्ध्रजनो जुहाव। उमेति मात्रा तपसो निषिद्धा पश्चादुमाख्यां सुमुखी जगाम॥ २६॥

CONSTRUE: वन्धुजनः वन्धुप्रियां तां पार्वती इति आभिजनेन नाम्ना जुहाव, पश्चात मात्रा उ मा इति तपसः निषिद्धा सुमुखी उमाख्यां जुगास ।

महीभृतः पुत्रवतोऽपि दृष्टिस्तस्मित्रपत्ये न जगाम तृतिम् । अनन्तपुष्पस्य मधोर्हि चूते द्विरेफमाला सविशेषसंगा ॥ २७॥ ॥

CONSTRUE: पुत्रवतः अपि महीभृतः दृष्टिः तस्मिन् अपत्ये तृप्तिं न जगाम, अनन्तपुष्पस्य मधोः द्विरेफमाला हि चृते सविशेषसंगा।

when there was a shower of flowers after the blowing of the conches, conduced to the happiness of [all] embodied beings—[both] moveable and immoveable.

- 24. The mother shone still more brilliant by that daughter possessed of a shining halo (mandalam) of splend-our, like the region of the Vidūra mountain by a sprout of gems breaking through, on account of the thunder of the first clouds [of the season].
- 25:—She, who had taken [another] birth, growing day by day like the lunar orb, developed limbs full of extreme loveliness, like the other digits engulfed in the moon-light.
- 26.—Her, [so] dear to kinsmen, the kinsmen called by the patronymic Pārvatī [born of Parvata]; subsequently the fair-faced one prevented from [doing] penance by the mother, with [the words] 'U, mā' [oh, do not [go in for penance]], went by the name of Umā.
- 27:—The eye [or eyes] of the mountain-king, though he was possessed of a son [or many other children], did not become

९ धरित्री

हिं ।

ता

ादि

रन

s,

ed.

of fe

id.

y

r,

s,

У

0

n

0.0

J.

d.

प्रभामहत्या शिखयेव दीपस्त्रिमार्गयेव त्रिदिवस्य मार्गः। संस्कारवत्येव गिरा मनीषी तया स पूत्रश्च विभूषितश्च ॥ २८ ॥

CONSTRUE: प्रभामहत्या शिख्या दीपः इव, त्रिमार्गया त्रिदिवस्य मार्गः इव संस्कारवत्या गिरा मनीषी इव तया सः पूतः च विभूषितः च ॥

मन्दाकिनीसैकतवोदिकाभिः सा कन्दुकैः कृत्रिमपुत्रकेश । रेमे मुहुर्मध्यगता सखीनां कींडारसान्निर्विशतीव बाल्यम ॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE: क्रीडारसीत बाल्यं निर्विशती इव सखीनां मध्यगता सा सन्दा-किनीसैकतवेदिकाभिः कन्दुकैः कृत्रिमपुत्रकैः च मुहः रेमे ।

तां हंसमालाः शरदीव गङ्गां महौषधि नक्तमिवात्मभासः 🕨 स्थिरोपदेशामुपदेशकाले प्रपेदिरे प्राक्तनजन्मविद्याः ॥ ३० ॥ CONSTRUE: उपदेशकाले प्राक्तनजन्मविद्याः स्थिरोपदेशां तां प्रपेदिरे शरि

हंसमालाः गङ्गाम् इव, नक्तम् आत्सभासः महौषधिम् इव ।

असंभृतं मण्डनमङ्गयष्टेरनासवाख्यं करणं मदस्य । कामस्य पुष्पव्यतिरिक्तमस्त्रं बाल्यात्परं साथ वयः प्रपेदे ॥ ३१ ॥

CONSTRUE: अथ सा अङ्गयष्टेः असंस्तं मण्डनं मदस्य अनासवाख्यं करणे कामस्य पुष्पव्यतिरिक्तम् अस्त्रं वाल्यात् परं वयः प्रपेदे ।

satiated in that child [of his]; of spring possessed of endless flowers, the row of bees, indeed, [is] particularly attached to the mango-blossom.

- 28:-Like a light by the flame big owing to lustre, like the path of heaven by the three-coursed [Ganges], like a learned man by polished speech, by her was he both sanctified and adorned.
- 29 :- She, as if enjoying [her] child-hood, through an ardent interest (rasah) in play, in the midst of [her] female friends, constantly sported with [making] small altars on the sands of the Mandakini, [hand-] balls and dolls [lit. artificial small children].
- 30 :- At the :period of [receiving] instruction, lores [acquired by her] in the former birth, approached her whose impressions [received in the former birth] were permanent, like rows of swans the Ganges in autumn, or its own lustres the great herb at night.
- 31: She now reached the age beyond childhood [that is, youth] [which is] an unartificial decoration to a beautiful

१ कीडारसं निर्वि ... २ बाल्ये

प्रथमः सर्गः

उन्मीलितं तूलिकयेव चित्रं सूर्योश्चिभिन्नमिवारविन्दम् । वभूव तस्याश्रतुरस्रशोभि वपुर्विभक्तं नवयौवनेन ॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE: नवयौवनेन विभक्तं तस्याः वपुः त्लिकया उन्मीलितं चित्रम् इवः सूर्योद्यभिः भिन्नम् अरविन्दम् इव चतुरस्रशोभि वभूव ।

अभ्युन्नताङ्गुष्ठनखप्रभाभिविक्षेपणाद्रागमिवोद्गिरन्तौ । आजन्हतुस्तचरणौ पृथिन्यां स्थलारविन्द्श्रियमन्यवस्थाम् ॥ ३३ ॥

CONSTRUE: अभ्युन्नताङ्गुष्टनखप्रभाभिः निक्षेपणात् रागम् उद्गिरन्तौ इत्र तचरणौ पृथिव्याम् अव्यवस्थां स्थलारविन्दिभयम् आजन्हतुः।

सा राजहंसिरिव संनतां की गतेषु लीलाञ्चितविक्रमेषु । व्यनीयत प्रत्युपदेशलुव्धेरादितस्थिन्पुरशिक्षितानि ॥ ३४ ॥

CONSTRUE: प्रत्युपदेशलुड्है: न् पुरिशक्षितानि आदित्सुभि: राजहंसै: संनताङ्गी सा लीलाबितविकमेषु गतेषु व्यनीयत इव ।

[or slender] body, [which is] the most potent cause of intoxication, not going by the name of 'wine,' [and which is] the missile over and above [or stronger than] the flowers of Kāma, the God of love].

- 32:—Her body manifested (vibhaldam) by fresh youth became charming in [all] the four corners, like a picture touched [or, coming into view] by the [painter's] brush or like a lotus opened up by the rays of the sun.
- 33:—Her feet, emitting redness as it were, as she stamped (niksepanāt) [them on the ground], by means of the lustres of the nails of the raised [or, prominent] big toes, assumed on earth the beauty of land-lotuses not confined [to any particular place or at random].
- 34:—She, with her body stooping [a little], was as it were instructed in [the matter of] movements wherein the steps were adorned with grace, by the royal swans extremely eager (lubdha) to receive instruction in return, wishing to acquire [the instruction in producing] the jingling of [her] anklets.

9

ाः इव

11 29

सन्दा-

शरदि

11 9

करण

dless

like ke a tified

a an male

a the ficial

lores

hose

ent,

etres

that iful

९ सन्त्रतीसा

कुमारसंभवम्

वृत्तानुपूर्वे च न चातिदीर्घे जङ्गे सुष्टवतस्तदीय । रोषाङ्गानिर्माणविधौ विधातुर्लाबण्य उत्पाद्य इवास यतनः ॥ ३५ ॥

CONSTRUE : तदीये यत्तानुपूर्वे च न अतिदीर्घे च अभे जङ्घे सप्टवतः विधातुः रोपाङ्गिनर्माणविधौ उत्पाद्ये लावण्ये यतनः आस इव् ।

नागेन्द्रहस्तास्त्विककेशत्वादेकान्तशैत्यात्कद्लीविशेषाः । लड्डवापि लोके पारिणाहि रूपं जातास्तद्वीश्वपमानवाद्याः ॥ ३६ ॥ CONSTRUE : लविककेशत्वात् नागेन्द्रहस्ताः एकान्तशैत्यात कदलीविशेषाः लोके परिणाहि रूपं लड्या अपि तद्रौं। उपमानवाद्याः जाताः ।

हण

यथ

1

p

f

एतावता नन्वनुमेयशोभं काञ्चीगुणस्थानमनिन्दितायाः। आरोपितं यद्गिरिशेन पञ्चादनन्यनारीकमनीयमङ्कम्॥ ३०॥

CONSTRUE: गिरिशेन पश्चात् [तत् काज्ञीगुणस्थानम्] अनन्यनारीकमनीयम् अङ्कम् आरोपितम् इति यत्, एतावता ननु अनिन्दितायाः काज्ञीगुणस्थानम् अनुमेयशोभम्।

तस्याः प्रविष्टा नतनाभिरन्धं रराज तन्वी नवरोमराजिः। नीवीमतिकम्य सितेतरस्य तन्मेखलामध्यमणेरिवार्चिः॥ ३८॥

CONSTRUE : नीवीम् अतिकम्य नतनाभिरन्त्रं प्रविष्टा तस्याः तन्वी नवलोमः राजिः सितेतरस्य तन्मेखलामध्यमणेः अर्चिः इव रराज।

- 35:—Of the Creator who had created her beautiful shanks round (vrtta) and regularly shaped [or, tapering] and not too long, there was as though [a great] effort for [manufacturing] loveliness that had to be created, in the matter of fashiening the remaining limbs.
- 36:—The trunks of lordly elephants, through toughness in the skin, and excellent Kadall [plantain] plants, through invariable ($ek\bar{a}nta$) coldness, even having attained excessive beauty in the world, became out of question ($b\bar{a}hy\bar{a}h$) as standards of comparison for her thighs.
- 37:—By this much [alone] indeed, the loveliness of the seat of the girdle-string, [that is, the hips] of the faultless one, could be inferred, that it was afterwards [that is, after Pārvatī won over Śiva by her penance] placed by Śiva on his lap which could not be [even] yearned after by any other female.

38 — The [thin] line of fresh hair, which having passed the knot of [her] garment at the waist, had entered the cavity of

१ लावण्यमुत्पत्तुम् २ शोमि

ैमध्येन सा वेदिविलयमध्या विलित्रयं चारु बभार बाला। आरोहणार्थं नवयौवनेन कामस्य सोपानमिव प्रयुक्तम्॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE: वेदिविलप्तमध्या सा बाला मध्येन चाह बलित्रयं कामस्य आरो-हणार्थं नवयौवनेन प्रयुक्तं सोपानम् इव बभार ।

गतुः

भ विद्याः

यम्

H.

H--

22

5]

g

SS

h

70

as.

10

a, ti

P

8

£

अन्योन्यसुत्पीडयदुत्पलाक्ष्याः स्तनद्वयं पाण्डु तथा प्रवृद्धम् । मध्ये यथा स्यामसुखस्य तस्य मृणालसूत्राँनतरमप्यलभ्यम् ॥ ४० ॥ .

CONSTRUE: उत्पठाक्ष्याः अन्योन्यम् उत्पीडयत् पाण्डु स्तनद्वयं तथा प्रशुद्धः यथा स्याममुखस्य तस्य मध्ये मृणालसूत्रान्तरम् अपि अलभ्यम् ।

शिरीषमालाधिकसौकुमार्यों बाहू तदीयाविति मे वितर्कः कि पराजितेनापि कृती हरस्य यौ कण्ठपाशी मकरध्वजेन ॥ ४१ ॥

CONSTRUE: तदीयो वाहू शिरीषमालाधिकसोकमायों इति मे वितर्कः यैं (वाहू) पराजितेन अपि मकरध्वजेन हरस्य कष्ठपाशों कृतौ ॥

[her] deep navel, shone like the shooting lustre of the other-thanwhite [that is, blue] central gem of her girdle.

- 39:—The girl [aged sixteen] whose waist was slender like the middle portion of a sacrificial altar, bore on her middle portion three charming folds of skin, as though they were a flight of steps laid by fresh youth for the ascent of the God of love.
- 40:—Of that lotus-eyed one, the two yellowish white breasts, pressing against each other, developed in such a manner that between them having dark nipples, space for a lotus-thread even could not be secured.
- 41:—I fancy that her arms were [even] more delicate than a garland of Sirisa flowers—the arms which were made into a noose for the neck of Hara, by the fish-bannered God [that is, Kāma] though [first] worsted.

१ गम्भीरनामीहद्सांनिधाने रराज नीला नवलोमराजिः । मुसेन्दुभीरुस्तनचक्रवाक-चञ्चुच्युता शैवलमञ्जरीव II before stanza 39 २ नवयौवनस्य 3 कामेन, कालेन्ड अस्त्रिण पदं न लब्धम् । ५ पुष्पा ६ प्रतर्कः

ेकण्ठस्य तस्यार्रतनुबन्धरस्य मुक्ताकलापस्य च निस्तलस्य । अन्योन्यशोभाजननाद्वभूव साधारणो भूषणभूष्यभावः॥ ४२॥

CONSTRUE: तस्याः ततुवन्धरस्य कष्ठस्य निस्तलस्य मुक्ताकलापस्य अन्योन्यशोभाजननात् भूषणभृष्यभावः साधारणः वभूव ।

चन्द्रं गता पद्मगुणान् न भुङ्के पद्माश्रिता चान्द्रमसीमाभिख्याम्। उमामुखं तु प्रतिपद्म लोला द्विसंश्रयां प्रीतिमवाप सक्षीः॥ ४३॥

(सर

मृग

ताम

पर्व

re

ev ja

d

t)

0

C

CONSTRUE: लोला लक्ष्मीः चन्द्रं गता पद्मगुणान् न भुक्के, पद्माश्रिता चान्द्रमसी अभिल्यां (न भुक्कते), उमामुखं प्रतिपद्य तु द्विसंश्रयां प्रीतिम् अवाप् ।

पुष्पं प्रवालीपहितं यदि स्यान्मुक्ताफलं वा स्फुटविद्यमस्थम् । ततोऽनुकुर्याद्विशदस्य तस्यास्ताम्रीष्ठपर्यस्तर्भेवः स्मितस्य ॥ ४८ ॥

CONSTRUE : यदि पुष्पं प्रवालोपहितं मुक्ताफलं वा स्फुटविद्रुमस्थं स्यात् ततः तस्याः ताम्रीष्ठपर्यस्तरुचः विशदस्य स्मितस्य अनुकुर्यात् ।

- 42:—Of her neck, slender and beautiful (bandhura) and of the undented pearl necklace (kalāpah = an ornament), the state of being the adorner and the adorned became common [to both], owing to producing beauty in each other.
- 43:—Unsteady [or restless] Laksmi [the goddess of beauty] while] residing in the moon, cannot enjoy the charms of the [day-] lotus, [and while] resorting to the [day-] lotus, [does not enjoy] the beauty of the moon; but [now] having reached the face of Umā, she secured the pleasure arising from both [the lotus and the moon].
- 44:—If a [white] flower were laid upon [reddish] fresh sprouts [or leaves], or a pearl were to stand in a clear [or lustrous] coral, then it could imitate [that is, resemble] her white [or clear] smile with its lustre scattered over the ruddy lips.

१ निर्मितिताशोकद्लमसूति पाणिद्वयं चारुनसं तद्यिम्। नवोद्तिन्दुप्रतिमस्य शामां स्योम्नः प्रदोषे विफलीचकार्॥ before stanza 42 २ तस्याः स्तनबन्धुरस्य ३ पर्यन्त

T I

2 11

ापस्य

ाम्।

831

न्द्रमसी

88 1

ात तत

andd

state

both auty

f the

does ached

both fresh

or

her

iddy

तेमस्य ध्रस्य स्वरेण तस्याममृतस्त्रतेव प्रजाल्पितायाम।मिजातवाचि । अपने । अप्यन्यपुष्टा प्रतिक्वलकाव्दा श्रोतुर्वितन्त्रीरिव ताड्यमाना ॥ ४५॥

CONSTRUE: अभिजातवाचि तस्याम् अमृतस्रुता इव स्वरेण प्रजल्पितायाः (सत्याम्) अन्यपुष्टा अपि ता स्थमाना वितन्त्रीः इव श्रोतुः प्रतिकूळराव्दा ।

प्रवातनीलोत्पलनिर्विशेषमधीरविप्रेक्षितमायताक्ष्या। तथा गृहीतं नु गृगाङ्गनाभ्यस्ततो गृहीतं नु मृगाङ्गनाभिः॥ ४६॥

CONSTRUE: प्रवातनीलोत्पलनिर्विशेषम् अधीरविप्रेक्षितम् आयताक्या तया मृगाङ्गनाभ्यः गृहीतं नु, मृगाङ्गनाभिः ततः गृहीतं नु ।

तस्याः शलाकाञ्जननिर्मितेव कान्ति र्भुवोरायतलेखथार्याः । तां वीक्ष्य लीलाचतुरामनङ्गः स्वचापसीन्दर्यमदं सुमोच ॥ ४७ ॥

CONSTRUE: तस्याः आयतलेखयोः भ्रुवोः शलाकाञ्जननिर्मिता इव या कान्तिः ताम् लोलाचतुराम् वीक्ष्य अनङ्गः स्वचापसौन्दर्यगदं मुमोच

लज्जा तिरश्चां यदि चेतिस स्यावसंशयं पर्वतराजपुत्र्याः। तं केशपाशं प्रसमीक्ष्य कुर्युर्बालप्रियत्वं शिथिलं चमर्यः॥ ४८॥

CONSTRUE: यदि तिरश्चां चेतसि लज्जा स्यात् (तिहैं) असंशयं चमर्यः पर्वतराजपुत्र्याः तं केशपाशं प्रसमीक्ष्य वालप्रियत्वं शिथिलं कुर्युः ।

45:—While she who was possessed of an agreeable [or, refined] speech, prattled in a voice distilling nectar as it were, even the cuckoo [lit. bred by others] was to the listener, one of jarring notes, like a wrong string [of the lute] being struck.

46:—Was the unsteady wayward (vi) glance having no distinction from the blue lotus in a strong breeze, taken by her, the broad-eyed one, from the female deer, or taken from her by the female deer?

47:—On seeing the beauty, clever in (catura, or charming owing to) graceful movements, of her eye-brows of a broad out-line, which was, as it were, produced by a pencil with cellyrium, the Bodiless one [that is, Kāma] gave up pride about the beauty of his bow.

48:—If there were [any sense of] shame in the mind of the lower animals [such as beasts etc.], the female Yak deer,

१ संजल्पितायाम् २ रानत ३ र्सा

कुमारसंभवम् विभिन्न सर्वापमाद्रव्यसमुचयेन यथाप्रदेशं विनिवेश्वितेन । सा निर्मिता विश्वसन्ता प्रमानको स्थापनिवेश्वितेन । सा निर्मिता विश्वसृजा प्रयत्नादेकस्थसौन्दर्यदिदृक्षयेव ॥ ४९ ॥

CONSTRUE: यथाप्रदेशं विनिवेशितेन सर्वोपमाद्रव्यसमुचयेन विश्वसूजा एकस्क सीन्दर्यदिह्क्षया इव सा.प्रयत्नात् निर्मिता ।

तां नारदः कामचरः कदाचित्कन्यां किल प्रेक्ष्य पितुः समीपे ! समादिदेशैकवध्ं भवित्री प्रेम्णा शरीरार्धहरां दरस्य ॥ ५०॥

CONSTRUE: कामचरः नारदः किल कदाचित् पितुः समीपे तां कन्यां प्रेक्ष प्रमणा हरस्य शरीरार्धहराम् एकवध्रं भवित्रीं समादिदेश ।

ग्रसः प्रगहमेऽपि वयस्यतोऽस्यास्तस्थौ निवृत्तान्यवरामिलाषः । ऋते कुशानोर्न हि मन्त्रपूतमईन्ति तेजांस्यपराणि हव्यम् ॥ ५१ ॥

CONSTRUE: अतः गुरुः अस्याः वयसि प्रगल्मे अपि निवृत्तान्यवराभिलापः तस्थी; कुशानोः ऋते अपराणि तेजांसि मन्त्रपूतं हव्यं न हि अहेन्ति ।

अयाचितारं न हि देवदेवमाद्रेः सुतां याहायितुं शशाक। अभ्यर्थनाभङ्गभयेन साधुम्धियस्थमिष्टेऽप्यवलम्बतेऽथैं॥ ५२॥

CONSTRUE: आद्रे: अयाचितारं देवदेवं सुतां प्राहियतुं न हि शशाक; सांधुः अन्यर्थनाभङ्गभयेन इष्टे अपि अर्थे माध्यस्थम् अवलम्बते ।

on carefully observing that [charming] mass of hair of the daughter of the mountain-lord, would, undoubtedly relax their fondness for [their] hair [or, tails].

- 49: -With the collection of all exemplar substances (upamādravyam) arranged in [their] proper places, she was created by the Creator of the universe with great effort, as if with a desire to see [all] beauty residing in one [place].
- 50:—It is reported (kila) that Nārada, the wanderer at will, seeing on a certain occasion, that maiden by the side of [her] father declared her destined to be the unique bride of Hara through love, sharing half of [his] body.
- 51: For this reason (atah), though she had grown up to a mature age, her father remained averse to the desire for another husband [or, son-in-law]; for, other lustrous objects excepting the fire do not deserve [to have] the sacrificial offering sanctified by Mantras.
- 52:—The mountain [Himālaya] dared not make the God of gods who did not solicit her, accept [his] daughter; a wise

Parkette 16

यदैव पूर्वे जनने शरीरं सा दक्षरोषांतसुदती ससर्ज। तदाप्रभृत्येव विसुक्तसंगः पतिः पश्चनामपरिग्रहोऽभूत्॥ ५३॥

CONSTRUE: यदा एव सुदती सा पूर्वे जनने दक्षरोषात शरीरं ससर्ज तदाप्रभृति एव परानां पतिः विसुक्तसंगः अपरिग्रहः अभूत्।

एकस्थ-

i प्रेक्ष

11 88

मेलाव:

सांधः

f the

their nces

was

, as will.

ier]

[ara

) to

for ects

cial

Fod

rise

स कृत्तिवासास्तपसे यतात्मा गङ्गाप्रपौतोक्षितदेवदार । प्रस्थ हिमाद्रेमुँगसाभिगन्धि किचित्क्वणिकत्तरमध्युवास ॥ ५८ ॥

CONSTRUE; कृत्तिवासाः यतात्मा सः गङ्गाप्रपातोक्षितदेवदारु सृगनाभिगन्धि कार्णात्कानरं किन्वित् हिमाद्रेः प्रस्थं तपसे अध्युवास ।

गणा नमेषप्रसवावतंसा भूजीवचः स्पर्शवतीर्दधौनाः। मनःशिलाविच्छारिता निषेदुः शैलेयनैद्धेषु शिलातलेषु ॥ ५५ ॥

CONSTRUE: गणाः नमेरुप्रसवावतंसाः स्परीवतीः भूर्जस्वचः द्धानाः मनः-परिश्लाविच्छुरिताः रौलेयनद्वेषु शिलातलेषु निषेदुः। man resorts to indifference even with reference to a desired object, through fear of a refusal of [his] request.

- 53:—When indeed, she possessed of excellent teeth gave up her body in [her] former birth, through resentment towards Daksa,—ever since that time, the Lord of beings (paśuh) who gave up [all] attachment [to worldly objects] remained without a spouse.
- 54:—He, with a skin [of the deer] for his garment, self-restrained, resided, for [practising] penance, on some peak [or, table-land] of the Snow-mountain [that is, Himālaya] where the Devadāru trees are washed [or, sprinkled over] by the falling of the Ganges, which has the scent of the musk and where the Kinnaras are producing sweet notes.
- 55:—[His] hosts, having the Nameru flowers as [their] crests [or, ear-ornaments], clad in birch-barks pleasant to the touch, and anointed with the red arsenic, took [their] seats on the slabs of rocks covered with (naddha) the resin.

रीपात्तुं सनीं। रोपात्स्वयमुत्ससर्जं २ जितामा ३ प्रदाही ४ वंसानाः गन्धेपु.

तुषारसंघातशिलाः खुराँग्नैः समुहिखन् दर्पकलः ककुद्मान् । दष्टः कथंचिद्गवयैर्विविग्नैरसोढसिंहध्वनिकन्ननाद् ॥ ५६ ॥

CONSTRUE : तुषारसंघातशिलाः खुराग्नैः समुद्धिखन् , द्पैकलः, विविन्नैः गवर्यैः कथंचित् दृष्टः असोडसिंहध्वनिः ककुद्मान् उन्ननाद ।

तत्राप्तिमाषाय समित्समिद्धं स्वमेव मूर्त्यन्तरमष्टमूर्तिः। स्वयं विधाता तपसः फलानां केनापि कामेन तपश्चचार ॥ ५७ ॥

CONSTRUE: तपसः फलानां स्वयं विधाता अष्टमूर्तिः तत्र स्वम् एव सूर्यन्तरं समित्समिद्धम् अग्निम् आधाय केन अपि कामेन तपः चचार ।

अनेध्यमध्येण तमद्रिनाथः स्वर्गीकसाम्चितमर्चायत्वा । आराधनायास्य सखीसमेतां समादिदेश प्रयतां तनूजाम् ॥ ५८ ॥

CONSTRUE: अनुर्धे स्वर्गीकसाम् अर्चितं तम् अर्घेण अर्चेथित्वा अदिनाथः अस्य आराधनाय सखीसमेतां प्रयतां तन्जां समादिदेश।

प्रत्यार्थभूतामपि तां समाधेः शुश्रूषमाणां गिरिशोऽनुमेने । विकारहेती सात विकियनते यथां न चेतांसि त एव धीराः ॥ ५९ ॥

CONSTRUE: समाधेः प्रत्यर्थिभूताम् अपि अश्रूषमाणां तां गिरिशः अनुमेने विकारहेती सित [अपि] येपां चेतासि न विकारहेती सित [अपि] येपां चेतासि न विकारहेती सित [अपि]

- 56:—[His] bull [lit. one possessed of the hump] tearing off by the tips of his hoofs the stones [in the form] of heaps of [solidified] snow, charming (kala) owing to [his] haughtimess, and looked at with concern (kathamcit) by the frightened. Gavayas, bellowed loudly, intolerant of the lion's roar.
- 57:—There, Siva [having eight forms], having set up fire—his own different manifestation—enkindled by the sacrificial fuel (samidh), and himself the dispenser of the fruits of penance, practised austerities for some object or other [which was quite inscrutable].
- 58:—Having worshipped him, the most adorable [or invaluable] and worshipped of the gods [lit. denizens of heaven] with the Arghya [the customary offering offered to a guest], the Lord of mountains directed [his] holy (prayata) daughter accompanied by her [two] female companions to attend upon him [or, for his worship].
- 59:—Giriśa [Śiva] consented to her serving [him] though [Tikely to] become an obstacle to [his] penance; those alone

१ अनर्थम् २ स्वमम्तान्

अवचितवालिपुष्पा वेदिसंमार्गदक्षा नियमविधिजलानां वृद्धिपां चोपनेजी । गिरिशमुपचचार प्रत्यहं सा सुकेशी नियमितपरिखेदा तिच्छरश्चन्द्रपादैः ॥ ६०॥

तर्हें

g

of 80 ď.

if br

r

CONSTRUE: अविनतबालिपुष्पा वेदिसंमार्गदक्षा नियमविधिजलानां बर्हिषां च न्डपनेत्रीं सुकशी सा तिच्छिरश्चन्द्रपादैः नियमितपरिखेदा प्रत्यहम् गिरिशम् उपचचार ।

इति सहाकविश्रीकालिदासञ्चतौ कुमारसंभवे महाकाव्ये उमोत्पत्तिनीम प्रथमः सर्गः।

are [really] firm-minded, whose minds are not affected [even] in the presence of a cause for perturbation.

60:—She, possessed of beautiful hair, who collected flowers for offerings, was careful in cleansing the altar, and fetched waters for the observance of the prescribed rites, attended upon Siva, day after day, with her fatigue alleviated [or, brought under control] by the rays of the [crescent-] moon on his head.

Here ends the First Canto, entitled 'The Birth of Uma' in the great poem Kumarasambhava [The Birth of Kumara], the composition of the great poet, the venerable Kalidasa.

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

द्वितीयः सर्गः।

तस्मिन्त्रिपकृताः काले तारकेण दिवोकसः। तुरासाहं पुरोधाय धाम स्वायंभुवं ययुः॥ १-॥

CONSTRUE: तस्मिन् काले तारकेण विश्रकृताः दिवौकसः तुरासाई पुरोषायः स्वायंग्रवं धाम ययुः।

4

भूत

di

R

p)

OX

th

ma

ly tw

tha

ow

the

तेषामाविरभूद्भह्या परिम्लानमुखिश्रयाम् । सरसां सुप्तपद्मानां प्रातर्वीधितिमानिव ॥ १॥

CONSTRUE: परिम्लानमुखश्रियां तेषां ब्रह्मा सप्तपद्मानां सरसा प्रातः दीकि-तिमान् इव आविरमृत्।

अथ सर्वस्य धातारं ते सर्वे सर्वतोग्जलम् । वागीशं वाग्मिरध्याभिः प्रणिपत्योपतस्थिरे ॥ ३ ॥

CONSTRUE: अथ सर्वे ते सर्वस्य धातारं सर्वतोमुखं वागीशं प्रणिपत्य अर्थ्याभि

नमोस्त्वैमूर्तये तुभ्यं पावसृष्टेः केवलात्मने । गुणत्रयविभागाय पश्चाद्धेदसुपेयुषे ॥ ८ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे भगवन्) स्टेः प्राक् असूर्तये केवलात्मने पथात् गुणत्रव-विभागाय भेदम् उपयुपे तुभ्यं नमः (अस्तु)।

1:—At that time [or, in the meanwhile], the gods [lit. denizens of heaven] oppressed by Tāraka, went to the abode of the self-existent one [that is, Brahmadeva] having placed Indra in the front [that is, headed by Indra].

2:—To them, the lustre of whose faces had completely (pari) faded, Brahmadeva manifested himself, like the sun in the morning to the lakes whose lotuses are closed [lit. asleep].

3:—Then they all, having bowed to the creator of all, with faces on all sides and the lord of speech, worshipped [him] with words not belying the sense.

4:-Let [there] be a bow to you who are formless and mere Self before creation, and who afterwards have taken to

१ नमस्त्रिमृतये

द्वितीयः सर्गः

28

यद्मोषमपामनतश्तं बीजमज त्वया। अत्याराचरं विश्वं प्रभवस्तस्य गीयसे॥ ५॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) अज, त्वया अपाम् अन्तः यत् अमोर्घं वीजम् उप्तम् अतः बराचरं विश्वं (जातम्), तस्य प्रभवः (त्वं) गीयसे ।

तिस् भिस्त्वमवस्थाभिर्महिमानसुद्दीरयन् । प्रहयस्थितिसर्गाणामेकः कारणतां गतः॥ ६॥

CONSTRUE: ।तिस्रभिः अवस्थाभिः महिमानम् उदीरयन् त्वस् एकः प्रत्यय स्थितिसर्गाणां कारणतां गतः।

स्त्रीषुंसावात्मभागी ते भिन्नमूर्तेः सिसृक्षया । प्रस्तिभाजः सर्गस्य तावेव पितरौ स्मृतौ ॥ ७ ॥

CONSTRUE: सिसक्षया भिन्नमूर्तेः ते ह्यापुंसी आत्मभागीः तौ एव प्रसुतिमाजाः सर्गस्य पितरी स्मृती।

स्वकालपरिमाणेन व्यस्तरात्रिदिवस्य ते। वयो तु स्वप्नावबोधी ती भूतानां प्रलयोद्यी॥ ८॥

स्वकालपरिमाणेन व्यस्तरात्रिन्दिवस्य ते यौ स्वप्नावबोघो तो व CONSTRUE: भूतानां प्रलयोदयौ ।

differentiation for the division of the three qualities [Sattva, Rajas and Tamas I.

5:-[O] Unborn One, the unfailing seed that was sown by you in the womb (antah) of the waters-from it, the universe of movable and immovable beings [has come into existence]; [by sages as] its source [you] are sung.

6: You, manifesting [your] greatness by means of the three states, have alone become the cause of the destruction, maintenance and creation [of the universe].

7 :- Man and Woman [are but] your own parts, with [your] form split up out of a desire to create; and the same two are declared in the Smrtis as the parents of the creation, that resorts to birth.

8 :- Of you, who have divided night and day by your own measure of time, what [are] but sleep and wakefulness [are] the dissolution and maintenance (udayah) of [all] beings.

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

रोषाय

दीथि-

[lit. e of aced

tely n in p]. with

and

him

n to

[🤊] अदश्यराचरं विश्वं प्रमावस्तरत गायते 🤏 यावेव स्वप्नवोधी

30

कुमारसंभवम्

जगद्योनिरयोनिस्त्वं जगदन्तो निरन्तकः। जगदादिरनादिस्त्वं जगदीशो निरीश्वरः॥ ९॥

CONSTRUE: जगदोनिः त्वम् अयोनिः; जगदन्तः (त्वं) निरन्तकः: जगदाहि त्वम् अनादिः; जगदीशः (त्वं) निरीश्वरः । •

आत्मानमात्मना वेत्सि स्जस्यात्मानमात्मना । आत्मना कृतिना च त्वमात्मनयेव प्रलीयसे ॥ १० ॥

CONSTRUE : त्वम् आत्मना आत्मानं वेत्सि, आत्मना आत्मानं सुजसि, कृतिः आत्मना च आत्मनि एव प्रलीयसे ।

Ų

i

1

द्रवः संघातकठिनः स्थूलः स्क्मो लघुर्गुषः । व्यक्तो व्यक्तेत्रश्चासि प्राकास्यं ते विस्तिषु ॥ ११ ॥

CONSTRUE: (त्वं) द्रवः संघातकठिनः स्थूळः सूक्ष्मः, लघुः, युरुः, व्यक् व्यक्तेतरः च असिः विभूतिषु ते प्राकाम्यम् ।

> उद्घातः प्रणवो यासां न्यायैस्त्रिभिरुदीरणम् । कर्म यज्ञः फलं स्वर्गस्तासां त्वं प्रभवो गिराम् ॥ १२ ॥

CONSTRUE: यासाम् उद्घातः प्रणवः, त्रिभिः न्यायैः उदीरणम्, कर्म ग फलं स्वर्गः, तासां गिरां त्वं प्रभवः।

- 9:—The source of the world, you [are yourself] with any source; the destroyer of the world, [you are yourself without an end; [existing even at] the beginning of tworld, you [are yourself] without a beginning; the Lord the world, [you are yourself] without [that is, not subject to a ruler.
- 10:—You know yourself by [your] self, create yourself [your] self and you are absorbed in [your] self by [your] swhich has accomplished its objects [or, which is powerful].
- 11:—You are liquid [yet] a compact solid, gross [y subtle, light [yet] heavy, manifest, yet other than manife [thus there is] your absolute discretion (prākāmyam) in mofestations.
- 12:—You [are] the source of those words [that is, Vedas] whose beginning is [by means of] the sacred sylls Om, utterance [is guided] by the three accents, act sacrifice, [and] fruit heaven.

28

त्वामामनान्त प्रकृतिं पुरुषार्थप्रवर्तिनीम् । तद्वर्शिनमुदासीनं त्वामेव पुरुषं विदुः ॥ १३॥

CONSTRUE : त्वां पुरुषार्थं प्रवृतिनीं प्रकृतिम् आमनन्ति, त्वाम् एव तद्दिनिम् सदासीनं पुरुषं विदुः ।

त्वं पितृणामापि पिता देवानामपि देवता । परतोऽपि परश्चासि विधाता वेधसामपि ॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: त्वं पितृणाम् अपि पिता, देवानाम अपि देवता. परतः अपि च परः, वेधसाम् अपि विधाता असि ।

त्वभेव हृट्यं होता च भोज्यं भोक्ता च शाश्वतः। वेद्यं च वेदिता चासि ध्याता ध्येयं च वेदपरस्॥ १५॥

CONSTRUE: शाश्वतः लम् एव हृष्यं होता च, भोज्यं भोकता च वेदां च बेदिता च च्याता यत् परं ध्येयं च (तत्) आसि।

इति तेभ्यः स्तुतीः श्रुत्वा यथार्थां हृद्यंगमाः । प्रसादाभिमुखो वैघाः प्रत्युवाच दिवोकसः ॥ १६॥

CONSTRUE: तेथ्यः इति यथार्थाः हृदयंगमाः त्तुतीः श्रुत्वा वेधाः प्रसौदाभि-मुखः (सन्) दिवीकसः प्रत्युवाच ।

13:—They declare [or, consider] you as the Prakrti that sets in motion objects [of enjoyment] for the Purusa, and they understand you alone as the Purusa, the witness of [and] indifferent to [the operations of] her [Prakrti].

14:—You are the father even of the Pitrs, the god even of the gods, superior to even the high, and maker even of the progenitors [of men].

15:—You indeed [who are] eternal are [both] the offering in the sacrifice and the sacrificer, the eatable [that is, the thing to be enjoyed] and the eater [or enjoyer], the knowable and again the knower, the meditator and what [is] the supreme object of meditation

16 — Having heard from them these prayers, true to sense and going to [that is, touching] the heart, the Creator [who

CC-0. In Public Domain. Guruklu Kangri Collection Handwar

जगदारि

कृतिः

हः, व्यव

कर्म य

with ursel of t Lord ject t

rself

anife

ful].

t is, sylla

९ दैवनम् २ भोग्यम् ३ शाश्वतम् ४ तत् ५ यादाधर्य

पुराणस्य कवेस्तस्य चतुर्मुखसमीरिता । प्रवृत्तिरासीच्छव्दानां चरितार्था चतुष्ट्यी ॥ १७ ॥

CONSTRUE: तस्य पुराणस्य कवेः चतुर्धखसमीरिता चतुष्टयी शब्दानां प्रशक्तिः चरितार्था आसीत्।

स्वागतं स्वानधीकारान्प्रभावैरवलम्ब्य वः। युग्पद्युगवाहुभ्यः प्राप्तेभ्यः प्राज्यविक्रमाः॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) प्राज्यविक्रमाः, स्त्रान् अधीकारान् प्रभावैः अवल्यन्य बुगपत् प्राप्तेभ्यः युगवाहुभ्यः वः स्वागतम् ।

कि भिदं द्युतिमात्मीयां न बिश्चाति यथा' पुरा। हिमक्किष्टप्रकोशानि ज्योतीषीय मुखानि वः॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: हिमिक्षिष्टप्रकाञ्चानि ज्योतींषि इव वः मुखानि यथा पुरा जात्मीया भुति न विभ्रति, इदं किम्।

प्रशमाद्धियामेतद्नुद्गीर्णसुरायुधम् । वृत्रस्य हन्तुः कुलिशं कुण्ठिताश्रीव लक्ष्यते ॥ २०॥

CONSTRUE: अर्चिवां प्रशामात् अनुद्रीणंसुरायुधं वृत्रस्य हन्तुः एतत् कुल्किशं was disposed to [confer upon them] a boon, said in reply to the denizens of heaven.

17:—Of that ancient Kavi, the four-fold use of words, properly given forth by the four mouths, was such as accomplished [its] object.

18:—Welcome to you, [O] you of mighty prowess, [you who are] possessed of long arms [lit. arms like yokes] and who have reached here [all] at the same time, [after] having supported [that is, arranged to discharge] your own appointed duties by [your] powers.

planets etc.] with [their] light obscured by mist, do not, possess their natural (ātmīyā) lustre as before?

20:—This thunderbolt of the slayer of Vrtra, not emitting the rain-bow [that is, variegated colours] on account of the यथापुरम् २ प्रसादानि

किं चायमरिदुर्वारः पाणी पाराः प्रचेतसः। मन्त्रेण हतवीर्यस्य फणिनो दैन्यमाश्चितः॥ २१॥

CONSTRUE: किं च अयम् अरिदुर्वारः प्रचेतसः पाणौ पाशः मन्त्रेण हतवर्थिस्य फाणिनः दैन्यम् आश्रितः।

कुवेरस्य मनःशल्यं शंसतीव पराभवम् । अपविद्धगदो बाहुर्भग्नशाख इव द्वमः ॥ २२ ॥

CONSTRUE: अपविद्धगदः भग्नशास्त्रः द्रुमः इव कुवेरस्य बाहुः मनःशस्यं पराभवं शंसति इव ।

यमोऽपि विलिखन् भूमिं दण्डेनास्तमितित्वषा । कुषतेऽस्मिन्नभोषेऽपि निर्वाणालातलाचवम् ॥ २३ ॥

CONSTRUE: यमः अपि अस्तमितत्विषा दण्डेन भूमिं विलिखन् अमोघे अपि अस्मिन् (दण्डे) निर्वाणालातलाघवं कुरुते ।

अमी च कथमादित्याः प्रतापक्षातिशीतलाः । चित्रन्यस्ता इव गताः प्रकामालोकनीयताम् ॥ १४ ॥

CONSTRUE: अमी च आदित्याः प्रतापक्षतिशीतलाः चित्रन्यस्ताः इव प्रकामा-लोकनीयतां कथं गताः। extinction of [its] lustres, appears as though its edges are blunted.

- 21:—And again, this noose in the hand of Varuna, irresistible by the enemy, has resorted to the miserable plight (dainyam) of a serpent whose prowess is destroyed by a charm.
- 22:—The arm of Kubera, which has discarded the mace, [and which appears] like a tree with its branches broken, declares, as it were, defeat, the rankle in the mind [that is, which has been rankling in his mind].
- 23:—Even Yama [the God of death] scratching up the ground by his rod, the lustre of which has gone to set, imparts to it, though never-failing [one], the smallness of an extinguished fire-brand.
- 24:—How again have these [or yonder] Adityas, cool owing to the loss of heat, reached the condition of being gazed at, at will, as though depicted in pictures?

प्रशिक्ष

लक्क

तंमीयां

कुनिश्

y to ords₀

you, who ated

ars,

ting

पर्याकुछत्वान्महतां वेगभङ्गोऽनुमीयते । अम्भसामोघसंरोधः प्रतीवगमनादिवं ॥ १५ ॥

CONSTRUE: मस्तां वेगभङ्गः पर्याकुलस्वात् अम्भसाम् ओघसंरोधः प्रतीए-गमनात् इव अनुमीयते ।

न्लो

2

आवर्जितजटामौलिविलाम्बराशिकोटयः। ददाणामपि मूर्धानः क्षताहङ्कारशंसिनः॥ १६॥

CONSTRUE: म्हाणाम् अपि आवर्जितजटामीलिविलम्बिशशिकोटयः नूर्धानः क्षताहंकारशंसिनः।

लब्धमतिष्ठाः प्रथमं यूयं किं बलवत्तरैः। अपवादैरिवोत्सर्गाः कृतव्यावृत्तयः परैः॥ ९७॥

CONSTRUE : प्रथमं लब्धप्रातिष्ठाः यूयं बलवत्तरैः परैः उत्सर्गाः अपवादैः इव किं कृतव्याकृतयः ?

तद् बूत वत्साः किमितः प्रार्थयध्वं समागताः। मार्य सृष्टिहिं लोकानां रक्षा युष्मास्ववास्थिता ॥ २८ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) वत्साः, समागताः (यूयम्) इतः किं प्रार्थयध्वं तत् ब्रूतः माये हि लोकानां सृष्टिः युष्पासु (लोकानां) रक्षा अवस्थिता ।

- 25:—The check to the velocity of the Maruts [the wind-gods] is inferred [by me] from their being all agitated, like the stoppage of the current of the waters by [their] contrary motion.
- 26:—The heads of Rudras even, possessing the crescent moons hanging down from the down-cast crests of matted hair, declare [their] pride being baffled.
- 27:—Have you, who had first secured stability [or, jurisdiction] been subjected to reverses by more powerful opponents, as general statements [or rules], that have got scope first, are set aside by more powerful special rules [or, exceptions]?
- 28:—Speak out, [my] dear ones, what you coming in a body, would request of me (itah); with me indeed (hi) rests the creation of the world [and] with you [its] protection.

१ क्षतहुंकार २ न सलु स्थ बलोत्तरे: ३ प्रार्थयक्वे

द्वितीयः सर्गः

24

सतो मन्दानिलो खूतकमलाकरको भिना। गुरुं नेत्रसहस्रोण नोद्यामास[ी] वासवः॥ २९॥

त्रतीए-

धीनः

व कि

न् मतः

ind-

e the rafy

cent

air.

ITISopo-

cope

cep-

in a

CONSTRUE: ततः वासदः गुरुं मन्दानिलोद्धृतक्षमलाकरशोभिना नेत्रसद्क्षेण न्लोद्यामास ।

स द्विनेत्रं हरेश्चक्षः बेहस्त्रनयनाधिकम् । वाचस्पतिषवाचेदं प्राक्षित्रज्ञासनम् ॥ ३० ॥

CONSTRUE: हरे: सहस्रनयनाधिकं द्विनेत्रं चक्षुः सः वाचस्पतिः प्राञ्जलिः (सन्) जलजासनम् इदम् उवाच ।

एवं यदात्थ भगवन्नामृष्टं नः परैः पदम् । प्रत्येकं विनियुक्तात्मा कथं न ज्ञास्यसि प्रभो ॥ ३१ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) भगवन्, यत् (त्वम्) आत्य (तत्) एवम्; नः पदं परैः आसृष्टम्; (हे) प्रभो, प्रत्येकं विनियुक्तात्मा (त्वं) कथं न ज्ञास्यसि ।

भवर्त्वैच्धवरोदीर्णस्तारकाख्यो महासुरः। उपप्रवाय लोकानां भूमकेतुरिवोदितः॥ ३२॥

CONSTRUE: भवल्रञ्चवरोदीर्णः तारकाल्यः महासुरः धूमकेतुः इव लोकानाम् उपस्रवाय जिथतः।

29:—Thereupon Indra urged the preceptor [Brhaspati to speak on behalf of the gods] by his thousand eyes looking to advantage like an assemblage of lotuses tossed by a mild breeze.

30:—He, the lord of speech, the eye of Indra, having two eyes, superior to the thousand eyes, spoke thus, with folded hands, to the lotus—seated god [Brahmadeva].

31:—[O] Revered Lord, it [is even] as you have said; our [high] place has been rudely shaken (āmṛṣṭam) by enemies; how could you, [O] mighty one, whose self inheres everything, not know [it]?

32:—The mighty demon, named Tāraka, puffed up by the boon obtained from you, has risen up, like a comet, for the harassment of the worlds,

चोदयामास २ विनेतृ ३ दशचलश्शताधिकम् ४ त्वया दत्तपरो

परे तावन्तमेवास्य तनोति रविरातपम्। दीर्घिकाकमलोनमेषो यावनमात्रेण सिध्यति ॥ ३३ ॥

CONSTRUE: अस्य पुरे रविः तावन्तम् एव आतपं तनोति यावन्मात्रेण दीर्षि काकमलोन्मेषः सिध्यति ।

TO

त्रभ

प्रह

37

D

de

of af

in li

tr

3

de ar

de

सर्वाभिः सर्वदा चन्द्रस्तं कलाभिर्निपेवते। नाद्ते केवलां लेखां हरचुडामणीकृताम्॥ ३४॥

CONSTRUE: चन्द्रः तं सर्वदा सर्वाभिः कलाभिः निषेवते, केवलां हरचूडामणी-इतां लेखां न आदत्ते।

व्यावृत्तगतिरुद्याने कुसुमस्तेयसाध्वसात । न वाति वायुस्तत्पार्श्वे तालवृन्तानिलाधिकम् ॥ ३५ ॥

CONSTRUE: कुम्रुमस्तेयसाम्बसात् उद्याने न्यातृतगतिः वायुः तत्पार्थे तालकृताः निलाधिकं न वाति।

पर्यायसेवामुत्सुज्य पुष्पसंमारतत्पराः। उद्यानपालसामान्यमृतवस्तमुपासते ॥ ३६ ॥

CONSTRUE: पर्यायसेवाम् उत्सुज्य पुष्पसंभारतत्पराः ऋतवः तम् उद्यानपाल-सामान्यम् उपासते ।

तस्योपायनयोग्यानि रत्नानि सारितां पातिः। कथमप्यम्भसामन्त्ररानिष्पत्तः प्रतीक्षते ॥ ३७ ॥

CONSTRUE: सरितां पतिः तस्य उपायनयोग्यानि रत्नानि अम्भसाम् अन्तः आनिष्पत्तेः कथम् अपि प्रतीक्षते ।

33: In his city, the sun spreads that much heat by which only is accomplished the blooming of lotuses in the [.oblong]

34: -With all digits, the moon waits upon him always, [the moon] does not take back only the digit that has been made into the crest-jewel of Hara.

35:-The Wind, with [his] movements in the garden excluded through fear [of being accused] of stealing [that is tearing away] flowers, does not blow by his side, more

36: The Seasons, having given up service in succession and intent on [bringing forth] a mass of flowers, wait upon him in common with the garden-superintendents.

37: The Lord of rivers [that is, the ocean] awaits withgreat concern (kathamapi) the gems fit [for being offered] as

१ साइसाव

द्वितीयः सर्गः

200

ज्वलन्मणिशिखाञ्चैनं वासुकिप्रमुखा निश्चि। स्थिरप्रदीपतामेत्य भुजङ्गाः पर्युपासते ॥ ३८ ॥

दीर्धि

सपार

क्सा-

पाल

न्तः

ich

g]

he

en

m

is, re

n

n.

h 18 CONSTRUE: ज्वलन्मणिशिखाः वास्तिकप्रमुखाः मजङ्गाः च निश्चि स्थिरप्रदीपताक्ष् एत्य एनं पर्युपासते ।

तत्कृतानुयहापेक्षी तं सुहुर्दूतहारितैः । अनु कूलयतीन्द्रोऽपि कल्पद्वमविभूषणैः ॥ ३९ ॥

CONSTRUE: तत्कृतानुप्रहापेक्षी इन्द्रः अपि सुहुः दूतहारितैः कल्पद्रुपाविभूषणैः तम् अनुकूलयति।

इत्थमाराध्यमानोऽषि किलहनाति अञ्चनञ्चस । शास्येत्प्रत्यपकारेण नोपकारेण दुर्जनः ॥ ४० ॥

CONSTRUE: इत्थम् आराध्यमानः अपि (सः) अवनत्रयं क्रिश्नाति; दुर्जनः प्रत्यपकारेण शाम्येत् न उपकारेण ।

तेनामरवधूहस्तैः सद्याल्लनप्लवाः । अभिज्ञाश्छेद्पातानां क्रियन्ते नन्दनद्वमाः ॥ ४१ ॥

CONSTRUE: तेन अमरवधृहस्तैः सदयात्र्नपष्ठत्राः नन्दनद्रुमाः छेदपातानाम् अभिज्ञाः कियन्ते । presents to him, in waters, till they become ripe [that is, fully developed].

- 38:—And Serpents with Vāsuki at their head, possessed of blazing flames of gems, wait upon him, at night, having attained to the condition of [that is, serving as] non-flickering [and permanent] lamps.
- 39:—Even Indra, expecting favours done by him, conciliates him by ornaments from the Kalpa [that is, wish-fulfilling] trees, sent frequently to him through messengers.
- 40:—Though being served [or, propitiated] in this way, he harasses the three worlds. A wicked person would quiet down by an injury in return, not by an obligation.
- 41:—By him are the trees in the Nandana [garden] whose aprouts were tenderly plucked by the hands of the celestial damsels, made to experience cuts and fallings.

ণ ভিন্ন

वीज्यते स हि संसुतः श्वाससाधारणानिलैः । चामरेः सुरवन्दीनां बाष्यसीकरवर्षिभिः ॥ ४१ ॥

CONSTRUE: सः हि संसुप्तः (सन्) सुरवन्दीनां श्वाससाधारणानिलैः वाष्पसी-करवार्षिभिः चामरैः वीज्यते ।

उत्पाट्य मेकगृङ्गाणि श्वण्णानि हरितां खुँरः। आक्रीडपर्वतास्तन कित्पताः स्वेषु वेश्मसु ॥ ४३ ॥

CONSTRUE: हरितां खुरै: क्षुण्णानि मेक्सृङ्गाणि उत्पाट्य तेन स्वेषु देहमसु आक्रीडपर्वताः कल्पिताः।

मन्दाकिन्याः पयः शेषं दिग्बारणमशाविलम् । हेमाम्भोत्तहसस्यानां तद्वाप्यो धाम सांप्रतम् ॥ ४४ ॥

CONSTRUE: सांप्रतं दिग्वारणमदाविछं पयः मन्दाकिन्याः शेषम्; तद्वांप्यः इमाम्भोरुहसस्यानां धाम ।

सुवनालोकनभीतिः स्वीगिभिनीनु प्यते । खिलीभूते विमानानां तदापौतभयात्पथि ॥ ४५ ॥

CONSTRUE: तदापातभयात् विमानानां प्रथि खिलीभूते (सति) स्वर्गिाभेः भुवनालोकनप्रीति: न अनुभूयते ।

यज्वभिः संभृतं हृद्यं विततेष्वध्वरेषु सः। जातवेदोसुखान्मायी मिषतामाच्छिनत्ति नः॥ ४६॥

CONSTRUE: मायी सः विततेषु अन्त्ररेषु यज्त्रभिः संमृतं हव्यं नः मिषतां जातवेदोमुखात् आच्छिनति ।

- 42:—[When] fast asleep, he is indeed fanned with the Camaras by the celestial damsels carried off by force, whose breezes are [gentle] like breathing and showering sprays of tears.
- 43:—Having uprooted the peaks of the Meru [mountain] trodden by the hoofs of the Harits [horses of the sun], by him are set up pleasure-mountains in his own mansions.
- 44:—Water turbid with the rut of the quarter-elephants [is what now] remains of Mandākini [the Ganges in heaven]. Of the crop of the golden lotuses, his wells [are] now the abode.
- 45:—The path of the ærial cars being barred owing to the dread of his onslaught, the pleasure of beholding the worlds is not enjoyed by the denizens of heaven.
- 46:—At sacrifices that have been commenced, he, the enchanter, snatches away, in spite of us looking on, from the

१ संतप्तम्बास् १ अम्बुरुह ३ तद्ाधातः

उच्चेरुच्चैःश्रवास्तेन हयरत्नमहारि च । देहबद्धभिवेन्द्रस्य चिरकालाजितं यशः ॥ ४७ ॥

पसी-

दमस

द्वांप्यः

ांभे:

षतां

the

ose

ITS.

in] im

nts

n].

de.

he is

be

be

CONSTRUE: तेन इन्द्रस्य देहबदं चिरकाळार्जितं यशः इव उचैः हयरत्नम् उचैः अवाः अहारि च।

तस्मिनुपायाः सर्वे नः क्रूरे प्रतिहतकियाः । वीर्यवन्त्यौषधानीय विकारे सांनिपातिके ॥ ४८ ॥

CONSTRUE: क्रूरे तिस्मिन् नः सर्वे उपायाः सानिपातिके विकारे वीर्यवन्तिः औषधानि इव प्रतिहतिकयाः।

जयाशा यत्र चास्माकं प्रतिघातोत्थितार्चिषा। हरिचकेण तेनास्य कण्डे निष्कमिवार्षितम्॥ ४९॥

CONSTRUE: यत्र च अस्माकं जयाशा, तेन प्रतिघातोत्थितार्चिषा द्वरिचक्रेण अस्य कच्छे निष्कम् अर्पितम् इव ।

तदीयास्तोयदेष्वद्य पुष्करावर्तकादिषु । अभ्यस्यन्ति तटाघातं निर्जितेरावता गजाः॥ ५०॥

CONSTRUE: अद्य तदीयाः निर्जितरावताः गजाः पुष्करावर्तकादिषु तीयदेषु तटाघातम् अभ्यस्यन्ति । mouth of [or, in the form of] fire, the oblations offered by the sacrificers according to the rites.

- 47:—And by him has been taken away the tall gem of a horse, Uccaihśravas, the long acquired fame of Indra as it were incarnate.
- 48:—All our remedies have their actions baffled against that pitiless one, like powerful medicinal herbs against a dangerous disease arising from a complicated derangement of the three bodily humours [vāta, pitta, and kapha].
- 49:—By the disc of Hari, on which was [placed] our hope of victory, was, with the lustre rising from reaction, attached as it were, to his neck the chest-ornament.
- 50:—His elephants who have vanquished Airāvata [the elephant of Indra] are now (adya) practising butting against the clouds, Puskarāvartaka and others.

१ तोद्रता

तिवृच्छामो विमो स्मष्टुं सेनान्यं तस्य शान्तये । कर्मवन्यच्छिदं धर्म भवस्येव सुसुक्षवः॥ ५१॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) विभो, तत् तस्य शान्तये सेनान्यं सप्रुम् इच्छामः सुमुक्षः कर्मवन्यच्छिदं धर्मे भवस्य (शान्तये) इव ।

गोतारं सुरसैन्यानां यं पुरस्कृत्य गोत्राशित् । प्रत्यानेष्यति शत्रुभ्यो बन्दीमिव 'जयश्रियम् ॥ ५१ ॥

CONSTRUE: सुरसैन्यानां गोप्तारं यं पुरस्कृत्य गोत्रभित् बन्दीम् इव जयाश्रियं

वचस्यवंसिते तस्य ससर्ज गिरमात्मभूः। गर्जितानन्तरां वृधिं सौभाग्येन जिगाय सा॥ ५३॥

CONSTRUE: तस्य वचिस अविसते (सति) आत्मभूः गिरं ससर्जः सा सीभाग्येन गर्जितानन्तरां वृष्टिं जिगाय ।

संपत्स्यते वः कामोऽयं कालः कश्चित्पतीक्ष्यताम् । न त्वस्य सिद्धौ बास्यामि सर्गव्यापारमात्मनौ ॥ ५४॥

CONSTRUE: अयं वः कामः संपत्त्यते, कश्चित् कालः प्रतीक्ष्यताम्, अस्य सिद्धी

उ आत्मना सर्गव्यापारं न यास्यामि।

51:—We therefore wish, [O] mighty Lord, to create a General for the forces, for his pacification [or destruction] as those desirous of emancipation [wish to produce] merit cutting off the bondage of Karman, [for the destruction of] worldly life [or samsāra]—

is

its

DY

DI

21

th

::tl

·of

M

be

he

1

- 52:—[a General,] a guardian for the heavenly troops, by placing whom in front, the Cleaver of mountains [that is, Indra] would bring back from the enemies, the Goddess of victory like a female captive.
- 53:—His speech having ended, the self-born one sent forth [his] speech. It surpassed (jigāya) in felicitousness, a shower [of rain falling] after thunder.
- 54:—This desire of yours shall be fulfilled. Wait for some time. But I shall not personally (\(\alpha tman\alpha\)) undertake the work of creation, for its accomplishment.

[🤋] सुरिश्रयम् २ तस्मिन् ३ मात्मनः

द्वितीयः सर्गः

च क्रोज. अवाडश्रंचगर

इतः स दैत्यः प्राप्तश्रीनेत एवाईति क्षयम् । दिल्ली द्वारा विषवृक्षोऽपि संवैध्ये स्वयं छेनुमसांप्रतम् विषयः कांगडी पुरतकालय स्रो

CONSTRUE : इतः प्राप्तश्रीः सः दैत्यः इतः एव क्षयं न अईति; विष्कृकः अपि श्वंवर्ष्यं स्वयं छेत्तम् असांप्रतम् ।

वृतं तेनेदमेव प्राङ् मया चारमे प्रतिश्रुतम् । वरेणाशमितं लोकानलं दग्धं हि तत्तपः॥ ५६॥

मुक्ष ।

गिश्रयं

सा

मेडी

e a

8.8

utlly

os,

is.

of

at 3

OF

67

CONSTRUE: तेन प्राक् इदम् एव वृतं मया च अस्मै (इदम् एव.) प्रतिश्रुतम्; लोकान् दग्धुम् अलं तत्तपः हि वरेण (मया) आशमितम् ।

संयुगे सांयुगीनं तसुद्गदं प्रसहेत कः। अंशाहते निषिकस्य निरुक्तोहितरेतसः॥ ५७॥

CONSTRUE: संयुगे सांयुगीनम् उद्गदं तं निषिक्तस्य नील्लोहितरेतसः अंशाव ऋते कः प्रसहेत ।

स्त हि देवः परं ज्योतिस्तमःपारं ^६व्यवस्थितम् । परिच्छस्रभावर्द्धिनं मया न च विष्णुना ॥ ५८ ॥

CONSTRUE: सः देवः हि तसःपोर व्यवस्थितं परं ज्योतिः; न मया न विष्णुना न (सः) परिच्छन्नप्रभावर्द्धिः।

- 55:—That demon who acquired [his] glory from here [that is, from me] does not deserve [to have] destruction from here itself [that is, from me]; it is improper to cut down personally even a poisonous tree after having reared it [oneself].
- 56:—This very thing [viz. capability of not being killed by gods including Brahmadeva] was sought by him formerly and [the same] was promised [or granted] to him by me; [and thus] by the boon was laid low his penance capable of burning the worlds.
- 57:—Who else, except the portion of the injected semen of Siva could withstand him, warlike and with [his] mace uplifted in battle?
- 58:—For, that God is the Light Supreme, established beyond [all] darkness; and neither by me nor by Visnu can he have the excess of [his] power measured.

⁹ संवर्ष्यः २ वरेण शमितम् 3 सांमुखीनम् ४ उद्यन्तम् ५ निश्चित्तत्रतुः ६ प्रतिष्ठितम्

उमारूपेण ते युवं संयमस्तिमितं मनः। शम्भोर्थतक्षमाऋषुमयस्कान्तेन लोहवत्॥ ५९॥

CONSTRUE: ते यूयम् उमारूपेण अयस्कान्तेन शंभीः संयमस्तिमितं लोहक् मनः आकर्ष्टं यतध्वम् ।

कन्द

पदा

इति

Ch. Ma to

ha

of

gra

for of

M

the उमे पव क्षमे वोहुमुभयोवींजमाहितम् । सा वा शम्भोस्तदीया वा मूर्तिर्जलमयी सम ॥ ६०॥

CONSTRUE: उमयोः आहितं बीजं वोढुम् उमे एव क्षमे, सा वा शम्भोः (क्षी बोढुं क्षमा); तदीया जलमयी मूर्तिः वा मम (वीजं वोढुं क्षमा)।

तस्यात्मा शितिकण्ठस्य सैनापत्यमुपत्य वः । मोस्यते सुरवन्दीनां चेणीवींयविभूतिभिः॥ ६१ ॥

CONSTRUE: तस्य शितिकण्ठस्य आत्मा वः सैनापत्यम् उपेत्य बीर्यविम्यतिभे सरमन्दीनां वेणीः मोक्सते ।

इति व्यावृत्य विबुधान् विश्वयोनिस्तिरोद्धे । मनस्याहितकर्तव्यास्तेऽपि वैवा दिवं ययुः ॥ ६२ ॥

CONSTRUE: विद्युवान् इति व्याहृत्य विश्वयोनिः तिरोद्धे, ते देवाः आपि मनसि आहितकर्तव्याः दिवं ययुः।

- 59:—So you, thus circumstanced (te), [all] try to attract the iron-like mind of Siva steady in contemplation, by the magnet in the form of Uma.
- 60:—The two alone are capable of bearing the semendeposited of [us] two—she [Umā] that of Siva, and his waters form, that of me.
- 61:—The self [or son] of that Siva, having attained to the position of the General of [your] forces, would loosen the [single] braids of hair of the captive celestial damsels by the glorious manifestations of [his] prowess.
- 62:—Having thus addressed the gods, the Source of the universe [that is, Brahmadeva] vanished. Those gods also repaired to heaven with [their] duty impressed upon [their] mind.

१ मतिवयुद्विम्

द्वितीयः सर्गः

33

तत्र निश्चित्य कन्द्र्पमगमत्पाकशासनः। मनसा कार्यसंसिद्धौ त्वराद्विगुणरंहसा॥ ६३॥

CONSTRUE: तत्र निश्चित्य पाकशासनः कार्यसंसिद्धौ त्वराद्विगुणरंहसा मनसा कन्दर्भम् अगमत् ।

अथ स लिलतयोषिद्भूलताचारुगृङ्गं रतिवलयपदाङ्के चापमासज्य कण्ठे। सहचरमधुहस्तन्यस्तचूताङ्करास्त्रः शतमखसुपतस्थे पाञ्जलिः पुष्पधन्वा॥ ६४॥

CONSTRUE: अथ सः पुष्पधन्या छिलतयोषिद्श्रूलताचीरुगृङ्गः चापं रतिवलय-पदाङ्के कण्ठे आसज्य सहचरमथुहस्तन्यस्तच्ताङ्करास्त्रः प्राङ्गिलः शतमखम् उपतस्थे।

इति महाकविश्रीकालिदासकृतौ कुमारसंभवे महाकाव्ये मदनागमनो नाम द्वितीयः सर्गः।

63:—There [in heaven] having come to a decision, the Chastiser of [the demon] Pāka [that is, Indra] reached Madana by [his] mind the speed of which was doubled owing to the haste for the accomplishment of the desired object.

64:—Immediately, that flower-bowed [god], with folded hands, waited upon Indra, having placed his bow, the tips of which were as charming as the creeper-like eye-brows of a graceful woman, on his neck which was marked with the form of the bracelets of Rati, with [his] missiles [in the form] of mango-sprouts deposited in the hands of [his] colleague Madhu [the spring].

Here ends the Second Canto, entitled 'The Arrival of Madana' in the great poem Kumārasambhava [The Birth of Kumāra], the composition of the great poet, the venerable Kālidāsa,

लोहव

: (बी

आपि

by men

ter

d to r the

also.

१ संतिद्धित्वरा

तृतीयः सर्गः

तस्मिनमधोनस्त्रिद्शान्विहाय सहस्रमक्ष्णां युगपत्पपात । प्रयोजनापेक्षितया प्रभूणां प्रायश्चलं गौरवमाश्रितेषु ॥ १ ॥

CONSTRUE: मघोनः अक्णां सहस्रं त्रिदशान् विहाय तिस्मन् युगपत् त्रायः प्रयोजनापेक्षितया प्रभूणाम् आश्रितेषु गौरवम् चलम् ।

स वासवेनासनसंनिक्वष्टमितो निषीदोति विसृष्टभूमिः। भर्तुः प्रसादं प्रतिनन्द्य सूर्घा वक्तुं मिथः प्राक्रमतैवमेनस् ॥ १

CONSTRUE: वासवेन आसनसंनिकृष्टम् इतः निषीद इति विस्रष्टभूमिः र प्रसादं मूर्प्रो प्रतिनन्दा एनं मिथः एवम् वक्तुं प्राक्रमत ।

आज्ञापय ज्ञातविशेष पुंसां लोकेषु यत्ते करणीयमस्ति । अनुग्रहं संस्मरणप्रवृत्तमिच्छामि संवर्धितमाज्ञया ते ॥ ३ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) पुंसां ज्ञातिविशेष, यत् ते लोकेषु करणीयम् अस्ति आज्ञापय; संस्मरणप्रवृत्तम् अनुप्रहं ते आज्ञया संवर्धितम् इच्छामि ।

1:—On him, the thousand eyes of Indra fell simulously, leaving the [other] gods; generally the dignity stiffness] of powerful masters with reference to their dants, is changed on account of [their] being desirous of at ing [or, expectancy for] an end in view.

2:—He, to whom a place had been pointed out, near own] seat by Indra, with [the words] 'take a seat here', ing respectfully acknowledged the favour of [his] master' [a bow by his] head, commenced to talk with him in printhus—

3:—[O] you who know the distinctive merits (visesally persons, command [me] what is to be done for you is [three] worlds. The favour initiated by [your] remember of me], I should like to be enhanced by your command.

१ निसृष्ट

केनाभ्यस्या पदकाङ्क्षिणा ते नितानतदीर्धेर्जानिता तपोभिः। यावद्भवत्याहितसायकस्य मत्कार्भुकस्यास्य निदेशवर्ती ॥ ४ ॥

CONSTRUE: (ते) पदकाङ्किणा केन नितान्तदीर्घेः तपोभिः ते अभ्यसूया जनिता ? यावत् (सः) आहितसायकस्य अस्य मत्कार्भुकस्य निदेशवर्ता भवति ।

असंमतः कस्तव मुक्तिमार्ग पुनर्भवक्केशभयात्प्रपन्नः । बद्धाश्चिरं तिष्ठतु सुन्दरीणामारेचितभ्रचतुरैः कटाक्षेः ॥ ५॥

CONSTRUE: तव असंमतः कः पुनर्भवह्नेज्ञभयात् मुक्तिमार्गे प्रपन्नः? (सः)
- भुन्दरीणाम् आरेचितभूचतुरैः कटाक्षैः चिरं वद्धः तिष्ठतु ।

11

गपत्

11 3

(मिः स

अस्ति simul gnity

eir d

of ac

near

re'

ster n pri

sesahl.

u in

embri d. अध्यापितस्योशनसापि नीति प्रयुक्तरागप्राणिधिर्द्धिषस्ते । कस्यार्थधर्मी वद् पीडयामि सिन्धोस्तटावीघ इव प्रवृद्धः ॥ ६॥

CONSTRUE: उज्ञनसा अपि नीतिम् अध्यापितस्य कस्य ते द्विषः अर्थधर्मी प्रयुक्तरागप्रणिधिः (अहम्) सिन्धोः तटौ प्रबुद्धः शोघः इव पीडयामि, वद ।

कामेकपत्नीव्रतदुःखशीलां लोलं मनश्चाष्ठतया प्रविष्टाम् । नितम्बिनीमिच्छासि मुक्तलज्जां कण्ठे स्वयंग्राहविषैक्तबाहुम्॥७॥

CONSTRUE : एकपरनीव्रतदुःखशीलां चारतया लेलिं मनः प्रविष्टां कां नितम्बिनीं मुक्तलज्जां कण्ठे स्वयंत्राहनिपक्तवाहुम् इच्छिसि ?

4:—By whom desirous of [winning] your post, has your jealousy been aroused by exceedingly long austerities? He would [in a moment] be subject to the commands of [that is, vanquished by] this bow of mine, which has an arrow fixed [upon it].

5:--Who, undesired by you, has taken to the path of salvation, through fear of the misery of re-birth? Let him remain long fettered down [to the Samsāra] by the side-glances charming on account of the dalliance of the eye-brows, of beautiful women.

6:-Say, of what enemy of yours, though taught [the science of] polity by Usanas himself, should I, employing love [or sensuality] as [my] messenger, obstruct Artha [material advancement] and Dharma [religious merit], like a flooded current of a river [its] two banks?

7:-What beautiful woman [lit. one having expansive hips] habituated to cause misery on account of [her keeping up

१ विलासे: २ पीड्यानि ३ निषक्त

कयासि कामिन्सुरैतापराधात् पौदानतः कोपनयावधृतः । तस्याः करिष्यामि दढानुतापं प्रवालशय्याशरणं शरीरम् ॥ ८॥

CONSTRUE । (हे) कामिन्, कोपनया कया पादानतः (त्वम्) सुरतापराधा अवधृतः असि ? तस्याः शरीरं दढानुतापं प्रवालशय्याशरणं करिष्यामि ।

प्रसीद विश्राम्यतु वीर वज्रं शरैर्मदीयैः कतमः सुरारिः। विभेतु मोघीकृतवाहुवीर्यः स्त्रीभ्योऽपि कोपस्फुरिताधराभ्यः॥ ९॥ अ

T

8

CONSTRUE: (हे) वीर, प्रसीद, वज्रं विश्राम्यतु, कतमः सुरारिः मदीयैः शौः मोचीकृतबाहुवीर्थः कोपस्फुरिताधराभ्यः स्त्रीभ्यः अपि विभेतु ?

तव प्रसादात्कुसुमायुधोऽपि सहायमेकं मधुमेव लब्ध्वा । कुर्या हरस्यापि पिनाकपाणेर्धेर्यच्युति के मम धन्विनोऽन्ये ॥ १०॥

CONSTRUE: तव प्रसादात् कुसुमायुधः अपि (अहम्) एकं मधुम् एव सहाबं रुक्ष्वा पिनाकपाणेः हरस्य अपि धैर्यच्युतिं कुर्याम्, अन्ये धन्विनः मम् के ।

the] vow of being a chaste wife [lit. one having a single husband], who has entered [that is, attracted] your unsteady mind owing to [her] beauty, do you wish to throw [her] arms round [your] neck of her own accord, throwing off [all sense of] shame?

8:—By what woman given to anger, [O you] gallant one, have you been spurned, [even though] fallen at her feet, on account of [your] crime in sexual enjoyment [of another]? I shall make her body full of deep torment and have a refuge of a bed of tender sprouts.

9:—Be pleased, [O] brave one; let the thunder-bolt take rest; what enemy of the gods, with the prowess of [his] arms rendered futile by my arrows, should fear even women whose lips are throbbing through anger?

10:—Through your grace, I, though possessed of flowers as weapons, having secured Madhu alone as [my] sole comrade, would cause the break-down of the firmness even of Hara with the Pināka bow in [his] hand. What [are] other archers before me?

१ सहसा २ वस्याः

अथोक्देशादवतार्य पादमाकान्तिसंभावितपादपीठः। संकल्पितार्थे विवृतात्मशक्तिमाखण्डलः काममिदं वभाषे॥ ११॥

CONSTRUE: अथ ऊरुदेशात् पादम् अवतार्य आकान्तिसंभावितपादपीठः आखण्डलः संकल्पितार्थे विद्यतात्मशर्वित कामम् इदं वभाषे ।

101

राधा

911

ः शरैः

8011

सहायं

ngle eady

rms

of]

one.

or 1?

uge

ake

ms.

OSB

OIS

de.

ith

ore

सर्व सखे त्वय्युपपन्नमेतहुभे ममास्त्रे कुलिशं भवांश्व । वज्रं तपोवीर्यमहत्सु कुण्टं त्वं सर्वतोगामि च साधकं च ॥ १२ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) सखे, एतत् सर्वे त्विय उपपन्नम्; कुलिशं भवान् च मम उमे अस्त्रे; वज्रं तपोविधिमहत्सु कुण्ठं त्वं सर्वतोगामि च साधकं च (अस्त्रम्)।

अवैमि ते सारमतः खलु त्वां कार्ये गुरुण्यात्मसमं नियोक्ष्ये । द्यादिश्यते भूधरतामवेक्ष्य कृष्णेन देहांद्रहनाय शेषः ॥ १३ ॥

CONSTRUE: (अहं) ते सारम् अवैभि, अतः खळु आत्मसमं त्वां गुरूणि कार्ये नियोक्ये; भूधरताम् अवेक्य कृष्णेन देहोद्वहनाय शेषः आदिस्यते ।

आशंसता वाणगतिं वृषाङ्के कार्थ त्वया नः प्रतिपन्नकरपम् । निवोध यज्ञांशभुजामिदानीभुन्नेद्विषामीप्सितमेतदेव ॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: वृषाङ्के वाणगतिम् आशंसता त्वया नः कार्यं प्रतिपन्नकश्पम् । इदानीम् उचैद्विपां यज्ञांशभुजाम् एतत् एव ईप्सितम् (इति) निवोध ।

11:—Then Indra, having taken [his] foot down from the region of the thigh, [and] honouring the foot-stool by placing [it upon it] spoke thus to Kāma who had laid bare his strength with respect to the object thought of.

12:—All this, [O] friend, is befitting [or capable of being done by] you. [There are only] two weapons of mine [on which I could put implicit trust],—the thunder-bolt and your worthy self; the thunder-bolt [is] blunt [that is, powerless] against [those] that are mighty on account of the power of [their] penance, while you [are a weapon] having access everywhere and accomplishing everything.

13:—I know [full well] [your] strength, and so indeed I shall be employing you [who are] like my own self, on a grave matter. Sesa [the Lord of the Nāgas] is directed by Viṣṇu to bear [his] body, on noticing [his] capability of holding the earth.

14:—In speaking of the course of [your] arrow towards Siva, our work has almost been accepted by you; know [then],

९ उच्चेस्तराम् २ मथमत्र

अमी हि वीर्यप्रभवं भवस्य जयाय सेनान्यसुशन्ति देवाः। स च त्वदेकेषुनिपातसाध्यो ब्रह्माङ्गभूबद्धाणि योजितात्मा ॥ १५ ॥

जाङ्क

वं कृती

ने चापे

एव; हु

objec

only as th

as th

of vi

Wh

done

is, i

are

[all ver

anv

not

CONSTRUE: अमी देवाः हि भवस्य वीर्यप्रभवं सेनान्यं जयाय उशन्ति, ब्रह्मा-क्रमूः ब्रह्मणि योजितारमा सः च त्वदेकेषुनिपातसाध्यः।

तस्मै हिमाद्रेः प्रयतां तनूजां यतात्मने रोचियतुं यतस्य । योषितसु तद्वीर्यनिषेकभूमिः सैव क्षमेत्यात्मभुवीपदिष्टम् ॥ १५ ॥

CONSTRUE: हिमादेः प्रयतां तन्जां यतात्मने तस्मै रोचियतुं यतस्य; योषित्सुः सा एव क्षमा तद्वीर्यनिषेकभूमिः इति आत्मभुवा उपिद्धम् ।

गुरोर्नियोगाच नगेन्द्रकन्या स्थाणुं तपस्यन्तमधित्यकायाम् । अन्वास्त इत्यप्सरसां मुखेभ्यः श्रुतं मया मत्त्रणिधिः स वर्गः ॥१७॥

CONSTRUE : नगेन्द्रकन्या च गुरोः नियोगात् अधित्यकायां तपस्यन्तं स्थाणुम् अन्वास्ते इति अन्यरसां मुखेभ्यः मया श्रुतम् , सः वर्गः मत्प्रणिधिः ।

it [is] just the desired object now of those who partake of a portion in the sacrifice [and] who have formidable enemies.

15:--For, these gods seek a commander for the army, sprung from the semen of Hara for [securing] victory [over Tāraka], and he [that is, Hara] from whose body Brahmadeva is produced [and] who has concentrated [his] mind [or self] on Brahman, can be managed [or secured] by the stroke of a single arrow of yours.

16:—Endeavour to make him, who has restrained [his] self, like the devoted daughter of Himālaya. Of [all] women, she alone [is] the fit place for the depositing of his semen—thus has been by the Self-born one [himself] declared.

17:—The daughter of the Lord of mountains, again, at the command of [her] father, is in attendance upon the Eternal one [that is, Siva] practising penance on the table-land [of the Himālaya]—so have I heard from the mouths of the celestial nymphs—that class [is] my spies [whose information is bound to be reliable].

१ हार्यो

तद्गच्छ सिद्धयै कुरु देवकार्यमर्थोऽयमर्थान्तरलभ्य एव । अपेक्षते प्रत्ययमुत्तमं त्वो बीजाङ्कुरः प्रागुद्यादिवाम्भः॥ १८॥

11

व्या-

त्सु

911

गुम्

a.

ıy,

rer

va lf]

a

s

n,

นร

in,

er~

he.

on

CONSTRUE: तत् सिद्धयै गच्छ, देवकार्यं कुरु, अर्थान्तरलभ्यः एव अयम् अर्थः जाङ्करः उदयात् प्राक् अम्भः इव त्वाम् उत्तमं प्रत्ययम् अपेक्षते ।

तिस्मन्सुराणां विजयाभ्युपाये तवैव नाम स्त्रगतिः कृती त्वम् । अप्यप्रासिद्धं यशसे हि पुंसामनन्यसाधारणमेव कर्म ॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: सुराणां विजयाभ्युपाये तिस्मन् तव एव नाम अस्त्रगितः, (अतः) इकृती; अप्रसिद्धम् अपि अनन्यसाधारणम् एव कर्म हि पुसां यशसे ।

सुराः समस्यर्थयितार एते कार्थ त्रयाणामपि विष्टवानाम् । चापेन त कर्म न चाति।हिंस्रमहो वैतासि स्पृहणीयवीर्यः ॥ २०॥

CONSTRUE: एते सुराः समस्यर्थयितारः, कार्थे त्रयाणाम् अपि विष्टपानाम्:

मधुश्र ते मन्मथ साहचर्यादसावनुक्तोऽपि सहाय एव । सभीरणश्चोदयिता भवेति व्यादिश्यते केन हुताशनस्य ॥ २१ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) मन्मथ, असौ मधुः च साहचर्यात् अनुक्तः अपि ते सहाँयः एवः हुताशनस्य चोदयिता भव इति समीरणः केन व्यादिश्यते ।

18:—Go then for the accomplishment [of the desired object]. Do the work of the gods. This object, which can be only secured by [taking the help of] another object expects you as the most important (uttama) cause [before its production] as the sprout of a seed [expects] water, before [its] coming out.

19:—In the case of him [that is, Śiva] [who is] the means of victory by the gods, [there is] indeed $(n\bar{a}ma)$ the scope of your missile alone; you are [thus] blessed; for, a deed which is] indeed not common to others [that is, which can be done only by a certain person], though not well-known [that is, insignificant] [is] to the glory of men.

20:—Here these gods [are your] suppliants; the work [you are asked to accomplish is] that of [that is, concerns] even [all] the three worlds; the action by your bow again, [is] not very destructive. Oh wonder! How you are possessed of an anviable prowess!

21:—[O] tormentor of the mind! And this Vasanta though not referred to [in so many words is] indeed [bound to be]

१ प्रत्ययमङ्गलदृष्ये २ यथा

तथिति शेषामिव भर्तुराज्ञामादाय सूर्ध्ना मदनः प्रतस्थे। पेरावतास्फालनकर्कशेन हस्तेन पस्पर्श तदङ्गामिन्दः॥ २१॥।

CONSTRUE: तथा इति भर्तुः शेषाम् इव आज्ञां सूर्श्री आदाय मदनः प्रतसे इन्द्रः ऐरावतास्फालनकर्कशेन हस्तेन तदङ्गं परपर्श ।

स माधवेना।भिमतेन सख्या रत्या च साराङ्गमनुप्रयातः। अङ्गव्ययपार्थितकर्मासिन्द्रिः स्थाण्वाश्रमं हैमवतं जगाम ॥ १३ ॥ 90

CONSTRUE: सः अभिमतेन सहया माधवेन रत्या च साशङ्कम् अनुप्रयाः अङ्गव्ययप्रार्थितकर्मीसिद्धिः हैमवतं स्थाण्वाश्रमं जगाम।

तस्मिन्वने संयमिनां मुनीनां तपःसमाधेः प्रतिकूछवर्तीः । संकल्पयोनेरभिमानभूतमात्मानमाधायः मधुर्जेज्यस्मे ॥ २८ ॥

CONSTRUE: तस्मिन् वने संयमिनां मुनीनां तपःसमाधेः प्रतिकृत्वर्ती मध् संकत्पयोनेः अभिमानभूतम् आत्मानम् आधाय जजूम्भे ।

कुबेर नाथां दिशमुण्णरहमी गन्तुं प्रवृत्ते समयं विलङ्घा । दिग्दक्षिणा गन्धवहं मुखेन व्यलीकनिःश्वासमियोत्ससर्ज ॥ २५॥

CONSTRUE: समग्रं विलङ्घ्य उष्णरस्मौ कुवेरनाथां दिशं गन्तुं प्रवृत्ते (सिती दक्षिणा दिक् मुखेन गन्धवहं व्यलीकनिःश्वासम् इव उत्ससर्ज । your helper through [inseparable] association. By whom is the wind directed [in words like] 'be the propeller of fire'?

- 22:—Having received the command of [his] master of [his] head like the garland [worn by a deity] with [the words] 'be it so,' Madana started; Indra touched his body [that is patted him on the back] by [his] hand rough owing to the stroking of Airāvata.
- 23:—He, followed by [his] favourite friend Vasanta and by Rati with apprehension, earnestly wishing for (prārthita) the accomplishment of his work [even] at the cost of [his] body, went to the hermitage of Śiva, on the Himālaya.
- 24:—In that forest [or grove], Madhu, [habituated to be] hostile to the concentration [of mind, required] of penance of the ascetics possessed of self-restraint, became increasingly manifest, putting on $(\bar{a}dh\bar{a}ya)$ his form [which was] an object of pride to the thought-born one [that is, Madana]:

25:—While the hot-rayed one [that is, the sun] began to go, out of (vilanghya) season, to the quarter of which Kubers

समाधि २ वृत्तिः ३ आदाय ४ कुबेरगुप्तां

असूत सद्यः कुसुमान्यशोकः स्कन्धात्प्रभृत्येव सपछवानि । पादेन नापेक्षत सुन्दरीणां संवर्कमाशिक्षितनूपुरेण ॥ २६ ॥

CONSTRUE: अशोकः स्कन्धात् प्रशति एव सप्रव्यानि कुसुमानि सद्यः अस्त, ज्युन्दरीणाम् आशिक्षितन्पुरेण पादेन संपर्के न अपैक्षत ।

सरुयुः प्रवालोद्गमचारुपत्रे नीते समाप्ति नवचूतवाणे । निवेशयामास मधुर्द्विरेफान् नामाक्षराणीव मनीभवस्य ॥ १७ ॥

CONSTRUE: मधुः समाप्तिं नीते प्रवास्त्रोह्रमचारुपत्रे नवचृतवाणे सख्युः मनो-सवस्य नामाक्षराणि इव द्विरेफान् निवेशयामास ।

वर्णप्रकर्षे सति कर्णिकारं हुनोति निर्गन्धतया स्म चेतः। प्राचेण सामग्रचिवधी गुणानां पराङ्कृती विश्वसृजः प्रवृत्तिः॥ २८॥

CONSTRUE: कर्णिकारं वर्णप्रकर्षे सित निर्गन्धतया चेतः दुनोति स्म ; प्रायेण गुणानां सामप्रचिविधौ विश्वसृजः प्रवृत्तिः पराङ्मुखी । is the lord [that is, the north], the southern direction sent forth fragrant breeze from [her] mouth as though it was a sigh due to anguish.

- 26:—The Aśoka immediately produced flowers together with sprouts, right up (eva) from the stem, did not wait for the contact by the feet of beautiful women, jingling around with anklets.
- 27:—On the arrow [in the form] of the fresh (nava) mangoblossom, with beautiful feathers [in the form] of the fresh sprouts, which was carried to completion, the Spring placed the bees, as though they were the syllables in the name of [his] friend, the mind-born one.
- 28:—Though there is an excess of colour [about it], the Karnikāra [flower] did distress the mind [of lovers] on account of [its] having no fragrance; generally, the tendency of the Creator of the universe [is] averse to manufacturing totality of merits [in a thing].

प्रतस्थे

नुप्रयात

ि मध

३५॥

(सित

is the er or

ords

o the nd by body,

o be ce of ingly bject

an to bera

३ सदाः

⁶

बालेन्दुवकाण्याविकारामावाद्वभुः पलाशान्यतिलोहितानि । सद्यो वसन्तेन समागतानां नखक्षतानीव वनस्थलीनाम् ॥ २९ ॥

CONSTRUE: अविकाशभावात् बालेन्दुवकाणि अतिलोहितानि पलाशानि सद्यः वसन्तेन समागतानां वनस्थलीनां नखक्षतानि इव वभुः।

लप्तद्विरेफाञ्जनभक्तिचित्रं मुखे मधुश्रीस्तिलकं प्रकाश्य । रागेण बालाकणकोमलेन चूतप्रवालोष्टमलंचकार ॥ ३०॥

CONSTRUE: मधुश्रीः लप्तद्विरेफाजनभक्तिचित्रं तिलकं मुखे। प्रकास्य बाला-रणकोमलेन रागेण चूतप्रवालोष्टम् अलंचकार ।

मुगाः प्रियालद्वममञ्जरीणां रजःकणैर्विञ्चतदृष्टिपाताः । महोद्धताः प्रत्यनिलं विचेर्व्यनस्थलीर्मम्रपत्रमोक्षाः ॥ ३१ ॥

CONSTRUE: प्रियालद्भममज्ञरीणां रजःकणैः विज्ञितदृष्टिपाताः मृगाः मदोद्धताः (सन्तः) मर्मरपत्रमोक्षाः वनस्थलीः प्रत्यनिलं विचेरः।

चूताङ्करास्वादकषायकण्ठः पुरुकोकिलो यन्मधुरं चुकूज । मनस्विनीमानविघातदक्षं तदेव जातं वचनं स्मरस्य ॥ ३१ ॥

CONSTRUE: चूताङ्कुरास्वादकपायकण्ठः पुरस्कोकिलः यत् मधुरं चुकूज तत एक स्मरस्य मनश्विनीमानविधातदक्षं वचनं जातम्।

- 29:—The extremely red Palāśa flowers, curved like the young [that is, crescent] moon, owing to the absence of [their] blossoming, shone like the nail-wounds [inflicted] on the Sylvan sites united with Spring that very moment.
- 30:—Vernal Beauty, displaying in the beginning [also, on her face] the Tilaka flower [also, the Tilaka mark on the fore-head], variegated (citra) on account of the lines [or portion] of collyrium [in the form] of bees sticking [to it], adorned [her] lip [in the form] of the mango-sprout by the redness [also, lac-dye] charming like the morning sun.
- 31:—The deer, whose course of sight was obstructed (vighnita) by the pollen-dust-particles of the clusters of blossoms of the Priyāla trees, furious through intoxication roamed against the wind, over the forest-sites where the fallen or, the falling of the leaves created a rustling noise.
- 32:—The sweet note which the male cuckoo produced with [its] throat, sweet-sounding (kaṣāya) by the tasting of the mango

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

रनसंस्त

ह्याङ्ग

काष्ट्राव

spro effic

> ornarușa oini beca

of f

[th bee cou

[h cou

ma

हिमद्यपायाद्विशदाधराणामापाण्डुरीभृतसुखच्छ्वीनाम् । स्वेदोक्रमः किंपुरुषाङ्गनानां चक्रे पदं पत्रविशेषकेषु ॥ ३३॥

तपरिवनः स्थाणुवनौकसस्तामाकालिकी वीक्ष्य मधुपवृत्तिम् । प्रयानसंस्तिम्भतविकियाणां कथंचिदीशा मनसां वस्तुः ॥ ३४ ॥

CONSTRUE: स्थाणवनीकसः तपस्विनः आकालिकी तां मधुप्रवृत्तिं वीक्ष्य प्रय-दनसंस्तम्भितविक्रियाणां मनसां कथिवत् ईशाः वभूष्यः ।

तं देशमारोपितपुष्पचापे रतिद्वितीये मदने प्रपन्ने ! काष्टागतस्त्रहरसातुविद्धं द्वन्द्वानि भावं क्रियया विवद्धः॥ ३५ ॥

CONSTRUE: आरोपितपुष्पचापे रतिद्वितीये मदने तं देशं प्रपन्ने (सति) दुन्द्वानि काष्टागतस्नेहरसानुविद्धं भावं कियया विवतः।

ri-

е

),

d

),.

d

d

n

be

0

sprouts—the same became Madana's word of command efficacious (dakṣa) in destroying the pride of proud women.

33:—The rise of perspiration gained a footing in the ornamental paintings [on the cheeks, breasts etc.] of Kimpurusa ladies, whose lower lips were clear [that is, free from any ointment, like the wax-salve] and the lustre of whose faces had become slightly yellowish-white, owing to the disappearance of frost.

34:—The ascetics, whose abode was the forest of Siva, [that is, who were staying in the same forest where Siva had been staying], on seeing that untimely display of Spring, could, somehow (kathamcit) be masters of [their] minds whose perturbations were stopped with great effort [by them].

35:—When Madana, with Rati as [his] second, who had a [his] flowery bow held in readiness, reached that region, the couples exhibited by [suitable] actions [their] desire [for sexual enjoyment], pervaded by the sentiment of love reaching [its] maximum.

मधु द्विरेफः कुसुमैकपात्रे पपौ त्रियां स्वामनुवर्तमानः। गृङ्गेण च स्पर्शनिमीलितार्शी मृगीमकण्ड्यत कृष्णसारः ॥ ३६॥

विन

काइ

कान

संस

dan

flox

of t

the obs

tho

of t

for

on

on

CONSTRUE: द्विरेफ: स्वां प्रियाम् अनुवर्तमान: कुषुमैकपात्रे मधु पपी; कृष्ण-सारः च स्पर्शनिमीलिताक्षीं मृगीं शृङ्गेण अकण्ड्यत ।

ददौ ैसरःपङ्कतरेणुगन्धि गजाय गण्डूषजलं कर्णुः। अर्धोपभुक्तेन विसेन जायां संभावयामास रथाङ्गनामा ॥ ३७॥

CONSTRUE: करेणुः सर:पङ्कजरेणुगन्ति राष्ट्रपजलं सजाय ददी; स्थाङ्गनामा अर्थे। पश्चेतन विसेन जायां संभावयामास ।

गीतान्तरेषु श्रमवारिलेशैः किञ्चित्समुच्छ्वासितपत्रलेखम् । पुष्पासव वृणितनेत्रशोभं प्रियासुखं किंपुरुषश्चुचुँग्व ॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: श्रमवारिलेशैः किंचित्समुच्छ्वासितपत्रलेखं पुष्पासवाघूर्णितनेत्रशोभं ंप्रियामुखं किंपुरुषः गीतान्तरेषु चुचुम्व।

पर्याप्तपुष्पस्तवकस्तनाभ्यः स्फुरत्प्रवालोष्टमनोहराभ्यः। लतावधूभ्यस्तरवोऽप्यवापुर्विनम्रशाखाभुजबन्धनानि ॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE : तरवः अपि पर्याप्तपुष्पस्तवकस्तनाभ्यः स्फुरत्प्रवालोष्टमनोहराभ्यः लतावधूम्यः विनम्रशाखासुजबन्धनानि अवापुः ।

36: The male bee, following [his] beloved, drank honey from the same flower-vessel; and the black spotted antelope scratched with [his] horn, [his] mate who had closed [her] eyes [owing to excess of joy] at the touch,

37:—The she-elephant gave to the elephant a mouthful of water fragrant with the pollen of lotuses in the lake; the Cakravāka male honoured [his.] mate with a lotus-stalk half [or, partly] eaten up.

38:—In the intervals of singing, the Kimpurusa kissed the face of [his] beloved, the ornamental designs on which were 3 little disfigured (samucchvāsita) by the drops of perspiration [and] which possessed the beauty of the eyes reeling [that is, moving tremulously] owing to [that is, under the influence of] to liquor from [or, fragrant with] flowers.

39: Even trees secured embraces (bandhanam) by [their] arms [in the form] of the stooping branches, from the creeper-

९ रसात्पङ्कज २ ...पयुक्तेन

वतीयः सर्गः

84

श्रुताप्सरोगीतिरपि क्षणेऽस्मिन्हरः प्रसंख्यानपरो बभूव। आत्मेश्वराणां न हि जातु विद्वाः समाधिभेद्प्रभवा भवन्ति ॥ ४० ॥

CONSTRUE: अस्मिन् क्षणे हरः श्रुताप्सरोगीतिः अपि प्रसंख्यानपरः वस्त्रः विद्याः हि आत्मेश्वराणां समाधिभेदप्रभवाः न जातु भवन्ति ।

लतागृहद्वारगतोऽथ नन्दी वामप्रकोष्टापितहेमवेत्रः। मुखार्पितैकाङ्गुछिसंज्ञयैव मा चापलायेति गणान् व्यनैषीत्॥ ४१ 🎼

CONSTRUE: अथ ठतागृहद्वारगतः वामप्रकोष्ठार्पितहेमवेत्रः नन्दी मुखार्पितै-काङ्गिलसंज्ञया एव गणान् मा चापलाय इति व्यनेषीत् ।

निष्कम्पवृक्षं निभृतद्विरेफं सूकाण्डजं शान्तसृगप्रचारम्। तच्छासनात्काननभेव सर्व चित्रार्पितारम्भामेवावतस्थे॥ ४१॥

CONSTRUE: निष्कम्पवृक्षं निभृतद्विरेफं मूकाण्डजं शान्तमृगप्रचारं सर्वम् एव काननं तच्छासनात् चित्रापितारम्भम् इव अवतस्थे।

दृष्टिप्रपातं परिहृत्य तस्य कामः पुरः शुक्रमिव प्रतस्थे। पान्तेषु संसक्तनमेरुशाखं ध्यानास्पदं भूतपतेविवेश ॥ ४३ ॥

CONSTRUE: प्रयाणे पुरः छकम् इव तस्य दृष्टिप्रपातं परिहृत्य कामः प्रान्तेषु संसक्तनमहशाखं भूतपतेः ध्यानामपढं विवेश ।

damsels having breasts [in the form] of the full clusters of flowers, [and] charming on account of the lips [in the form] of the shining sprouts.

- 40 :- At this moment, Siva, though he heard the songs of the Apsarases became intent on spiritual meditation. obstacles indeed are not able to disturb the concentration of those who are masters of their own selves.
- 41:—Then Nandin who had taken his po sition at the door of the creeper-bower, with the golden staff placed on [his] left fore-arm, enjoined, by a mere sign by placing a single finger on his mouth, the Ganas, not to be inconsiderate.'
- 42 :-- At his command, the whole forest even, with the trees not shaking, with the bees motionless, with the egg-born [birds etc. struck] dumb, with the movements of the beasts of learnest of learnest like a scene drawn in a picture.
 - 43 :- Avoiding the range of his sight, like Venus in front on a journey, Madana entered the place of meditation of the क्रहण.

11

ञोभं

(1+य:

ney

lope

yes

1 of

the half

the re a ion

is,

eir

er-

१ तारण्यमिया

स देवदारुद्धमवेदिकायां शार्दूलचर्मव्यवधानवत्याम् । आसीनमासन्नशरीरपातस्त्रियम्बकं संयमिनं ददर्श ॥ ८८ ॥

CONSTRUE: आसनशारीरपातः सः शार्द्रलचर्मन्यवधानवत्यां देवदारुद्वम्

कायाम् आसीनं संयमिनं त्रियम्बकं ददर्शे । पर्यङ्कवन्धस्थिरपूर्वकायमृज्वायतं संनमितोभयांसम् । उत्तानपाणिद्वयसंनिवेशात्त्रफुळुराजीवमिवाङ्कमध्ये ॥ ४५ ॥

CONSTRUE: पर्यङ्कवन्धास्थरपूर्वकायम् ऋज्वायतं संनमितोभयांसम् ज गाणिद्वयसंनिवेशात् अङ्कमध्ये प्रफुहराजीवम् इव (स्थितम्)।

भुजङ्गमोन्नद्धजटाकलापं कर्णावसक्ताद्विगुणाक्षस्त्रम् । कण्ठप्रभासङ्गविशेषनीलां कृष्णत्वचं यान्थिमतीं द्धानम् ॥ ४६

CONSTRUE: भुजङ्गमोन्नद्धजटाकलापं कर्णावसक्तद्विगुणाक्षसूत्रं कण्ठप्रभाः विशेषनीलां प्रन्थिमतीं कृष्णत्वचं द्धानम् ।

र्किचित्पकाशास्तिमितोयतारैर्भूविकियायां विरतप्रसङ्गेः। नेत्रेरविस्पन्दितपक्ष्ममालैर्लक्ष्यीकृतघाणमधोमयुखैः॥ ४७॥

CONSTRUE: किंचित्प्रकाशिस्तिमितोग्रतारैः भ्रूविकियायां विरतप्रसङ्गैः व स्पन्दितपश्ममालैः अधोमयूखैः नेत्रैः लक्ष्योकृतप्राणम् ।

Lord of creatures, which had the branches of the Nameru [trintermixed on | its] skirts.

44:—He, whose fall [that is, destruction] of the body near, saw the self-restrained three-eyed one, sitting on an a under a Devadāru tree, having a covering of a tiger's skin,

45:—[Him] whose fore-part of the body was steady erect] owing to the Paryanka posture [or, the tying of Yogapatṭaka], who was straight and extensive, whose shoulders were well bent up, and who had as it were a f blossomed lotus in [his] lap owing to the placing of the pai hands [on the lap] turned up [that is, with the concave surupward];

46:—whose mass of matted hair was tied up by a serf whose two-fold string of beads was stuck to the ear [and] was wearing a black deer's skin having a knot, which particularly black owing to [its] association with the lustraliable his] throat;

47:—who had made the sense of smell [on the tip of mose] the target by his eyes, with their rays shot] downward.

१ भ भ्यङ् २ मृगत्व बं

अवृष्टिसंरम्भिमवाम्बुवाहमपामिवाधारमनुत्तरङ्गम् । अन्तश्चराणां मकतां निरोधाचिवातानिष्करपमिव प्रदीपम् ॥ ४८ ॥

CONSTRUE: अन्तश्रराणां मस्तां निरोधात् अवृष्टिसंरम्भम् अम्बुवाहम् इव' अनुत्तरङ्गम् अपाम् आधारम् इव, निवातनिष्क्रम्पं प्रदीपम् इव (स्थितम्)।

रिद्रमवे

188

ठप्रभा

है: व

a [tri

ody

an al

cin.

eady

g of

ose

a I e pai

e sur

SOI

nd]

hich

lustr

ip of

WnW

कपालनेत्रान्तरलब्धमार्गेज्योतिःपरोहैकदितैः शिरस्तः। मृणालस्त्राधिकसौकुमौर्या बालस्य लक्ष्मी ग्लपयन्तमिन्दोः॥४९॥

CONSTRUE : कपालनेत्रान्तरलब्धमार्गेः शिरस्तः उदितैः ज्योतिःप्ररोहैः वालस्य इन्दोः मृणालसृत्राधिकसौकुमार्यो लक्ष्मीं ग्लपयन्तम् ।

मनो नवहारनिषिद्धवृत्ति हृदि व्यवस्थाप्य समाधिवश्यम्। यमक्षरं क्षेत्रविदेशे विदुस्तमात्मानमात्मन्यवलोकयन्तम्॥ ५०॥

CONSTRUE : नवद्वारिनिषिद्धग्रत्ति समाधिवस्यं मनः हृदि व्यवस्थाप्य क्षेत्रविदः यम अक्षरं विदुः तम् आत्मानम् आत्मनि अवलोकयन्तम् ।

स्मरस्तथाभ्तमयुग्मनेत्रं पश्यन्नदूरान्मनसाप्यधृष्यम् । नालक्षयत्साध्यससन्नहस्तः स्नस्तं शरं चापमपि स्वहस्तात्॥५१॥

CONSTRUE : तथाभूतं मनसा अपि अधृध्यम् अयुग्मनेत्रम् अदूरात् पञ्चन् स्मरः साध्वससन्नहस्तः स्वहस्तात् स्नस्तं शरं चापम् अपि न अलक्षयत्। whose fierce pupils were shining slightly and were steady, whose function (prasamgah) with the knitting of the eye-brows had ceased [and] whose eye-lashes had become quite motionless;

48:—who, owing to the restraint of the [five] winds moving within, [was] like a cloud not possessed of the tumult of showers, like a store of water with no waves tossed up, like a lamp not flickering, being in a place free from wind;

49:—who, by means of shoots of light rising from the head [and] finding their way through the eye-hollows of the skull, was as it were obscuring the young [that is, crescent] moon's beauty possessed of more tenderness than [that of] a lotus-stalk-fibre];

50:—beholding in [his] self the self, whom those who know the [proper nature of] Ksetra, having firmly placed in the heart the mind whose course is warded off from the nine doors, [and] which is controlled by meditation, know to be the Imperishable.

51:—Beholding at no distance, the three-eyed God in that state, unassailable even by the mind, Madana with [his] hands

१ सीकुमार्यान् बालस्य रश्मीन् २ वेद्विदे।

निर्वाणभूयिष्टमथास्य वीर्य सम्धुक्षयन्तीव वपुर्गुणेन । अनुप्रयाता वनदेवताभ्यामहस्यत स्थावरराजकन्या ॥ ५२ ॥

CONSTRUE: अथ अस्य निर्वाणभ्यिष्टं वीर्यं वपुर्युणेन सन्धुक्षयन्ती इव वन-देवताभ्याम् अनुप्रयाता स्थावरराजकन्या अद्दयत ।

र्हा

च

थृत

wh

[t] thi

wa

ho

thi

Tar

rod

his

COI

des

[ar

अशोकनिर्मरिस्तपद्मरागसाकुष्टहेमद्युतिकार्णकारम्। मुक्ताकलापीकृतासिन्दुवारं वसन्तपुष्पाभरणं वहन्ती ॥ ५३ ॥

CONSTRUE: अशोकनिर्भार्तितपद्मरागम् आकृष्टहेमद्यातिकर्णिकारं मुक्ताकलापी-कृतिसन्द्वारं वसन्तपुष्पाभरणं वहन्ती ।

आवर्जिता किंचिदिव स्तनाभ्यां वासो वसाना तरुणार्करागम्। पैर्याप्तपुष्पस्तवकावनम्रा संचारिणी पँहविनी छतेव ॥ ५८ ॥

CONSTRUE: स्तनाभ्यां किंचित् इव आवर्षिता तरुणार्करागं वासः वसाना पर्याप्तपुष्पस्तवकावनम्रा पल्लविनी संचारिणी लता इव (स्थिता)।

स्रस्तां नितम्बादवलाश्वमाना पुनः पुनः केसरदामकाञ्चीम्। न्यासीकृतां स्थानविदा स्मरेण मी भी द्वितीयामिव कार्मुकस्य ॥५५॥

CONSTRUE: स्थानविदा स्मरेण न्यासीकृतां कार्मकस्य द्वितीयां मौर्वीम इव (स्थितां) नितम्बात् सस्तां केसरदामकाश्ची पुनः पुनः अवलम्बमाना ।

drooping [or, paralysed] through fear, did not notice the arrow or even the bow slipped from his hand.

- 52:-At this stage (atha) was seen the daughter of the lord of mountains, followed by two sylvan deities, enkindling as it were, by the excellence of [her] body, his spirit which had almost been extinguished,
- 53: -wearing ornaments of flowers of spring, where the rubies were treated with contempt by the Asoka flowers, the Karnikāra flowers had surpassed the splendour of gold [and] the Sinduyāra flowers had been formed into a necklace:
- 54: just slightly bent down (āvarjitā) by [her] breasts, [and] wearing a garment possessed of a redness like [that of the morning (taruna) sun, [looking] like a moving creeper the possessed of sprouts [and] slightly bent down by bunches of wit abundant (paryāpta) flowers;
- 55: -supporting again and again [by her hand] the girdle of the wreath of Bakula flowers, slipping down [her] buttocks,

१ आरुष्ट २ सुजातपुष्प ३ पछविता 🕆 ... द्वरोपयन्ती ५ द्वितीयमीवीमिव

सुगान्धिनिश्वासाविवृद्धतृष्णं विम्वाधरासक्षचरं द्विरेफस् । प्रतिक्षणं संभ्रमलोलहाष्टिलीलारविन्देन निवारयन्ती ॥ ५६ ॥

CONSTRUE: सुगन्धिनिश्वासिवृद्धतृष्णं विम्धाधरासन्नचरं द्विरेफं संभ्रमलोल-दृष्टिः लीलारविन्देन प्रतिक्षणं निवारयन्ती ।

तां वीक्ष्य सर्वावयवानवद्यां रतेरापि हीपदैमादधानाम्। जितेन्द्रिये श्रुलिनि पुष्पचापः स्वकार्यासिद्धि पुनराशशंसे ॥ ५७॥

CONSTRUE: सर्वावयवानवद्यां रतेः अपि हीपदम् आद्धानां तां वीक्य पुष्प-चापः जितीन्द्रिये स्त्रिनि स्वकार्यसिद्धि पुनः आज्ञान्ते ।

भविष्यतः पत्युरुमा च शम्भोः समाससाद प्रतिहारभूमिम । योगात्स चान्तः परमात्मसंज्ञं हृष्ट्वा परं ज्योतिरुपारराम ॥.५८॥

CONSTRUE: भविष्यतः पत्युः शंभोः प्रतिहारभूमिम् उमा च समाससाद, सः च परमात्मसंज्ञं परं ज्योतिः अन्तः हङ्घा योगात् उपारराम ।

ततो अजङ्गाधिपतेः फ्रशाभिरधः कथित्रद् घृतभूभिभागः। रानैः कृतपाणविमुक्तिरीशः पर्यङ्कवन्धं निविडं विभेद्॥ ५९॥

CONSTRUE: ततः शनैः ऋतप्राणिवसुक्तिः सजङ्गाधिपतेः फणाभिः कथित्रत् अधः श्वतभूमिभागः ईशः निविडं पर्यङ्कवन्धं विभेद । which was as it were the second string to [his] bow, deposited [there] by Madana who knew the [right] place [to deposit such things];

56:—who, with [her] sight tremulous owing to confusion. was warding off every moment by [her] pleasure-lotus the bee hovering in the vicinity of [her] Bimba-like lip, with [its] thirst enhanced owing to [her] inviting (su) fragrant breath.

57:—Beholding her [who was] faultless in all [her] limbs, [and] producing a state of shame even for Rati, the flower-bowed [God] hoped once more, for the accomplishment of his object, with respect to the God with the trident, who had conquered [that is, controlled] [his] sense-organs.

58:—The moment Umā reached the region of the door [of the bower] of Śiva, her would-be husband, he, having beheld within [himself] the Highest Light called the Supreme Souldesisted from contemplation (yogah).

59:—Then the Lord, who slowly released the vital airs, [and] the region of earth below whom was with great difficulty

7

वन-

रापी-

सान

الهم

इव

WOI

the ling

had

the

the

the.

of

per rdle

cks,

व

१ हीतिमिव द्धानाम् २ पुष्पकेतुः ३ आशशंस ४ फणाग्रेरधः

तस्मै शशंस प्रणिपत्य नन्ही शुश्रूषया शैलसुतासुपेताम् ॥ प्रवेशयामास च मर्तुरेनां स्रूक्षेपमात्रानुमतप्रवेशाम् ॥ ६० ॥

CONSTRUE: तस्मै प्रणिपत्य नन्दी ग्रश्रूषया उपेतां शैलसुतां शशंस, भर्तुः अक्षेपमात्रानुमतप्रवेशाम् एनां प्रवेशयामास च ।

तस्याः सखीभ्यां प्रणिपत्यं पूर्वं स्वहस्तलूनः शिशिरात्ययस्य । व्यकीर्यत व्यम्बकपादमूले पुष्पोच्चयः पलवभङ्गाभेनः ॥ ६१ ॥

CONSTRUE: पूर्वे तस्याः सर्खाभ्यां प्रणिपत्य स्वहस्तलून; पह्रवभङ्गभिनः शिशिरात्ययस्य पुष्पोचयः त्र्यम्बकपादमूले व्यकीर्यत ।

उमापि नीलालकमध्यशोभि विस्नसयन्ती नवकर्णिकारम् । चकार कर्णच्युतपल्लवेन सूर्ध्ना प्रणामं वृषभध्वजास्र ॥ ६२ ॥

CONSTRUE: नीलालकमध्यशोभि नवकर्णिकारं विसंसयन्ती उमा अपि कर्ण च्युतपहन्नेन मूर्भा वृषभध्यजाय प्रणामं चकार।

अनन्यभाजं पतिमाप्नुहीति सा[े]तध्यमेवाभिहिता भवेन । न हीश्वरच्याहृतयः कदाचित्पुष्णन्ति लोके विपरीतमर्थम् ॥ ६३ ॥

CONSTRUE : अनन्यभाजं पतिम् आग्तुहि इति भवेन सा तश्यम् एव अभिहिता ईश्वरच्याहृतयः लोके कदाचित् (अपि) विपरीतम् अर्थे न हि पुष्णन्ति ।

(kathamcit) held by the hoods of the lord of serpents, broke [that is, relaxed] the stiff Paryanka posture.

- 60:—Nandin, bowing down to him, informed [him] of the daughter of the mountain having arrived for attendance [upon him] and ushered her in, whose entrance was allowed [or agreed to] by just the knitting of the eye-brow of [his] master
- 61:—First, after bowing down, by her two friends was scattered at the region of the feet of the three-eyed God, a collection of flowers plucked by their own hands, belonging to the spring season (sisirātyayah) and mixed (bhinna) with bit of sprouts.
- 62:—Umā also made a bow to the God whose sign is bull, with [her] head from which the sprout [worn as at ear-ornament] had slipped [from its proper place] from the ear loosening [or, dropping] up the fresh Karnikāra [flower] looking graceful in the midst of [her] dark [curly] hair.

t

n

T

63:— Obtain a husband not taking to another [that is solely devoted to you] — thus was she quite truly spoken to be

१ प्रणियातपूर्व २ भन्यमेवा

कामस्तु बाणावसरं प्रतीक्ष्य पतङ्गवद्वद्विसुखं विविक्षः। उमासमक्षं हरबद्धलक्षः शरासनज्यां सुहुराममर्श ॥ ६८ ॥

CONSTRUE: कामः तु वाणावसरं प्रतीक्ष्य पतङ्गवत् थह्निमुखं विविक्षः हरबद्ध-रुक्षः उमासमक्षं शरासनज्यां मुहुः आममर्शे ।

अथोपनिन्ये गिरिशाय गौरी तपस्विने ताम्रहचा करेण। विशोषितां भानुमतो मयूखैर्मन्दाकिनीपुष्करवीजमालाम् ॥ ६५॥

CONSTRUE: अथ गौरी तपस्विने गिरिशाय ताम्रहचा करेण भानुमतः मयूखैः विशोषितां मन्दाकिनीपुष्करवीजमालाम् उपनिन्ये।

प्रतियहीतुं प्रणियियत्वात्त्रिलोचनस्तामुपचक्रमे च। संमोहनं नाम च पुष्पघन्वा धनुष्यमोघं समधत्त सायकम् ॥ ६६॥

CONSTRUE: प्रणयिप्रियत्वात् त्रिलोचनः तां प्रतिप्रहीतुम् उपचक्रमे च पुष्प-धन्वा संमोहनं नाम अमोधं सायकम् धनुषि समधत्त च।

हरस्तु किंचित्परिलुप्तधेर्यश्चन्द्रोदयारम्भ इवाम्बुराज्ञिः। उमासुखे विम्वफलाधरोष्ठे व्यापारयामास विलोचनानि॥ ६७॥

CONSTRUE: चन्द्रोदयारम्भे अम्बुराश्चिः इव किंचित्परिल्जप्तधैर्यः हरः तु विम्बफलाधरोष्टे उमामुखे विलोचनानि व्यापारयामास।

Siva. For, the words of the Lord do never support a different [or, contradictory] meaning in the world.

- 64:—Madana, on his part (tu), waiting for an opportunity for [shooting his] arrow, desirous of entering the mouth of fire, like a moth, again and again touched the string of [his] bow, in the presence of Umā, his gaze fixed [all the while] on Hara.
- 65:—Then Gauri, with [her] ruddy hand, presented to the ascetic Siva, a rosary of seeds of lotuses in the celestial Ganges, dried up by the rays of the sun.
- 66:—The moment, the three-eyed God, on account of the suppliants being dear [to him], proceeded to accept it [that is, the Bījamālā], the flower-bowed one fixed on [his] bow the never-failing arrow known as Sammohana.
- 67:—Siva, on his part (tu), with [his] firmness gone down [just] a bit, like an ocean at the commencement of the moon's rise, employed [all his three] eyes with [that is, in looking at] the face of Umā, with a Bimba fruit-like lower lip.

, भर्तुः

1

हिमन्नः

कर्ण

3 11

महिता:

broke

of the

upor

aster

W85

od. i ng to

h bit

n is i

s al

e ear

100k

at is to by

or,

१ लक्षः २ बाणम्

विवृण्वती देशस्तापि भावमङ्गैः स्फुरद्वालकद्म्बकत्पेः। साचीकृता चारतरेण तस्थौ मुखेन पर्यस्तविलोचनेन ॥ ६८॥

CONSTRUE: शैलसता अपि स्फुरद्वालकदम्बक्हपैः अङ्गैः भावं विशृण्वती साची-कृता चारुतरेण पर्यस्तविलोचनेन मुखेन (उपलक्षिता सती) तस्थी।

अथेन्द्रियक्षोभम्युग्मनेत्रः पुनर्वशित्वाद्वलविष्णृह्य । हेतुं स्वचेतोविकृतेर्दिहशुर्दिशासुपान्तेषु ससर्ज दृष्टिम् ॥ ६९ ॥

CONSTRUE: अथ अयुग्मनेत्रः वशित्वात् इन्द्रियक्षोभं पुनः वलवत् निगृह्य स्वचेतोविकृतेः हेतुं दिदश्चः दिशाम् उपान्तेषु दृष्टिं ससर्जं।

स दक्षिणापाङ्गानिविष्टमुष्टिं नतांसमाकुञ्जितसेव्यपादम् । दद्री चक्रीकृतचारुचापं प्रहर्तुमभ्युद्यतमात्मयोनिम् ॥ ७० ॥

CONSTRUE: सः दक्षिणापाङ्गनिविष्टमुष्टिं नतांसम् आकुञ्चितसन्यपादं चक्री-कृतचारुचापं प्रहर्तुम् अभ्युद्यतम् आत्मयोनिं ददर्श ।

तपःपरामर्शाविवृद्धमन्योर्भूभङ्गदुष्प्रेक्ष्यमुखस्य तस्य। स्फुरन्तुर्द्धिः सहसा तृतीयादक्षणः कृशानुः किल निष्पपात ॥ ७१॥

CONSTRUE: तपःपरामर्शविशृद्धमन्योः भ्रूमङ्गदुःश्रेक्ष्यमुखस्य तस्य तृतीयात् अक्ष्णः स्फुरन् उदार्चिः क्रुशानुः सहसा निष्पपात किल ।

- 68:—The daughter of the mountain also, betraying [her] feeling [of love] with [her] limbs resembling a blooming (sphurat) young Kadamba tree, stood with [her] face turned obliquely, which had the eyes moving tremulcusly (paryasta) [and which was] all the more charming.
- 69:—Then the three-eyed God, owing to [his] being possessed of self-control (vasitvāt) forcibly curbing again the agitation of the senses, shot a glance at the skirts of the quarters, desirous of seeing the cause of the perturbation of his mind.

I

a

i

- 70:—He saw the self-born one [that is, Madana] who had his fist placed at the corner of the right eye, whose [right] shoulder was bent, whose left leg was contracted [that is slightly bent], whose charming bow was made into a circle [that is, fully stretched] [and] who had become quite ready to strike.
- 71:—All of a sudden came forth, it is reported, a shining fire with flames rising up, from the third eye of him whose

१ कुचत् २ सव्यजानुम्

क्रीयं प्रमो संहर संहरेति यावाद्गरः खे मस्तां चरन्ति । तावत्स वह्मिवनेत्र बन्मा भस्मावशेषं मदनं चकार ॥ ७२ ॥

गची-

नेगृह्य

चक्री॰

9१॥ तीयाद

her]

rned

asta)

sess.

esir-

had ght] t is,

that rike.

ning

hose

CONSTRUE: (हे) प्रभो, क्रोधं संहर संहर इति महतां गिरः यावत् खे चरन्ति सावत् भवनेत्रजन्मा सः विद्विः मदनं भरमावशेषं चकार ।

तीव्राभिषङ्गप्रभवेण वृत्तिं मोहेन संस्तम्भयतेन्द्रियाणाम् । अज्ञातमर्तृन्यसना मुहूर्तं कृतीपकारेव रतिर्वभूव ॥ ७३ ॥

CONSTRUE: तीवाभिषङ्गप्रभवेण इन्द्रियाणां वृत्तिं संस्तम्भयता मोहेन मुहूर्त रितः अज्ञातमर्तृत्यसना कृतोपकारा इव वसूव ।

तमाशु विश्नं तपसस्तपस्वी वनस्पति वज्र इवावेभज्य । स्त्रीसंनिकर्षं परिहर्तु।मेच्छन्नन्तर्देधे भूतपातिः सभूतः॥ ७८॥

CONSTRUE: तपसः तं विद्यम् वर्जः वनस्पतिम् इव आशु अवभज्य तपस्वी भूतपतिः स्त्रीसंनिकर्षे परिहर्तुम् इच्छन् समृतः अन्तर्देघे । anger had been heightened [or, increased] by the outrage (parāmarśah) on [his] penance [and] whose face could be beheld with great difficulty [that is, was too dreadful to be beheld] owing to the knitting of the eye-brows.

72:—While the words '[O] mighty Lord, restrain [your] anger, restrain [it]' of the gods proceeded in the sky, the same moment that fire arising from the [third] eye of Siva reduced Madana to ashes [lit. made Madana have only ashes remaining of him].

73:—By the swoon, arising from the great discomfiture [or, terrible calamity] [and] paralysing the functions of the senses, was as it were obliged for a time Rati who was not aware of the peril [that is, death] of [her] husband.

74:—The Lord of creatures [that is, Siva] who always indulged in penance (tapasvin), having quickly smashed that obstacle to [his] penance, like the thunder-bolt a tree, wishing to avoid the contact [or, presence] of women, disappeared, along with [his] hosts.

१ कोपम् २ इवावरूज्य

कुमारसंभवम्

रै।लात्मजापि पितुकाच्छिरसोऽभिलाषं व्यर्थं समर्थ्यं लिलतं वपुरात्मनश्च । सख्योः समक्षामिति चाधिकजातलज्जा शून्या जगाम भवनाभिमुखी कथाश्चित् ॥ ७५ ॥

CONSTRUE: शैलात्मजा अपि उच्छिरसः पितुः अभिलाषम् आत्मनः ललितं वषुः च व्यर्थे समर्थ्ये सख्योः समक्षम् इति च अधिकजातलञ्जा श्रून्या कथित्रत् भवनाभिमुखी जगाम ।

Я

त

के

b

W

a

n

0 tì

g

h

सपि मुक्कालेताक्षीं बदसरम्भभीत्या दुहितरमनुकम्प्यामिदरादाय द्वोभ्याम् । सुरगज इव बिभ्नत्पिद्यानीं दन्तलय्नां मितपथगतिरासीद्वेगदीर्घीकृताङ्कः ॥ ७६॥

CONSTRUE: दन्तलमां पश्चिनी विभ्रत् सुरगजः इव अदिः स्द्रसंरम्भभीत्या मुकुलिताक्षीम् अनुकम्प्यां दुहितरं सपदि दोभ्याम् आदाय वेगदीधीकृताङ्गः (सन्) प्रतिपथगतिः आसीत्।

हित महाकविश्रीकालिदासकृतौ कुमारसंभवे महाकाद्ये मद्नदहनो नाम वृतीयः सर्गः ।

75:—The daughter of the mountain also, ascertaining the desire of [her] exalted [also, possessed of high peaks] father and her own charming body to be serving no purpose, and ashamed all the more that [it had taken place] in the presence of [her] two friends, repaired, absent-minded, with great difficulty, facing towards [her] home.

76:—Like a celestial elephant bearing a lotus-plant stuck to [his] tusks, the mountain [Himālaya] immediately taking in [his] arms [his] daughter who had closed [her] eyes through fear of the wrath of Rudra, [and] who was deserving of pity, went his way back [lit. had his movement directed towards the way he came], with [his] body stretched forth through speed.

Here ends the Third Canto entitled 'The Burning of Madana' in the great poem Kumārsambhava [The Birth of Kumāra], the composition of the great poet, the vonerable Kālidāsa.

१ समीक्ष २ दीर्घीकतामः

चतुर्थः सर्गः

अथ मोहपरायणा सती विवशा कामवधूर्विबोधिता। विधिना प्रतिपाद्यिष्यता नववैधन्यमसह्यवेदनम् ॥ १ ॥

CONSTRUE: अथ मोद्वपरायणा विवशा सती कामवध् असहावेदनं नववैधव्यं श्रीतपादियिष्यता विधिना विवोधिता।

अवधानपरे चकार सा प्रलयान्तोन्मिषिते विलोचने । न विवेद तयोरतृप्तयोः प्रियमत्यन्तिविलुप्तदर्शनम् ॥ १ ॥

CONSTRUE: सा प्रलयान्तोन्मिषिते विलोचने अवधानपरे चकार, अतृप्तयो तयोः प्रियम् अत्यन्तविलुप्तदर्शनं न विवेद ।

आयि जीवितनाथ जीवसीत्यभिधायोत्थितया तया पुरः। दहरो पुरुषाकृति क्षितौ हरकोपानलभस्म केवलम्॥ ३॥

CONSTRUE: अयि जीवितनाथ, जीविस इति अभिधाय उत्थितया तया पुरः केवलं पुरुषाकृति हरकोपानलभस्म क्षितौ दहरो।

अथ सा पुनरेव विव्हला वसुधालिङ्गनधूसरस्तनी। विललाप विकीर्णमूर्धजा समदुःखामिव कुर्वती स्थलीम्।

CCNSTRUE: अथः पुनः एव विह्वला सा वसुधालिङ्गनधूसरस्तनी विकीर्णमूर्धजा स्थलीं समदुःखाम् कुर्वती इव विललाप।

1:—Then, the wife of Kāma, [that is, Rati], who was not mistress of herself, being dependent upon [that is, overpowered by] the swoon, was brought [back] to consciousness by Fate wishing to cause her experience fresh widow-hood of unbearable agony.

2:—She made [her] eyes opened at the end of the swoon (pralayah) quite attentive [to see her lord]; she [however] did not know the dear one of [her] unsatiated eyes, as one who was entirely [or, for ever] lost to view.

3:—'O dear lord of [my] life! You are alive'—uttering these words [lit. thus], by her rising up, was seen on the ground in front mere ashes due to the fire of the wrath of Hara, having the form of a man.

4:—She then, distressed once again, lamented [Madana's loss] with [her] breasts dusty owing to rolling (ālingana) on the

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

लेतं खी

त्या ।न्)

ng her

IH.

nd. nce eat

ick ing igh ity,

the of

the

उपमानमभूद्विलासिनां करणं यत्तव कान्तिर्मत्तया । तिद्दं गतभीदशीं दशां न विदीर्थे कठिनाः खलु स्त्रियः॥ ५॥

CONSTRUE: यत् तव करणं कान्तिमत्तया विलासिनाम् उपमानम् अभूत् तत् इदम् ईट्शों दशां गतम्, न विदीर्ये, स्त्रियः कठिनाः खल्ज ।

अं

वि

व्

C

fa

0

1

V

r

[]

h

h

I

b

t

क्क नु मां त्वद्धीनजीवितां विनिकीर्य क्षणभिन्नसिंहदः। निलनीं क्षतसेतुबन्धनो जलसङ्घात इवासि विद्वतः॥ ६॥

CONSTRUE : क्षतसेतुवन्धनः जलसङ्घातः नलिनीम् इव क्षणभिन्नसौहृदः त्वद्धीन-जीवितां मा विनिकार्ये क नु विद्रुतः असि ?

कृतवानसि विभियं न मे प्रतिकुलं न च ते मया कृतम्। किमकारणमेव दर्शनं विलयन्तयै रतये न दीयते॥ ७॥

CONSTRUE: (त्वं) में विष्रियं कृतवान् न असि, मया च ते प्रतिकृतं न कृतम्, विलपन्त्ये रतये किम् अकारणम् एवं दर्शनं न दीयते ?

स्मरिस स्मर मेखलागुणैकत गोत्रस्वलितेषु बन्धनम् । च्युतकेसरदूषितेक्षणान्यवतंसीत्पलताडनानि वा ॥ ८॥ CONSTRUE: (हे) स्मर, गोत्रस्खिलतेषु मेखलागुणैः वन्धनम् उत, च्युतकेसर भ्दूषितेक्षणानि अवतंसोत्पलताडनानि वा स्मरसि (किम्)?

ground, with the hair [all] dishevelled, [and] making the [whole forest-] site as it were a co-sufferer.

5:—That body (karanam) of yours, which on account of [its] being possessed of lustre [or, loveliness] was the standard of comparison for handsome lovers—here has it been reduced to such a [miserable] state, [and still] I am not rent as under surely women [are proverbially] tough!

6:—Where indeed have you bolted away, breaking off [all ties of] affection in a trice, having thrown me whose life is [entirely] dependent on you, overboard, like a mass of water with the construction of dam destroyed, scattering away the lotus-plant?

7:—You have not done anything disagreeable to me, nor has anything against you been done by me; [such being the case] why indeed, without any reason, do you not show yourself to Rati who is lamenting?

8:—[O] Madana! do you remember either the binding by the strings of the girdle in [cases of] blunderings in names [that is,

हृद्ये वससीति मत्प्रियं यद्वीचस्तद्वैमि केतवम् । उपचारपदं न चेदिदं त्वमनङ्गः कथमक्षता रतिः ॥ ९॥

CONSTRUE: (त्वं) हृद्ये वससि इति मित्रियं यत् अवोचः तत् कैतवस् अवैमि; इदम् उपचारपदं न चेत् त्वस् अनङ्गः कथम् अक्षता रितः ?

परलोकनवभवासिनः प्रतिपत्स्ये पदवीमहं तव । विधिना जन एष विश्वतस्त्वदधीनं खलु देहिनां सुखम् ॥ १० ॥

CONSTRUE: परलोकनवप्रवासिनः तव पदवीम् अहं प्रतिपत्स्ये; एषः जन विधिना विश्वतः, देहिनां सुखं खळु त्वदधीनम् ।

रजनीतिभिरावगुण्ठिते पुरमार्गे घनशब्दविक्रवाः। वसर्ति त्रियं कामिनां त्रियास्त्वद्दते प्रापयितुं क ईश्वरः॥ ११॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) प्रिय, रजनीतिमिरावगुण्ठिते पुरमार्गे घनशब्दविक्कवाः प्रियाः कामिनां वसतिं प्रापयितुं त्वत् ऋते कः ईश्वरः ?

नयनान्यक्णानि घूर्णयन् वचनानि स्खलयन् पदे पदे । असाति त्विय वाकणीमदः प्रमदानामधुना विडम्बना ॥ १२ ॥

CONSTRUE: अरुणानि नयनानि घूर्णयन् पदे पर्वे वचनानि स्खलयन् प्रमदानां चारुणीमदः त्विय असति अधुना विडम्बना । calling me by the name of some other lady who had taken your fancy for the time being] or the strokes by the lotus used as an ear-ornament, in [administering] which the eyes were soiled by the filaments dropped down?

- 9:—'You stay in [my] heart'—this [so] agreeable to me, which you spoke, I [now] know that to be [prompted by mere] roguery. If this [was] not a mere complimentary expression [not to be taken seriously] how [is it that] Rati [is quite] unhurt, while you [have become] bodiless?
- 10:—I would follow the foot-steps [or, track] of you who have travelled over recently to the other world; this person [that is, I] has been [indeed] deceived by Fate; the happiness of embodied beings [solely rests] indeed with you!
- 11:—[O] dear one, who excepting you is able to take the beloved damsels to the residence of [their] lovers, distressed at the thunder, along the street in the city, veiled by the darkness of the night?
- 12:—The intoxication of young ladies, caused by wine, causing the reddish eyes to roll about, [and] causing the words

8

र् तत्

दधीन-

व्लं न

केसर

the

nt of

dard

luced

ider i

[all fe is vater

the

nor

the

our-

v the

t is,

अवगम्य कथीकृतं त्रपुः प्रियवन्धोस्तव निष्फलोदयः। बहुलेऽपि गते निशाकरस्तनुतां दुःखमनङ्ग मोक्ष्यति॥ १३॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) अनङ्ग, प्रियवन्धोः तव वपुः कथीकृतम् अवगम्य निशाक्तं निष्फलोदयः (सन्) बहुले गते अपि तनुतां दुःखं मोक्ष्यति ।

तानि

प्रसा

तम्

दिवि

acc

wit

me

bel

on

of

lef

wh

ex

is,

Tes

ga

हरितारुणचारुबन्धनः कलपुंस्कोकिलशब्दस्युचितः। वद् संप्रति कस्य बाणतां नवचूतप्रसवो गमिष्यति॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: हरितारणचारबन्धनः कलपुंस्कोकिलशब्दसूचितः नवचूतप्रसदः कस्य बाणतां संप्रति गमिष्यति, वद ।

अलिपङ्क्तिरनेकशस्त्वया गुणकृत्ये धनुषो नियोजिता। विषतैः कर्षणस्वनैरियं गुरुशोकामनुरोदितीव माम्॥ १५॥

CONSTRUE: त्वया अनेकशः धनुषः गुणकृत्ये नियोजिता इयम् अलिपङ्क्ति करुणस्वनैः विस्तैः गुरुशोकां माम् अनुरोदिति इव ।

प्रतिपद्य मनोहरं वपुः पुनरप्यादिश तावदुत्थितः । रातिदृतिपदेषु कोकिलां मधुरालापनिसर्गपण्डिताम् ॥ १६ ॥

CONSTRUE: मनोहरं वपुः पुनः अपि प्रतिपद्य तावत् उत्थितः मधुरालापनिसर्ग-पण्डितां कोकिलां रतिद्तिपदेषु तावत् आदिशः। to falter at every step, when you are no more, [would] now [be a matter for] ridicule, [or, senseless imitation].

13:—[O] bodiless one! Knowing the body of you, [his] dear friend, to have become a matter of history, the maker of night [that is, the moon.] whose rise has [now] become fruitless, would with great pain give up his thinness [that is, wax] even when the dark half of the fort-night has passed.

14:—Say of whom now would the fresh mange-sprout attain to the state of an arrow, with a charming green-red stalk [and] indicated by the sweet notes of the male Kokila bird?

15:—This row of bees which has been many a time used by you for the purpose of [your] bow-string, is, as it were lamenting with me whose grief is heavy, with the hummings' the notes of which are piteous!

16:—Assuming again an attractive frame and rising up, just direct to the posts of female love-messengers, the female Kokila naturally learned in [sending forth] sweet notes.

१ करुणस्वरे २ दूनपदेषु ३ कोकिलान्...पण्डितान्

शिरसा प्रणिपत्य याचितान्युपगूढानि सवेपथूनि च। सुरतानि च तानि ते रहः स्मर संस्मृत्य न शान्तिरस्ति मे॥ १७॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) स्मर, शिरसा प्रणिपत्य याचितानि सवेपथुनि उपगूढानि च

राचितं रातिपाण्डित त्वया स्वयमङ्गेषु ममेदमार्तवम् । धियते कुसुमप्रसाधनं तव तच्चारु वपुर्न दृश्यते ॥ १८ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) रतिषण्डित, त्वया मम अङ्गष्ठ स्वयं रचितम् आर्तवं कुसुम प्रसाधनम् इदं ध्रियतः; तव तत् चारु वपुः न दृश्यते।

विबुधैरासे यस्य दारुणैरसमाप्ते परिकर्मणि स्मृतः। तमिमं कुरु दक्षिणेतरं चरणं निर्मितरागमेहि मे॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: यस्य परिकर्मणि असमाप्ते (सित) दारुणैः विबुधैः स्मृतः असि तम् इमं दक्षिणेतरं मे चरणं निर्मितरागं कुरु, एहि ।

अहमेत्य पतङ्गवर्त्मना पुनरङ्गाश्रयिणी भवामि ते। चतुरैः सुरकामिनीजनैः प्रिय यावन्न विलोभ्यसे दिवि॥ २०॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) प्रिय, पतङ्गवत्मंना एत्य अहं पुनः ते अङ्काश्रयिणी भवामिः दिवि चतुरैः सुरकामिनीजनैः यावत् न विलोभ्यसे।

- 17:—[O] Madana! remembering the [fast] embraces accompanied by tremor begged of [by you] by bowing downwith [your] head and those [never-to-be-forgotten] love-enjoyments with you in private, there is no peace [of mind] for me.
- 18:—[O] you expert in love! here this flower-decoration belonging to the [vernal] season, arranged by you personally on my limbs, does exist [even now]; but that charming body of yours is not [to be] seen!
- 19:—Put on paint on this other-than-the-right [that is, left] foot of mine, at the non-completion of the decoration of which, you had been remembered by the terrible gods [who are extremely wise]; come along.
- 20:—Coming over [to you] by the way of the moth [that is, by throwing myself into fire], [O] dear one, I shall be again resorting to your lap, before you are lured away by the clever galaxy of celestial damsels in heaven.

नशाकर

तप्रसद

ङ्क्ति

निसर्गv [be

dear night

even stalk?

used were ings'

g up,

१ रिष चत्सुदारुणे २ तिद्दं ३ मत्य में

कुमारसंभवम्

मद्नेन विनाकृता रातिः क्षणमात्रं किल जीथितेति मे । वचनीयमिदं व्यवस्थितं रमण त्वामनुयामि यद्यपि ॥ २१ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) रमण, यदि अपि त्वाम् अनुयामि, मदनेन विनाकृता रि क्षणमात्रं जीविता किल इति इदं वचनीयं मे व्यवस्थितम्।

क्रियतां कथमन्त्यमण्डनं परेलोकान्तरितस्य ते मगा। सममेव गतोऽस्यतर्कितां गतिमङ्गेन च जीवितेन च॥ ११॥ रतिम

नस्य

कि

अन

[h

he

gr

V

th

tb

is

CONSTRUE: परलोकान्तरितस्य ते मया अन्त्यमण्डनं कथं कियताम्, अङ्गे च जीवितेन च समम् एव अतर्कितां गीतं गतः असि ।

ऋजुतां नयतः स्मरामि ते शरमुत्सङ्गनिषण्णधन्यनः। मधुना सह सस्मितां कथां नयनीपान्तविलोकितं च तर्त्॥ १३॥

CONSTRUE: उत्सङ्गानेषण्णधन्यनः शरम् ऋजुतां नयतः ते मधुना सह सिस्मि कथां तत् नयनोपान्तविलोक्षितं च (अहं) स्मरामि ।

क नु ते हृदयंगमः सखा कुसुमायोजितकार्मुको मधुः। न खल्चमरुषा पिनाकिना गमितः सोऽपि सुहृद्गतां गतिम् ॥ २४॥

CONSTRUE: कुसुमायोजितकार्मुकः ते हृदयंगमः सखा मधुः क नु ? सः अर्थे उत्रह्मा पिनाकिना सुहृद्रतां गतिं न गमितः खळु ।

21:—[O] lover, even if I [would] follow you [in death now], the reproach that 'Rati, bereft of Madana, was indeed alive though for a moment 'has become quite permanent [o] has been indelibly fixed] in my case (me).

22:—Of you who are screened [from me] by the other world, how can the last [that is, funeral] decoration be made by me? You have gone a course which nobody can define [or guess] simultaneously together with [your] body and life.

23:—[How] I remember the conversation accompanied by smile, with Vasanta, of you straightening up the arrow, with the bow placed on [your] lap, as also that [your bewitching] glance from the corner of the eye [at me].

24:—Where indeed [is] Vasanta, your bosom-friend who prepared [your] bow with flowers? I hope, he too is not reduced to the state undergone by [his] friend, by the Pināka-bearer [that is, Siva] whose wrath is terrible.

९ जीवतीति २ पग्छोकल्बुरिनस्य ३ स्वयमेव ४ यत

अथ तेः परिदेविताक्षरैर्ह्हदये दिग्धशैरैरिवाहतः । रतिमभ्युपपत्तुमातुरां मधुरात्मानमदर्शयत्पुरः ॥ २५ ॥

ता रहि

, अहेर

43 11

सस्मि

11 89

सः अति

death

ndeel

[01

other made

e [01 e.

ed by

with

ning

1 who

duced

earer

CONSTRUE: अथ तैः परिदेविताक्षरैः दिग्धशरैः इव हृदये आहतः मधः आतुर्ि रितम् अभ्युपपत्तुम् आत्मानं पुरः अदर्शयत् ।

तमवेक्ष्य रुरोद सा भृशं स्तनसंवाधसुरो जघान च। स्वजनस्य हि दुःखमयतो विवृतद्वारमिवोपजायते॥ १६॥

CONSTRUE: तम् अवेक्ष्य सा भृशं हरोद, उरः स्तनसंवाधम् जघान चः स्वज-नस्य अम्रतः हि दुःखं विदृतद्वारम् इव उपजायते ।

इति चैनमुवाच दुःखिता सहदः पश्य वसन्त कि स्थितस्। तदिदं कणशो विकीर्यते पवनेर्भस्म कपोतकर्बुरम्॥ १७॥

CONSTRUE: दुःखिता (सा) एनम् इति उवाच च (हे) वसन्त, पस्य सुहृदः कि स्थितम्, तत् इदं कपोतकर्वुरं भस्म पवनैः कणशः विकीर्यते।

अयि संप्रति देहि दर्शनं स्मर पर्युत्सुक एष माधवः। दियतास्वनवस्थितं नृणां न खलु प्रेम चलं सुहुज्जने॥ २८॥

CONSTRUE: अयि स्मर, संप्रति दर्शनं देहि, एषः माधवः पर्युत्सुकः; दियतासुः अनवस्थितं नृणां प्रेम सुद्धुज्जने न चलं खल्छ ।

- 25:—Then struck all over at the heart by those words of [her] lamentation as though by poisoned arrows, Vasanta showed himself in front to console the afflicted Rati.
- 26:—On beholding him, she wept all the more and beat her bosom [violently] so as to cause pain to the breasts. For, grief, before [one's] relatives, is produced as though [its] gates are thrown open.
- 27:—And she [very much] afflicted, said to him:—[O] Vasanta, look [here], what has remained of [your] friend! And those ashes [again] whitish (karbura) like the pigeon are being scattered in particles by the breezes!
- 28:—[O] dear Madana! vouchsafe [your] sight now. Here this Vasanta [is] very anxious [to see you]. Men's love, which is not constant in [the case of their] beloveds [is] surely not changing in the case of friends.

१ फले २ खिार्षित:, खिनार्दित: ३ सहदम्

असना नन् पार्श्ववर्तिना जगदाज्ञां ससुरासुरं तव। बिसतन्तुगुणस्य कारितं धनुषः पेलवपुष्पपात्रिणः ॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: ननु पार्श्ववर्तिना अमुना ससुरासुरं जगत् तव विसतन्तुगुः 'येलवपुष्पात्रिणः धनुषः आज्ञां कारितम् ।

> गत एव न ते निवर्तते स सखा दीप इवानिलाहतः। अहमस्य दशेव पश्य मामविषह्यव्यसनेन धूमिताम् ॥ ३० ॥

प्रि

नव

सं

U

तं

h

i

ì

0

h

i

-9

f

1

V

h

CONSTRUE: सः ते सखा अनिलाहतः दीपः इव गतः एव, नं निवर्तते, अ अस्य दशा इव, अविषद्यव्यसनेन धूमितां मां पश्य ।

विधिना कृतमधेवैशसं ननु मां कामवधे विमुखता । · अनुपायिनि संश्रयद्वमे गजभन्ने पतनाय वहुरी ॥ ३१ ॥

CONSTRUE : कामवधे मां विमुखता विधिना अर्थवैशसं ननु कृतम्; अनपार्धि संश्रयद्रमे गजभन्ने (सति) वल्लरी पतनाय (कल्पते)।

तिददं कियतामनन्तरं भवता वन्धुजनप्रयोजनम्। विधुरां ज्वलनातिसर्जनान्न ने मां प्रापय पत्युरन्तिकम् ॥ ३२ ॥ CONSTRUE: तत् इदं बन्धुजनप्रयोजनं भवता अनन्तरं कियताम् ; ननु विश्

मां ज्वलनातिसर्जनात् पत्यः अन्तिकं प्रापय ।

29:—I say, by this [Vasanta] who used to be [always] I your] side, the [whole] world together with the gods and the demons was subjected to the command of your bow with the delicate flowers as arrows and fibres of lotus-stalks as the [bow-] string.

30:—That [famous] friend of yours [is] indeed gone [fo ever] and would not return like a lamp put out by the wind. am like the wick of this [lamp]. Behold me possessing the smoke of [or, rendered smoky] by unbearable grief.

31 :—In leaving me [scot-free] while murdering Kāma, say, [but] half the destruction has been wrought by Fate when the tree of resort which was [deemed to be] safe ha been broken by an elephant, the creeper is sure to fall dowl I or, is destined for falling].

32: Let then this good turn (prayojanam) to a relative be done by you immediately (anantaram); I say, do take m extremely afflicted, to [lit. the vicinity of] [my] husband

by consigning me to the fire.

33:—With the moon goes the moon-light; with the cloud is dissolved the lightning; that ladies follow the path of [their]

१ व्यसनप्रधिताम् २ मर्जनादन । शाशिना सह याति की सुदी सह मेघेन तांडित्मलीयते । प्रमदाः पतिवर्त्मगा इति प्रातिपन्नं हि विचेतैनरपि ॥ ३३ ॥

CONSTRUE: कौमुदी शशिना सह याति. तिडत् मेघेन सह प्रकीयतेः प्रमदाः पतिवरमेगाः इति विचेतनैः अपि प्रतिपन्नं हि ।

असुनैव कषायितस्तनी सुभगेन प्रियगात्रभस्मना । नवप्रत्वसंस्तरे यथा रचयिष्यामि तनुं विभावसौ ॥ ३८ ॥

CONSTRUE : अमुना स्रभगेन प्रियगात्रभस्मना एव कषायितस्तनी विभावसौ नवपश्चवसंस्तरे यथा तत्तुं रचियध्यामि ।

कुसुमास्तरणे सहायतां बहुज्ञाः सौम्य गतस्त्वमावयोः । कुरु संप्रति तावदाञ्च मे प्रणिपाताञ्जलियाचितश्चिताम् ॥ ३५ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) सौम्य, त्वम् कुसुमास्तरणे बहुशः आवयोः सहायतां गतः, संप्रति तावत् प्रणिपाताञ्जलियाचितः (सन्) चिताम् मे आञ्च कुरु ।

तदनु ज्वलनं मद्धितं हैवरयेदेक्षिणवातवीजनैः। विदितं खलु ते यथा स्मरः क्षणमण्युत्सहते न मां विनी ॥ ३६ ॥

CONSTRUE: तद्नु मदर्पितं ज्वलनं दक्षिणवातवीजनैः त्वरयेः, मां विना यथा स्मरः क्षणम् अपि न उत्सहते (तथा) ते खल्ल विदितम् ।

इति चापि विधाय दीयतां सिंछिलस्याञ्चलिरेक एव नौ । अविभज्य पर्त्र तं भया सिंहतः पास्यति ते सै बान्धवः ॥ ३७ ॥

CONSTRUE: अपि च इति विधाय एकः एव सिल्लस्य अङ्गलिः नौ दीयताम्, तं सः ते वान्धवः प्रत्र मया सिहतः अविभज्य पास्यति । husbands is thus indeed admitted [or, understood] even by inanimate objects.

34:—With [my] breasts besmeared with these very charming ashes of the body of [my] beloved, I shall place [my] body on the fire, as on a bed of fresh sprouts.

35:—Many a time, have you, [O] gentle one, rendered help in [the preparation of] a bed of flowers for us two; now indeed, begged of with folded hands in salutation, prepare quickly the funeral pyre for me.

36:—After that, quicken up the fire placed on me by the fannings with the southern breezes. You know full well (khalu) how Madana does not feel at ease even for a moment without me.

37:—And again, having done this, let even a single handful of [the libation of] water be offered to us both [by

🤋 पृथग्ननेरपि २ विनिपाताञ्जलियाचिता 🤰 ज्वलचे 🕆 मार्हिना ५ तन्

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

तन्तुगुक

॥ ।ते. अः

रनपाविं

२ ॥ तु विश्व

ys]b and th ith th as th e [fo ind.

ma, Fate e ha dowl

ative ke m

oud is

कुमारसंभवम्

परलोकविधी च माधव स्मर्ग्याद्दिश्य विलोलप्रहवाः। निवपेः सहकारमञ्जरीः प्रियचूतप्रसवो हि ते क्लाखा ॥ ३८॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) माधव, परलोकविधो च स्मरम् उद्दिस्य विलोलपह्नवाः सहकारमञ्जरीः निवपः, ते सखा हि प्रियचूतप्रसवः।

इति देहिविसुक्तये स्थितां रितमाकाशभवा सरस्वती। राफरीं हदशोषविक्रवां प्रथमा वृष्टिरिवान्वकम्पयत् ॥ ३९ ॥

CONSTRUE: इति देहविमुक्तये स्थितां रितम् आकाशभवा सरस्वती हृदशोष-विक्ठवां शफरीं प्रथमा गृष्टिः इव अन्वकम्पयत् ।

कुसुमायुधपतिन दुर्लभस्तव भर्ता न चिराद्धविष्यति । गृणु येन स कर्मणा गतः शलभत्वं हरलोचनाधिषि ॥ ४० ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) कुन्तुमायुवपत्नि, तव भर्ता विरात् दुर्लभः न भविष्यति, येन कर्मणा सः हरलोचनार्विषि शलभत्वम् गतः (तत् कर्म) शृणु ।

अभिलाषसुदीरितोन्द्रयः स्वसुतायामकरोत्पजापतिः। अथ तेन निगृह्य विक्रियामाभिशतः फलमेतदन्वभूत्॥ ४१॥

CONSTRUE: उदीरितेन्द्रियः प्रजापितः स्वस्ततायाम् अभिलाषम् अकरोत्. अय तेन विक्रियां निगृह्य अभिशप्तः (मद्मः) एतत् फलम् अन्वभूत् ।

you]; that [well-known] friend of yours would drink it undivided in the other world along with me.

38:—And in the matter of rites of [that is, performed with reference to those who have gone to] the other world, [O] Vasanta, you should offer as a funeral offering the clusters of mango-blossoms with the waving sprouts, with reference to Madana. For, your friend [was one who held] the mango-produce dear.

39:—A voice emanating from the sky took pity on [that is, favoured] Rati who had been thus poised to abandon [her] body, as the first shower [of rain from the sky] pities the Saphari [fish] distressed by the drying up of the pond.

40:—[O] wife of Madana! your husband would not be long difficult to be secured [by you]. Listen to by what deed [of the eye of Hara.

41:—The Lord of creatures [Brahmadeva], with his senses impelled [that is, passion excited, by Madana] entertained

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

अमृत

सखः

पीतज

[an] [tha

ed to rest

utte selflan

unio futu

the e

१ स्थिराम् २ विव्हलाम् ३ अन्वकम्पत

परिणेष्यति पार्वतीं यदा तपसा तत्प्रवणीकृतो हरः। उपलब्धसुखस्तदा स्मरं वपुषा स्वेन नियोजायिष्यति ॥ ४२॥

CONSTRUE: तपसा तत्प्रवणीकृतः हरः यदा पार्वेतीं परिणेष्यति तदा उपलब्ध-सुखः (सः) सारं स्वेन वपुषा नियोजयिष्यति ।

इति चाह स धर्मयाचितः स्मरशापावधिदार सरस्वतीम् । अशनेरमृतस्य चोभयोर्वशिनश्चाम्बुधराश्च योनयः ॥ ४३ ॥

पह्नवाः

दशोष-

, येन

अय

un-

ned

O]
s of

e to go-

is,

ari

be

of

of

es ed: CONSTRUE: धर्मयाचितः सः इति च स्मरशापावधिदां सरस्वतीम् आहः अशनेः अमृतस्य च उभयोः विश्वानः च अम्बुधराः च योनयः।

तिद्दं परिरक्ष शोभने भवितन्यिपयसङ्गमं वपुः। रविपीतजला तपात्यये पुनरोघेन हि युज्यतं नही ॥ ४८॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) शोभने, तत् इदं भवितव्यप्रियसङ्गमं वपुः परिरक्षः रवि-पीतजला नदी हि तपात्यये पुनः ओधेन युज्यते ।

[an incestuous] desire for his [own] daughter; cursed by him [that is, Brahmadeva] also, restraining his change of feeling, he experienced this fruit [thereof].

42:—When Siva would marry Pārvatī, favourably disposed to her owing to her penance, then [he], feeling at ease, would restore his body to Kāma.

43:—Thus he, begged of by Dharma [the father of Kāma] uttered the speech giving the limit of the curse on Smara. The self-restrained ones and clouds [are] the sources of both Aśani [anger, thunderbolt] and Amrta [favour, water].

44:—So, [O] good lady! preserve properly this body whose union with [your] dear [husband] is [bound] to happen [in the future]; for, a river with [her] waters drunk by [that is, evalurated owing to] the sun, is again united with the current at the end of the hot season [that is, in the autumn].

^९ समग्रियव्यति २ शापान्तभवाम् ३ अपि

कुमारसंभवम्

इत्थं रतेः किमपि भूतमदृश्यक्षपं मन्शेचकार मरणव्यवसायबुद्धिम्। तत्प्रत्ययाच कुसमायुधवन्धुरेना— माश्वासयरसुचारतार्थपदैर्धचोभिः॥ ४५॥

CONSTRUE: इत्थं अदृश्यरूपं किम् अपि भूतं रतेः मरणव्यवसायबुद्धं मन्दीः चकार, तत्प्रत्ययात् च कुम्रुमायुधवन्धः एनां सुचिरतार्थपदैः वचोभिः आश्वासयत् ।

अथ मद्नवधूरुपष्ठवान्तं व्यसनकृता प्रतिपालयाम्बभूव । राशिन इव दिवातनस्य लेखा किरणपरिक्षयधूसरा प्रदोषम् ॥ ४६॥

CONSTRUE : अथ व्यसनकृशा मदनवधृ: उपष्ठवान्तं किरणपरिक्षयधृसा दिवातनस्य शशिन: लेखा प्रदोषम् इव प्रतिपालयाम्यभूव ।

इति महाकविश्रोकालिदासकृतौ कुमारसंभवे महाकाव्ये रतिविलापो नाम चतुर्थः सर्गः।

45:—In this way, some unknown [or indescribable] creature of invisible form made Rati's intention with [its] resolve for death dull [that is, less intense]; and owing to [his] confidence in [the words of] that [creature], the friend of Madana comforted her with speech, the words in which were quite significant

4

i

ba

p ati

P

h

46:—Then the wife of Madana, emaciated with grief, awaited the end of her calamity, as the digit of the moon at day time, dusty [that is, pale] owing to the loss [or obscuration of its rays [by the sun] awaits the [advent of] the fore-part of the night.

Here ends the Fourth Conto, entitled 'The Lamentation of Rati' is the great poem Kumārasambhava [The Birth of Kumāra], the composition of the great poet, the venerable Kālidāsa.

तमिनृद्धासी

पञ्चमः सर्गः

मन्दी

1 88 1

तयभूसा

ो नाम

Crea'

ve for dence

com

icant

wait

day-

ation

-part

i ' io

ition

तथा समक्षं दहता मनोभवं पिनाकिना भग्नमनोरंथा सती। निनिन्द रूपं हृद्येन पार्वती प्रियेषु सौभाग्यफळा हि चारुता ॥१।। CONSTRUE: तथा समक्षं मनोभवं दहता पिनाकिना भग्नमनोरथा सती पार्वती क्षं हृदयेन निनिन्द, चारता हि प्रियेषु सौभाग्यफळा।

इयेष सा कर्तुमवन्ध्यरूपतां समाधिमास्थाय तपोभिरात्मनः। अवाप्यते वा कथमनयथा द्वयं तथाविधं प्रेम पातिश्च ताह्याः।।१॥ CONSTRUE: सा समाधिम् आस्थाय तपोभिः आत्मनः अवन्ध्यरूपतां कर्तुम् इथेप, अन्यथा तथाविधं प्रेम ताहशः पतिः च (इति एतत्) द्वयं कथं वा अवाप्यते।

निशस्य चैनां तपसे कृतोद्यमां सुतां गिरीशप्रतिसक्तमानसाम् । उवाच मेना परिरम्य वक्षसा निवारयन्ती महतो मुनिव्रतात् ॥॥॥

CONSTRUE: गिरीशप्रतिसक्तमानसां तपसे कृतोद्यमाम् एनां सुतां च निशस्य मेना वक्षसा परिरभ्य महतः मुनिव्रतातः निवारयन्ती (एनाम्) उवाच ।

मनीषितायार्च गृहेषु देवतास्तपः क्व वत्से क्व च तावकं वपुः। पदं सहेत अमरस्य पेलवं शिरीष्पुष्पं न पुनः पतित्रणः॥ ४॥

CONSTRUE: मनीिषताय गृहेषु देवताः अर्च, (हे) वत्से, क तपः क च तावकं वषुः, पेलवं शिरीषपुष्पं भ्रमरस्य पदं सहेत पतात्रिणः (पदं) पुनः न ।

1.—Pārvatī, who had [her] hopes frustrated by Śiva burning Madana in that manner in [her very] presence, blamed [her] beauty in [her] mind; for, beauty has attraction for the lovers as [its] fruit [that is, beauty can claim to have achieved its purpose, only if the lover thinks highly of it].

2:—She wished to make her beauty fruitful by means of austerities, resorting to concentration; or, how else could the two things be obtained—that sort of [unparalleled] love, and that sort of [supremely mighty] husband?

3:—And having heard of this daughter with [her] mind fixed on Siva, who had made a determination for [that is, to practise] penance, Menā closely embracing [her,] said [thus to her], dissuading [her] from [undertaking] the rigorous vow of an ascetic.

4:—Worship for [securing your] desired object deities at home; where, [O] dear one, [is] penance [and] where [is] your

[े] कामताम् २ तत् ३ गिरिशं प्रति र म्नीषिताः सन्ति

इति ध्रुवेच्छामनुशासती सुतां शशाक मेना न नियन्तुसुधमात् । क ईप्सितार्थोस्थरनिश्चयं मनः पयश्च निम्नाभिमुखं प्रतापयेत्॥४॥

CONSTRUE: इति अनुशासती मेना ध्रुवेच्छां सुताम् उद्यमात् नियन्तुं न शशाकः; ईप्सितार्थस्थिरनिश्चयं मनः निम्नाभिमुखं पयः च कः प्रतीपयेत्।

कदाचिदासन्नस्त्रीमुखेन सा मनारथज्ञं पितरं मनस्विनी। अयाचतारण्यनिवासमात्मनः फलोदयान्ताय तपःसमाधये॥ ६॥

CONSTRUE: कदाचित् मनस्विनी सा मनोरथज्ञं पितरम् आसन्नसर्खामुखेन फलोदयान्ताय तपःसमाधये भारमनः अरण्यनिवासम् अयाचत ।

अथानुरूपभिनिवेशतोषिणा कृताभ्यनुज्ञा गुरुणा गरीयसा । प्रजासु पश्चात्प्रथितं तदाख्यया जगाम गौरी शिखरं शिखण्डिमत् ॥॥॥

CONSTRUE: अथ अनुरूपाभिनिवेशतोषिणा गरीयसा गुरुणा कृताभ्यनुज्ञा गौरी पथात् प्रजास तदाख्यया प्रथितं शिखण्डिमत् शिखरं जगाम ।

[extremely tender] physical frame? [That is, these two are extremely incompatible with each other]. The delicate ŚirIṣa flower might bear the [weight of the] foot of a bee, but [it can] not [by any means bear that] of a bird.

- 5:—Thus admonishing [her], Menā was not able to restrain [her] daughter whose desire was [quite] firm, from [her] resolve [to go in for penance]; who [indeed] could revert the mind with [its] firm determination for [that is, to secure] the desired object or water flowing on [lit. directed towards] a lower level?
- 6:—On a certain occasion, she, the proud [or firm-minded] one, through the medium [lit. mouth] of [her] friend near by, begged of [her] father who was aware of [her] desire, [to be allowed to] stay in the forest for [the practice of] penance-concentration ending [only] with the acquisition of the fruit.
- 7:—Then Gauri to whom permission [to go to the forest] was given by [her] exalted father pleased at [her] worthy determination, repaired to a peak abounding in peacocks, which afterwards became famous among people after her name [that is, which later came to be called the Gauri peak].

१ स्थिर

विमुच्य सा हारमहार्यनिश्चया विलोलयष्टित्रविलुतचन्द्रनम् । वबन्ध बालारूणबभ्धं वहकलं पयोधरोत्सेधविशीर्णसंहाति ॥ ८ ॥

CONSTRUE: अहार्थनिश्चया सा विलोलयष्टिप्रविल्वसचन्दनं हारं विमुच्य बालारणवस्रु प्रयोधरोत्सेधविशीर्णसंहति वल्कलं ववन्ध ।

यथा प्रसिद्धैर्मधुरं शिरोरुहैर्जशिभरप्येवमभूत्तदाननम् । न षट्पदश्रीणिभिरेव पङ्कृतं सङ्गैवलासङ्गमपि प्रकाशते ॥ ९ ॥

CONSTRUE: यथा प्रसिद्धैः शिरोरहैः (तथा) जटाभिः अपि तदाननम् एवं मधुरम् अभृत्; पङ्कजं षदपदश्रेणिभिः एव न, सशैवलासङ्गम् अपि प्रकाशते ।

प्रतिक्षणं सा कृतरोमविकियां व्रताय मौजीं त्रिगुणां बभार याम्। अकारि तत्पूर्वनिबद्धया तया सरागमस्या रशनागुणास्पदम् ॥१०॥

CONSTRUE: प्रतिक्षणं कृतरे।मीविकयां त्रिगुणां यां मौजीं व्रताय सा वसार तत्पूर्वनिबद्धया तथा अस्याः रज्ञानागुणास्पदं सरागम् अकारि ।

विसृष्टरागाद्धराचिवर्तितः स्तनाङ्गरागाद्रणाच कन्द्रकात् । कुशाङ्कुरादानपरिक्षताङ्गुलिः कृतोऽक्षस्त्रप्रणयी तया करः ॥११॥

CONSTRUE: विस्तृष्टरागात् अथरात् स्तनाङ्गरागारुणितात् कन्दुकात् च निवर्तितः करः तथा कुशाङ्करादानपरिक्षताङ्गुलिः अक्षसूत्रप्रणयी कृतः ।

- 8:—She, whose determination was not to be shaken, leaving off [her] necklace by which the sandal [ointment on the breasts] was taken off by [its] unsteady strings, tied a bark garment tawny like the morning sun, whose close fitting was loosened owing to the protuberance of [her] breasts.
- 9:—As by her adorned (prasiddha) hair, so even by the matted hair, her face was charming all the same; a lotus looks beautiful, not by the rows of bees alone, but also when having a contact with the moss.
- 10:—The string of Muñja grass, having three threads, which she wore for the sake of [her] vow and which every moment caused the hair to stand on end—by that [string] which was tied for the very first time was rendered red [her] seat of the girdle—string [that is, the fore-part of the hips].
- 11:—By her, [her] hand turned away from the lower lip from which the redness [due to its being painted with the lac dye] had been sent away, and from the ball reddened by the oint-

411

11

खन

1191

नुज्ञा

re-

Isa

nl

ain

V8

nd

ed

1?

d

夕,

be

-95

t]

17 ch at १ निसृष्ट

कुमारसंभवम

महार्ह्शय्यापरिवर्तनच्युतैः स्वकेशपुष्पैरापि या सम दूयते। अशेत सा बाहुलतोपधायिनी निषेदुषी स्थण्डिल एव केवले ॥१२॥

CONSTRUE: महार्हशय्यापरिवर्तनच्युतैः स्वकेशपुष्पैः अपि या दूयते सम सा बाह्लतोपधायिनी, केवले स्थण्डिले एव निषेद्रषी अशेत ।

पुनर्यहीतुं नियमस्थया तया द्वयेऽपि निक्षेप इवार्षितं द्वयम् । लतासु तन्वीषु विलासचेष्टितं विलोलदृष्टं हरिणाङ्गनासु च॥१३॥ दि

ज

त

n

1

CONSTRUE: नियमस्थया तया द्वये अपि द्वयम् पुनः प्रहीतुं निक्षेपः इव अर्पितम्, तन्वीषु लतासु विलासचेष्टितं हरिणाङ्गनासु विलोलदृष्टं च ।

अतिन्दिता सा स्वयमेव वृक्षकान् घटस्तनप्रस्ववणैटर्यवर्धयत्। गुहोऽपि येषां प्रथमातजन्मनां न पुत्रवात्सल्यमपाकारिष्यति ॥ १८ ॥

CONSTRUE: सा अतन्द्रिता स्वयम् एव घटस्तनप्रसवणैः वृक्षकान् व्यवर्धयत्, प्रथमाप्तजन्मनां येषां पुत्रवात्सत्यं गुहः अपि न अपाकरिष्यति ।

अरण्यवीजाञ्जलिदानलालितास्तथा च तस्यां हरिणा विशश्वसुः। यथा तदीयैर्नयनैः कुत्हलात पुरः सखीनामामिमीत लोचने ॥१५॥

CONSTRUE: अरण्यवीजाञ्जलिदानलालिताः हरिणाः च तस्यां तथा विशक्षसः बथा तया कुत्हलात् तदीयैः नयभैः (स्वः)लोचने सखीनां पुरः अमिमीत ।

ment on the breasts, with the fingers injured in plucking the blades of Kuśa grass, was made a lover of [or, familiar with] the rosary of beads.

- 12:—She, who used to be pained even by the flowers from her hair, dropped in [her] rollings on the luxurious bed, sat and slept [now], with [her] creeper-like arm as a pillow on the bare [that is, uncovered] altar.
- 13:-By her observing the vow, were placed, as it were as a deposit, in order to take them back [when the vow came to an end], with even the two, the two [things] sportive movements with the slender creepers, and tremulous glances with the
- 14:-She, unwearied, by the pourings out [of water] from breasts [in the form] of jars, herself reared up the plants, her motherly affection for which that had taken their birth first even Guha could not set aside.
- 15: And the deer, fondled by the offering of handfuls of forest-corn trusted her to such an extent that [by her], out of

१ द्वयीप २ दृष्टि ३ प्रस्रविनी

कृताभिषेकां हुतजातवेदसं त्वगुत्तरासङ्गवतीमधीतिनीम् । दिदृक्षवस्तामृषयोऽभ्युपागमन् न धर्मवृद्धेषु वयः समीक्ष्यते ॥ १६॥ CONSTRUE: कृताभिषेकां हुतजातवेदसं त्वगुत्तरासङ्गवतीम् अधीतिनीं तां दिदृक्षवः ऋषयः अभ्युपागमन् ; धर्मवृद्धेषु वयः न समीक्ष्यते ।

विरोधिसत्वोजिझतपूर्वमत्सरं दुमैरभीष्ट्रप्रसवार्चितातिथि। नवोटजाभ्यन्तरसंभृतानलं तपोवनं तच्चे बभूव पावनम् ॥ १७॥

CONSTRUE: विरोधिसत्त्वोज्झितपूर्वमत्सरं दुमैः अभीष्टप्रसवार्चितातिथि नवोट-

नाभ्यन्तरसंभ्रतानलं तत् तपोवनं च पावनं वभूव।

119

स स

31

इव

3 11

यत्,

41

धसः

the

h l om

sat

ere

to

VO-

he

m

BI

gt

of

of

यदा फलं पूर्वतपःसमाधिना न तावता लभ्यममंस्त काङ्क्षितम् । तदानपेक्ष्य स्वशरीरमार्दवं तपो महत्सा चरितुं प्रचक्रमे॥ १८॥

CONSTRUE: यदा तावता पूर्वतपःसमाधिना काङ्क्षितं फलं लभ्यं न अमस्त

तदा स्वशरीरमार्दवम् अनपेक्य सा महत् तपः चरितुं प्रचक्रमे ।

क्रमं ययो कन्दुकलीलयापि या तया मुनीनां चरितं व्यगाहात। थुवं वपुः काञ्चनपद्मिनिर्मितं सृदु प्रकृत्या च ससारमेव च ॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE: कन्दुकलील्या अपि क्षमं या ययौ तया मुनीनां चरितं व्यगाह्यतः ध्रुवम् (अस्याः) वपुः काञ्चनपद्मनिर्मितम् प्रकृत्या मृदु च ससारम् एव च । curiosity were measured [her] eyes, in the presence of [her] friends by their eyes [in order to find out which of them were longer].

16:—Sages approached [her], desirous of seeing her who used to take the holy bath, [and] used to offer oblations to the fire, who was possessed of a bark as [her] upper garment [and] who made a study [of the Scriptures]; [surely] age is not taken notice of in case of those who are old in religious merit.

17:—And that penance-grove [there, on the Gauri peak] became sanctifying, where the previous [natural] antipathy was abandoned by opposing beasts, where the guests were welcomed [or, worshipped] with the desired produce by [Pārvatī, with the help of the] trees, [and] where fire was [properly] looked after inside a newly erected cottage.

18:—When she thought that the desired fruit could not be secured by that much penance-concentration practised before, she, then, regardless of the delicate nature of her body, began to practise a [far more] rigorous penance.

19:—By her who got fatigued even in sporting with the ball, was plunged into the life of the ascetics; surely her body

१ तन्न २ सर्वसमा ३ वाच्छितम् ४ सेवया ५ पदाधर्मि यत्

कुमारसंभवम्

शुचौ चतुर्णा ज्वलतां हविर्भुजां शुचिस्मिता सध्यगता सुमध्यगा विजित्य नेत्रप्रतिषातिनीं प्रभामनन्यदृष्टिः सवितारमक्षत ॥ २०॥

Construe : श्रचौ, चतुर्णी ज्वलतां हविर्श्वजां मध्यगता श्रचिस्मिता सुसध्यमा (सा) नेत्रप्रतिघातिनीं प्रभां विजित्य अनन्यदृष्टिः (सती) सवितारम् ऐक्षत ।

तथातितप्तं सवितुर्गभस्तिभिर्मुखं तदीयं कमलश्चियं द्घौ। अपाङ्गयोः केवलमस्य दीर्घयोः रानैः रानैः स्यामिकया कृतं पदम् ॥११॥

CONSTRUE: सवितुः गभास्तिभिः तथा अतितप्तं तदीयं मुखं कमलिश्रयं द्वौ अस्य दीर्घयोः अपाङ्गयोः केवलं स्थामिकया शनैः शनैः पदं कृतम् ।

अयाचितोपस्थितमम्बु केवलं रसात्मकस्योडुपतेश्च रहमयः। बभ्व तस्याः किलं पार्णाविधिनं वृक्षवृत्तिव्यतिरिक्तसाधनः ॥१॥

CONSTRUE: तस्याः किल पारणाविधिः केवलम् अयाचितोपस्थितम् अम्य रसात्मकस्य उडुपतेः च रक्षमयः वभूव, वृक्षवृत्तिव्यतिरिक्तसाधनः न ।

[was] manufactured out of golden lotuses, being delicate by nature and at the same time, full of substance [or sustaining power].

20:—In summer, she possessed of a pure smile, having a delicate waist, seated in the midst of four blazing fires looked at the sun, with [her] gaze not directed to anything else, having withstood [lit. conquered] [his] refulgence dazzling the eyes.

21:—Her face heated extremely in that way by the rays of the sun bore the beauty of [that is, looked as beautiful as] the lotus; [however] in the long corners of the eyes of this slowly.

22:—Only water which came [to her] unsought, [and] the rays of the lord of constellations [that is, the moon], constituted of nectar,—[these] indeed served for concluding the fast in her case, which [conclusion of the fast] had no means other than [those used for] subsistence by trees.

1

1

१ भितप्तम् २ म्बलु ३ साधनम्

यमा 201

सुसध्यम

19911 E यं द्वी

11 2 411

अम्ब

te by

ning

ng a oked ving es.

rays as this rery

the ted her

an

निकामतप्ता द्विविधेन वाह्निना नभश्चरेणेन्धनसंभृतेन चै। तपात्यये वारिभिजाक्षिता नवैर्भ्वा सहीव्माणम्मुख्यवृध्वेगम् ॥ १३॥

CONSTRUE: द्विविधेन नभश्वरेण इन्धनसंभितेन विह्नना च निकामतप्ता (सा) तपात्यथे नवैः वारिभिः उक्षिता (सती) भुवा सह ऊर्ध्वगम् उष्माणम् अमुञ्चत् ।

स्थिताः क्षणं पक्ष्मस् ताडिताधराः पयोचरोहसेधनिपातचू जिताः । वलीषु तस्याः स्खालिताः प्रपेदिरे चिरेण नाभि प्रथमोद्विन्द्वः ॥२४॥

CONSTRUE: प्रथमोद्विन्दवः पक्ष्मस क्षणं स्थिताः. ताडिताधराः, पयोधरो-रसेधनिपातचूर्णिताः, वलीषु स्खालिताः चिरेण तस्याः नासिं प्रपेदिरे ।

शिलाशयां तामनिकेतवासिनीं निरन्तरास्वन्तरवातवृष्टिषु । व्यलोकयन्त्रिमिपितैस्ताडिनमयैर्महातपःसादय इव स्थिताःक्षपाः॥२५॥

CONSTRUE: निरन्तरास अन्तरवातवृष्टिष अनिकेतवासिनी शिलाशयां तां महा-तपःसाक्ष्ये स्थिताः क्षपाः तडिन्मयैः उन्मिषितैः व्यलोकयन् इव ।

निनाय सात्यन्ति हिमोत्किरानिलाः सहस्यरात्री खद्यासतत्परा । परस्पराक्रन्दिनि चक्रवाकयोः पुरो वियुक्ते मिथुने क्रपावती ॥ १६॥

CONSTRUE: उदवासतत्परा परस्पराक्रन्दिनि पुरः वियुक्ते चक्रवाकयोः मिथुने कृपावती सा अत्यन्त हिमोत्किरानिलाः सहस्यरात्रीः निनाय ।

- 23:—She, extremely heated by the two-fold fires—by one wandering in the sky [that is, the sun] and by the other enkindled by means of fuel-sprinkled over by the fresh [or first] waters [that is, showers of rain] in the rainy season [lit. at the passing of the summer], gave forth vapour, going up, along with the earth.
- 24:—The drops of the first water [that is, shower], detained for a moment on the eye-lashes, [then] striking the lower lip, shattered into particles by falling on the protuberance of the breasts, stumbling through the [three] folds [on her belly] reached after a long time [her] navel.
- 25:—Her resting on a stone-slab and not staying in a sheltered abode, in the midst of ceaseless showers [of rain] interspersed by wind, the nights, acting as witnesses to her mighty penance, as it were observed with looks (unmisitam) in the form of lightning [flashes].
- 25.—She, intent on staying in water, passed the nights of the month of Pausya [the coldest month] where the breezes

१ विविधेन २ सा ३ रोत्सङ्ग

मुखेन सा पद्मसुगन्धिना निशि प्रवेपमानाधरपत्रशोभिना । तुषारवृष्टिक्षतपद्मसंपदां सरोजसंधीनभिवाकरोदपाम् ॥ २७ ॥

CONSTRUE: निशि पद्मसुगन्धिना प्रवेपमानाधरपत्रशोभिना मुखेन सा तुषार-वृष्टिक्षतपद्मसंपदाम् अपां सरोजसंधानम् अकरोत् इव ।

स्वयंविशीर्णद्रुमपर्णवृत्तिता परा हि काष्ठा तपसस्तया पुनः। तद्यपाकीर्णमतः त्रियंवदा वदन्त्यपर्णेति च तां प्राविदः॥ २८॥

CONSTRUE: स्वयंविशीर्णद्रुमपर्णवृत्तिता हि तपसः परा काष्टाः तया पुनः तद् अपि अपाकीर्णम् , अतः प्रियंवदाः पुराविदः ताम् अपर्णा इति च वदन्ति । निवि

उमा

अपि

Wer

Bra

fort

rev

[th:

rest

for

the.

for proc

for |

Pen:

inde

obse

मृणालिकापेलवमेवमादिभिर्वतैः स्वमङ्गं ग्लपयन्त्यहर्निशम् । तपः शरीरैः कठिनैरुपार्जितं तपस्विनां दूरमधश्चकार सा ॥ १९॥

CONSTRUE : एवमादिभिः व्रतैः मृणालिकापेलवं स्वम् अङ्गम् अहर्निशं ग्राह्म सा तपिस्वनां कठिनैः शरीरैः उपार्जितं तपः दूरम् अधश्वकार ।

अथाजिनाषाढ्यसः प्रगहभवाग्ज्जवलिव ब्रह्मसयेन तेजैसा। विवेश कश्चिज्जटिलस्तपोवनं शरीरबँद्धः प्रथमाश्रमो यथा॥ ३०॥

CONSTRUE: अथ अजिनाषाढधरः प्रगल्भवाक् ब्रह्ममयेन तेजसा ज्वलन् इव कश्चित जटिलः शरीरबद्धः प्रथमाश्रमः यथा तपोवनं विवेश । were extensively scattering forth snow, being full of pity for the pair of the Cakravākas in front, separated [from each other] and [hence] mourning for each other.

27:—At night, she, with her face fragrant like a lotus [and] shining with the leaf [in the form] of the very tremulous lower lip, secured as it were the replacing [or, centinuity] of lotuses in waters, whose wealth of lotuses was blighted by the shower of snow.

28:—Subsisting on ($vrttit\bar{a}$) leaves of trees fallen of their own accord (svayam) is, to be sure (hi), the highest limit [or, climax] of penance; by her again, was given up even that; hence those conversant with legendary history and of agreeable speech, call her also Aparnā [one who did not take even the leaves].

29:—Withering up day and night her body delicate like a small lotus-stalk [or fibre] by such and other vows, she left far behind the penance of [professional] ascetics, obtained by [their] hardened bodies.

30:—Then a certain ascetic with matted hair, possessing a deer-skin and a Palāśa staff, bold in speech and burning as it

१ सन्तान २ वर्चसा ३ बन्धः

तमातिथंयी बहुमानपूर्वया सपर्यया प्रत्युद्याय पार्वती । भवन्ति साम्येऽपि निविष्टचेतसां वपुर्विशेषेष्वतिगौरवाः क्रियाः॥३१॥

CONSTRUE: आतिथेयी पार्वती बहुमानपूर्वया सपर्यया तं प्रत्युदियाय; साम्येव निविष्टचेतसाम् अपि अतिगौरवाः क्रियाः वपुर्विशेषेषु भवन्ति ।

विधिष्रयुक्तां पैरिगृह्य सित्कयां परिश्रमं नाम विनीय च क्षणम् । उमां स पश्यन्तुजुनैव चक्षुषा प्रचक्रमे वक्तुमनुज्झितक्रमः ॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE: विधिप्रयुक्तां सिक्तयां परिगृह्य क्षणं च परिश्रमं नाम विनीयः ज्ञाम् ऋजुना एव चक्षुषा पर्यन् अनुज्झितकमः सः वक्तुं प्रचक्रमे ।

अपि कियार्थ सुलभं समित्कुशं जलान्यपि स्नानविधिक्षमाणि ते । अपि स्वशक्त्या तपिस प्रवर्तसे शरीरमायं खलु धर्मसाधनम् ॥३३॥।

CONSTRUE: कियार्थं समिरकुरां सुलभम् अपि ? जलानि ते स्नानविधिक्षमाणिः अपि ? तपिस स्वराक्त्या प्रवर्तसे अपि ? शरीरं खलु आद्यं धर्मसाधनम् । were with Brahmanic lustre, like the first stage of life [that is, Brahmacarya] embodied, entered the penance-grove.

31:—Him, Pārvatī well-disposed towards guests, went forth to receive with worship [or, welcome] preceded by great reverence; even of those whose minds are fixed on equality [that is, who treat all equally] actions characterised by extreme respect take place with reference to [those possessed of] excellent forms.

32:—Having accepted the worship conducted according to the [proper] rites, and having removed [his] fatigue as it were, for a moment, he, looking at Umā with quite a straight eye, proceeded to speak, not giving up propriety.

33:—Are sacrificial fuel and Kuśa grass easily obtainable for [performing religious] rites? [And] are the waters fit for the performance of [your] bath? I hope, you go on with [your] penance in accordance with your strength. For, the body [is] indeed the first [that is, the most important] means for religious observance.

वार

511

तद

ायन्ती

| 59 | 59

for

tus

lous

1 of

the heir

for,

ence

ech,

ke a far sing

is it

१ साम्बेऽभि २ प्रात

कुमारसंभवम्

30

अपि त्वदावर्जितवारिसंभृतं भवालमासामनुबन्धि वीरुधाम्। चिरोज्झितालक्तकपाटलेन ते तुलां यदारोहित दन्तवाससा॥ ३००

CONSTRUE: त्वदावर्जितवारिसंभृतम् आसां वीरुयां प्रवालम् अनुवन्धि अ यत् चिरोज्झितालक्तकपाटलेन ते दन्तवाससा तुलाम् आरोहति ?

अपि प्रसन्नं हरिणेषु ते मनः करस्थर्भपणयापराधिष् । य उत्पलाक्षेपंचलैविलोचनैस्तवाक्षिसाहस्यामेव प्रयुक्षते ॥ ३५॥

CONSTRUE: करस्थदर्भप्रणयापराधिष्ठ हरिणेषु ते मनः प्रसन्नम् अपि. उत्पलाक्षेपचलैः विलोचनैः तवाक्षिसादश्यं प्रयुक्तते इव ?

यदुच्यते पार्वति पापवृत्तये न रूपामित्यव्यभिचारि तद्भचः। तथाहि ते शीलमुदारदर्शने तपस्विनामप्यपदेशता गतम् ॥ ३६॥

(意)

उपपन

the o

as b

to n

Dha

and follo

a str

CONSTRUE: (हे) पार्वति, पापनृत्तये हवं न इति यत् उच्यते तत् अव भिचारि वचः ; तथाहि, (हे) उदारदर्शने, ते शीठं तपस्विनाम् अपि उपदेशतां गतम्।

विकीर्णसप्तिषिबलियँहासि।भिस्तथा न गाङ्गेः सलिलेर्दिवय्च्युतैः। यथा त्वदीयैश्वरितरनाविलेर्महीधरः पावित एष सान्वयः ॥ ३७॥

CONSTRUE: एवः महीधरः सान्वयः विकीर्णसप्तर्षिबिळप्रहासिभिः दिवः चु गाङ्गैः सिळिलैः तथा न पावितः यथा त्वदीयैः अनाविलैः चरितैः (पावितः) ।

34 :—Are the [tender] shoots [or leaves] of these creep produced by the water sprinkled over by you, growing unint ruptedly-[shoots] which stand comparison with your lower [which is] reddish though it has given up the [use of the] dye for a long time?

35: Is your mind free from anger (prasanna) towar the deer who offend [you] by their greed for the Darbha grass [your] hands-[the deer] who as it were put forward a resemblar your to your eyes, with their eyes tremulous like an unsteady lot associated assoc

36:--What is said, [O] Pārvatī, that beauty [is] not [that is, associated with] a sinful course of conduct, [is] unexceptional statement; for, [O] you of noble appearan your character has become fit to be followed even for ing t professional | ascetics.

37:-This mountain [Himālaya] with [his] family, besome not been so sanctified by the waters of the Ganges drop show down from heaven [and] appearing bright [lit. smiling]

१ ...पहारिष २ उत्पलाक्षि प्रबले ३ प्रमासिमिः

II

IT 1) 381

निय अ

3411

अपि.

३६॥

न् अव

म् ।

तैः। 301

creep

3] W

अनेन धर्मः सविशेषमद्य मे त्रिवर्गसारः प्रतिभाति भाविति । त्वया मनोनिर्विषयार्थकामया यदेक एव प्रतिग्रह्म सेव्यते ॥ ३८ ॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) भाविनि, यत् मनोनिर्विषयार्थेकामया त्वया एक: एवः (धर्मः) प्रतिगृह्य सेव्यते अनेन धर्मः सिवशेषं त्रिवर्गसारः अद्य मे प्रतिभाति ।

प्रयक्त सत्कारविशेषमात्मना न मां परं संप्रतिपन्तमहीस । यतः सतां सन्नतगात्रि सङ्गतं मनीषिभिः साप्तपदीनमुच्यते ॥ ३९॥

CONSTRUE : आत्मना प्रयुक्तसन्कारविशेषं मां परं संप्रतिपत्तं नं अहंसि, यतः (हे) सन्नतगात्रि, मनीषिभिः सतां सङ्गतं साप्तपदीनम् उच्यते ।

अतोऽत्र किंचिद्भवतीं बहुक्षमां द्विजातिभावादुपपन्नचाप्तः। अयं जनः प्रष्टुमनास्तपोधने न चेद्रहस्यं प्रतिवक्तुमहीसे ॥ ४०॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) तपोधने, अतः अत्र बहुक्षमां भवतीं द्विजातिभावात् उपपन्नचापलः अयं जनः किंचित् प्रष्ट्रमनाः; रहस्यं न चेत्, प्रतिवक्तुम् अर्हसि ।

वः च the offerings [of flowers etc.] by Seven Sages, scatterd forth. as by the stainless acts of yours.

38 - [O] one of good thoughts! To-day Dharma appears to me to be particularly the best of the group of three [viz. ninte Dharma, Artha and Kāma] by this, that by you with Artha wer and Kāma having no scope in [your] mind, is accepted and 1e] | followed that [Dharma] alone.

towar 39 :- You should not [lit. do not deserve to] regard me as a stranger, to whom a special welcome had been accorded by grass nblar yourself; for, [O] you of a charming body, the friendship of [or, lot association with] the good is declared by wise men, to be formed by exchanging seven words [in conversation]. not i

[is] 40 -This person [that is, I] therefore, [O] you whose aran wealth is penance, with rashness roused, owing to [his] belongfor ling to the twice-born [that is, owing to his being a Brāhmaṇa] as a mind to ask your ladyship, who has great forbearance, ly, besomething in this matter (atra); if it [is] not a secret, you droppshould please give a reply.

१ मामिनि २ सा प्रतिपत्त ३ यदा 🕶 प्रतिबोधियण्यास

कुले प्रस्तिः प्रथमस्य वेषसस्त्रिलोकसौन्दर्यमिवोदितं वपुः। अमृग्यमैश्वर्यसुखं नवं वयस्तपःफलं स्यात्किमतः परं वद् ॥ ४१॥

CONSTRUE: प्रथमस्य वेधसः कुले प्रस्तिः, वपुः त्रिलोकसौन्दर्यम् इव उदितम् ऐश्वर्यसुखम् अमृग्यम् , वयः नवम् , अतः परं किं तपःफलं स्यात् , वद ।

भवत्यनिष्टाद्पि नाम दुःसहान्यनिस्वनीनां प्रतिपत्तिरीहर्शा। विचारमार्गप्रहितेन चेतसा न दृश्यतं तच्च क्रुशोदिर्दित्वियि॥४२।

.3

ते

श्र

be

S

ni

f

do

do

bu

if 301

des

ha

CONSTRUE: दुःसहात् अनिष्ठात् अपि मनस्विनीनाम् ईदशी प्रतिपत्तिः स्वर्रे नाम ; (हे) कृशोदरि, तत् (अनिष्टं) च विचारमार्गप्रहितेन चेतसा स्वयि न दश्यते ।

अलभ्यशोकाभिभवेयमाकृतिर्विमानना सुभ्नु कुतः पितुर्गृहे । पराभिमर्शो न तवास्ति कः करं प्रसारयेत्पन्नगरत्नस्चये ॥ ४३॥

CONSTRUE: इयम् आकृतिः अलभ्यशोकाभिभवा; (हे) सुम्रु, पितुः ह विमानना कुतः? पराभिमर्शः तव न अस्ति, पन्नगरत्नसूचये कः करं प्रसारयेत्?

- 41:—[Your] birth [is] in the family of the first progenitor [that is, Brahmadeva]; [your] body [is] as it were the loveliness in the three worlds risen up; the happiness affluence [is] not to be sought [that is, it is already possessed by you]; [and you have] fresh youth; say what else beyond these can be the fruit of penance?
- 42:—Such a tendency (pratipattih) does possibly exist the case of proud [or, strong-minded] ladies, also owing to some calamity difficult to bear; that too, [O] you of slends belly, is not seen in your case by [my] mind directed toward the path of thought [that is, even after much thought].
- 43:—This [your beautiful] form is undeserving of securing humiliation due to grief; [O] you of beautiful eye-brows whence [can there be] disrespect [shown to you] at the house of [your] father? There could not be an insult to you from strangers [either]; who [indeed] would stretch forth [his] hap to [snatch away] the pointed jewel [in the hood] of a serpent.

९ ...मिवार्जितम् २ वलोद्रि ३ सृतये

किमित्यपास्याभरणानि यौवने धृतं त्वया वार्धकशोभि वल्कलम् । वद् प्रदोषे विनिकीर्णतारका विभावरी यद्यस्णाय कल्पते ॥ ४४ ॥

CONSTRUE: यौवने आभरणानि अपास्य त्वया वार्धकशोभि वल्कलं किम् इति ज्ञतम्? वद यत् प्रदोषे विभावरी विनिकीर्णतारका अरुणाय कल्पते ।

1188

उदितम्

11861

नेः भवति

831

पेतुः ए

firs

t wen

less 0

sed b eyon!

ist i ng i lende ward

ecul

TOWS

se o

from

han

दिवं यदि पार्थयसे वृथा श्रमः पितुः प्रदेशास्तव देवभूमयः। अथोपयन्तारमलं समाधिना न रत्नमान्विष्यति सुर्यते हि तत्॥४५॥

CONSTRUE: यदि दिवं प्रार्थयसे श्रमः वृथा, तव पितुः प्रदेशाः देवभूमयः: अथ उपयन्तारं (प्रार्थयसे), समाधिना अलम् ; रतनं न अन्विष्यति, तत् हि मृग्यते ।

निवेदितं निश्वसितेन सोष्मणा मनस्तु में संशयमेव गाहते। न दृश्यते प्रार्थियत्वय एवं ते भविष्यति प्रार्थितदुर्लभः कथम् ॥४६॥

CONSTRUE: सोध्मणा निःश्वसितेन निवेदितम्, मे मनः तु संशयम् एव गाहते; ते प्रार्थियितव्यः एव न दश्यते, प्रार्थितदुर्रुभः कथं भविष्यति ?

अहो स्थिरः कोऽपि तवेप्सितो युवा चिराय कर्णोत्पलशून्यतां गते। उपेक्षते यः ऋथलँग्विनार्जटाः कपोलदेशे कलमायपिङ्गलाः ॥ ८७ ॥

CONSTRUE: अहो तव ईस्तितः कः अपि युवा स्थिरः यः चिराय कर्णोत्पल-ग्रूट्यतां गते कपोलदेशे कलमार्प्रापङ्गलाः श्वयलम्बिनीः जटाः उपेक्षते !

44:—Why then has [this] bark-garment becoming old age, been put on by you in youth, having discarded ornaments? Say, if the night is intended to have the dawn at the beginning, with the stars scattered away.

45:—If you seek heaven, unnecessary [is your] efforts; [for], the regions of your father [are] the lands of the gods. [Or] do you seek a husband? [Then] enough of [this] penance. A jewel does not seek [an owner], it has to be sought after.

46:—[The secret] has been made known by [your] hot sigh; but my mind is plunged into doubt all the same (eva); no one worthy of being sought after by you is at all to be seen, [and if there is one] how [would] he [be] difficult to secure when sought after?

47:—Oh wonder! stone-hearted (sthira) [is] the youth desired by you, whoever he [is], who ignores the matted hair hanging down loosely, [and] tawny like the shoots of paddy, on

१ स्फुटचन्द्रतारका २ अन्विच्छति ३ बान्धनी

मुनिव्रतेस्त्वामितमात्रकाईातां दिवाकराष्ट्रष्टविभूषणास्पदास् । शशाङ्कलेखामिव पश्यतो दिवा सचितसः कस्य मनो न दूयते ॥४८॥ Construe: मुनिव्रतेः अतिमात्रकर्शितां दिवाकराष्ट्रप्टविभूषणास्पदाम् (अतः एव)

दिवा शशाङ्कलेखाम् इ। त्वां पश्यतः सचेतसः कस्य मनः न दूयते ?

अवैमि सौभारयमदेन विज्ञतं तव प्रियं यश्चतुरावलोकिनः। करोति लक्ष्यं चिरमस्य चक्षुको न वक्त्रमात्मीयमरालपक्ष्मणः॥४९॥

CONSTRUE: तव प्रियं सौभाग्यमदेन विश्वतम् अवैमि यः (प्रियः) चतुराव-स्रोकिनः अरास्तपक्ष्मणः अस्य चक्षुषः आत्मीयं वक्त्रं स्वरं चिरं न करोति ।

कियाच्चिरं श्राम्यसि गौरि विद्यते ममापि पूर्वाश्रमसंचितं तपः। तद्र्धभागेन लभस्य काङ्क्षितं वरं तमिच्छामि च साधु वेदितुम्॥५०॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) गोरि, कियत् चिरं श्राम्यसि? मम अपि पूर्वाश्रमसंचितं तपः विद्यते: तदर्भभागेन काङ्क्षितं लभस्व: तं वरं च साधु वेदितम् इच्छामि ।

इति प्रविश्याभिहिता द्विजन्मना मनीगतं सा न शशाक शंसितुम्। अथो वयस्यां परिपार्श्ववर्तिनीं विवर्तितानक्षननेत्रमैक्षत ॥ ५१ ॥

CONSTRUE: इति द्विजन्मना प्रविश्य आभिहिता सा मनोगतं शंसितुं न शशाक, अथो वरिपार्श्वर्तिना वयस्यां विवर्तितानज्ञननेत्रम् ऐक्षत ।

the region of [your] cheeks, which has become devoid of the lotus on the ear [used as an ornament] for a long time!

- 48:—Whose mind, possessed of a heart, is not afflicted, beholding you exceedingly emaciated by [the observance of] vows of ascetics, with the places of ornaments scorched by [the heat of] the sun, [and appearing] like the digit of the moon by day?
- 49:—I regard your lover as being deceived by the intoxication of [his] beauty, who does not for a long time make his face the mark for this eye [of yours] which glances prettily [and] which has curved eye-lashes.
- 50:—How long would you, [O] Gauri, be [thus] exhausted? I too have [to my credit] religious merit accumulated in the first stage of life [that is, in Brahmacarya]; [may you] secure your desired object by the share of half of it; I wish again to know that bride-groom [or, chosen one] well.

u

[

b

51:—Thus addressed by the twice-born having entered [her mind], she [owing to bashfulness] could not [herself]

[ो] रेसाम् २ दाँभैते ३ छक्षं रविमस्य 🕆 निवर्तित

सखी तदीया तसुवाच विणिनं निवोध साधो तव चेत्कुत्हलम् । यद्थंमम्भोजमिवोष्णवारणं कृतं तपःसाधनमेतया वपुः ॥ ५२ ॥

CONSTRUE: तदीयां सखी तं वर्णिनम् उवाच (हे) साघो, तव कुत्ह्छं चेत् निबोध यदर्थम् एतया अम्भोजम् उष्णवारणम् इव वपुः तपःसाधनं कृतम्।

इयं महेन्द्रप्रभृतीनिधिश्रियश्चतुर्दिगीशानवसत्य मानिनी । अस्पर्हार्यं मदनस्य निब्रहातिषनाकपाणिं पतिषाप्तुमिच्छाति॥५३॥

CONSTRUE: अधिश्रियः चतुर्दिगीशान् महेन्द्रप्रभृतीन् अवमत्य इयं मानिनी मदनस्य निम्नहात् अरूपहार्ये पिनाकपाणिं पतिम् आप्तुम् इच्छति ।

असह्यहुंकारनिवर्तितः पुरा पुरारिमपात्रमुखः जिलिमुखः । इमां हृदि व्यायतपातमक्षिणोद् विशीर्णमूर्तरपि पुष्पधन्वनः ॥ ५८ ॥

CONSTRUE : पुरा असह्यहुंकारनिवार्तितः पुरारिम् अप्राप्तमुखः विशोगेमूर्तेः अपि पुष्पथन्वनः शिलीमुखः इमां हृदि ब्यायतपातम् अक्षिणोत् । speak out her desire; and she looked at [her] friend who used to be always by [her] side, in a manner in which the eyes without the collyrium were turned [towards her].

52:—Her friend [then] said to that Brahmacārin—[O] good one, know fully (nibodha) if you have curiosity, for whom, by her has been made [her] body the means for [practising] penance, like a lotus as a means to ward off the heat of the sun.

53:—This proud lady disregarding the lords of the four quarters, Mahendra and others, possessed of supreme affluence, wishes to have as [her] husband the Pināka-holder who cannot be won over by beauty owing to the curbing of Madana [by him].

54:—The arrow which had been turned back before by the unbearable Humkāra sound [by Śiva], [and] which [thus] had [its] tip (mukham) not reaching the Enemy of the [three] cities [that is, Śiva], of the flower-bowed God, though [his] body had been shattered forth, pierced her in the heart so as to cause a deep wound [or, in a wide sweep].

11

८॥ एव)

381

ाव-

ROIP

तपः

म् ।

ाक,

the

be-

WS-

of

ca-

ce

d]

d?

u] sh

ed

If h

?

१ वाञ्छितं २ भामिनी

62

कुमारसंभवम्

तद्।प्रभृत्युन्मद्ना पितुर्गृहे छछाटिकाचन्द्रनधूसराछका। न जातु बाळा छमते सम निर्दृति तुपारसंघातिहाळातछेष्यपि॥ ५५॥

CONSTRUE: तदा प्रभृति उन्मद्ना ललाटिकाचन्दनधूपरालका बाला पितुः गृहे तुपारसंघातशिलातलेषु अपि निर्शृति न जातु लभते स्म ।

उपात्तवर्णे चरिते पिनाकिनः सबाब्पकण्ठस्खालितैः पदैरियम् । अनेकशः किन्नरराजकन्यका वनान्तसंगीतसखीररोदयत् ॥५६॥ अप

अर

सर

[t si pi

di

th

W

[

be 16

aj

th

0 tl

杜

b]

CONSTRUE: पिनाकिनः चरिते उपात्तवर्णे (सित्) इयम् अनेकशः वनान्त-संगीतसखीः किन्नरराजकन्यकाः सवाध्यकण्ठस्खिठितैः पदैः अरोदयत् ।

त्रिभागशेषासु निशासु च क्षणं निमीत्य नेत्रे सहसा व्यबुध्यत । क नीलकण्ठ व्रजसीत्यलक्ष्यवागसत्यकण्ठार्पितबाहुबन्धना ॥ ५७॥

CONSTRUE: त्रिभागशेषासु निशासु च क्षणं नेत्रे निमीत्य सहसा (है) नीलंकण्ठ, क त्रजसि इति अलक्ष्यवाक् असत्यकण्ठार्पितवाहुवन्धना (इयं) व्यवुष्यतः

सदा बुधैः सर्वगतस्त्वमुच्यसे न वेत्सि भावस्थिममं कथं जनम्। इति स्वहस्तो छि। खितश्च मुग्धया रहस्युपालभ्यत चन्द्रशेखरः ॥५८॥

CONSTRUE: त्वं बुधैः सदा सर्वगतः उच्यसे, भावस्थम् इमं जनं कथं न वेत्सि? इति मुग्धया स्वहस्तोब्लिखितः चन्द्रशेखरः रहासि उपालभ्यत च ।

- 55:—Since then the young maiden, with love(-agony) rising up [and] with [her] curly hair dusty owing to the mark of the sandal paste on the forehead, did not secure relief even for a single moment ($j\bar{a}tu$) at [her] father's house even on slabs of stone [formed] of heaps of snow.
- 56:—While the exploits of the Pināka-bearer were being sung, she with words faltering in [her] throat choked with tears, caused many a time to weep, the young Kinnara princesses, [her] companions in singing in the forest-regions.
- 57:—And during nights whose third part was remaining [to be passed], she, having closed [her] eyes for a moment, used to awaken suddenly with [that is, uttering the words] '[O] Nīlakantha! where are you going?'—[she] whose words were directed to no one present [or, to an absent target] [and] whose tie of the arms was thrown round a non-existing neck.

58:—And with [the words] 'you are declared by the wise to be always all-pervading; how do you not know this person

१ यदा

यदा च तस्याधिगमे जगत्पतेरपश्यदन्यं न विधि विचिन्वती। तदा सहास्माभिरजुज्ञया गुरोरियं प्रपन्ना तपसे तपोवनम् ॥ ५९ ॥

CONSTRUE: यदा च विचिन्वती इयं तस्य जगत्यतेः अधिगमे अन्यं विधि न अपस्यत्, तदा गुरोः अनुजया अस्माभिः सह तपसे तपोवनं प्रपन्ना ।

4411

ः गृहे

n

नान्त-

1

1107 (言)

म्।

त्सि?

ny)

k of

for

of

ing

ars,

herl

ing

sed O]

ere

ose V

rise

1108

बुमेषु संख्या कृतजन्मसु स्वयं फलं तपःसाक्षिषु हैष्टमेण्वापै। न च प्ररोहाभिसुखोऽपि हस्यते भनोरथोऽस्याः शशिमौलिसंश्रयः॥६०।

CONSTRUE: सस्या स्वयं कृतजन्मस् तपःसाक्षिषु एषु दुमेषु अपि फळं दृष्टम् ; अस्याः शशिसौळिसंश्रयः मनोरथः प्ररोहाभिसुखः अपि न च दृश्यते ।

न वेद्रि स पार्थितदुर्लभः कदा सखीभिरस्रोत्तरप्रीक्षितामिमाम्। तपःक्षशामभ्युपैपत्स्यते सखीं वृषेव सीतां तद्वग्रहक्षताम् ॥ ६१॥

CONSTRUE : प्रार्थितदुर्छभः सः तपःकृशां सखीभिः अलोत्तरम् ईक्षिताम् इमां सखीम् तदवग्रहक्षतां सीतां वृषा इव कदा अभ्युपपत्स्यते न वेद्यि ।

[that is, me] entertaining affection for you?' was chided by the simple one in private, the God with the moon-crest drawn [in picture] with her own hand.

- 59:—And when, for securing that Lord of the world, she did not see any other way [though] searching [for it], she, with the permission of [her] father, took to the penance-grove along with us, for penance.
- 60:—On these trees even, planted [lit. given birth to] by [our] friend herself, and the witnesses of [her] penance, has been seen fruit; but her desire having for [its] resort [that is, referring to] the God with the moon on [his] head, does not even appear to be ready for [that is, to put forth] a shoot.
- 61:—I do not know when he, who is difficult to be secured though sought after, would favour this [our] friend, emaciated owing to penance [and hence] looked at by [her] friends mainly through tears, as Indra [the giver of rain] favours a ground that is tilled [or ploughed], wounded [that is, rendered incapable] owing to the drought caused by him.

१ बहुमे २ रस्मान्तर् ३ अभ्यवपत्स्यते

अगृद्धसद्भावमितीङ्गितज्ञया निवेदितो नैष्ठिकसुन्दरस्तया। अयीदमेवं परिहास इत्युमामप्टच्छद्द्याञ्जतहर्षस्रक्षणः॥ ६२॥

व्ल

शों

ब:

चि in

co

W

ha

it

CO

gi.

an ag fe

qu

ha

CONSTRUE: इङ्गितज्ञया तया इति अगृढसद्भावं निवेदितः नैष्टिकसुर अन्यज्ञितहर्षळक्षणः अयि इदम् एवम् (उत) परिहासः इति उमाम् अपृच्छत्।

अथाग्रहस्ते मुकुलीकृताङ्गलौ समर्पयन्ती स्फटिकाक्षमालिकाम्। कथंचिद्देस्तनया मिताक्षरं चिरव्यवस्थापितवागभाषत ॥ ६३॥

CONSTRUE: अथ मुकुलीकृताङ्क्कलौ अग्रहस्ते स्फटिकाक्षमालिकां समर्पयन अद्रे: तनया चिरव्यवस्थापितवाक् कथेचित् मिताक्षरम् अभाषत ।

यथा श्रुतं वेद्विदां वर त्वया जनोऽयमुद्यैःपदलङ्घनोत्सुकः। तपः किलेदं तदवाप्तिसाधनं मनोरथानामगतिनं विद्यते ॥ ६८॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) वेदिवदां वर, त्वया यथा श्रुतं (तथा) अयं जनः त्वे पदलङ्घनोत्सुकः ; इदं तपः तदवाप्तिसाधनं किल, मनोरथानाम् अगितः न विद्यते ।

अथाह वर्णी विदितो महेश्वरस्तद्धिनी त्वं पुनरेव वर्तसे। अमङ्गलाभ्यासरातं विचिन्तय तं तवानुवृत्ति न च कर्तुमुत्सहे॥६॥

CONSTRUE: अथ वर्णी आह, महेश्वरः (मम) विदितः , स्वं पुनः तर्दार्थनी ह वर्तसे ; अमङ्गलाभ्यासरितं तं विचिन्त्य तव अनुवृत्तिं कर्तुं न च उत्सहे ।

- 62:—Thus addressed in a manner in which the real state (sadbhāvāḥ) was not concealed by her who knew the meaning of the gestures [of Pārvatī], the handsome life-long Brahmacārīn not manifesting [any] signs of joy, asked Umā 'O dear on [is] that so, [or is it] a joke?'
- 63:—Then placing the crystal rosary of beads in [helf fore-hand, the fingers of which had been formed into a bud, the daughter of the mountain, who arranged her speech for a low time [in her mind] spoke with great difficulty in measure words [thus]—
- 64:—[O] you best of those who know the Vedas, as you have heard, this person [is] anxious to reach the exalted position of being the spouse of the Highest God]; this penance is reported to be the means of securing it; nothing is inaccessible to [one's] desires.
- 65:—Then said the Brahmacārin:—Maheśvara is known in me; you again are quite desirous of having him; but consider

१ प्र एव

अवस्तुनिर्बन्धपरे कथं नु ते करोऽयमागुक्ताविवाहकौतुकः । करेण श्रमोर्वेलयीकृताहिना सहिष्यते तत्यथमावलम्बनम् ॥ ६६ ॥ CONSTRUE: (हे) अवस्तुनिर्वन्थपरे, आमुक्तविवाहकौतुकः अयं ते करः ब्ल्यीकृताहिना श्रम्भोः करेण तत्प्रथमावलम्बनं कथं नु सहिष्यते।

त्वमेव तावत्परिचिन्तय स्वयं कदाचिदेते यदि योगमहैतः। वधूद्कूलं कलहंसलक्षणं गजाजिनं शोणिताबिन्ह्वार्षे च॥ ६७॥]

CONSTRUE: त्वम् एव तावत् स्वयं परिचिन्तय, यदि कल्हंसलक्षणं वधूदुक्लं बोणितविन्दुवर्षि गजाजिनं च एते कदाचित् योगम् अहतः।

? 11

ष्ट्रेकसुन्

नम्।

इइ ॥

प्रमर्पयर्

3 11

नः उद्दे

हे ॥६५॥

र्थिनी ए

1 stail

anin

cārin one

[her

d. this

1018 sure

YOU

sition

ortect

ne's)

vn to

चतुष्कपुष्पप्रकरावकीर्णयाः परोऽपि को नाम तवानुमन्यते। अलक्तकाङ्कानि पदानि पादयोर्विकीर्णकेशासु परेतभूमिषु ॥ ६८॥

CONSTRUE: तव चतुःकपुःपप्रकरावकिणियोः पादयोः अलक्तकाङ्कानि पदानि इः नाम परः अपि विकीर्णकेशासु परेतभूमिषु अनुमन्यते ।

अयुक्तरूपं किमतःपरं वद् त्रिनेत्रवक्षः सुलभं तवापि यत्। स्तनद्वयेऽस्मिन्हरिचन्द्रनास्पदे पदं चिताभस्मरजः करिष्यति ॥ ६९॥

CONSTRUE: यत् तव अपि हरिचन्दनास्पदे अस्मिन् स्तनद्वये त्रिनेत्रवक्षःसुलभं चिताभस्मरजः पदं करिष्यति, अतः परम् अयुक्तरूपं किम् , वद ।

ing him possessed of a passion for inauspicious course of conduct, I do not dare to follow you [that is, to encourage you in your undertaking].

66:—[O] you intent on persistence for [securing] a worthless object, how possibly could this hand of yours which has the marriage-string tied [round it], suffer the first taking of it by Siva's hand which has the serpents encircling [it]?

67:—Just do consider you yourself, whether these two could ever deserve [or, suffer] union [with each other]—the bride's silken garment marked with [figures of] swans [drawn on it] and the elephant-skin dripping forth drops of blood!

68:—What stranger even, for the matter of that, would agree to your foot-prints marked with the Alaktaka dye, of the feet moving to and fro on the mass of flowers in the [marriage] quadrangle, [to be placed] on the regions of the dead, with hair scattered about?

69:—Say, what further unseemly [thing] than this [can there be] that on this pair of breasts, a [fit] abode for the १ क च हंसलक्षणं क चाजिनं शोणितविन्दुवर्षि तत्।

कुमारसंभवम्

इयं च तेऽन्या पुरतो विडम्बना यदूड्या वारणराजहाँर्यया । विलोक्य वृद्धोक्षमधिष्ठितं त्वया महाजनः स्मेरसुखो भविष्यति ॥७०॥

CONSTRUE: इयं च ते पुरतः अन्या विडम्बना यत् ऊढ्या वारणराजहार्येक त्वया अधिष्ठितं बृद्धोक्षं विलोक्य महाजनः स्मेरमुखः भविष्यति ।

द्वयं गतं संप्रति शोचनीयतां समागमप्रार्थनया कपाछिनः। कला च साकान्तिमती कलावतस्त्वमस्य लोकस्य च नेत्रकौसुदी॥७१॥

CONSTRUE: कपालिनः समागमप्रार्थनया संप्रति द्वयं शोचनीयतां गतम्। कलावतः कान्तिमती सा कला च, अस्य लोकस्य नेत्रकौमुदी त्वं च।

वपुर्विस्तपाक्षमलक्ष्यजन्मता दिगम्बरत्वेन निवेदितं वसु । वरेषु यद्वालमृगाक्षि मृग्यते तदस्ति किं व्यस्तमपि त्रिलोचने ॥७१॥

CONSTRUE: व्युः विरूपाक्षम् , अलक्ष्यजन्मता, दिगम्बरत्वेन वसु निवेदितम्: (हे) बालमृगाक्षि, वरेषु यत् मृग्यते तत् त्रिलोचने व्यस्तम् अपि अस्ति किम्।

Haricandana, even of you [who are so beautiful], the dust of ashes of the funeral pyre, easy to be obtained from the bosom of Siva [the three-eyed God], would make [its] abode?

70:—And this again would be another [that is, extraordinary] ridicule in front of [that is, waiting for] you, that on seeing the old bull mounted by you married [to Siva and] fit to be borne by a lordly elephant [or, the Airāvata], great folk [or, the gentry] would be possessed of smiling faces.

71;—Two things have now become fit to be pitied by [their] earnest desire for union with the God possessed of [that is, wearing] skulls,—that famous $(s\bar{a})$ resplendent digit of the moon, and you, the moon-light to the eyes of this world.

72:—[His] body [is] possessed of deformed eyes; [his] descent [is] unknown; [his] wealth is indicated by [his] being possessed of the quarters as [his] garment; [O] you possessed of eyes similar to those of a young deer, does even a single thing out of what is searched for in the case of bridegrooms, exist in the [case of the] three-eyed one?

१ मार्थया २ पिनाकिनः 3 कलात्मनस्त्व

निवर्तयास्मादसदीिपतान्मनः क तिङ्किधस्त्वं क च पुण्यलक्षणा । अपेक्ष्यते साधुजनेन वैदिकी स्मशानग्र्लस्य न यूपसिकया॥७३॥

CONSTRUE: अस्मात् असदीप्सितात् मनः निवर्तयः, तद्विधः कः, पुण्यलक्षणा त्वं च कः, साधुजनेन स्मशानग्रलस्य वैदिकी यूपसिकया न अपेक्ष्यते !

11901

नहार्यका

11981

गतम्।

11991

दितम्:

st of osom

trathat

] fit

folk

ieir

18,

the

is l

ing

ing

in इति द्विजातौ प्रतिकूलवादिनि प्रवेपमानाधरलक्ष्यक्रोपया। विकुष्टितस्रूलतमाहिते तया विलोचने तिर्यगुपान्तलोहिते ॥ ७४॥

CONSTRUE: इति प्रतिकृलवादिनि द्विजातौ (सित) प्रवेपमानाधरलक्ष्यकोपया तया उपान्तलोहिते विलोचने विकुश्चितभूलतं तिर्यक् आहिते।

उवाच चैनं प्रमार्थतो हरं न वेत्सि नूनं यत एवमात्थ माम् । अलोकसामान्यमचिन्त्यहेतुकं द्विषन्ति मन्श्र अति महात्मनाम्॥७५॥

CONSTRUE: एनम् उवाच च नूनं त्वं परमार्थतः हरं न वेत्सि यतः माम् एवम् आत्थः मन्दाः महात्मनाम् अळोकसामान्यम् अचिन्त्यहेतुकं चरितं द्विषन्ति ।

विषत्यतीकारपरेण मङ्गलं निषव्यते भूतिसमुत्सुकेन वा । जगच्छरण्यस्य निराशिषः सतः किमोभिराशोपहतात्मवृत्तिभिः ॥७६॥

CONSTRUE: विपत्प्रतीकारपरेण भूतिसमुरसुकेन वा मङ्गलं निषेव्यते; जगच्छ-रण्यस्य निराशिषः सतः आशोपहतात्मवृत्तिभिः एभिः (मङ्गलैः) किम्।

- 73:—Turn away [your] mind from this unbecoming desire; where [is] he of that nature, and where [are] you possessed of auspicious signs? By the good people is not expected of an iron-stake in the cemetery, the honour due to a sacrificial post according to Vedic rites.
- 74:—When the twice-born one had talked thus adversely, by her, whose anger could be detected from the quivering lower lip, were cast askance [ber] eyes red at the corners, in a manner in which the creeper-like eye-brows were contracted.
- 75:—And [she thus] addressed him—Surely you do not know Hara aright, inasmuch as you talk to me thus. Block-heads find fault with the course of conduct of the magnanimous, which is not common with [that of the ordinary people in the] world, [and] the purpose for which can not [easily] be divined.
- 76:—Auspicious things are resorted to by one [who is] intent on warding off adversity or [who is] very eager for [that

१ निक्ञित २ किमाभिः

कुमारसंभवम्

अर्किचनः सन्प्रसवः स सम्पद्गं त्रिलोकनाथः पितृसद्मगोचरः। स भीमरूपः शिव इत्युदीर्यते न सन्ति याथार्थ्यविदः पिनाकिनः॥७०॥

CONSTRUE: सः अकिंचनः सन् संपदां प्रभवः, पितृसद्मगोचरः (सन्) त्रिलोकनाथः, भीमरूपः सः शिवः इति उदीर्यते ; पिनाकिनः याथार्थ्यविदः न सन्ति ।

विभूषणाञ्चासि पिनन्द्रभोगि वा गजाजिनालम्बि दुक्कलधारि वा । कपालि वा स्याद्थवेन्दुशेखरं न विश्वमूर्तेरवधार्यते वपुः॥ ७८॥ भीरि

तम्

अस्त्

निव

bu!

as sal

red

Μa

on en be

wh

ma

My [fi

for low

Bon

alse

CONSTRUE: विश्वसूर्तेः वपुः विभूषणोद्धासि पिनद्धभोगि वा. गजाजिनालम्बि दुक्लधारि वा कपालि वा अथवा इन्दुशेखरं स्यात्, न अवधार्यते ।

तदङ्गसंसर्गमवाष्य कल्पते ध्रुवं चितामस्मरजा विशुद्धये। तथाहि चत्याभिनयाकियाच्युतं विालिप्यते मौलिभिरम्बरी-कसाम्॥ ७९॥

CONSTRUE: तदङ्गसंसर्गम् अवाप्य चिताभस्मरजः ध्रुवं विश्रद्धये कल्पते, तथाहि, चृत्याभिनयिकयाच्युतं (तत्) अम्बरोकसां मौलिभिः विलिप्यते । is, to secure] prosperity; what has he, [who is] the refuge of the world [and] without any desires, to do with these [auspicious things] which overpower the functions of the mind by [creating] desires?

- 77:—Possessed of no wealth, he [is] the source of all prosperity; Lord of the three worlds, [he] is to be seen [living] in the cemetery; possessed of a terrible form, he is declared to be beneficent [or, gentle]; there are none who have known the Pināka-holder as he really is.
- 78:—Resplendent with ornaments or possessed of serpents tied about, clinging to the elephant-hide or wearing the silken garments, possessed of the skulls or the moon as [its] crest,—the body of him whose form [is] the universe, can not be ascertained [to be possessed of a particular shape].
- 79:—Surely [even] the particles of the ashes of the funeral pyre, having secured contact with his body are meant for purification; thus [they] dropped down in the acts of gesticulation at the time of dancing, are borne on the heads of the dwellers in heaven.

१ रजोऽपि २ तथा च ३ विलुप्यते

असंपदस्तस्य वृषेण गच्छतः प्रभिन्नदिग्वारणवाहनो वृषा । करोति पादाबुपगम्य भौलिना विनिद्रमन्दाररजोरुणाङ्गुली॥ ८०॥

CONSTRUE: प्रभिन्नदिग्वारणवाहनः वृषा असंपदः वृषेण गुच्छतः तस्य पादौ भौलिना उपगम्य विनिद्रमन्दाररजोऽरुणाङ्गुली करोति।

विवक्षता दोषमपि च्युतात्मना त्वयैकमीशं प्रति साधु भाषितम्। यमामनन्त्यात्मभुवोऽपि कारणं कथं स लक्ष्यप्रभवो भविष्यति ॥८१॥

CONSTRUE: दोषं विवक्षता अपि च्युतात्मना त्वया ईशं प्रति एकं साधु भाषि-तम् यम् आत्मभुवः अपि कारणम् आमनन्ति सः कथं ठक्ष्यप्रभवः भविष्यति ।

अलं विवादेन यथा श्रुतस्त्वया तथाविधस्तावदशेषमस्तु सः। ममात्र भावेकरसं मनः स्थितं न कामवृत्तिर्वचनीयमीक्षते॥ ८१॥

CONSTRUE: विवादेन अलम्, त्वया यथा श्रुतः सः अशेषं तथाविधः तावत् अस्तु; मम भावेकरसं मनः अत्र स्थितम्; न कामगृत्तिः वचनीयम् ईक्षते ।

निवार्यतामालि किमप्ययं बदुः पुनर्विवक्षः स्फुरितोत्तराधरः। न केवलं यो महतोऽपभाषते शुणोति तस्मादंपि यः स पापभाक् ॥८२॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) आलि, स्फ़ुरितोत्तराघरः पुनः किम् अपि विवक्षः अयं वदः निवार्यताम्; न केवलं यः महतः अपभाषते तस्मात् यः द्यणोति सः अपि पापभाक्।

- 80:—Of him, possessed of no wealth [and] moving on [his] bull, Indra, with the intoxicated (prabhinna) quarter-elephant as [his] vehicle, having reached the feet [that is, having humbly saluted him] with his head, makes [them] possessed of toes reddish with the pollen of full-blown [lit. free from sleep] Mandara flowers.
- 81: By you, of depraved mind, desirous of speaking out only the faults, has been spoken of well, one thing with reference to the Lord. How can [or, will] he, whom they declare to be the source of even the self-existing [Brahmadeva], be one whose origin can be known [or, pointed out]?
- 82:—Enough of [this] wrangling; let him be, for the matter of that (tāvat), completely as you have heard him [to be]. My mind possessed of the only sentiment of love, has been [firmly] set on him; conduct prompted by love does not care for censure
- 83:—[O] friend, stop this [braggart] boy [who] with [his] lower lip throbbing a great deal [seems] desirous of saying tomething or other again; not only he who abuses the great, but also he who hears from the same, [is] a partaker of sin.

12

११९९

न्)

स्वि

हि,

he

us

y

0-

in

be

1e

S

n

[🤊] उपनम्य २ स्थिरम् ३ असी 💮

इतो गमिष्यास्यथवीति वादिनी चचाल सा चै स्तनभिन्नवल्कला। स्वरूपमास्थाय च तां कृतास्मितः समाललम्बे वृषराजकेतनः॥८१॥

CONSTRUE: अथवा इतः गमिष्यामि इति वादिनी सा स्तनभिन्नवल्कला चनाह च स्वरूपम् आस्थाय कृतस्मितः वृषराजकेतनः तां समाललम्ब च ।

तं वीक्ष्य वेपश्चमती सरसाङ्गयष्टि निक्षेपणायं पदमुद्धृतमुद्धहन्ती॥ मार्गाचलन्यातिकराकुलितेव सिन्धः रोलाधिराजतनया न ययो न तस्थी॥ ८५॥

CONSTRUE: तं वृक्ष्य वेपश्चमती सरसाङ्गयष्टिः निक्षेपणाय उद्भृतं पद्म उद्गहन्ती शैलाधिराजतनया मार्गाचलव्यतिकराकुलिता सिन्धः इव न यया न तस्थो ।

e

h

m

is ti

5

5

अद्यप्रभृत्यवनताङ्गि[®] तवास्मि दासः कीतस्तपोमिरिति वादिनि चन्द्रमौलौ। अह्नाय सा नियमजं क्रममुत्सूमुर्ज क्रेशः फलेन हि युनर्नवतां विधत्ते॥ ८३॥

CONSTRUE: (हे) अवनताङ्गि, अद्यप्रभृति [अहं] तव तपोभिः क्रीतः दासः असि इति चन्द्रमालो वादिनि (सति) सा नियमजं क्रमम् अह्वाय उत्ससर्जः क्रेशः हि फलन पुर

इति महाकविश्रीकालिद्रासकृतौ कुमारसंभव महाकाव्ये तपःफलोद्यो नाम पश्चमः सर्गः।

84:—The moment she, with the bark-garment dislocated from [her] breasts [owing to great hurry or excitement], moved on, saying 'or, I shall go away from hence,' the God whose sign is the lordly bull [that is, Siva], having assumed his natural form, with a smile, held her up.

85:—On beholding him, the daughter of the supreme lord of mountains, all trembling, with her slim [or, beautiful] body full of perspiration [and] possessing a foot raised up for [in the same place], like a river bewildered by the obstacle of a mountain in the course.

86:— 'From to-day, [O] you possessed of a beautiful [litstooping] body, I am your slave bought by [your] austerities'—as adieu to the fatigue due to [her observance of the] vows; for fatigue brings on freshness again by [its] fruit [being secured].

Here ends the Fifth Canto, entitled 'The Rise of the Penance-fruit' in the great poem Kumārasambhava [The Birth of Kumāra], the composition of the great poet, the venerable Kālidāsa.

१ बाला २ निस्नेग एव ३ अनवमाङ्गि 🔻 पिधत्ते

NOTES

CANTO I

[1-17 Description of the Himalaya mountain possessed of a divine nature. The Himālaya has innumerable jewels. minerals, Bhurja trees, mighty herbs glowing at night, habitable caves etc. and is thus fittingly called the king of mountains. 18-20 Himālaya marries Menā, and Maināka is born of the pair. 21-24 Menā conceives for the second and Satī is reborn as a daughter to Himālaya. 25-30 Satī was named Pārvatī who came to be called Umā afterwards, 31-49 Description of Parvati's youthful beauty. 50 Nārada predicts that Pārvatī would be the wife of Siva. 51-60 Siva has been practising penance after renouncing the world ever since Satī had immolated herself on the pyre; Himālaya requests Siva to allow Pārvatī to be in attendance upon him. Siva agrees to that and Parvatī serves him by keeping ready all materials required for the daily sacrificial. rites 1.

Stanza 1—A Mahākāvya should begin, according to Dandin with a blessing or salutation or some reference to the plot itself (आशीर्नमस्क्रिया वस्तुनिर्देशो वापि तन्मुखम्।). The poet by referring to Himālaya, the father of Pārvatī, the Heroine of the poem, has amply satisfied the last alternative viz. वस्तुनिर्देश. According to some, by vastunirdesa we are to understand a reference to the Hero only, as for instance, the Hayagrīvavadha begins with आसीत् दैत्यो हयग्रीनः...The commentator Arunagirinātha remarks हिमवांश्वात्र प्रवन्धे पताकानायकः. It is a convention of Sanskrit writers to begin their works with a salutation or benediction. A drama, for instance, always commences with the Nandi. A Mahākāvya that begins with vastunirdesa, has apparently no scope for a proper Mangala, hence commentators are insuch cases at great pains to discover some sort of Mangala which is credited with the power of removing all obstacles in the way of the completion of the work undertaken. Thus-

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

कला। ॥८४॥ चनाव

पदम्

ः अस्मि न पुनः

नाम

ated oved hose his full for on of a

[lit bid for ed]

tion

Aruṇagiri remarks इह तु हिमवत्कीर्तनात्मङ्गलमप्याचिरितमेव. The word Devatātmā also shows that it is the deity presiding over the mountain, that is praised here. In those cases, where by no stretch of meaning, a Mangala can be found, commentators content themselves by remarking that the Mangala is not directly expressed there, but the poet has recourse to it in his mind! Annambhatṭa in his Dīpikā on the Tarkasamgraha, thus remarks about the desirability of a Mangala, ननु मङ्गलस्य समाप्तिसायनत्वं नास्ति। मङ्गले कृतेऽपि कादम्बर्यादौ निर्विद्रपरिसमाप्त्यदर्शनात्। मङ्गलामावेऽपि किरणावल्यादौ समाप्तिदर्शनाद्वयव्यतिरेकव्यभिचारादिति चेन्न। कादम्बर्यादौ विद्ववाहुत्यात्समाप्त्यभावः। किरणावल्यादौ तु प्रन्थाद्विरेव मङ्गलं कृतमतो न व्यभिचारः। ननु मङ्गलस्य कर्तव्यत्वे किं प्रमाणमिति चेन्न। शिष्टाचारानुमितिश्वतेरेव प्रमाणत्वात्। समाप्तिकामो मङ्गलमाचरेत् इति श्रुतेः। Vide also Patanjali's Mahābhāṣya, माङ्गलिक आचार्यो महतः शास्त्रीघस्य मङ्गलार्थे वृद्धिशब्दमादितः प्रयुङ्गः। मङ्गलादीनि हि शास्त्राणि प्रयन्ते वीरपुर्वकाणि भवन्त्यायुष्मत्वर्वकाणि चाध्येतारश्च वृद्धियुक्ता यथा

रिति। हिमालगः (lit. the abode of snow) is one of the Varsaparvatas (हिमनान हेमकृटश्र निषधशास्य दक्षिणे । नीलः श्वेतश्र शृङ्गी च उत्तरे वर्षः पर्वताः ॥ Visnu Purana II. 2. 10) and is the northern boundary of Bharatavarsa (उत्तरं यत् समुद्रस्य हिमाद्रेश्वेव दक्षिणम् । वर्षे तद्भारतं नाम भारती यत्र संततिः ॥ ibid III. 3. 1.) The expression देवतात्मा is put in to justify the subsequent description of the mountain as having married Menā and brought forth progeny etc. By Himalaya, therefore, we are not to understand the inanimate mountain, but the deity presiding over it. उत्तरस्यां दिशि is a statement of fact. It is also used to show that Himalaya was a god, as the abode of the gods is said to be in the north, while that of the demons is in the south. the poet calls the region of the Himalaya as a Devabhumih (पितुः प्रदेशास्तव देवभूमयः।), नगानाम् अधिराजः (अधिकः राजा the supreme Lord). The Himalaya is the loftiest mountain in the world and is but second in importance to the Meru mountain. as the same thing as अवगाहा (Gerund of गाह with अव) the अ of अब and अपि, being optionally dropped, according to the Sutra वष्टिभागुरि etc. Thus we have both पिनद्ध and अपिनद्ध. वगाह्य having plunged into, that is, stretching as far as. This feature, viz. stretching forth as far as the Eastern and Western ocean, does not seem to be a peculiarity of the Himalaya alone. the Brahmanda Purāṇa कैलासा हिमवांखीन दक्षिणे वर्षपर्वती । पूर्वपश्चिमगावेता -वणवान्तरुपिश्यतौ ॥ the Kailasa also is described as being possessed

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

orq

DO

tors

not

in aha.

लस्य

नात्।

बर्या-

वार:।

वात्।

sya,

ने हि

यथा

rsa-

वर्ष-

ary

नाम

out

as

By

ate

s a aya

the 45.

nih

me

rld

गाह्य

of

itra

ing

JiZ.

an,

In

वेता-

sed

93:

of the same characteristic. In Śāk. VII. Kālidāsa speaks of the Hemakuta mountain in the same manner (राजा-मातले कतमोऽयं पूर्वापरसमुद्रावगाढः कनकरसनिस्यन्दी...सानुसानालोक्यते । मातालेः — आयुष्मन् , एषः खल हेमकूटो नाम...।). मानदण्ड:—a rod for measuring (मानस्य दण्डः) or a rod which is a measure (मीयते अनेन इति मानम् तचासौ दण्डश्व). In order to measure small objects, a small measure, like 'a foot,' would do; but the earth is so vast that to measure it, one would require a great mountain like the Himālaya, Butaccording to this interpretation, the vast size of the earth and not of the Himālaya, would be mainly emphasised. passage may, therefore, be explained in another way. Himalaya as it were measures the whole of the Earth from the East to the West. The two boundaries of the mountain are also the two boundaries of the Earth. This explanation is obviously not correct geographically as the Himalaya. cannot really be said to be touching the Eastern ocean (the Bay of Bengal) or the Western ocean (the Arabian sea) either. मानदण्ड: seems also to have been used to suggest the meaning 'vanquishing the pride' (with a pun on $m\bar{a}na$). The Himalaya, owing to its vast size has as it were vanquished the pride of the Earth for being so vast. The following sixteen verses describe in detail the Himālaya. The Matsya Purāna (117th Adhyaya) also gives a detailed description of the same, which also contains certain characteristics described by the poet. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyālamkārasūtravītti as an illustration of the figure of speech Slesa, and of Avaisamya. The Alamkaracudamani quotes it in connection with Slesa and Uttara. The Alamkarasutra and Kavyalamkaratippana quote it as a case of उपमाभासो वा उत्प्रेक्षाभासो वा. The Vyaktiviveka also quotes it.

Stanza 2—The story of King Pṛthu and the milking of the earth-cow by him is referred to in the Viṣṇu (I. 13), Matsya (10), Padma (I. 27), Vāyu (62) and Bhāgavata Purāṇas, and also in the Śāntiparvan and Harivamsa. The story is briefly as follows:—King Vena who was extremely wicked and irreligious, was killed by the sages who by churning down his body produced a very handsome person, Pṛthu who became king after Vena. The Earth, being afraid of him who was angry to see all Dharma lost in the world, began to run away.

cel

देवव

सोम

one

ver

dic

ble

po

fro

are no

me

तने

m

th

po

जल

नील

ide

पदा

1 tic

-san

K

fig

de

for

m

of

th

ap

SU

D da

ex

W

ac

94

from him, assuming the form of a cow. Prthu followed her armed with a bow and overtaking her asked her to fulfil the desired objects of the people. The Earth consented to that and Prthu milked of her, with Svayambhuva Manu as the calf milk which then was transformed into corn etc. Others also followed Prthu's example, each class selecting a milker and a calf out of its constituents. The mountains selected Meru as the milker and Himalaya as the calf. Read -... सुनीथा नाम तस्यास्त् वेनो नाम सतः पुरा । अथर्मानिस्तश्वासीद्वलवान्वसुधाधिपः ॥ ...शापेन मार्यिले नमराजकभयार्दिताः ॥ मन्मधुर्बोद्यणास्तस्य बलाद्देहमकल्मषाः ॥ ...तत्कायान्मथ्यमानात् निपेत्रम्ळें च्छजातयः ॥ पित्रंशस्य चांशेन धार्मिको धर्मचारिणः ॥ उत्पन्नो दक्षिणाः द्धस्तात्सधतुः सशरो गदी । दिव्यतेजोमयवपुः सरत्नकवचाङ्गदः ॥ पृथोरेवाभवद्यानाः त्ततः पृथुरजायत । ...निःस्वाध्यायवषर्कारं निर्धर्म विक्य भूतलम् ॥ दरधुमेवोद्यतः कोपाच्छरेणामितविकमः। ततो गोरूपमास्थाय भूः पलाथितुमुद्यता ॥ पृष्ठतोऽनुगतस्तस्या प्रथर्दी सशरासनः । ततः स्थित्वैकदेशे तु किं करोमीति चात्रवीत् ॥ पृश्रुरः यवदद्वाक्यमीः स्थितं देहि सुत्रते । सर्वस्य जगतः शीव्रं स्थावरस्य चरस्य च ॥ तथैव साववीद्भृमिर्दुदोह स नराधिपः। स्वके पाणी पृथुर्वैतसं कृत्वा स्वायंभुवं मनुम्।। तदन्नमभवच्छुदं प्रजा जीवन्ति येन वै॥ ...गिरिभिर्वसुधा दुग्धा रत्नानि विविधानि च । औषधानि च दिव्यानि दोग्धा मेर्क्महाचलः । वत्सोऽभूद्धिमवांस्तत्र पात्रं शैलमयं पुनः ॥ (Matsya Purāṇa 10). The same passage mentions the Gods, Sages, Pitis Nāgas, Asuras, Yakṣas, Pretas, Gandharvas, and Vṛkṣas, as having milked the earth, with suitable milkers and calves. It is well-known that a cow would give milk properly only when she has her favourite calf by her side. The calf also sucks the milk first and then the milker gets his share. By describing the Himālaya as the calf, the poet suggests that the Himalaya is the best of mountains and that he possesses the best of the treasures yielded by the earth to mountains. मेरी स्थिते is loc. abs. construction. भास्वन्ति (भास्वतीः) may be construed with महीष्यी: also, meaning 'luminous'. रत्नानि gems. रत्नम् is also used to denote the best of a species (जाती जाती यदुत्कृष्टं तद्रत्नमिति कथ्यते). पृथुना उपिद्ष्यम्-Mallinātha explains उपदिष्टाम् as ईहक्तया प्रदर्शितां घरित्रीम्, गोरूपघरामिति शेषः। उपदिष्टाम् rather means 'instructed' or 'admonished'. The Earth agreed to be milked when Prthu asked her to do so. दुह् is one of those roots which take two accusatives; here we have चरित्रीम् and रत्नानि, the two objects of दुदुदुः. The Sāhitya quotes this verse with the remark, तच्छन्दस्य प्रकान्तप्रसिद्धानुभूतार्थत्वे यच्छन्द्रस्यार्थत्वम् । The verse is quoted in Dhvanyalokalocana also.

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

her,

I the

that calf.

also

and a Meru

ा नाम रयित्वै-

मानात्त

क्षिणा-

ब्दिनाः

वोद्यतः

तस्या

म्यमी •

दिंदोह

प्रजा

व्यानि

rāna

Pitrs,

s. as

Ives.

only

also

By

that esses

the वतीः)

रत्नान

जाती

lains

ther

be hose

and

erse The 95

Stanza 3-Himālaya was possessed of innumerable excellent objects of every kind (उमाख्यस्य कन्यारत्नस्य, वैद्यदिनां मणिरत्नानां देवदाहप्रभृतीनां वृक्षरत्नानां मृतसंजीवनीप्रभृतीनाम् औषधरत्नानां गङ्गादीनां सरिद्रत्नानां सोमलताप्रभृतीनां यज्ञद्रव्यरत्नानां च प्रभवः - Nārāyaṇa). There was however. one blemish about him, viz. the excessive snow, as his very name connoted. The poet says that this one blemish did not take away from the loveliness of the mountain as the blemish was more than counterbalanced by the host of virtues possessed by him, just as the spots on the moon do not detract from the beauty of the rays of the moon. The moon's rays are extremely cool and pleasing. This their characteristic is not in any way disturbed by the fact that the orb of the moon has spots upon it. In Sak. I (मलिनमपि हिमांशोलेक्स लक्ष्मी तनोति।...) the poet seems to suggest that the stain on the moon's orb is as it were an ornament or decoration, rather than an ugly feature. The following verse gives the various poetic conceits about the spots on the moon, -अड्ड केडपि शराङ्किर जलिनिधेः पङ्कं परे मेनिरे सारङ्गं कतिचिच संजगिदरे भूच्छायमैच्छन्परे । इन्दोर्यहालितेन्द्र-नीलशकलस्यामं दरीदर्यते तत्सान्दं निशि पीतमन्यतमसं कुक्षिस्थमाचदमहे ॥ The idea in the second line is not accepted by all. Cf. अमित्युणोऽपि पदार्थो दोषेणैकेन निन्दितो भवति। निखिलसायनराजो गन्धेनोग्रेण लग्छन इव।। (Rasagangādhara p. 213) This verse is quoted as an illustration of उदाहरण in the Rasagangādhara, and in the Alamkārasarvasva as an illustration of अर्थान्तरन्यास. It is also quoted in Kuvalayānanda and Alainkārakaustubha as an instance of the figure of speech, विकस्वर.

Stanza 4—वातुमता—वातुसंपद, plenty of minerals used for decoration purposes. The celestial nymphs used the minerals for decorating their hands, feet etc. Himalaya thus provided materials for the toilet of the Apsarases. As the red colour of the mineral was also reflected in the clouds on the peaks they on account of the red tinge thus imparted to them, appeared like the clouds at the time of the twilight when the sun's rays also impart a similar reddish hue to them. As this phenomenon of the red clouds was noticed throughout the day on the peaks, the धातुमता is said to be an अक्राइस्त्रच्या. The expressions अपसरो...संपादियत्री and बहाइक...स्पाम् are to be construed with both धातुमता and सन्त्या. The twilight (of the evening) also accomplishes the toilet of the Apsarases, as when evening sets in, the celestial nymphs begin to decorate their bodies, with view to appear to advantage, before they start for the rendezvou to meet their lovers. The भातुमता accomplishes the toilet h furnishing the nymphs with the necessary colouring materials Both धातमता and सन्ध्या impart a reddish hue to the clouds Mallinatha remarks अप्सरसः सन्ध्याश्रमेण प्रसाधनाय त्वरयन्तीति भावः According to him, the propriety of धातुमता is that the ladie mistake the reddish hue of the clouds caused by the mineral for that caused by the twilight. This meaning would h appropriate if the poet wished to describe an occasional pheno menon on the mountain. It appears however that such is no the intention of the poet who merely wants to describe the richness of minerals on the mountain, which would produce such a phenomenon for all time. अप्सरसां विश्रममण्डनानि, अप्सरसङ्का the celestial damsels whom Indra uses chiefly for alluring sages who practise rigorous penance. They are so because they are born of water, अन्त निर्भयनादेव रसात्तरमाद्वराश्चियः उत्पेत्रमनुजश्रेष्ठ तस्माद्प्सरसोऽभवन् ॥ The Nirulta (V. 13) thus derive the word, अप्सरा अप्तारिण्यपि वा अप्स इति रूपनाम ... तद्रराभवति रूपवती तद्त्या त्तमिति वा तदस्यै दत्तमितिं वा । अन्सरस् is generally used in the pluis though the singular is also occasionally met with. विश्रममन्डनम् amorous decoration. Mallinatha gives an alternative explanation (विश्रमस्त्ररयाकाले भूवास्थानाविपर्ययः। Dasar upa) for विश्रम and take it to mean 'the misplacement due to hurry.' As a matter of fact, according to the Dasarupa विभ्रमः would mean 'misplace ment of ornaments due to hurry 'so that the word मण्डन 10 विभ्रममण्डन would be superfluous. Even if we take विभ्रम to mean विपरीतन्यास only, the expression अप्सरोविभ्रम...would not be appropriate with धातुमता. (as there is no reason why the richness in minerals on the peaks should cause a misplacement of ornaments on the part of the nymphs,) or with सुन्ध्या either (3 there could not have been this विश्रम every evening). The expression would fit in only with an अकालसन्त्या (for, when the nymphs find that the evening has come all of a sudden, they would be naturally hurrying up to do their toilet and mistakes por are likely to occur in the wearing of ornaments etc.). But the or the poet does not appear to impress upon the reader the resemblance of अकालसन्ध्या to धातुमत्ता, but that of सन्ध्या only, for the expression बठाइक...रागाम् has no special propriety with an अकाल

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

सन्ध irr शब्दे Th pra अत्र gen obs (अ मत्वथ

Gar

bein

लिय

the

Kin

thai sam pow fron high belo the tabl sho; up t thus effec are or t

cou

the

by t

With गताम

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

97

सन्त्या. बलाहकः is explained as वारीणां वाहकः (a cloud) and is an irregular formation from वारि and वाहक. वलाहकानां छेदेषु (अत्र छेदezvou शब्देन छिन्नं द्रव्यं लक्ष्यते । Nārāyaṇa) विभक्तः रागः (redness) यया ताम. This verse is quoted in the Kavyapradipa and the Kavyaprakāśa, to illustrate the fault निहतार्थत्व. Mammața remarks. अत्र मत्ताशब्दः क्षीवार्थे निहतार्थः। The word मत्ता in धातुमत्ताम् is more generally known to mean 'intoxicated' and this meaning obscures the real meaning 'possession of' or 'richness in.' (अत्र मत्ताशब्दः पदैकदेशः क्षीबायाम् (उन्मत्तायां) सुप्रसिद्धं इति तेन (क्षीवार्थन) मत्त्रथों निहन्यते (तिरोधीयते) Bālabodhinī).

Stanza 5-Siddhas are semi-divine beings like the Gandbarvas, Vidyadharas etc. Siddhas are also supernatural beings possessed of the eight miraculous powers (सिद्धिः, आणिमा लिवमा प्राप्तिः प्राकाम्यं महिमा तथा । ईशित्वं च वशित्वं च तथा कामावसायिता ॥). As the poet describes in the succeeding verses, Vidyadharas, Kinnaras etc. who are semi-divine beings, the chances are that by सिद्धs we are to understand persons belonging to the rive same species. And again, Siddhas possessed of miraculous powers could have got rid of their trouble without moving from their places at all. The Himalaya has his peaks higher up than the region occupied by the clouds (see I.16. below). When the Siddhas were too much oppressed by the sun's heat on the peaks, they would go down to the table-land below and enjoy the shade of the clouds which could only move along the waist or the middle portion of न 10 the mountain. When again they would be troubled by the mean opro showers of rain from the clouds or by frost, they would go up to the peaks and bask there in the sun. The Himālaya, ess in thus, unlike other mountains, provides against the evil orna effects of the excess of both heat and rain. As the clouds (35 are described in this verse as reaching only the Mekhalā e exthe or the slopes of the mountain, we shall have to understand thes by the Sikharas in the last verse only the minor peaks and akes poot the highest ones. आमेखलम् = मेखलापर्यन्तम्-मेखला is the girdle the or the waist-band; with a reference to a mountain, it means sem the middle portion 'or 'the slopes'. घनाना is to be construed the with both छायाम् and वृष्टिभिः. अधो भागे ये सानवः (table-land) तान् काल गताम्. The reading अधःसानुगताः (to be construed with सिद्धाः) 13

with let by

terial

louds

भाव:

ladie

ineral

ild b

heno is no

be the

oduc

सुड ग्रा

luring

called

(श्चियः।

दनया- olural

-डनम-

lana

take ter of lace

98 is also a good one or perhaps better. आतपवन्ति = प्रशस्तातपयुक्तानि प्रशंसायां मतुप, having a pleasant sunshine. The Trivandrum edition reads this verse after the next one, पदं तुषार...etc.

(ख

the शोण

app

The

com

elep

love

and upor

purp

love

धराः)

nāth

हिमवा

अश्वमु they

the f

othe

that तिरिक्त

Nārā

Kinn

क्रश्नु

one b flute

tune

caver

The 1

flute.

Stanza 6—विरात are mountaineers residing on the borders of the mountains, :किरं पर्यन्तभूमिम् अतन्ति गच्छन्ति. Cf. पर्यन्ताश्रीय-भिनिजस्य सदशं नाम्नः किरातैः कृतम्। Rat. II (According to Amara. किरात, शबर and पुलिन्द are म्लेच्छजातयः। A म्लेच्छ is thus described गोमांसभक्षको यस्त लोकवाह्यं च भाषते। सर्वाचारविद्यांनोऽसौ म्लेच्छ इत्यभिधीयते॥) They are described as being excellent hunters and The Kiratas wanted to hunt the elephant-killing lions on the Himalaya. On other mountains they could easily find out the track of the lions by merely following their bloody footprints. This was not possible on the Himalaya as the bloody foot-marks were washed away by the melting snow and so no trace of them was left. The Kiratas however were able to find out the desired track in another way. The lions had killed the elephants by pouncing upon their temples and tearing them off. The elephants are supposed to be carrying off gems in their temples. Some of the gems clung to the claws of the lions, and dropped down as the lions continued their journey. These gems dropped down at intervals furnished a clue for the Kirātas to the movements of the lions. Kirātas had come for hunting purposes, so they did not think of appropriating the gems for themselves, but valued them only in so far as they assisted them in finding out the track of the lions. The poet refers to the Himalaya as being the abode of the lions in Raghu (IV. 72) ... गुहाश्यानां सिंहानी परिवृत्यावठोकितम् ॥ तुषारस्य (snow) स्रतिभिः घौतं रक्तं यस्मिन् तत्. नखरन्त्रेम्यो मुक्तै:. The following verse gives the source of pearls-करीव (द्विपेन्द्र)जीमूतवराहराङ्गमत्स्याहि अन्त्यु द्वववेणुजानि । सुक्ताफलानि प्रथितानि लोकै तेषां तु अक्त्युद्भवमेव भूरि ॥ विन्दन्ति is also a good reading, meaning 'find out'.

Stanza 7—The barks of the Bhūrja trees which abound by M on the Himālaya were used by the Vidyādhara damsels as paper to write their love-letters upon. The red mineral fluid served the purpose of ink. The Bhūrja barks were red like the spots on elephants. Mallinātha explains that the barks were red in those parts where the characters were inscribed Bhar rum'

रतानि

ders

श्रयि-

iara.

ibed.

ते n).

ners.

the

out

oot-

vboo

l so

able ples

be be ems

OWI

ents

they

करीद

लों

ning

(खतवणी: लिखितभागेषु इति शेष: 1). More probably, the idea is that the Bhūrja barks were pink in colour and thus resembled the spots on the elephants. कुजरस्य विन्द्वः ते इव (or कुझराः इव विन्द्भिः) The elephants, at a particular age, have red spots appearing on their bodies. These spots are also called पद्मक. The Bhurja barks correspond to the spots and redness is the common quality or the barks correspond to the bodies of the elephants, and the red mineral drops to the spots. अनङ्गलेखा: love-letters. The Bhūrja barks could not be had elsewhere and could be used only by celestial ladies for writing letters upon. Ordinary women would use a Tālīpatra for the same purpose. In his Vikram. Kālidāsa makes Urvasī write her love-letter on a Bhurjapatra. विद्याधरः (विद्यायाः गुटिकाञ्जनादिविषयिण्याः धराः) are semi-divine beings (खङ्गगुलिकाञ्जनादिविद्याधारिणः—Arunagirinatha). The Alamkaracudamani quotes this verse with the remark ions ? हिमवानेव भूजींत्पात्तिपदम ।

Stanza 8—Kinnaras are the musicians of the gods (किनरा अक्षमुखा देवगायना इति दक्षिणावर्तः ।), कुारिसताः नराः किनराः, so called because they are partly human and partly horse. Some of them have the face of a horse, the rest of the body having a human form; others have a human face, with the rest of the body resembling that of a horse (अश्वमुखा अनश्वमुखाश्चेति द्विविधाः किनराः। अश्वमुखाः मुखव्य-तिस्तिषु गात्रेषु नराकृतयः। अनश्वमुखास्तु मुखे नराकृतयः इतरत्र पश्वाकृतयः। but out Narayana). It appears from Sisupalavadha (IV, 38) that the a as Kinnaras are different from Asvamukhas, विम्बोध बहु मनुते तुरङ्गव-भहानां क्त्रश्चुम्बन्तं मुखमिह किन्नरं प्रियायाः ।, others identify the two. Before One begins to sing, some one else gives the tune by means of a flute or pipe. The Himalaya as it were supplied the necessary tune by filling the bamboo holes with the wind from the caverns, and thus making the bamboos produce sweet notes. The Himalaya is thus identified with a person playing upon a flute. उद्रास्यतां gen. plu. of उद्रास्यत् 2nd future participle of ने with about to sing loudly, or in the Gandhara grama, as remarked s as by Mallinatha. Celestial beings alone can sing in the Gan-Auid dhāra (षइजमध्यमनामानी त्रामी गायन्ति मानवाः। न तु गान्धारनामानं स लभ्यो the वियोनिभिः ॥) ताना नामोद्गातव्यस्य स्वरादेरियत्तापरिच्छेदः । स चांशस्वर उच्यते । west The तानप्रदान is managed by a वंश. 'गाता यं यं स्वरं गच्छेन् तं तं वंशेन वादयेत् bed (Bharata). This तान seems to be but another name for अंश स्वर 100 which is ten-fold, रागो यस्मिन्निवसित यस्माचापि प्रवर्तते । नेता च तारसन्द्राणां योऽत्यर्थं चोपलभ्यते ॥ प्रह्वोपन्यासिवन्याससन्यासगोचरः । अनुवृत्तश्च यश्चह सोऽतः स्याद्शलक्षणः ॥ Cf. for the idea in the verse, शब्दायन्ते मधुरमिति के कीचकाः पूर्यमाणाः संस्कृताभिन्नियुरविजयो गीयते किंनरीभिः । Megha, स कीचकैमीरुतपूर्णरम्भे पूर्यमाणाः संस्कृताभिन्नियुरविजयो गीयते किंनरीभिः । Megha, स कीचकैमीरुतपूर्णरम्भे कूजिद्धरापादितवंशकृत्यम् । ग्रथाव कुञ्जेषु यशः स्वमुचैरुद्धीयमानं वनदेवताभिः ॥ Raghu मार्गिः भूर्जेषु ममरीभृताः कीचकध्वनिहतवः । ...मरुतस्तं सिषेविरे ॥ ibid IV. 73.

PI

is

di

परि

Sa

शि

m

(h

अब्

अड़

25 no

ho

पंयो

no

दुर्व

(11

ex

WO

bea

to

Op

to

Th exp

hig

Or

per nes

eno

vas

The

WOI

Wic

POV

Stanza 9-The elephants were in an intoxicated state, with a large flow of rut flowing from their temples which naturally had therefore a strong itching sensation. To remove this itching, the elephants rubbed their temples violently against the stems of the straight and stout pine trees, with the result that the barks of the trees, being pressed, exuded a large quantity of gum. This gum, which has a fragrant odour, rendered the whole region fragrant. Mallinatha quotes from गजायुर्वेद to show that elephants abound on the Himālaya— ' हिमवद्विनध्यमलया गजानं प्रभवा नगाः ।' स्रतं क्षीरं येषां तेषां भावः तया सुरभीकरोति is a चिव form, न सुरभीति अम्रुरभीणि तानि मुरभीणि संपद्यमानानि करोति. सरल is Pinus longifolia: it seems to be a variety of Devadaru. From Raghu IV. 75-76, the poet appears to identify Sarala and Devadaru, सरलासकामा तङ्ग्रयेवयस्फुरितत्विषः। तस्योत्सृष्टनिवासेषु कण्ठरज्जुक्षतत्वचः। गजवर्ष्म किरातेत्र शशंस्रदेवदारवः ॥ Mallinātha explains सरलेषु above as देवदारुविशेषे while in his commentary on तं चेद्वायो सरति सरलस्कन्धसंघट्टजन्मा (Meghal he explains सरलानां as देवदारुद्रमाणाम्. This verse is quoted in the सरस्वतीक्राभरण, with the remark रातिविशेषेषु गन्धो यथा.

Stanza 10—दर्शः एव गृहाणि तेषाम् उत्सङ्गेषु (interior regions) निष्का भासः यासां ताः विनेतानां सखायः वनितासखाः तेषाम्. This must be dissolve as a Tatpurusa compound, though the sense is that a Bahuvrīhi, for the sūtra राजाहःसखिभ्यष्टच् would not applied in the case of a Bahuvrīhi (बहुनीहिनिवक्षायां तु समासप्रत्ययो न स्मार्थ Nārāyaṇa). सखि becomes सख at the end of a Tatpurusa compound. वने चरन्तीति वनेचराः, this is an Aluk compound. तेलेन पूर्ण होते तेलपूराः न तेलपूराः अतेलपूराः requiring no oil to keep them burning as in the case of ordinary lamps. The ओषधि referred to her are some herbs that shine at night time. Cf... आसन्नीषम् नेतुनेक्तमस्तेहदीपिकाः। Raghu IV. 75, also श्रीमल्लताभवनमोषध्यः प्रदीपाः सिंग्ली V. The foresters had no settled abodes and were altoo poor to keep up lamps burning all night, The Himālai

न्द्रागा

सों इंगः

चिकाः

र्णरन्धे:

aghu

with rally

itch-

the

that ntity

I the

show

गजानं

र्भाषि

olia:

5-76

क्तमा-

रातेन

वेशेषेष

Tegha

1 the निषक्त

at of appl

FUIC

COM

न पुर

rnin

her

न्रीष्य

भाः ।

e ali

alas

provides them with both shelter and light. The light again is such that it requires no oil to keep it going. The Sāhitya quotes this verse as an illustration of the Alamkāra परिणास, the Kāvyālamkārasūtravṛtti as that of विशेषोक्ति, the Sarasvatīkanthābharaṇa and Alamkāratilaka as that of विशावना.

Stanza 11 - शिलीभृतं (a चित्र form. न शिला अशिला शिला भृता शिलीभतम्) हिमं यत्र तिस्मन् . सार्गे उद्वेजयित is loc, abs, construction or सार्गे may be taken to be a mere loc. singular. अङ्ग्लयश्च ((toes) पार्धायश्च (heels) अङ्गुलिपार्षिण, (a samāhāra Dvandva. If however, the पारिण or अङ्ग्राले which is a part of the foot, is not regarded as a separate बहु of the body, the compound would be an ordinary Dvandva. as the samahara Dvandva takes place when only the parts (and not parts of the parts) of the body are compounded. We may however take अङ्ग in an extended sense) तस्य भागान्. श्रीणयथ (hips) पयोधराश्च श्रोणिपयोधरम्, (a samāhara Dvandva, but if the प्योधरङ are not regarded as a regular अङ्ग, it would be an ordinary Dvandva) दुर्वहं च श्रीणिपयोधरम् तेन आर्ताः अश्वानां मुखानीव मुखानि यासां ताः अश्वमुख्यः (instead of अश्रम्खम्ह्य:) Female Kinnaras. Heavy breasts and expansive hips are regarded as a sign of great beauty in women (Cf. श्रोणीभारादलसगमना स्तोकनम्रा स्तनाभ्याम्। Megha). The beautiful Kinnara damsels could not proceed quickly owing to their heavy breasts and hips though their feet were much oppressed by the biting solid snow. They tried their best to bring as small a portion as possible of their feet into contact with the hard solid snow by walking on the toes and the heels. They would fain have run but could not do so, for reasons explained above.

Stanza 12—The Himālaya is described here as being a high-minded noble person who affords protection to all—good or bad—who come to him for shelter. Darkness is a wicked person who is very much afraid of the sun's rays. (Darkness is always associated with vice). The Himālaya is kind enough to pity this darkness and allows it to take shelter in his vast caverns where the rays of the sun could not penetrate. The action of Himālaya is quite in accordance with what one would expect of the exalted who sympathise even with the wicked, when the latter beseech their shelter, and do all in their power to mitigate their sufferings. This does not mean that they encourage the wicked to continue their vicious career but they know full well that to help the needy and the suppliant ought to be the first consideration. Such noble persons even suffer themselves to be tormented for the The Himalaya sake of those whom they have given shelter. protects the darkness from the sun's rays, but he has to suffer the extreme heat of the rays by his peaks, दिवाभीतम् also suggests the meaning 'an owl,' ममल्यम-the state of belonging to oneself, hence, affectionate regard (ममत्वमित्यत्र ममेत्यसम्ब्लरः प्रतिरूपकमञ्ययं षष्ट्यर्थे तस्य भावस्तत्त्वमिति कैश्विद् व्याख्यातम् ।... सम शब्दस् ममेति बुद्धिरित्यर्थः । ... ममेति बुद्धचा तद्वानेव लक्ष्यते । ममस्य भावः ममलम Nārāyana). उच्चे: शिर: येषां तेषाम् those whose heads are erect, who have done nothing that would make them hang their head down with shame; hence, magnanimous persons. Himālaya also has his heads (peaks) high up. If the reading is शिरमा अतीव (which is found in the Kāvyaprakāśa), अतीव would by construed with ममत्वम . The Kāvyaprakāśa quotes this versett illustrate the fault अनुचितार्थता (अत्राचेतनस्य तमसो दिवाकरात त्रास एवर समवतीति कुत एव तत्प्रयोजितमद्रिणा परित्राणम् । संभावितेन तु रूपेण प्रतिभासमानस्यास् न काचिद्नुपपत्तिरवतरतीति व्यर्थ एव तत्समर्थनायां यतनः। Ullasa X). Sāhitya and Kāvyapradīpa also find the same fault in the verse The Kuvalayananda, Alainkarasutra and Alainkaratilaka refert it in connection with अर्थान्तरन्यास, the latter two calling it a cast of श्रेषाविद्धोऽर्थान्तरन्यासः.

102

1

C

नृ

सं

7

at

m

C

0 lu

01

([

ar

DO

he Bi te

तार

Tiv

be ch

th

su

साम

स्प्र

ha

ter Wa

Ga

CO

kil.

mo

the

me

Stanza 13— बाल्यजन are the Cāmaras or chaurīs that an used to fan kings, deities etc., and are an insignia of royalty. These chaurīs are made of the hair of the tails of the Yak dee (बार्ड) and are white. Himālaya is called 'the king of mountains.' One naturally expects to know whether he is a king in name only or is actually treated as such. The poet says that the Himālaya was treated as a king. A king has the chaurīs wave about him by the chaurī-bearers (who are usually females). In the case of the Himālaya the female Yak deer have take upon themselves the task of fanning him by waving their tail this way and that. Himālaya is thus rightly called Giri-rāji Moving about the tail is a natural characteristic of beast in general; it is represented here as a deliberate act on the part of the female Yaks to honour the king of mountains. The other corresponds to the handle of the chaurīs.

reer.

l the noble

the ālaya

suffer

gests

ig to च्छक्ट.

शब्दस

मत्वम।

, who

headi ālaya

शेरसार

d be

न एवर

नस्यास

The

verse

fer to cast

at all yalty

dee

noun

at this raved

les / aker

tail

-rājā east

1 the tains

स्तम्

lit. connected with the meaning, significant. Cf. for the chauris forming an insignia of royalty, चमरान्परितः प्रवर्तिताथः...। वृपतीनिव तान्वियोज्य सद्यः सितवालव्यजनैजेगाम शान्तिम् ॥ Raghu IX. 66, also सौमित्रिणा सावरजेन मन्दमाधूतवालव्यजनो स्थस्थः।...ibid XIV, 11, अदेयमासीत् त्रयमेव भूपतेः शिशप्रमं छत्रसुभे च चामरे।ibid III. 16.

Stanza 14—विलाजित—The ladies had been already लिजित at the meeting of their husbands; the अंग्रुकाक्षेप makes them still more so. The किंगुरुष are the same as the किंग्रर. The clouds come to the rescue of the ladies by accidentally blocking the opening of the caverns and thus not allowing the light of the luminous herbs to penetrate into them. तिरस्करिणी is a screen or curtain. The poet seems to use the expression in kak VI (तिरस्करिणीप्रतिछन्ना पार्श्वतिनी भूवा...]) and Vikram II (तिरस्करिणीप्रतिछन्ना पार्श्वतिनी भूवा...]) and Vikram II (तिरस्करिणीप्रतिछन्ना पार्श्वतिनी भूवा...]) in the sense of 'the magical power of making oneself invisible.' or 'a veil'.

Stanza 15—The Ganges has three courses, one flowing in heaven under the name of Mandakini, one on the earth as Bhagirathi and one in the Patala as Bhogavati. The holy character of the waters of the Ganges is quite well-known. Cf. क्षितौ तारयते मर्त्यान् नागांस्तारयतेऽप्याधः । दिनि तारयते देवांस्तेन त्रिपथगा स्मृता ॥ The river is called Bhagirathi as she was brought down on the earth by Bhagiratha to raise his ancestors to heaven, who had been consumed to ashes by the wrath of Kapila who was charged by them with having stolen the sacrificial horse of their father, Sagara. The following verse from Uttara I, summarises the whole story, तुर्गविचयन्ययानुर्वीभिदः सगराध्वरे कपिलमह-सामर्पोत्लुष्टान्पितुश्च पितामहान् । अगणिततनृतापं तप्तवा तपांसि भगीरथो भगवति तब सृष्टानिद्रिश्वरादुदतीत्रत् ॥ The breeze enjoyed by the Kirātas after a hard day's work in hunting game, possessed three characteristics, holiness, fragrance and gentleness. It was holy as it wafted along with it the sprays of the sacred waters of the Ganges, and was thus calculated to destroy the sins, if any committed by the Kirātas during the day, especially the sin of killing the game. It was fragrant as it had come just after shaking the fragrant Devadaru trees which abound on the mountain, and was thus calculated to remove the fatigue of the Kirātas. मुह: means सदा: so that the breeze coming immediately after shaking the Devadarus, was quite fragrant.

bro

by

pai

are

भिन

SY D

on कत् val An भरह

Ma

the

Hi

are

the

litt

ву

साक्ष

त्चे

as

अध्य

सप्ता

lot

liv

Wa

विक

ren

the bar

the

COL

su

Inc

mo

as

by

मह: may also mean 'again and again'. Mr. Ray's contention that if this meaning is accepted, 'the expression may refer to a past ऋम्पन, and in the absence of anything to the contrary it may be long past. In that case, there will be no fragrance and the epithet will not serve its purpose, seems to us to be more or less hypercritical. The meaning of मुह: 'again and again' also suits the context admirably. The poet refers to a state of things obtaining all the time and not for a particular moment. The breeze was constantly shaking the Devadarus and so was fragrant for almost all the time. Arunagiri quotes from the Megha, भित्त्वा सद्यः किसलयपुटं देवदाह्दमाणाम्। in favour of the meaning स्य:. The reference, however, is not so pertinent for the cases are not quite similar. The breeze again was quite gentle and not oppressive in character. It was just strong enough to dishevel the peacock's feathers. भिन्नानि शिखण्डिन वहाँणि येन सः. Mallinatha remarks that the peacock's feathers were tied to the waist by the Kirātas to give them greater speed (गतिलाघवार्थ किरातकटिवद्धानि). The Kiratas and other foresttribes are known to tie leaves of trees etc. to their waist and there is nothing intrinsically wrong in Mallinatha's interpretation. In Malavika V, the poet similarly describes the foresters as wearing the peacock's feathers (...आपाधिलिकि शिखिबहैकलापधारि।). Whether the feathers are able to give in creased speed is a question for scientists to decide. They might have been used, for the matter of that, for decoration purposes, or they might have been used on the heads. बहु: of बहेम् by itself means 'the plumage of a peacock'. Strictly speaking, therefore, शिखण्डिवह is a tautologous expression. expressions are, however, commonly used by poets. passage from Mālavikā, quoted above, we have similarly शिविन Mr. Ray scared by this tautology involved in the expression suggests that it means the feathers of the peacocks themselves and not the feathers worn by the Kiratas on their person and explains भिन्नाशिखण्डिबहै: as meaning 'the breeze which parted the feathers in peacock's tails when the peacocks return in the evening to their roosting places (referring to Raghu II. 17. आवासनृक्षोन्मुखबर्हिणानि for the idea that the peacocks come back to their abodes in the evening). Mr. Ray's interpretation hardly improves the sense. The mildness of the breeze can only be brought home to the Kiratas if the pea-cock's feathers worn by them on their person are dishevelled by it, and not by the parting of the feathers of the peacocks themselves, even if they are supposed to be sufficiently near the Kiratas. The reading rance भिन्न...वहें: would be construed with किराते:, but it breaks the symmetry, conveying as it does, the gentleness of the breeze only indirectly. अन्विष्टाः (pursued, hunted) मृगाः यैः.

Stanza 16—The seven sages are: मरीचिरन्यङ्गिरसौ पुलस्यः पुलहः कतः। वसिष्ठश्च महातेजास्ते हि चित्रशिखण्डिनः। सप्त प्रकृतयो ह्येतास्तथा स्वायंभ्रवोऽष्टमः। एताभिर्धार्यते लोकस्ताभ्यः शास्त्रं विनिःसतम् ॥ Sāntiparvan 143. 10). In the Anusasanaparvan 141, the following list is given, कर्यपोऽत्रिवंसिष्ट्य भरद्वाजोऽथ गौतमः । विश्वामित्रो जमद्भिः ...।। The Great Bear or Ursa Major is the name of the constellation in the sky, formed by these sages. The sages stay on the highest peaks of the Himālaya, far above the sun's path. In stanza 5 above, we are told that the clouds moved about the middle part of the mountain. The sun must be supposed to be revolving a little higher, but still far below the peaks. This is corroborated by the poet in VI. 7 अधः प्रस्थापिताश्वेन समावर्जितकेतुना । सहस्रराईमना साक्षात्सप्रणाममुद्रीक्षिताः ।। and VI. 19 सत्यमकीच सोमाच परमध्यास्महे पदम्। अद त्वेस्तरं ताभ्यां स्मरणान्त्रहात्तव ॥ The Puranas also describe the सप्तर्षिमण्डल as being the highest of all. Mallinatha remarks सप्तार्धमण्डलं ध्रवादिष कःनेमिति ज्योतिषिकाः ॥ Nārāyana quotes from the वसिष्ठसिद्धान्त... सप्तार्षेमण्डलमवस्थितमप्यमुष्मात् तिष्टन्त्यथो नभसि च प्रहतारकाद्याः ॥ Beautiful lotuses grew in the lakes on the peaks where the seven sages lived. The sages after having bathed early at dawn in the holy waters of the Ganges, offered these lotuses to the Highest (Cf. विकीर्णसप्तार्षिविलप्रहासिभिः V. 37). A large number of lotuses still remained in the lakes and it was reserved for the sun to make them blossom up by his rays, Usually the sun's rays would have to go downwards to awaken the day lotuses which close their petals during night time, as the sun himself revolves on a considerably high level. But in the case of these lotuses, the sun's rays have to go upwards to cause them to bloom ! Indirectly the poet suggests that the Himalaya is the loftiest mountain in the world. The expression सप्तर्षि..., may be separated as सप्तिषिहस्तावचितौ (loc. sing.; in order that they might be gathered by the sages with their own hands) अशेषाणि (one and all). विवस्वान्

ntion

refer

rary,

o be

and to a cular

dārus

Jotes

ir of

nent.

luite

rong

त्राण्डिनां

hers

eater

rest-

waist

tha's

ribes

लिंग

2 101-

'hey

tion

: 01

ictly

Such

the खबह

sion

lves

and

the

the 17.

k to rdly

be.

the sun (विविधं वस्ते आच्छादयति, विवो राईमः, विवोऽस्यास्तीति -). अग्रे (७ the top) सरांसि तेषु रहाणि.

ver feed

tWC

jing

स्थित

tha

bro

anx

Me

enb

san hin

of I

pro

get

Th

Mr

exc

me

Sar

wo

Ma

tiv

त्यर्थ

Ma

ma has

वा ति

is c

fat

rer

He

the

ser

Stanza 17—यज्ञाङ्गड are the various requisites of a sacrifica such as the Soma plant, Khadira posts etc. Two considera tions weighed with Brahmadeva in declaring Himālaya to be the king of mountains and allotting to him a share in the sacrifice thus raising him to the dignity of a God. First, the Himalaya possessed all the necessary things for sacrifices which are w essential for the upkeep of the universe. यज्ञैराप्यायिता देवा बृष्ट्यसमे वै प्रजाः । आप्याययन्ते धर्मज्ञ यज्ञाः कल्याणहेतवः । Visnu Purana I. 6, als देवान्भावयतानेन (यज्ञेन) ते देवा भावयन्तु वः । परस्परं भावयन्तः श्रेयः परमवाप्यय। बुष्टान्भोगान् हि वो देवा दास्यन्ते यज्ञभाविताः। तैर्दत्तानप्रदायभयो यो भुङ्कते स्तेन ए सः ॥ Guā III, 11-12. Secondly, of all the mountains, Himālaya was the most capable to support the earth. Any पर्वत is no doubt महीधर, but the Himalaya is महीवर par excellence. Mallinath quotes from the Viṣṇu Purāṇa, यज्ञाङ्गार्थं मया सृष्टो हिमवानचलेश्वरः, when the Himalaya is described as being specially created for securing materials for sacrifices. The Brahmanda Purana also mention that Brahmadeva himself made Himālaya the king of mountains The elephant is the share of Himalaya in the sacrific (सोमस्य राज्ञः कुरङ्ग इन्दोः शृङ्गी समुद्रस्य शिश्चमारो हिमवतो हस्ती). अन्वितिष्ठ effected, brought about. The reading कल्पितयज्ञभागः would be construed with प्रजापतिः ('the Lord of all creation, Brahmadeva.)

Stanza 18—The Matsya Purāṇa (Adhyāyas 13—15) refer to the Pitṛs...। स्वर्गे पितृगणाः सप्त त्रयस्तेषाममूर्तयः ॥ मूर्तिमन्तोऽथ चलार सर्वेषाममितोजसः। अमूर्तयः पितृगणा वैराजस्य प्रजापतेः॥ जयन्ति यान्देवगणा वैराज इति विश्वताः॥...एतेषां मानसी कन्या पत्नी हिमवतो मता॥. The Viṣṇu Purū̞ण (I. 10) reads पितरो ब्रह्मणा स्था व्याख्याता ये मया तव ॥ अग्निष्वात्ता बिष्टि दोऽनम्नयः सामयथ्य ये। तेभ्यः स्वधासता जञ्जे मेना वैतरणी (v. l. स्ते जञ्जे मेर्ने वैधारिणीं) तथा॥ ते उभे ब्रह्मवादिन्यो योगिन्या चाप्युमे द्विज ॥ from which is appears that Menā was a Brahmavādinī and a spinster. The poet could not have this passage in mind when he wrote the present verse: स्थितिज्ञः one who knows the proper course of conduct or the limit beyond which one cannot go. स्थिति married not for the sake of satisfying his passion but mainly for the sake of progeny. The expression स्थिति is (o very commonly used by our poet. Cf. अमंस्त चानेन पराध्यंजनमना स्थितरभेता स्थितिमन्तमन्वयम् । Raghu III. 27 where also स्थित is used in two different senses. It is obvious that the poet's love for a jingling sound of words is responsible for the expressions स्थित्ये स्थितज्ञः and मेनां मुनीनामपि माननीयाम्. The expression मेहसखः suggests that Meru interested himself in the affairs of Himalaya and brought about his marriage. According to some, Mena's sister had been already married to Meru who was therefore naturally anxious to find a suitable bridegroom for his sister-in-law, Menā. Menā was a mind-born daughter. The epithet मानसी enhances her purity. Even the sages were struck with her sanctity and paid her due respect. आत्मनः अनुरूपाम्. worthy of himself in every way. उपयेमे—यम with उप is Atm. in the sense: of marriage or acceptance in general. विधिना according to the proper rites of marriage, prescribed in the Sastras.

crifice

sideral

be the

rifice

iālaya

ire so

युत्समे

, als

प्यथ।

तेन ए

ālaya

is no nāth

vherd

uring

tions

tains

rifice

वातिष्ठ

ld be

va.

efer

वत्वार

वैराज

rāno

ाहिष-

मेन

h it

The

the of तये । aya

but

15

Stanza 19-The Trivandrum edition drops this verse altogether. Mallinatha however notices it and comments upon it. There is nothing further to show that the verse is not genuine. Mr. Ray calls this verse grossly indelicate. Obviously he takes exception to the expression सुरतप्रसङ्गे प्रश्ते, which is commonly met with in Sanskrit literature. Many a beautiful passage in-Sanskrit literature or for the matter of that, in any literature, would have to be expunged if a false sense of decency were allowed to warp one's judgment. सुरतप्रसङ्गे प्रवृत्ते सति is loc. absolute. Mallinatha explains स्वरूपयोग्ये as सौन्दर्यानुगुणे and gives an alternative explanation यद्वा, रूप्यते निश्चीयते अनेनेति रूपं ज्ञानं तद्योग्ये शास्त्रानुसारिणी-त्यर्थः। which is quite far-fetched.

Stanza 20—Commentators point out that this reference to Mainaka is purposely made to show that Parvati was fit to be married in every way, as Manu lays down that a maiden who has no brother is not fit to be married (यस्यास्तु न भवेदआता न विज्ञायेत वा पिता । नोपयच्छेत तां प्राज्ञः पुत्रिकाधर्मशङ्कया ॥ Manu III. 11). Maināka is described as having grown up into a worthy son of a worthy father. He was so handsome that even the Naga damsels so renowned for their beauty looked at him with covetous eyes. He had the great ocean as his friend and successfully defied the wrath of even Indra, the king of the Gods. Nagas are semi-divine beings, later on identified with serpents in general 108

Notes on

of E

कतुमा

पुराणे

Acco

creat

of]

प्रजाप

संशिक्ष

Satī

V. F

ततस्ते

VI.

did

perf of he

of S

ed ;

pow

his

Dak

killi

afte

in t

देवान

प्रतिवि

च सड़

दक्षण

XII

कि.सं

उपसंत

residing in the Patala. The Naga maidens are specially note. for their beauty. Arjuna, it will be remembered, had is ca married the beautiful Ulūpī, a snake-damsel. Mainaka has f owing to his having been forced to make the ocean his ssion abode (as is explained below) and thus being near the used Nagaloka, succeeded, it seems, in taking a beautiful Nag केंद्रना damsel as his wife. We have not been able to find a re final ference to Mainaka's having wedded a Naga damsel i stic the Puranas. It is better to explain नाग..., as नागकन्यापि तारम् as Mallinatha has done, than to suggest that Mainaka carried on a liaison with the Naga damsels. Formerly a the mountains had wings. As they began to abuse the privilege by flying from place to place and thus became a danger to public peace, Indra by means of his thunderbolk began to cut off their wings. He succeeded in depriving all the mountains of their wings, except Mainaka who, knowing discretion to be the better part of valour, saved himself by plunging down into the ocean who magnanimously afforded him protection. (Nārāyaṇa quotes the following passage in this connection, सर्वेऽपि पर्वताः पूर्वे पक्षवन्तः किलाभवन्। ततस्तेषामवस्थानिवेगे पक्षसमीरणैः ॥ चूर्णाभूतान् जनपदानवलोक्याथ वृत्रहा । कुद्धः कुलिशमादाय पक्षच्छेर पर्वतान् ॥ क्षणेन स्थावरीचके मैनाकस्तरसा ततः । अम्भोधिमतिगम्भीरं महासत्त्वमुपाश्रितः। समुद्रसख्याद्यापि तत्पत्री नाहती ॥) वृत्रक्षत्रः or वृत्रहन् is a characteristic epithet of Indra in the Rgveda. वृत्र or the आहे as he is called often, is the cloud that confines the waters and Indra by his Vajra smites the cloud, frees the waters and sends down rain According to the Puranas, Vrtra was the chief of the Kaleyas and the son of Danu. Indra killed him by his Vajra prepared out of the bones of the sage Dadhīci who sacrificed himself for the general good, as Vrtra could not be killed in any other way. अम्भोनिविना वद्धं सख्यं येन तम्. Ever since Mainaka came 10 live with the ocean, the two became fast friends. The expression also gives the reason why Mainaka did not suffer any injury from the Vajra. कृद्धे चत्रशत्री पक्षच्छिदि अपि is a loc. construction. To construe it as पक्षिच्छिदि वृत्रशत्री कुद्धे अपि does not emphasise sufficiently the reason that made Mainaka fly away. It was not so much the anger of Indra, but the actual process of clipping away the wings that precipitated Mainaka's flight. - कुलिशक्षतानाम् अवेदनाज्ञम् is strictly speaking irregular and is what

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

109

, bal is called a सापेक्षसमास, as the expression क्षतानाम् in one compound notel inaka has expectancy for वेदना in the other compound. The expren hi ssion is thus equal to कुलिशक्षतावेदनाज्ञम्. Such सापेक्षसमासं are freely r th used by poets. जानातीति ज्ञः, वेदनानां ज्ञः वेदनाज्ञः न वेदनाज्ञः अवेदनाज्ञः तम्, or Naga बेर्ना जानातीति वेदनाज्ञ:, कुलिश (कुला हस्ते शेते, कुलिन: पर्वतान् स्यति वा. कुत्सितa रह मीषद्वा लिशित ।) is the thunderbolt of Indra and is his characterisel istic weapon.

शापारिके

inak

ly a tha!

came rbolt

g all wing

lf by ge in

ानिवेंगे

च्छेदे

श्रितः। ristic

alled

his rain.

eyas

ared

nself

ther

e to

DIE.

any abs.

not vay.

ess

ght.

hat

Stanza 21-Daksa was one of the nine mind-born sons of Brahmadeva (अथान्यान्मानसान्पुत्रान्सदशानात्मनोऽराजत् ॥ भगुं पुलस्त्यं पुलहं इतुमङ्गिरसं तथा । मरीचिं दक्षमत्रिं च वसिष्ठं चैव मानसम् ॥ नव ब्रह्माण इत्येते पुराणे निश्चयं गताः ॥ Vișnu Purāna I. 7) and a great patriarch... According to the Matsya Purana, he was the first to begin creation by sexual union, and was himself born of the toe of Brahmadeva (शारीरान्थ वक्ष्यामि मातृहीनान्प्रजापतेः । अङ्गुष्ठादक्षिणादक्षः प्रजापतिरजायत ॥ III. 9, संकल्पाहरीनारस्पर्शात्पूर्वेषां सृष्टिरुच्यते । दक्षारप्राचेतसाद्रध्वे orded खिप्रमेथुनसंभवा ॥). He had twenty-four daughters of whom Satī was one (प्रस्त्यां च तथा दक्षश्चतस्रो विंशतिस्तथा। ससर्ज कन्यास्तासां... V. P. I. 7. According to the Matsya he had sixty daughters, ततस्तेषु विनष्टेषु षष्टिं कन्याः प्रजापतिः। वैरिण्यां जनयामास दक्षः प्राचेतसस्तथा ॥ VI. 12). Satī was given in marriage to Siva. Once Daksa did not invite Siva and Satī to a sacrifice that he was performing. Satī went there uninvited, against the advice of her lord, and was grossly insulted by Daksa who spoke of Siva also with contempt. Sati became extremely enraged and there and then gave up her body by her Yogic powers. Siva on hearing this, created Vīrabhadra from his matted hair, and sent him and his Ganas to destroy Daksa's sacrifice. They did their task admirably enough, killing Daksa in the bargain. Daksa however was revived asterwards (Nārāyana thus summarises the story given in the Bhagavata, पुरा किल पुराराताववमानं प्रकाशयन् । अनाहूयैव तं देवं देवानन्यानुपानयत् ॥ मोहान्धो यज्ञमारेभे दक्षो दाक्षायणी तदा । अनाहूता स्विण्त्रापि प्रतिपिद्धापि शम्भुना ॥ जगाम स्विपतुर्गेहं यज्ञदर्शनठालसा । अनाहतापि पित्रा सा दृष्टवा च सकलाः कियाः ॥ स्द्रभागविनिर्मुक्ताः कोपेनापाटलेक्षणा । तत्याज योगमास्थाय देशणीत्पादितं वपुः ॥ Read also the following from the Matsya XIII, दक्षस्य यहो वितते प्रभूतवरदक्षिणे । समाहूतेषु देवेषु प्रोवाच पितरं सती ॥ किमथे तात भर्ता मे यज्ञेऽस्मित्राभिमन्त्रितः। अयोग्य इति तामाह दक्षो यज्ञेषु रालभूत्। ज्यसंहारकृद्दस्तेनामङ्गलभागयम् । चुकोपाथ सती देहं त्यस्यामीति त्वदुद्भवम् ॥ ...

with

one o

If the

that i ed and

तत्, ge press

them

the s

are b of a c

must

but th

gods :

often earth

Garuc

in the लनाः इ

क्सामा

मिराददे

निद्धिम

आरम्मं

इत्युक्तवा योगमास्थाय स्वदेहो द्रव्चेत्सा । निर्दहन्ती तदातमानं... । एवं वृद्न्ती सा तत्र यानमा ददाहात्मानमात्मना ॥ स्वायंभुवोऽपि कालेन दक्षः प्राचेतसोऽभवत् । पार्वती साभवेती शिवदेहार्भभारिणी ॥). कन्या—The word is thus derived by Yāska गुणः (कमनीया भवति क्रेयं नेतब्येति वा, कनतेर्वा स्यान्कान्तिकर्मणः, कमनेनानीयत इति वा पितः subjective genitive. भवस्य पूर्वपत्नी-Satī wished to be reborn शक्ति इ in order to serve Siva once more as his wife. This is characteristic idea of the Hindus, that husband and wife his m continue their relation even in other births; cf. भूयो यथा न nitisū जननान्तरेऽपि त्वमेव भर्ता न च विष्रयोगः ॥ (Raghu XVI) said by Sītā. प्रयुक्ता उत्साहर led to, urged. सती is a proper name and the other सती means the is bo chaste one. योगेन विसष्टः देहः यया सा. योग is defined by Patanjali as if pol चित्तनिरोध:, perfect concentration of the mind. Here, it is used close. to नीति rather in the sense of Yogic powers. Sages are known to give अपरिक्ष up their bodies by concentrating their mind upon the Highest, The above extract from Matsya shows that Satī actually expre created a fire to consume her body, प्रपेद approached. Sati Himā herself thought of being born as a daughter to Himālaya and hippan Menā.

Stanza 22-Hall the auspicious one; it is epithet of Parvati. समाधिः विद्यते यस्याः तस्याम् समाधि seems to be used here as in V. 45 (अथोपयन्तारमलं समाधिना) in the तपस्. समाधि usually means ' perfect; concentration' and is the last stage of Yoga, where the is not aware of anything else except the Highest (तदेवार्थ-मात्रनिर्भासं स्वरूपशूर्यमिव समाधिः। Yogasūtra III. 3). It is of two kinds, सनिकल्प and निर्विकल्प; in the former, which is of a lower type, the individual is conscious of the difference between ज्ञाता and ज्ञेयम्, while in the निर्विकल्प samādhi, all distinction between ज्ञाता, ज्ञेयम् and ज्ञानम् is completely lost sight of and the individual becomes Brahman. Mallinatha explains समाधिमत्यां as नियमवत्याम्। who had been observing various vows, that is, who had been leading an extremely holy life. The expression is used to show the fitness of Menā to become the mother उदपादि—Arunagiri remarks, उत्पत्तिश्वात्र, सुराणां कार्यसिद्ध्यर्थमाविभविति य सदा। उत्पन्नेति तदा लोके सा निरंयाप्यभिघीयते ॥ इति न्यायेन द्रष्टन्या. अपरिक्षत not wounded, that is, not failing in its effect. नीतिः is polity which concerns itself with the proper application of the expedients संधि, विष्रह, यान, आसन, द्वैधीभाव and संश्रय (संधि च विष्रहं वैव

Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennal and e Gangotri

Kumarasambhava: Canto I

च वृज्ञीन्।। अवाहर नगर

सा ता यानमासनमेत्र च। द्वेधीभावं संश्रयं च षड्गुणांश्चिन्तयेत्सदा ।। Manu_VII. 160) री with the four उपायड, साम, दाम, भेद and दण्ड. उत्साहस्य गुर्वे कि उत्साही की मुस्तकालय की भवहेवी aska गाः (in which case गुण is more or less superfluous) तेन. उत्सार्भाकः one of the three शक्तिs which a king ought to possess. The three ते वा। श्वितs are, प्रभुशक्ति, मन्त्रशक्ति and उत्साहशक्ति. The उत्साहशक्ति is विक्रमवलम् born If the king has no energy, no amount of effort on the part of is a his ministers etc. would be of any real use. The Kamandakiya-Wife nitisūra devotes a whole chapter (XIV) in praise of this ाथा मे उत्साहरूज, which shows its great importance. is bound to lead to the great prosperity of the kingdom. s the if polity is properly applied. The comparison is here quite eli as close. Satī corresponds to संपत्, Himālaya to उत्साहगुण: and Menā used to नीति:. The expression समाधिमत्यां corresponds to सम्यक्प्रयोगात अपरिक्षतायाम्. Though it is rather indelicate, it appears that the expression सम्यक्ष्रयोगात is intended by the poet to be taken with Himālaya and अपरिक्षतायां with Menā also. The Kāvyālamkāraippana quotes this verse as an illustration of वाक्योपमा.

युक्ता.

give

iest.

ally

Sati

and

an

to

the tra-

SOD

वार्थ-

two wer

een

een

ual

गम् gen

to ati.

या

not ich

ix चेव

Stanza 23—प्रसन्नाः दिशः यस्मिन् तत्-the quarters cleared up that is, there were no clouds in the sky; nature herself brightened and was rejoiced at the event. पांशुभिः (dust) विविक्ताः वाताः यस्मिन् तत, gentle breezes began to blow, being free from dust which op-Presses creatures. शङ्गस्वनात् अनन्तरं पुष्पाणां वृष्टिः यस्मिन् तत्. The gods themselves celebrated the event by showering flowers from the sky and by blowing the auspicious conches. Conches are blown on all auspicious occasions, such as marriage, birth of a child etc. It is not clear who blew the conches (which must have been blown on the earth also by Himālaya's retinue) but the coupling together of पुष्पदृष्टि and शङ्खस्वन shows that the gods must have been responsible for both. Sanskrit poets often describe even the gods celebrating a great event on the earth in this manner. Similarly in the Nagananda (IV), when Garuda carries off Jīmūtavāhana, there is a flourish of trumpets in the sky and also a shower of flowers. Cf. मुखभवा मङ्गलत्यीन-विनाः प्रमोदनृत्यैः सह वारयोषिताम् । न केवलं सद्मनि मागधीपतेः पथि व्यज्ञम्भन्त दिवी-स्ताम्पि ॥ Raghu III. 19, also दिशः प्रसेदुर्महतो वतुः सुखाः प्रदक्षिणाचिहीवर-मिराददे । वम्त्र सर्वे ग्रभशंसि तत्क्षणं भवो हि लोकाभ्युदयाय तादशाम् ॥ ibīd III. 14; निद्रापमभवत्सर्वमाविष्कृतगुणं जगत्। X, 72, पुत्रजन्मप्रवेश्यानां त्याणां तस्य पुत्रिणः। आरम्मं प्रथमं चक्रे देवदुन्दुभयो दिवि ॥ सन्तानकमयी वृष्टिभवने चास्य पेतुषी...। X. 76. 112 Notes on स्थावराश्च (शैलगृक्षाद्यः) जङ्गमाश्च (जङ्गम्यन्ते भृषं गच्छन्तीति जङ्गमाः देवतिः इसनुष्यादयः) तेषाम्. Both the स्थावर and जङ्गम are said here to be possessed of bodies. The reading त्र्यस्वनं...is perhaps better, as that expression occurs in Raghu III. 19, quoted above तस्याः जन्मदिनम् or तत् may be taken separately. The Śaiva Purām which describes the story of the Kumārasainbhava, possesses a striking similarity to many of the verses in our poem. present verse for instance, appears there as दिश: प्रसेदु: पत्रन: मुसं ववौ शङ्कं निदश्मर्गगनेचरास्तथा। पपात मौलौ कुसुमाङ्गलिस्तदा वभूव तज्जनमदिनं सुखप्रदम्॥ It is a difficult question as to who is the borrower, whether Kālidāsa or the author of the Śaiva Purūņa. The question is discussed by us in our Introduction and the extract from the Saiva Purana is given in the Appendix,

Stanza 24—प्रभामण्डल is the halo of splendour seen round great persons or heavenly beings. The expression occurs in Raghu V. 5—स्फ्रस्त्रभामण्डलमध्यवर्ति कान्तं वपुर्व्योमचरं प्रेपेदे ।, also स्फ्रस्त्रभा मण्डलमानुसूर्यं सा विश्रती शाश्वतमङ्गरागम् ॥ ibid XIV. 14. सवित्री—lit. gave birth to, that is, the mother. दृहिता derived by Yaska as दहिता (not properly placed when away from the husband's house), द्रे हिता (desirable to keep at a distance from the father's house, that is, at the husband's) दोग्धे (one used to milk the cows or one always demanding wealth from the father, as Durga explains). The most probable derivation is from gg to milk and the word undoubtedly is a reminiscence of the period when daughters must have been given the task of milking the cows. Menā herself was lustrous, but with the child by her side, she appeared to be more so. Elsewhere the poet speaks of the lustre of the new-born child as overpowering the lights in the lying in chamber, अरिष्टशय्यां परितो विसारिणा सुजन्मनस्तस्य निजे तेजसा । निशीथदीपाः सहसा हतत्विषो वभ् वुरालेख्यसमर्पिता इव ॥ Raghu III. 20, and रघुवंशप्रदीपेन तेनाप्रतिमतेजसा । रक्षागृहगता दीपा प्रत्यादिष्टा इवाभवन् ॥ ibid X. 68. विदूरस्य अदेः भूमिः. Vidūra is a mountain from which rbe iewel वैद्धे (Lapis lazuli) is obtained. It is believed that these jewels spring out of that mountain region at the thunder of the MHS clouds. Cf. उरगेन्द्रम्पैहहरत्नसानिधेर्मुहरुत्रतस्य रिसतैः पयोमुचः । अभवन् यदङ्गाधुवा She समुष्ठसन्नवबाठवायजमणिस्यलाङ्कराः ॥ (Sisupāla, III, 58). Nārāyaņa quotes from Bhoja. अस्ति शैलो विदूराख्यः पर्यन्ते तत्र काचन । मही रताकरीमूर्ण वैद्यं तत्र जायते ॥ मेघशब्देन जायन्ते तत्र रतनवाङ्कराः । क्रमात्वरिणतास्ते स्युर्मणयो राज

सीमा तस्मा seas विदूर is स्पृ

पूजित

रत्नश with The

take

The and.

sepa ज्योति यदर्शनं half लावण वान्तर अवयव घानिव The which

ज्योतः

havi

light

and पितु: इ

बालच

Sara

illust

She came dissu

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

113

वृजिताः ॥ Mallinatha remarks, आवृद्रे विद्रुस्य गिरेरुतुङ्गरोधसः । काकतालीय-सीमान्ते मणीनामाकरो भवेत् ॥ इति बुद्धः । नवः मेघशब्दः or नवः यः मेघः तस्य शब्द् तसात. नत्र new, that is, appearing for the first time during the season. ज्ञाना a pencil, a sprout. The mother corresponds to बिद्रभूमि:, and the daughter to रतनशलाका. The common property is स्फ्रस्प्रभामण्डलत्व or चकाशे. The expression स्फ्रस्प्रभा... goes with रत्नशालाका also. There is nothing corresponding to नवमेधशन्दात. with respect to सवित्री, unless we refer to the crying of the child, The reading घरित्री for सावित्री is obviously bad.

Stanza 25 — लब्बोदया with reference to Satī means 'who had taken birth'; with reference to the moon's orb, 'that had risen up' The moon is in conjunction with the sun on the Amavasya day and so cannot be seen. The rise of the moon is nothing but the separation from the sun, as is remarked by Nārāyaṇa, यथोक्तं ज्योतिः शास्त्रे-भानोः समासन्नतया प्रहाणामदर्शनं यत्तादिहास्तमुक्तम् । ततश्च तेषां रिवदूरगत्या यहर्शनं स्यादुदयं तदाह: ।। As the moon waxes day by day in the bright half of the fort-night, so Satī began to grow day by day. रुवस्यमयान् प्राचुर्यार्थे मयद्. Mallinātha quotes मुक्ताफलेषु छायायास्तरलत्विम-बान्तरा। प्रतिभाति यदङ्गेषु तल्लावण्यमिहोच्यते ॥ इति भूपालः। and Nārāyaṇa अवयवसंस्थानविशेषाभिन्यङ्ग्यं निखिलावयवेभ्यो व्यतिरिक्तं यत्किचित्तत्वान्तरं लावण्यमिति वनिकारः। विशेषान् = अवयवान्, this is an unusual sense of the word. The limbs are compared to the additional digits of the moon, which are secured day after day. अन्याः कलाः (digits) कलान्त्राणि. ज्योतनया (or ज्योत्सनायाम्) अन्तरं (interval, merging up) येषां तानि, lit. having been merged up into moon-light, that is, full of moonlight. Satī is compared to चान्द्रमसी लेखा, her loveliness to ज्योत्स्ना and her limbs to the agis. Cf. for the idea in the verse, पितुः प्रयत्नात्स समग्रसंपदः छभैः शरीरावयवैदिने दिने। पुपोष वृद्धिं हरिदश्वदीधितरनुप्रदेशादिव बाल्चन्द्रमाः॥ Raghu III. 22. This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka, Sarasvatīkanthābharana and $K\bar{a}vy\bar{a}lamk\bar{a}ratippana$, as illustration of अनेकेवशब्दा उपमाः

Stanza 26—अभिजनात् आगतेन derived from the ancestor. अभिजनः means पूर्ववान्यवः पर्वतस्य अपत्यं स्त्री पार्वती. All the relatives called the child Parvati after her father who was a Parvata. गभवः। She however, came to have another name afterwards. She came to be called Uma, as, when her mother wanted to dissuade her from doing rigorous penance, to secure Siva

वतिय-

o be l

r, as

ove.

trang

ses a

The

सुवं

बद्म॥ ther

n is thel

ound

s in त्प्रभा-

whol

a as and's

her's

the ह to riod the

her eaks

ghts

निजेन

20, d X

the ne se

yana

भिता

114

for her husband who had first rejected her, she addressed her *U mā' etc. उ is संबोधनार्थे, O you; सा नारणार्थे, do not, I forbid you. According to our poet, Mena did not use the actual words उ मा. but said मनीपितायाचे गृहेषु देवताः तपः क वत्से क च तावकं वपुः। (V 4). Such fanciful derivations are not quite uncommon in Sanskrit literature. Cf. यस्मान्मा हदतेत्युक्ता हदन्ती गर्भसंस्थिताः। महता नाम ते नाम्ना भवन्त मखभागिनः ॥ (Matsya VII. 62); प्रादुरासीत् प्रशेरङ्के कुमार्ग नीललोहितः ॥ रहन् वै सुस्वरं सो ऽथ द्रवंश्व द्विजसत्तम । किं रोदिषीति तं ब्रह्मा रहन्तं प्रत्यवाच ह ॥ नाम देहीति तं सोऽथ प्रत्यवाच प्रजापितम् । स्त्र त्वं देव नामासि म रोदीर्धेर्यमावह ॥ (Visnu I. 8. 2-4); मामयं धास्यतीत्येवं भाषिते चैव विज्ञण। मांधातिति च नामास्य चकः सेन्द्रा दिवौकस: ॥ (Vanaparvan 127. 31).

Stanza 27—महीं विभातें इति मही भृत् a mountain, also a king Both the meanings are pertinent here. Parvatī was so beautiful, that Himalaya was never tired of looking at her with admiration. He had other sons and daughters also, but he had a partiality for Parvati. As पुत्रवतः corresponds to अनन्तपुष्पस्य which means 'possessed of many flowers,' we must take पुत्रवतः to mean 'having many children' and not 'having a son, viz Maināka.' The Matsya says. मेना च सुषुवे तिस्रः कन्या योगवतीस्ततः। उसैकपणांऽपणी च तीत्रज्ञतपरायणाः ॥ (13.8). The poet however has referred to only one son मैनाक. The Vyaktiviveka, Kāvyaprakūši and Kāvyapradīpa find the fault प्रकासक in this connection अ we have the word पुत्र in the first line and अपत्य instead of पुत्र in the second line, 'अत्र पर्यायस्य । 'मही भृतो ऽपत्यवतो ऽपि 'इति युक्तम् । 'अत्र सत्यो पुत्रे कन्यारूपेऽप्यपत्ये स्नेहोंऽभूत ' इति केचित्समर्थयन्ते।' (Kāvyaprakāśa VII) Again पुत्र in पुत्रवतः is masculine, while पुष्प in अनन्तपुष्पस्य is neutel The interpretation of पुत्रवत: etc.—that usually a father !! said to be more partial to a son than to a daughter. the case of Himalaya, however, this was not true. loved his daughter most—this interpretation also is to be rejected as the expression अनन्त in अनन्तपुष्पस्य requires पुत्रवर्ग to mean 'possessed of many children. 'ga may be taken here to mean 'a child, 'and the compound पुत्रवतः dissolved as दुहिताथ पुत्रश्च पुत्राः (एकरेषद्वन्द्व) ते विद्यन्ते यस्य तस्य. अपत्य-न पतन्ति पितरोऽनेन इकि अपततं भवाते पितुः सकाशादेत्य पृथक्ततं भवीत । अनेन जातेन सता पिता नरके न पति वाचि । इति वा Nirukta III. 2). A sonless father is said to go to hell पुत्रवतः corresponds to अनन्तपुष्पस्य, महीभृतः to मधोः, दृष्टिः to द्विरेफमाण अपत्ये to चृते The spring (मधु: the spring) causes various flower co blo be h flowe thus ' some attent चृत्र सुर with ' The v means bee. पिवतः स्

17). T

mark of the sancti He is man. a and po महत्या 1 The br sancti Hame the w शिखादीप mean ' I. 15). व्यवस्थास् मसभेदेन the he Waters (मनीषी)

use ba

on the सुकृतलाः

न्तमाप्रोहि

न्नत्वं द्यो

rds V.

in नाम

मारो

दन्तं

गा।

ng,

ful,

ad. l a

ich

to

VIZ.

ात:1

has ūsa

25

10

त्यापे

1).

ter.

In

He

be वतं

ere

न्यं।

ला

eril

to blossom, but the cluster of bees would always be found to bid be hovering round the mango-blossom, ignoring the other flowers, and has a particular liking for it. Himalaya's action thus was not inexplicable at all. Whatever is specially handsome and attractive would always be found to command the attention of all. चूत a mango-tree, used here in the sense of चतुत्रसम् as is clear from the context, मधाः —मधुसंविन्धनी associated with the spring. द्विप: is a bee. The word is curiously formed. The word अमर which means 'a bee' has two रेफ़ड in it. द्विरेफ lit. means which (word) has two रेफ़s in it, that is, a अमर; hence a bee. Cf. for the idea in the verse, निवातपद्मास्तिमितेन चक्षुपा नृपस्य कान्त पिवतः सुताननम् । महोद्धेः पूर इवेन्द्रदर्शनाद्गुरुः प्रहर्षः प्रवभूव नात्मनि ॥ (Raghu III. 17). The Sarasvatīkanthābharana quotes this verse with the remark संदिग्धस्य गुणता, and the Alamkaratilaka as an illustration of the figure of speech ggied.

Stanza 28-Himālaya is described here as having been both sanctified and adorned by Satī being born to him as a daughter He is compared to light, the heavenly path, and a learned man, and Parvati to the extremely brilliant flame, the Ganges, and polished grammatically correct speech, respectively. प्रभग महत्या lit. great owing to lustre, that is, possessing a great lustre. The brilliant flame makes the light appear to advantage and also sanctifies it by completely dispelling darkness. शिखा is the bluish fame at the top, while दीप is the whole burning part above the wick, including the flame; hence Mallinatha remarks शिखादीपयोः अन्यवानयनिभानाद्भेदेन निर्देशः. Or दीप may be taken mean 'a lamp, ' त्रयो मार्गाः यह्याः सा त्रिमार्गा the Ganges (see notes on l. 15). त्रिदिव is heaven. तृतीया द्यौः, त्रि here meaning तृतीय—(तिसृष्व-प्यत्यासु त्रयो ब्रह्मविष्णुरुद्रा वा दीव्यन्त्यत्रेति, यद्वा ब्राह्मवैष्णवरौद्रभेदेन सात्त्विकराजसता-गसभेदेन वा त्रिविधो दीव्यति व्यवहरति प्रकाशते वा।). The Ganges both adorns the heavenly path and sanctifies it as her sacred purifying Waters flow by it. संस्कारः व्याकरणजन्या श्रद्धिः तद्वत्या. A learned person (तनीषी) would be an object of scorn and ridicule, if he were to use barbarous ungrammatical speech. Refined courteous speech, the other hand, adorns and purifies him, 'भद्रेषां लक्ष्मीनिहिताधि-ति श्रिते श्रुतेः। (Mallinātha). Nārāyaņa remarks, अत्र मनीषिणः पूत्रतं ^{8हतला}भः। तदुक्तम् — यस्तु प्रयुङ्कते कुरालो विशेषे शब्दान् यथावद् व्यवहारकाले। सोऽन-न्तमाप्नोति जयं परत्र वाग्योगिवद्रदुष्यति चापश्चेदः ॥ ...अनेनोपमानेन हिसवतः पङ्क्तिपा-कत्वं द्योत्यते । अत्र मनुः चय्र व्याकुरुते वाचं यत्र भीमांसतेऽध्वरम् । तावुमी पुण्यकर्माणी 116 पङ्क्तिपावनपावनी. Bhavabhūti in Uttara V. thus refers to राक्षसी का and its opposite, the स्तृता वाक्, ऋषयो राक्षसीमाहुर्वाचमुन्मत्तदप्तयोः। योनिः सर्वेवैराणां सा हि लोकस्य निर्ऋतिः ॥ कामं दुग्धे विप्रकर्षत्यलक्ष्मां कीर्ति स्ते दुक् या हिनास्ति तां चाप्येतां मातरं मङ्गलानां धेनुं धीराः सूनृतां वाचमाहुः॥ T Alamkarasarvasva quotes this verse to illustrate उपमा.

vel

thu

Kā illu

ed.

use

nec

lor

abi

bir

her निरि

tea

she

of ·

COI

to

and

Ma

च्छे

nā

-गता

sin

Na

विन

माह

is (

of

alv

lig

Sic

the

in

the

for

by

Stanza 29—We prefer the reading कीडारसात् (or कीडासं) निर्विश्वतीव बाल्यम् to...बाल्ये. Parvatī appeared to enjoy to her heart content her child-hood. The force of इव is that Parvat being Adimaya, could not have any real interest in the pastimes of children. But as she had taken birth on the earth, she had naturally to behave in a manner suited to her avatara. (क्रीडया रसः or क्रीडा एव रसः) यत्र तत् क्रीडारसं वाल्यम्. Child hood, it is well-known, is given to play and sport. Mall natha reads क्रीडारसं निर्विशतीव बाल्ये which ultimately means the same thing. But बाल्यें निर्विशती is more poetic than वाल्ये क्रीडाले निर्विश्ती. विश् with नि: to enjoy. 'निर्वेशो भृतिभोगयोः' इति विश्वः, मन्दाकिन सैकतेष्र (on the sandy banks) वेदिकाभिः. Three pastimes indulged in by Parvati are referred to here. One is that of raising small dams or altars of the sands on the banks of the Ganges, demolishing them and re-raising them. Even now children are seen taking great pleasure in this pastime on the bank of the local rivulet, especially in villages. The Megh refers to another kind of pastime on the sands. अन्वेष्टव्यैः कर्न सिकतामुष्टिनिक्षेपगृढैः संकोडन्ते मणिभिरम्रप्रार्थिता यत्र कन्याः ॥ मन्दाकिनी, the nam of the Ganges in heaven. As Parvati presumably lived on the highest peak, the river is rightly called here by the nem मन्दाकिनी, while in I. 16. as the Kiratas and others are not the denizens of heaven, the river is called भागीरथी which is her nam on the earth. वेदिका is a small वेदि, altar. This passime shows the religious temperament of Parvati. The second pastime wi that of playing with the ball. What this pastime is, it is difficult to say. It might be that of stroking the rubber ball with palm of the hand again and again, whithout allowing any break in the strokes. One who would do this feat the largest number of times, is the winner. Or the ball is to be used in striking of another with. This however would be a rather violent pasting for girls. प्रत्रिका is a doll made of ivory or formed of cloth. पुत्रिका itself means 'a doll,' कृत्रिम is to a certain extent superfluor Playing with dolls and playing the matron, is perhaps the mos

सी वा

ने दुष्ट्रते /

ोडार्सं)

ins91

arvati

n the n the

ed to

Child

Malli.

is the कीडाल

गिक्य

lulged

raisin

E the

now,

n thi

Megh.

कनक

nami

n the

Dami

ot the nam

s the e was fficulty.

h the break

umber

ng one

stime

h. As

Juous

mos

The

popular pastime with girls. The motherly instinct is usually यो:। । most predominant in girls and it is positively amusing to see very small girls, playing the matron, fondling their dolls, and thus successfully imitating the actions of their mothers. The Kūvyānuśāsana and Sarasvatīkanthābharana quote this verse to illustrate कीडिता.

Stanza 30—उपदेशस्य काले when she became fit to be instructed. उपदेश: instruction. In स्थिरोपदेशाम्, उपदेश seems to have been used in the sense of 'impressions'. Parvatī was not under the necessity of learning anything anew. She had mastered all the lores in her past birth and the impressions of those, being abiding, had not been effaced, though she had taken another birth. At the proper time these lores revealed themselves to her, the instruction given by her preceptors, being merely निमित्तमात्र. The idea is that she very easily mastered what the teachers taught her or that without any help from the teachers, she came to know every thing. The poet explains the advent of the lores by two comparisons. In the first, the विद्यां are compared to rows of swans, पार्वती to the Ganges and उपदेशकाले to त्रराद. Here, the swans actually leave one place and go to another. In autumn, it is well-known that swans leave the Manasa lake and return to the plains. Cf. आ केलासाद्विसाकेसलय-च्छेद्पाथेयवन्तः संपत्स्यन्ते नर्भास भवतो राजहंसाः सहायाः ॥ Megha. where Mallinatha remarks कालान्तरे मानसस्य हिमदुष्टलाखिमस्य च हंसानां रोगहेतुत्वादन्यत्र गता हंसाः पुनर्वर्षासु मानसमेव गच्छन्तीति प्रसिद्धिः। Some lores, it seems, similarly actually passed from the preceptors to Parvati. As Nārāyaṇa remarks द्विविधो विद्याविनयः। यदाह विष्णुगुप्तः 'कृतकः स्वाभाविकश्च विनयः इति । तत्र कृतके विनये प्रथमसूपमानं दर्शयति...स्वाभाविके विद्याविनयेऽप्युपमान-महि आत्मभासः नवतं महीषधिमिवेति । In the second comparison, Parvatī is compared to the महीष्धि and the विद्यां to आत्मभासः. The lustre of the luminous herb does not come to it from outside. It is always in the herb, but owing to the sun's overpowering light, the lustre cannot assert itself till night has fallen. Similarly the fagus had been all the while with Parvati, only they waited till the proper उपदेशकाल to reveal themselves. While in the first comparison, the swans are not always to be found on the Ganges, they go there from the Manasa lake. From the fourth line, it appears that all the lores were known intuitively by Parvati, while the two comparisons show that they were

TI

an

th pl: tw

dr

w

un

10

its

th

m ve

अ

lin

W

in

CC

OI

धा

st

li

la

at la

si

aı

T

sl

d

t]

e

10

M

h

partly intuitive and partly learnt. उपदेशकाले may also imply that some instruction was provided for her. The luminous herbs at night time are already referred to in I. 10 above.

Stanza 31—बाल्यात्परं वय: the age that follows child-hood hence youth. In the first three lines the poet describes the glory of youth in general and not that of Parvati. असंभूतं lit. no brought together, that is, natural. अङ्गयन्ति: a beautiful body a यष्टिः may be taken प्रशंसार्थे. (हस्तयष्टिलतादयः प्रशंसावचनाः) or अङ्गं यष्टिः इत्। slender body which is regarded as a sign of beauty. A beautiful woman is always described by Sanskrit poets as तन्त्री. The expression may be taken here in the sense of 'a body in general as the poet apparently wants to assert that youth is the decoration of all bodies, whether beautiful or otherwise. body naturally appears more beautiful in youth. आसव इति आह यस्य नास्ति तत् अनासवाख्यम्. आसवः wine. करणम् व्यापारवत् असाधारणं कार्ष करणम् or साधकतमं करणम्, the cause that never fails to produce it effect. Two things are known to be unfailing causes of intoxication, wine and youth. Youth again is the period whe love can have its full play, hence it is said to be another missil in the hands of Kama who is already provided with the arrow viz, flowers. Kāma is called पुडपनागः and as these arrrows at said to be five, he is also called पश्चवाण:-The five arrows are अराविन्दमशोकं च चूर्तं च नवमिक्षका। नीलोत्पलं च पत्रैते पञ्चवाणस्य सायकाः॥ 🛭 संमोहनोन्मादनौ च शोषणस्तापनस्तथा । स्तम्भनश्चेति कामस्य पञ्चवाणाः प्रकीर्तिताः ॥ पुष्प न्यतिरिक्तं (समाधिकं more potent, over and above). The Sahiti quotes this verse to illustrate यौवनशोभा; the Rasagangadhard Sarasvati, Alainkārasarvasva, Alainkūrakaustubha, and Alain kārasūtra, refer to it in connection with the figure of speech विभावना, and the Alamkaratilaka refers to it as an instance of स्वजातिव्यतिरेकः

Stanza 32—विभन्तम् made manifest. Youth caused certain developments in her limbs and made the body beautiful in all its parts. चतलः असयः (corners) यस्याः सा चतुरसा शोभा यस्य तत्, lin possessed of beauty in the four parts, that is, possessing perfect all round beauty. The expression चतुरस्र occurs in Raghu VI 10, मनुष्यवासं चतुरस्यानमध्यास्य कन्या परिवारशोभि। In the reading 'चतुरस्याभि is to be taken as a long syllable, being at the end of a Pada

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

also

The

I. 10

-hood

es the

t. no:

ody a

: इद.

utiful

The

neral

s the ने आए

कार्ष

ce it

2S 0

when

issil

TIOW

s are

are

11 0

पुष्प

i hity

hard

4lain

peeci

e 0

rtain

lit.

fect

VI

शोभि

ada

119

The Trivandrum edition reads... शोभम्. Youth did not import any out-side beauty into her body; the beauty was already there, it was merely revealed by youth. How this was accomplished imperceptibly and thoroughly, is made clear by the two comparisons. It is often remarked that a painter does not draw anything new, he merely makes manifest by his brush what has been already on the canvas. The picture is quite unconsciously revealed under the touch of the painter. The lotus also has its beauty revealed when the rays of the sun open its petals. A day-lotus opens its petals and blossoms up when the sun rises. A night lotus acts similarly at the rise of the moon. तूलिका is a painter's brush. The Sarasvatī quotes this verse to illustrate योवनसंपर्. The Kāvyālainkūrasūtravītti remarks अत्र चतुरसहोभीति न युक्तम ।

Stanza 33-The poet now describes in detail the various limbs of Parvati in seventeen stanzas. The description begins, with the foot and ends with the head. Mallinatha remarks in this connection that the description of deities should commence with the foot, and of human beings with the bair on the head (देवतानां रूपं पादाङ्गुष्ठप्रभृति वर्ण्यते मानुषाणां केशादारम्येति धार्मिकाः ।). The nails of the toes of Parvati were red and were shooting forth red lustre all round. The feet also were tender like lotuses. As Parvatī walked along, it appeared as if red land-lotuses spreading their reddish lustre were being formed at every step. Her feet thus were possessed of the beauty of the land-lotuses; but this beauty was superior to and more extensively spread than the beauty of the ordinary lotuses which are confined to particular places and would not grow anywhere. The beauty created by Parvati's feet could be seen wherever she went. There is the Alamkara निद्शीना in the verse, which is defined by Mammata as अभवन्वस्तुसंवन्धः उपमापारिकल्पकः। How can the feet be said to possess the beauty of land-lotuses? Thus there is an impossible connection described, which however ends in a comparison, the idea being that the feet resemble the lotuses. In the first two lines there is another fancy. As Parvatī walked on, her soles being pressed by the heavy weight of the hips, breasts etc. as it were spat out blood in the form of the red lustre shooting up from the nails. Or, the soles had the lac dye applied to them profusely and the poet fancies that a mea

froi

the राजह

are (Cf.

संनत

gro

swa

वीचर

is a

स्त्रत

as a विका

ank

ver

हंसव

अनुष

tail

it c

be निर्मा

ma

bea

8to

the

had hac

oth

cre

-Car

110

We

The It c

of ,

portion of this lac dye was as it were thrown out by the soles when pressed from above, in the form of the red lustre, just as a person who has taken too much food vomits a part of it, if he exerts himself too much. The whole thing simply means that her feet were naturally reddish and had probably the lac dye applied to them in addition and the nails of the toes were also reddish. The possession of red soles and nails is a sign of great beauty (अत्र सामुद्धिका: यस्याः एकतत्वी (एकतन्या Aruṇagiri) पादाबुत्रतायो तल्सपृशी। निगृहगुक्तो निहती सा स्यान्ग्पतिसमता॥ Mallinātha) अभ्युत्रतयोः अङ्गुष्ठनस्ययोः प्रभाभिः निक्षेपणम् stamping, firm tread. उद्धिरन्ती-the use of such words in a metaphorical sense, as here, is not vulgar according to Daṇḍin (निष्ठयूतोद्गीणवान्तादि गीणवृत्तिस्यपाध्रयम्। अतिस्वर्द्यमन्यत्र प्राम्यकक्षां विगाहते॥ Kāvyādarśa). अस्यवस्थाम्, having no restraint or settled arrangement. The Alamkāraśekhara quotes this verse with the remark अत्र चरणः स्थलार्विन्देन वार्णेतः।

Stanza 34—The gait of beautiful ladies is often described to be slow and majestic like that of a swan or an elephant. Cf. यदि हंस गता न ते नतम्रः सरसो रोधसि दक्पथं प्रिया मे । मदखेलपदं कथं नु तस्याः सकरं चोर गतं त्वया गृहीतम् ॥ and also हंस प्रयच्छ मे कान्तां गतिरस्यास्त्वया हता। Vikram IV. The poet says in the present verse that Parvati learnt her gait from the swans who were only too willing to teach her, as they had their own axe to grind in that matter. The swans had all along been marking that though they were more learned in the matter of gait Pārvatī, they had to learn a good deal from Pārvatī herself. Parvati had jingling anklets on her feet and the swans had none. The swans therefore wished to learn the art of producing the correct jingling sound. Now a Vidya can be acquired by attending upon the preceptor and serving him devotedly (this the swans were not prepared to do as it would have taken a long time) or by giving ample remuneration to the preceptor (the swans could not avail themselves of this second method either) or lastly by the exchange of a Vidya (गुरुश्रश्रुषया विद्या पुष्कलेन धनेन वा। अस्य वा विद्यया विद्या चतुर्थी नोपपद्यते ॥ quoted by Mallinatha). The swans found the last method to be an admirable one and within their means. They would train Parvati in the matter of graceful movements of the feet and would learn from her in return the music of the anklets. The bargain would be thus quite equitable or even more favourable soles from the point of view of the swans. The whole thing simply means that Farvatī had a very beautiful gait like that of the swans. हंसानां राजा-राजहंसः ; हंसास्तु श्वेतगरुतश्चकाङ्गा मानसौकसः। of it. राजहंसास्तु ते चञ्चुचरणैलेंहितैः सिताः ॥ इति सिंहः । संनताङ्गी whose limbs neans are bent, or rather whose body is slightly stooping e lac (Cf. स्तोकनम्रा स्तनाभ्याम् Megha). The Trivandrum edition reads संवतांसा which is also a good reading and would provide another ground for similarity between the swans and Parvatī. The swans have slightly bent shoulders (स्मर्तन्याः शिथिलांसहंसरुचयः गोदावरी-बीचयः। quoted by Arunagiri). Having a slightly bent shoulder is a sign of auspiciousness in women also (संनतांसाः स्त्रियः पूज्या स्त्रतांसस्त पूरुषाः । इति सामुद्रिकप्रसिद्धिः । Nārāyaṇa). गतेषु - गतं P. P. used as a noun. लीलया आश्चिताः (lit. worshipped, adorned, full of) विक्याः (steps) येषु तेषु. लुच्च—greedy, extremely eager. नूप्र—an anklet, worn by maidens and also by married ladies. This verse is quoted in the Alamkāraśekhara with the remark, अत्र गमनं हंसवत् वर्णितम् ।

Stanza 35—वृत्त—round, well-formed on all sides. पूर्वमन्गते अनुपूर्वे गोपुच्छाकारे, broad at the source and tanering, like a cow's tail. ग्रुम beautiful, auspicious. न is to be taken with आतिदांचे : It cannot be taken separately as in that case it would have to be construed with बतानपूर्व also, which is absurd. शेषाणाम् अङ्गानां निर्माणे एव विधी, for the purpose of arranging to create the remaining limbs. The idea is: Parvati's thighs were extremely beautiful. In fashioning them, the creator exhausted the whole stock of loveliness he had at his command. When he finished off the creation of the thighs, and naturally wanted to fashion the remaining limbs, he found, to his consternation, that he had no materials left for that purpose. His efforts, therefore, had to be directed first to create loveliness out of which the other limbs were to be formed. Or the idea is that, after creating so beautiful thighs, the creator had to be specially careful in creating the other limbs which obviously ought to be such as would become the thighs. Hence his efforts were redoubled for securing a sufficiently high order of loveliness. The second interpretation does not appear to be charming. It can be defended only on the ground that the loveliness out of which the other limbs were fashioned, cannot be the same

Just

were n of giri)

ha).

रन्ती-

not श्रयम्।

ving

chara

तः।

ibed

t. Cf, सकल

हता।

rvatī

g to

that ough

than

her-

wans

t. of n be

him

ould

n to this idya

oted

an rain

and

The

able wo

no

(tl

fro

ha

an

Up

tru

and

W

th

ter

the

of

alv

if (

in या

मुक्त

Th

tw

CO

fit

an इत्र

of एव

ir

of

in

'a

he in

an

de

as that of which the thighs were made, as the lavanya of the face, for instance, is different from the lavanya of the hands, so that the question of the stock of lavanya being exhausted which is emphasised in the first interpretation, does not arise This contention is hardly satisfactory. Lavanya obviously mean 'loveliness in general'. It would be too much to suppose that the lavanya of the thousand and one parts of the body, has as many distinctions as the parts themselves Secondly, and this is a more important objection, the second interpretation does not sufficiently appreciate the contrast between शेषाङ्गनिर्माणविधौ and उत्पाद्य लावण्ये (which contrast, by the by, is made more clear by the reading लावण्यमुत्पत्तम्). The creator wanted to create the other limbs, but he could not carry ou his intention. He had to lay aside his plan of fashioning the limbs for the time being, and had to take up the fashioning our of loveliness first. Daksināvarta reads लावण्यमुत्पत्तम्. where उत्पत्तं would have to be taken to mean उत्पाद्यितम् । (अन्तर्भृतव्ययोज) प्रयोग:।). आस -a Perfect form. In the Perfect, अस् 'to be substitutes भू, and so the form would be वभूव and not आस. A the form is obviously ungrammatical, commentators display their ingenuity in defending and explaining it. Thus Mallinath quotes शाकटायन ('तिङ्गन्तप्रतिरूपकमन्ययम्' इत्याह शाकटायनः). Vāman says that the form आस is not from अस् 'to be', but from आ 'to go', or 'to shine'; so that silk would be perfectly grammatical If अस् is taken to be गत्यर्थक, the reading लावण्ये उत्पाद्ये would bad as remarked by Arunagiri (तत्र विसन्धिदोषोऽर्थासंगतिश्व गत्यर्थेषा कर्मणोऽपोक्षितत्वात्।) Whatever meaning we assign to अस्, it would have to be taken metaphorically, आस = दिदीपे, or गतः, that is, प्रज्ञ We think it best to agree with Vallahha (कवीनामयं प्रामादिकः प्रयोह and say that this is a case of poetical license. is quoted in Citramimansa, as an illustration of उछिशा, व in Alamkāravimarsinī with the remark एवमिनशब्दोऽपि काचित तक्म प्रतिपादयति ।

Stanza 36—Thighs of ladies are usually compared to the trunks of elephants (Cf. करमोह or करमोपमोहः) and to plantai stems (Cf. रम्मोह where रम्मा means 'the interior stem of a plantain tree'). Both the trunks and plantain-stems are quit good in themselves and are known for beauty throughout the

f the

ds, so

usted

arise

hould

much

ts of elves

econd

ntrast

y the reato

y ou

g tha

oning

where म्यथें।ऽरो

o be

As

isplay

inath

man

m 37

atical

ld by त्यर्थया

would

, प्रश्त

प्रयोग

vers

तकमें

o the

ntai

plan

t the

world, but to compare Parvati's thighs to them, well, the very idea is absurd, Suppose, we take as a standard of comparison. not the trunk of any elephant, but the trunk of a Nagendra (the best of elephants) and an excellent plantain-stem, say from the Nandana garden of the gods, still even these would have to be ruled out of order as standards of comparison. For, an Upamana is obviously expected to be superior to the Upameya, But what do we find here? Take the case of the trunk of a lordly elephant. It is round, and tapering no doubt, and beautiful too, but what of the rough skin covering it?" Would not such a comparison suggest to a certain extent thatthe thighs of Parvati were करेंग? To suggest that the soft tender thighs of Parvatī had something of roughness about them would be sheer impertinence. The trunk is therefore out of question. The plantain-stem would be all right, but it is always and invariably cool, but just think, what would happen if one were to resort to it in winter, Parvati's thighs were invariably pleasing as she was a Syama (शीते सुखोणसर्वाङ्गी श्रीष्मे या मुखशीतला । तप्तकाञ्चनवर्णाभा सा स्त्री स्थामेति कथ्यते ॥ also शांतकाले भवत्युष्ण-मुण्णकाले च शीतलम् । सुन्दरीणां कुचद्रन्द्रम्हद्रन्द्रं च । quoted by Nārāyaṇa). The plantain-stem is thus also out of question. Thus the only two things that could possibly be thought of as standards of comparison, can be unceremoniously dismissed, as not being fit for such a high honour. The thighs had thus no parallel anywhere. त्वचिककेशत्वम्, an Aluk compound, 'आमूर्धमस्तकात स्वाङ्गादकामें' रखलुक्. It may be separated as त्वचि कर्कशत्वात् without any change of meaning, but in that case, the symmetry is broken as एकान्तरौत्यात् is one expression. एकान्त must be taken here to mean 'invariable' and not 'intense'. The plantain-stem is ruled out of order, not because it is intensely cool, but because it is invariably cool. कदलीविशेषं: an excellent कदली, as पुरुषविशेषः means. an excellent man . परिणाहि lit, expansive (परिणाहो विशालता इत्यमर:) hence, great. नास-outside, excluded from. This verse is quoted in Alamkārasekhara as an illustration of निन्दोपमा and तुत्ययोगिताः and in the Kuvalayananda as that of तुल्ययोगिता.

Stanza 37—The poet says that there is no need at all of describing the beauty of Parvati's hips. The very fact that Siva, who was absolutely averse to all feminine charms, and whom no female even in her wildest dreams, would have thought it possible to allure, consented to marry Parvatt speaks volumes of the charm of her hips. The reading अनुमेयशोध cannot properly be explained. Mallinatha tries somehow to justify that form with the help of 'त्वप्रत्ययस्तु गतार्थत्वात् न प्रयुक्तः' of Vāmana (शोभते इति शोभि आवस्यके णिनिः , ततस्त्वप्रत्ययः । अनुमेयं शोभिलं शोभा यस्य तत् अनुमेयशोभि ।). कार्द्वीगुणस्य स्थानम् = नितम्बाबिम्बम्, कान्ती is the girdle, or waist-band (Marathi, क्रमरपट्टा). अनिन्दिता, not to be blamed, that is, beautiful in al. her limbs. गिरिश:-गिरि: (केलास अस्य अस्तीति, or गिरौ शेते इति Siva. पश्चात् after Parvatī bad won over . Siva by her penance. कमनीयम् fit to be loved or yearned after, Mallinatha points out in detail, how the inference referred to can be drawn from the Hetu which is non-fallacious, गिरिजानितम्बविम्बं विश्वातिशायिसौन्दर्य गिरिशाङ्कारूढत्वात् , व्यतिरेकेण नार्यन्तरनितम् ंबिम्बवत्। विपक्षे हेत्वनुक्तिरेव वाधिका । दाक्षायणीनितम्बविम्बस्य तु पक्षसपक्षयोरन्यताः आवानातिवृतेः निष्कलङ्कमनुमानमिति...। This verse is quoted in the Alainkāratilaka with the remark झटिति अर्थापैकत्वे गुणः and in the . Kāvyālankārasūtravņiti to show हिन्द्रन्

Stanza 38-The poet describes in this verse, the navel and the line of hair on the stomach of Parvati. The navel was quite deep and the line of hair extended right up to the naveland was possessed of a shining black colour. The possession of a deep navel is a sign of beauty. Cf. निम्ननाभिः Megha, निममनाभेर्निपताई राङ्कितम्। Vikram IV, गङ्गावर्तसनाभिनाभि Daśakumāra, प्रजापतेः सौकुमार्याः दङ्गुलिमुद्रामिव निमन्नां नाभिमण्डलीमावर्तिनीमुद्रहन्तीम Kādam. The line of hair is compared to the shooting ray of the blue sapphire, the central gem in the waistband. सितंतरस्य = आसतस्य इन्द्रनीलस्येत्यंर्थः। (Malli nācha) तस्याः (पार्वत्याः, or नीन्याः) मेखला तस्याः मध्यमणेः अचिः इव. The central . gem is always the biggest and the brightest. नीवी is the knot at the waist of the lower garment worn by women. The line of hair crossed the obstacle viz. the नीवी on the way and entered the navel below. The Alamkaratilaka regards this verse as अश्रीर Some commentators read after this verse, the verse गर्मोरनामी which also describes the navel and the line of hair. The poet no where describes the same thing twice and the verse which is not commented upon by Mallinatha or Arunagiri is likely to be an interpolation. The translation would be the dark fresh line of hair by the side of the well in the form of the deep

of t afra vāk the eati sep hair

anc

nav

char are वियुक्त विगृह्य विगृह्य liter yud मध्यम

(मध्य

only men narr girl ৰতিস that God fast thou love of I that orde perh

idea orde

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

ave

Vati.

शोभि

7 to

उन्तः'

ोभितं

the

be

लासः Over

fter,

l to ous,

तम्ब-

यतर-

the

the

and

was

and

of a

ताद्वि•

ार्या•

nair

tral

ılli'

ral

at

of

the शल.

1."

oet

ich

to esh

ep

125

navel, shone like a bunch of moss dropped down from the beak of the Cakravāka birds in the form of the breasts, that were afraid of the moon in the form of the face'. The Cakravāka pair is separated at night time, hence it is afraid of the moon. The bird threw down the श्वलम्झरी it had been eating when the moon rose as that was the signal for the separation from its mate. The श्वलम्झरी is said to be the line of hair thrown down by the breasts-Cakravākas on the appearance of the moon-face.

Stanza 39-Parvati's waist was thin and she had three very charming folds on her belly. A thin waist and folds on the belly are regarded as signs of great beauty. Cf. मध्ये क्षामा Megha, त्या वियक्तस्य विलम्भध्यया ... Vikram IV. सौधारोहणपरिपाट्या वलित्रयं Dašakumāra. On वेदिविलम्मध्या, Arunagiri remarks वेद्या विलम्नं सध्यमिव सध्यं यस्या इति विग्रहानो दक्षिणावर्तः सप्तम्युपमानेत्यादिना समासममंस्त । वयं तु वेदिरिव विलप्तमध्येति विरुद्य ' उपमानानि ' इति समासं मन्यामहे । विलगति हसतीति विलग्नं कृशमित्यर्थ ।, विलग्नं literally means 'sticking together', hence close, or thin. Halayudha gives सध्य also as the meaning of विलय (अवलयं विलयं च सध्यो मध्यमं इत्यपि). In that case, the compound वेदिविलसमध्या (वेदिविलसं (मध्यम्) इव मध्ये यस्याः सा) ought to have been वेदिमध्या or वेदिविलमा only (as the sucra सप्तम्यपमाने... requires the elision of the second member of the compound). A वेदि is the sacrificial altar; it is narrow in the middle (वेया: कुश्मध्यत्वं प्रसिद्धम् । Nārāyaṇa). बाला is a girl of sixteen years, just developing into a young woman, विलिय-the three folds on the belly. Tho poet imagines that the Valitraya was really a stair-case provided for the God of love to ascend up to her heart. Parvati was now fast approaching youth which is a fit time for entertaining thoughts of love. Youth knew this well and in order that love might reach her heart without any hindrance, it had created the stair-case in the form of the folds, for the God of love to ascend. We shall have to presume in this casethat the God of love would enter her body by the feet, in order that the ascent by the folds might be possible, or perhaps, the comparison need not be stretched too far. The other reading आरोहणार्थे नवयीवनस्य कामेन is also a good one. The idea would be that the God of love placed the flight of steps in order that the fresh youth might ascend up to the breasts, the -126Notes on face, etc. to work in them the various changes due to itself arms Daksinavarta reads कालेन for कामेन and explains it as यौवनोत्मादकालेन be we Arunagiri thus criticises his explanation, तत्र कर्तृविशेषस्यानुपयोगः। कर्तमात्रस्यान्यथापि सिद्धिः। This verse is quoted in the Suvritatilala with the remark, रूपवर्णनं यथा कालिदासस्य.

Stanza 40-Fully developed breasts, with no interval between them, are a sign of beauty. Cf. अपि वनान्तरमल्पकुचान्तरा श्रयति पर्वत पर्वस संनता। Vikram IV. उत्पल is a blue lotus. The presence of the dark nipple is an effect of youth. The poet says that the two breasts so closely pressed against each other that there was hardly any interval left between them. Even a lotus fibre, slender as it is, could not have found enough space for itself, What then is to be said of a Manisūtra, for instance? The reading मुणालसत्रोण पदं न लब्धम् lacks emphasis as there is no आप, which seems to be quite necessary. मृणालसूत्रान्तरमध्यलक्थमिति परे कर्माण निष्ठा। (Nārāyaṇa) In Megha, the poet refers to the dark anipple in the centre, the remaining portion of the breasts being whitish yellow, मध्ये क्यामः स्तन इव अवः शेषविस्तारपाण्डुः ।

Stanza 41-शिरीष is a kind of flower, which is extremely delicate; Mimosa Sirīsa. The poet says that the arms of Parvatī were even more tender than a Sirīsa garland. This can be inferred from the following facts. Kāma had tried his best in his first attemps to aftract the mind of Siva towards Parvatī, but had been miserably worsted. This defeat, however, did not discourage Madana in the least. He tried to equip himself in a better manner than before. He had used in his first attempt his flowery arrows, but without any effect. Growing wiser by experience, he now thought of still more delicate objects-which however are the sharpest weapons in the hands of Kama-and ultimately pitched upon Parvati's arms. When Siva, after marriage, found the arms of Parvati twined round his neck in close embrace, he became a complete slave to Kāma who thus wiped out his former infamy. Pārvati's arms, in plain language, were the most delicate ever seen. As शिर्ष is not mentioned among the five arrows of Madana, we must understand that Madana occasionally uses other flowers also as his arrows. The reading शिरावपुष्प...is inferior, as in order that there should be something corresponding to the down merc cribe An a and I the b

Jeave

at ev

which Both Ther neck havir and a ful, i more the r तंनुवार

bent

une

it as

Agai

ing r

quot उन्नत. neck *beau adjec tion that

बन्धुरस perh unde visar

One

self arms which are कण्डपाशी, we want शिरीषमाला which alone can निल्ल be worn on the neck. कण्डपाशी—The idea is that Siva was tied down as one would tie down a beast by the neck and dragged laka mercilessly. मकरः (a kind of fish) ध्वजः यस्य तेन. Madana is described as having a fish as his banner, or a fish on his banner. An additional verse is read here by some, describing the hands and nails of Parvatī, निर्भारिसता...'The pair of her hands with the beautiful nails, which treated with contempt the fresh leaves of the Asoka, rendered nugatory the beauty of the sky. at evening time, with its newly risen moon.'

rval

त्रयति e of two

was bre,

self,

The

आपे,

पारे

ark asts

iely |

can pest

rds

-WC

uip

his ect.

ore

in ti's

rati

ete

tī's

As

we

ers

in

be

Stanza 42-Parvatī had a very beautiful slender neck on which sho used to wear a fine necklace of perfectly round pearls. Both the neck and the necklace added beauty to each other. The neck was made to appear more charming by the beautiful necklace, which in its turn appeared to great advantage by having such a charming resort. Both of them were thus appropriate and भूज्य. As the neck made the necklace appear more beautiful, it was the भूषण of the latter and as it itself was rendered more beautiful by the necklace, it was the मृष्य also. Similarly the necklace also was possessed of the भूषणभाव and the भूष्यभाव. तंतुवासो वन्धुरश्च तस्य. वन्धुर beautiful; it may also mean 'slightly bent ' (बन्धुरी नम्रसुन्दरी-वैजयन्ती which also gives the meaning uneven 'वन्धुरं तून्नतानतम्). Mallinātha reads स्तनवन्धुरस्य and explains it as स्तनाभ्याम् उन्नतस्य, 'raised up or made erect by the breasts.' Against Mallinatha's reading and its interpretation, the following points may be noted—बन्धर does not mean उन्नत; the Amara quoted gives the meaning उन्नतानत, that is, undulated and not नेतत. There is not much propriety in the statement that the neck appeared erect or beautiful (if we take वन्ध्र to mean beautiful') on account of the breasts. The corresponding adjective in the case of मुक्ताकलाप is निस्तलस्य, which does not mention any out-side agency. It is therefore reasonable to suppose that the 400 also should have an adjective of a similar nature. One can easily understand how the original reading तस्यास्तनु-न्युत्स्य came to be changed to तस्याः स्तनवन्धुरस्य Some copyist perhaps wrote तस्या स्तज्ञवन्धुरस्य separately and another, failing to understand that the स् in स्तनु was due to a Saindhi, added a visarga after तस्या, changing it into तस्याः. The impulse to think

va

mo

ne

pla

the

lus

त्यय

Tb निह

निध

K

sar

flo

and विद्रा

dif

of:

thi

wh

By res

be

COY

rep

in t

अन्

त्ती

हिमा

V. .

yeur

शयो

of स्तन, in place of स्तन was then naturally irresistible as the instead of a could be explained as being due to the attraction of the उकार in न्यु immediately following and ultimately the reading तस्याः स्तनवन्धुरस्य came to be established. मुक्ताभिः कृत कलापः तस्य. कलाप is used here in the sense of an ornament. निस्त means round, circular निस्तल seems to refer to borh मुक्ता and The ornament was circular in form (like our गळसी) and it was made of fine round pearls. Perfectly round pearls are extremely rare and so costly. अन्योन्येन शोभाजननात् also implies अन्योन्यस्मिन् शोभाजननात् (जननम् in the sense of उत्पत्तिः). As Nārāyana remarks, यद्यप्यन्योन्येन शोभाजननादिति विग्रहे शोभाजनने हेतुभूतयोः कण्ठमुकाः कलापयोः भूषणभाव एव कण्ठोक्तः (directly expressed) न भूष्यभावः, तथारि भष्यमाणयोः कष्ठम्वताकलापयोभ्ध्यभावोऽप्यथीदायातीति न काचिद्नुपपत्तिः। भुष्क भुष्ययोः भावः भूषणभूष्यभावः, instead of भूषणभूष्यभावो, as the word भाव is used in a general sense and the expression all the same does mean भूषणभावश्च भूष्यभावश्च. Cf. for the idea of the limbs beautify. ing the ornaments, इयमनयवैः पाण्डक्षामैरलंकृतमण्डना, Malati. verse is quoted in the Alamkarasarvasva, Sarasvati, Alamkarasūtra, Alamkāratilaka and Alamkārakaustubha, as an illustration of the figure of speech अन्योन्य (क्रियया त परस्परं वस्तुनोर्जननेऽन्योन्यम्। Mammata). The Sarasavatī also quotes it with the remark, उद्दीपनविभावेष विभूषणम् यथा.

Stanza 43-The Goddess of beauty had long been on the jook out for some suitable abode where she would find all characteristics of beauty. So far her attempt had been unsuccessful. There were no doubt certain good abodes like the lotus or the moon, but each one of them lacked certain features which the other possessed. The moon for stance, possesses a peculiar charm, but lacks the fragrance of the lotus and is pale by day. The day-lotus which closes its petals during night time, has fragrance, delicacy etc., but does not possess the charming loveliness of the वर्णन night lit. by the moon. Laksmi, therefore had to make गमत her stay in the lotus only for the day time and had to go these The to the moon to pass the night. She had to make journeys most unwillingly, but it could not be helped Now, however, that Parvati's face was there, these tire Dob some journeys of Laksmi had come to an end. able

129

Kumārasamhhava: Canto I

vati's face possessed the charms of both the lotus and the moon, and the proverbially unsteady Laksmi did find a permanent abode in her face, after a long waiting. Parvati's face, in plain words, was possessed of the beauty of both the lotus and the moon. सङ्क्ते enjoys, सजोऽनवने इत्यात्मनेपदम्, आभिल्याम् = कान्ति lustre, charm. लोला unsteady. Cf. येन श्रियः संश्रयदोषहर्वं स्वभावलोले-लयशः प्रमृष्टम् । Raghu VI. द्वौ संश्रयः यस्याः ताम् . प्रोतिः delight, pleasure. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyaprakāša to illustrate ह्यातेऽथ निहेंतीरदुष्टता, with the remark अत्र रात्री पद्मस्य संकोचः दिवा चन्द्रमसञ्च निषमत्वं लोकप्रसिद्धमिति न सङ्क्ते इति हेतुं नापेक्षते। The Kāvyapradīpa, Kāvyānusāsana and the Alamkārasūtra also quote it for the same purpose, and the Vyaktiviveka. to illustrate लोकप्रमाण.

Stanza 44-By geq we are here to understand a white flower. प्रवाले उपहितम्-प्रवाल a fresh reddish sprout. मुक्ताफल is white and विद्रम (the coral) is red. ताम्रे ओष्टे पर्यस्ता रुक् यस्य. स्फुटे (स्पष्टकान्ती) विद्रमें तिष्टतीति तत्. Parvati's smile was white and as the smile was diffused over the red lips, the ultimate result was a mixture of red and white. If we want to compare her smile to something, we must find out some object which is both red and white. As matters stand, we cannot find out such an object. By clever manipulation, however, two objects may be cited as resembling her smile. Take a white flower and imagine it to be laid in fresh red sprouts (which are not naturally found, covering the flower) and then you would have an exact representation of Parvati's smile. Similarly, a white pearl set e the in the red coral would represent the smile. विशद white or clear अनुकुर्यात् would imitate. अनुकरणं हि तुल्यतया वर्तनमिति 'तुल्यार्थेरतुलोपमाभ्यां र्जीयान्यतरस्याम् ' इति षष्ठी । Cf. ताम्रोदरेषु पतितं तरुपल्लवेषु निर्धीतहारगुलिकाविशदं हिमाम्भः। आभाति लब्धपरभागतयाधरोष्टे लीलास्मितं सदशनार्चिरिय त्वदीयम् ॥ Raghu V. The Alamkaracudamani quotes this verse, with the remark पुणाणां ग्रह्मतेव, the Alamkārasarvasva, as an illustration of अति-श्योक्ति, the Alamkāraśekhara, with the remark अत्रीष्ठस्य प्रवालेन वर्णनम्, the Citramimansa and Sarasvati, with the remark तत्रीषद्धितं अतम्, and the Kāvyālamkāratippaņa with the remark यराथें तु chese गासंभवी दोषः।

Stanza 45—अभिजाता वाक् यस्याः तस्याम् अभिजात—noble or of noble descent; here it must be taken to mean 'sweet' or 'agreeable'. An अभिजात person is thus described-प्रदानं प्रच्छन्नं गृहमुपगते

thea

action

y the में: कृतः

निस्तढ

and ाळसरी। | pearls

nplies

ayana

ठमुक्ता-

तथापि

भूपण-भाव is

does utify-

This

nleara-

ration

योन्यम्।

mark,

on the

nd all

insuc-

ertain

r Inrance

which licacy

f che make

to go elped.

tire.

Par-

d

·t

· ₹

. 1

q

- 5

10

. as

T

fc

50

re

is

W

Be

- 4 7

mo

an

he Śir

विर

विव

bor

cur

cou

at t

Per

Wit

pow

que

vinc

gave line

nath

Prin

संभ्रमविधिः निरुत्सेको लक्ष्म्यामनिभवगन्धाः परकथाः। प्रियं कृत्वा सीनं सदिस् नायुपकृतेः श्रुतेऽत्यन्तासिक्तः पुरुषमिजातं कथयति ॥ अमृतं सावयति इति अमृक्क तेत. Parvati's voice as it were distilled nectar, that is, it v so pleasing to the ear. प्रजल्प (to prattle) has rather a b sense. संजल्पितायां the other reading would be better. तस्यां प्रक तायों is loc. abs. construction. प्रतिकृत: (repulsive, jarring) = यस्याः सा. प्रतिगतः कूलम् lit. going against the bank. अन्यैः पुद्य अन्य प्रभूता etc. are the epithets of the cuckoo or the Kokila bi The cuckoo is so called, because the eggs of the cuckoo a supposed to be hatched by other birds, especially the con-Cf. प्रागन्तिरक्षगमनात्स्वमपत्यजातमन्येद्विजैः परभृताः खळ पोषयन्ति ॥ Śāk V. П cuckoo is also the standard of comparison for sweet voi but compared with the voice of Parvatī, it fades into absolu insignificance and sounds jarring to the ears of the hearer, in a wrong string of the lyre when played upon, वितन्त्री the wid string (विह्ना तन्त्री) which produces a discordant note. उत्पार स्वरादीनां विहितं ताडनक्रमम् । विना या ताड्यते मन्दैः सा वितन्त्रीरिहोच्यते ॥ or विन is a badly tuned lute. ताड्यमाना is also a significant express! In the hands of a मन्द, the तन्त्री is not played upon, beaten indiscriminately. It is not तन्त्रीवादन to which one treated, but rather the तन्त्रीताइन. Just as the discordant of the wrong string produces a jarring and displeasing sen tion to the ear, while a harmonious area is going on, so ! notes of the cuckoo were jarring to the ear, while Parvating speaking with her charming sweet voice:

Stanza 46—प्रकृष्टः वातः यस्मिन् सः प्रवातः (or प्रकृष्टः वातः) व यत् नीलोत्पलं तस्मात् निर्विशेषं (निगतः विशेषः यस्मात्). निर्विशेष-गि which there is no विशेष, that is, closely resembling. (long or broad) आक्षेणी यस्याः सा. Long and broad eyes an great sign of beauty. Sometimes the eyes are described extending as far as the ears. मृगाङ्गना a female doe. Tremul glances are also a sign of beauty and Sanskrit poets love compare the glances of beautiful ladies to those of a femiliary Thewhi deer. Cf. चिकतहरिणींप्रक्षणा Megha, and the familiar मृगलीचना poet says that the exquisite glances of Parvati so clos resembled those of the deer, that it was impossible to the that they both could have had them independently of other. One of them must have been the borrower; it is ासे क

अमृता

a b

हिर्हे र

) 7

अन्या

a bir

00 a

CIO

J. T

VOI

bsolu

er, li

WIO:

उत्पाद

I विल ressi

n, t one

nt M sen

SO I ati "

es are ibed

mulo

love

close

, this

of es

s di

cult to decide whether Parvatī borrowed the glances from the deer or the deer borrowed them from Parvati. Cf. for the idea, अपि दृष्टवानास मम प्रियां वने कथयामि ते तदुपलक्षणं श्रुण । प्रथुलीचना सहचरी यथैव ते सुभगं तथैव खलु सापि विक्षते ॥ Vikram IV, परस्पराक्षिसाद्दय-मदूरोज्झितवर्त्मं हु । मृगद्वन्द्वेषु पश्यन्तौ स्यन्दनावद्धदृष्टिषु ॥ Raghu I. 40, अत्यन्त-मात्मसहरोक्षणवल्लमाभिराहो निवतस्यति समं हरिणाङ्गनाभिः ॥ sak I. In the first quarter, the glances are said to resemble the blue lotuses shaken by the wind. Usually the eyes are said to resemble lotuses, but it is not uncommon to describe the glances also as so many lotuses. Cf. कटाक्षेनीरीणां कुवलियतवातायनिमव Malati I. The glance from a lotus-like eye shot forth, has as it were the form of the lotus itself, so that as many glances are sent forth, so many lotuses would be formed. The unsteady glances resemble the lotuses shaken by a strong breeze. This verse is quoted in the Dhvanyālokalocanā and the Alamkāravimarsinī, with the remark, अत्र वाच्याया निदर्शनाया उपस्कारकत्वेनोपसेयोपमा गम्यते। Before this verse, some manuscripts read the verse कर्णद्वयस्थं...। The pair of Tatanka ornaments in the two ears of the mountain-princess shone brilliantly as though it was the sun and the moon (puspavantau) waiting upon her, knowing her to be the future wife of the enemy of Tripura [that is, Siva].' The whole verse is read differently by some as ताटङ्कपत्रे विरराज तस्याः शैलात्मजायाः श्रवणद्वयस्थम् । मत्वा भवित्रीं मद्नारिपत्नीं सेवासमेता-विव पुष्पवन्ती ।। The meaning is practically the same.

Stanza 47-Kāma is possessed of a beautiful flowery bow with which he shoots arrows at others. The bow is also curved. Madana so far regarded his bow as the best that could be found in the world. But when he happened to look at the gracefully curved eye-brows of Parvatī, which were so perfect that it appeared as if they were artificially drawn with a pencil, he thought that a rival had been born to his bow. But when he observed further that the eye-brows in question had in addition the graceful dalliance and knitting which his bow completely lacked, Madana became convinced of the superiority of the eye-brows over his bow and gave up his pride about the bow. आयता लेखा तयो: whose outline (लेखा) is long or broad. This is the reading of Mallinatha. The Trivandrum edition reads... आनंतरेखयोसी text reads आनतरेखयोगी. It is clear from thewsom-CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwsom-

im

Pa

th

th

W

co

be

we

W ide

निः

चर्ह

pl

ill

tic

to

th

bı

ch

ar

th

st

यश

·CC

Bı

sp

m

P

to

Te

M

B

P

e

132

mentaries there, that the text ought to be as indicated above), which is decidedly better. आनता (bent) लेखा (line, form) ययो:, whose form is bent or curved. Curved eye. brows are known to be a sign of beauty. Such is not the case with आयतलेखाल, which, in fact, has no propriety what. 'soever with reference to the eye-brows. The reading en for also improves the sense and gets rid of the clumsiness involved in the reading with या. Instead of saying या कान्ति: तं बीक्स, the poet could have easily said कान्ति वीक्स. सा would mean तथाविधा that is, indescribable. If we read आनतरेखयोंसा यां वीक्ष्य, the whole would be one sentence. श्लाक्या अजनेन (or शलाकाग्राविश्वक अञ्चनं तेन) निर्मितेन. अञ्चन is the black collyrium which is usually put into the eyes to enhance their beauty. The poet says that the curve of the eye-brows was so perfect that it could not have been a natural one. The eyebrows appeared to have been specially painted that way. लीलया or लीलायां चतुराम्. लीला graceful movements, here of course the knitting is meant. चत्र clever expert. Narayana takes it to mean ' beautiful ', quoting वैजयतं as his authority (चतुरी दक्षसुन्दरी). This लीलाचतुरत्व proclaimed th superiority of the eye-brows over the bow. अनङ्गः an epithet व Kāma नास्ति अङ्गमस्य (so called, because his body was burnt down to ashes by Siva. See Canto III) or न अङ्गं ज्ञानमस्मादिति वा as loves are practically mad men. 'To love and to be wise is not give to man' (Bacon). This verse is quoted in the Vyaktivively vicara with the remark, अत्र सा यां वीक्ष्मीत यत्तदौ विपर्ययेण पठनीयौ.

Stanza 48—तिरञ्चा lit. of those who do not go straight beasts, birds etc. बाला: (hair or tails) प्रियाः यासां तासां भावः तम् the famous. केशपाश—a mass of hair, पाश being used in the sense कलाप (पाशः पक्षश्च हस्तश्च कलापाशोः कचात्परे) or पाश may be taken प्रशंक्ष beautiful hair. The reading तत् for त would mean तस्मार् । position in the verse is not appropriate. It ought to have bee placed before असंशयम. As it stands, one is tempted to construit with केशपाश, which can not be done as पाश is masculine. yaks are proud of their beautiful hair (of which the cault are made for the use of kings, deities etc.) and rightly so. Parvati's glossy curly hair were far superior to the hair of the yaks who therefore ought not to be proud of them any long But the yaks are lower beings and have no sense of sham otherwise, the absurdity involved in their attaching too much construit of the public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar importance to their own hair, when the far superior hair of Pārvatī were in existence, would have been quite clear to them. The yaks again had ample opportunities to compare their hair with those of Pārvatī. When the cāmaras were waved to fan Himālaya, with Pārvatī sitting by his side, the contrast between the cāmaras and Pārvatī's hair, could have been very easily brought home to them. The yaks, however, were either too stupid to know this contrast or, knowing it, were too shameless to take any notice of it. Cf. for the same idea differently expressed, मृदुपवन्निभिन्नो मित्रयाया विनाशाद्धनर्श्वरक्षणो निःसपत्नोऽस्य जातः । रतिविगलितवन्ये केशहस्ते सुकेश्याः सति कुसुमसनाथे कि करोत्येष महीं। Vikram IV (where the hair are compared to the peacock's plumage). This verse is quoted in the Kuvalayānanda as an illustration of अप्रस्तुतप्रशंसा.

133

ited I

ine.

eye.

the hat-

for ness

तः तां

nean

the स्थतम्

ually that not been seful i

जयती.

d the

et of down

over

give ivelo

aight

I the

se o

शंसा

beel

nstru Tha

caulis

. Bu

of th

onge ham mu

Stanza 49—The poet in this verse summarises the description of Parvati's beauty. Brahmadeva wanted to bring all beauty together in one place just to see how it would appear. He therefore brought together all standards of comparison, but as a huddled mass of these would produce no great charm, he, with great deliberation and mature thought, arranged them with great care, and succeeded in creating the body of Parvatī, सर्वेषाम् उपमाद्रव्याणां समुचयेन, उपमाद्रव्य - a standard of comparison, such as the moon, lotus, coral etc. ययाप्रदेश in the proper place. Thus Brahmadeva put coral at the lip, the lotus at the eye and so on. Though Brahmadeva is the creator of the whole of the universe, it was not an easy job for him to create Parvati. He had to spend a good deal of प्रयुत्त over her creation. Somebody might ask why Brahmadeva took all this care to create Parvati; the answer is that he wanted to satisfy his curiosity to see how all beauty would look, when brought in one receptacle. Cf. सा रामणीयकनिधरिधदेवता वा सौन्दर्यसारसमुदायनिकेतनं वा। Mālatī I, चित्रे निवेदय परिकल्पितसत्त्वयोगा रूपोचयेन मनसा विधिना कृता नु । Sāk II.

Stanza 50—Nārada is one of the mind-born sons of Brahmadeva. He is represented as wandering from place to place. Playing upon his lute called Mahatī, and acting as a messenger from gods to men and vice versa. His chief characteristic is कलहप्रियत्व. He is also popularly known to have an erect tufe of hair on his head. Nārada once happened to come in course of his wanderings to Himālaya and there he saw the young Pārvatī sitting by the side of her father. Nārada who was a त्रिकालज्ञ, wishing to relieve the anxiety of Himalaya as regards. Parvati's marriage, declared that Parvati was bound to win over Hara, by the sheer force of her love and also to secure balf of the body of Hara for her permanent abode. She would thus furnish the one unique instance of a bride so completely securing her lord for herself. एकव्यू—the bride par excellence, एक meaning श्रेष्ट. The meaning 'one' or 'only one' of एक isalso suggested. In marrying Parvati, Siva was not marrying a. second wife at all (that would have been against the एकपरनीवत). for Parvatī was none else than Satī herself, his former wife, नारद is variously derived :- नरस्य धर्म्ये नारं ददाति इति, यद्वा नारं पानीय-मियुक्तं तत् पितृभ्यः सदा भवान्। ददाति तेन ते नाम नारदेति भविष्यति ॥; नारं नरसमूहं यति कलेहेंनेति वा; नुरिति नारमज्ञानं तद् यति ज्ञानोपदेशेनेति वा। कामेन चरतीति कामचर:, this shows that Narada had gone to Himalaya acciden-, tally and not with a deliberate purpose. किल-it is reported, sothe story goes. पितुः समीपे is significant. If Narada had seen. Parvati all alone, he would not have perhaps thought of her marriage, but when he saw Himalaya also, he could easily imagine the feelings of a father who had a grown up daughter, and so he hastened up to set his anxiety at rest. भवित्री destined to be, to be taken with एकवधूं and शरीरार्धहराम्. प्रेम्णा shows that. love alone and no other considerations would bring about the union. अर्थे हरतीति अर्थहरा, शरीरस्य अर्थहराम्. This refers to the अर्धनारीनटेश्वर form of Siva. which is half male and half female, the left half being appropriated by Parvati (Cf. कान्तासांमिश्रदेहोऽ-प्यविषयमनसां यः परस्ताद्यतीनाम् । Mālavikā I). Aruņagiri remarks—शरीर-स्यार्धहरामिति विग्रहः। अन्यथा अर्धशब्दस्य समप्रविभागवाचित्रे सति 'अर्धे नपुंसकम्' इति समासकरणाद्धेशरीरहरामिति स्यात्। This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatī as an instance of महाभाग्य.

Stanza 51—A father who has a grown up marriageable daughter is always on the look out for a suitable husband for her and does not rest at ease till she is married. Himalayahowever, though days passed on and Parvati attained to the prime of youth, remained absolutely free from anxiety as he was sure that the declaration of the divine Narada.

was bother age with sign it ive a truth was object elder matu that are it is to will have a sign in the sign in th

आप्रमुख tion o did n if Siv wait f mean refuse make to app time. that a सर्वेद्रव्या here i of the case. the ro causa constr accusa to प्रति अपयितु Poots seem const.

bring ie.

lg:

a

S-

n.

e d

y

is-

a:_

е, .

!--।रं

ते

I- .

01.

n.

r.

y/

d.

t.

e:

e

2,...!

[--

e.

e

r

0

y

was bound to prove true. He never even thought of another bride-groom, though the prospects of Pārvatī's marriage with Hara, appeared none too bright, as Siva made no sign in that direction, and as he could not take the initiative as explained in the next verse. And to speak the truth, Siva alone was the fittest husband for Pārvatī who was so holy and beautiful, as fire alone and no other object deserves to have the sacred offerings. पुरु: lit. an elder or superior, here the father. प्रगत्भ lit. bold, that is, mature. निवृत्तः अन्यरिमन् वरे अभिलाषः यस्य सः कृशानुः fire कृश्यति इति that which consumes. अपराणि तेजांसि, सवर्णादीनि सूर्याचन्द्रमसादीनि. इव्यं any offering made to the gods. Fire is called इत्यवाह, for it is through fire that the gods receive their offerings. Cf. अग्रिमुखा वे देवाः. These offerings are to be made with the repetition of suitable Mantras from the Vedas.

Stanza 52—The verse gives the reason why Himalaya did not offer his daughter himself to Siva. He was not sure if Siva would accede to his request. He thought it wise to wait for a longer time rather than risk a refusal. Siva was no mean personage, he was the God of gods and if he were to refuse the request once, there would be no one who could make him reconsider his position. Himālaya therefore wanted to approach Siva through a proper channel and at a proper time. अयाचितारम्—Arunagiri quotes the following verse to show that a girl should not be offered, unsolicited. अयाचितानि देर्यानि सर्वेद्रव्याणि भारत । अत्रं विद्या तथा कन्या अनर्थिभ्यो न दीयते ॥ देवदेवं स्तां प्राहयितुं... here in the causal construction, the देवदेव which is the subject of the verb मह in its primitive sense, is put in the accusative case. The stitra गतिवृद्धिप्रत्यवसानार्थशन्दकर्माकर्मकाणामपि कर्ता स णौ, gives the roots that require the subject in the accusative in the causal. But as मह is not mentioned in the list, the correct construction would be देवदेवेन सतां प्राहायेतुम्... The use of the accusative can be justified on the ground that प्राहियतुम् is equal to प्रतिप्राहियतुम्, which has a प्राप्त्यर्थ or that प्राहियतुम् itself means अधितम्, so that the root प्रह् would be included in the list of ots included in the above sutra. Poets, however, do not seem to attach too much importance to the above sutra, and Constructions which would require a far-fetched effort to bring them into line with the above sutra, are quite common, Nārāyaṇa remarks, अत्र ' गतिबुद्धि ' इत्यादिसूत्रे प्रहेरनुपादानाद् देवं (प्रति।। आह्यितुमिति द्वितीयानुपपत्तेः प्राप्यर्थत्वमेव युक्तम् । तत्तु प्रत्युपसर्गवशादिति दक्षिणावतः अरुणाचळनाथस्तु निरुपसर्गस्यापि प्रहेः प्राप्यर्थत्वमुक्तवान् । सुतां देवं प्रापयितुमित्यर्थः। The latter half of the verse declares how the policy adopted by Himalaya was quite sound and one which would be follow. ed by wise men in general. A wise man prefers indifference to hastening up affairs which would end in destroying all hopes of securing his object. He does not make a reques which is likely to be refused. मध्यस्थस्य भावः. A मध्यस्थ is one wh stands in the middle, that is, does not take part in the quam between two persons; indifferent. The poet in his Megha seem to make a different assertion from what he does here in the latter half of the verse (याचा मोघा वरमधिगुणे नाधमे लब्धकामा). Her he says that a wise man makes no request at all. Whati said in Megha is a further step to it. And if a wise man ist make a request at all, he should prefer to make it to a good person. Thus there is no real contradiction between the two statements. This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka with the remark, अत्र कारणभूतस्य भगवद्गतस्य संप्रदानत्वनिबन्धनस्य याचनस्याभावे भूषेत गतस्य कार्यस्य कन्याप्राहणशक्तत्वस्याभावोपनिवन्धः शास्त्रमूलः ।

Som

WOL

in t

the

SOI

pen

for

the

of a

att

StI

the

Th

the

· DV

up

giv

no

in वि

1

धा

सुन

h

C

-बा

0 tl

t

T

t

1

t

10

i

Stanza 53—This verse states the reason why Himalay was afraid that his request would be rejected by Siva. Eve since Sati committed suicide owing to the affront given to he by Daksa (see notes on I. 21) Siva had changed a good | deal He had renounced all attachment to worldly objects and he engaged himself in meditating upon the self. Who would dan to disturb the Great God in his penance? The very idea of question about marriage being broached up before Siva, wi absurd. Siva had felt very deeply the untimely and tragic end his spouse and so was not likely to entertain any thoughts about marriage. शोभनाः दन्ताः यस्याः सा सुदती- वयसि दन्तस्य दतृ ' इति दन्नि The expression indicates a certain age. सुद्ती therefore means young woman having beautiful teeth. The expression may give an additional reason why Siva felt so much the loss of his spouse. Sati was quite young when she put an end to her existence. This interpretation however is not quite compliance. mentary to Siva. दक्षिणावर्त reads दक्षरोषात सती, where प्रकरणान्तरोपकमद्योतको युक्तः । Another reading is दक्षरोषात्वयमुत्तम्

ति! Some read ज्वलने for जनने. सङ्गः contact with or attachment to the worldly objects. पशुपति is an epithet of Siva (पश्ना पतिः), पशु used in the sense of a जीव, a creature in general or पशु might mean the प्रमुखंड, the followers (गणंड) of Siva. परिप्रहः a wife.

Stanza 54-After renouncing the world, Siva retired to some peak of the Himalaya, and there began to practise penance. Siva did not waste any time in making a search for a suitable abode,—any peak would do for him,—and there, with nothing to cover his body except the holy skin of an antelope, and controlling his self, he devoted all his attention to penance. The peak resorted to had the holy stream of the Ganges falling upon its Devadaru trees and thus provided ample water and shade and was also holy. There were also certain factors which were likely to disturb the penance of an ordinary person. The peak was scented all over with musk and the Kinnaras were singing and playing upon their lutes now and then. These features were likely to give rise to the sentiment of love in the mind. But Siva minded not these and never allowed his mind to be influenced by them in the least. Arunagiri remarks अन्त्येन विशेषणद्वयेन रमणीयत्वप्रतिपादकेन विरोधिसंनिधाव यतिधीरत्वाद् देवस्य धैर्यलोपशङ्का नास्तीति द्योत्यते। यथा शाकुन्तले (VII) प्राणानामनिलेन वृत्तिरुचिता सत्कल्पवृक्षे वने तोये काञ्चनपद्मरेणुकपिशे थर्मीभिषेकिकया । ध्यानं रत्नशिलातलेषु विवुधस्त्रीसंनिधौ संयमो यत्काङ्कान्त तपोभिरन्य-मुनयस्तरिमस्तपस्यन्त्यमी ॥ कृत्तिः the skin of a deer which is regarded as holy and a fit accompaniment for penance, यतः आत्मा यस्य सः controlling his self, that is, all the sense-organs. The reading गङ्गाप्रवाहो...would mean 'where the Devadaru trees are sprinkled over by the stream of the Ganges.' उक्षित sprinkled over. These three expressions refer to requisites of penance, प्रपात would show that the Ganges was falling on the peak from heaven. Trivandrum edition reads गङ्गाप्रपातोत्थितदेवदार, where the Devadaru trees had grown at the place where the Ganges had fallen (प्रपतत्य-स्मित्रिति व्युत्पत्त्या प्रपातः प्रपतनस्थानम्) or '...grown owing to the falling of the Ganges'. मृगनाभिः कस्तुरी (it is supposed to come from the navel of the musk-deer) तस्याः गन्धः अस्मिन्. It is not a Bahuvrihi which is allowed only when the n-a is inseparably connected with the object in question, which is not the case here. कणन्तः किन्नराः यस्मिन् . प्रस्थम् अध्युवास, वस् with अधि governs the accusative

गवर्त:।

त्यर्धः। Opted

llow.

renci

ng all

quest

Who

uarre

seem

n the

Here

hati

1 ist

a goo!

ie twi

th th

भूधरेत

nālayi

Eve to he deal

d ha d dan

ea of

a. Wa

endo

sabou

दत्रादेश

neans

n may loss of

to her

ompli

त्रान्त

मुत्सम्ब

138

(उपान्वन्याङ्वसः). Cf. for the idea of the musk making the place मार्गि fragrant, आसीनानां सुर्भिततलं नाभिगन्धेर्मुगाणां तस्या एव प्रभवमचलं प्राप्य गोर that is तुषारै: । Megha, इज्ञादो वासितोत्सङ्गा निषण्णमृगनाभिभिः । Raghu IV.

Malli Misti

किए कल

meanin

सन्दरः

takes a

the ag

of the गवय is practis

which

for hir

self in object

he ca

man

has w

was t haved

रोकानुप्र

तपस्विनम

नानवासर

yana I

तत्र सपत tions c

in Ku मिरियंम्

मित्रम् ॥

elemer

Nandi

विधिहुतं

यामाहु:

शाभि

न इत्ये क्षा इ

गम्राका

St

Stanza 55-While Siva was engaged in practising rigorous penance, his followers remained by his side, enjoying themselves to a certain extent by making use of the various objects obtainable on the mountain. They used the fragrant Nameru flowers as their crests, dressed themselves in the soft fine birch-barks and applied mineral dyes to their bodies and rested themselves on the fragrant with the resin, नमेर is the पुंनाग tree, which very fragrant flowers. In Raghu IV, Kalidasa describes. the soldiers of Raghu as resting under these trees, विराधमुर्व-मेहणां छायास्वध्यास्य सैनिकाः। अवतंस is quite frequently used by the poet. It usually means 'an ear-ornament.' It means also 'a garland, 'ornamens in general,' Mallinatha takes it here to mean a शेखर or an ornament for the head. स्परीवती:, the मतुप here is used प्रशंसायाम् 'possessed of a soft touch.' The Trivandrum edition reads वसानाः for द्धानाः, and रोलेयगन्धेषु for रोलेयनद्धेषु Both these readings are decidedly better. शैलेयानां गन्धः येषु तेषु Cf. शैलेयगन्धीनि शिलातलानि Raghu VI. 51. शिलायां भवम् शैलेयम् (' स्त्रीभ्यो ' ठक्) इति भवार्थे ठक्. शलेय is the शिलाजतु which is noted for its medicinal properties. Arunagiri explains it as गन्धीषधिविशेषः . मनः-शिला (Marathi मनशीळ) is red arsenic. विच्छ्रिताः anointed with.

Stanza 56-The bull, Nandin, the vehicle of Siva was also there, making his presence felt by continuing to bellow now and then, the noise of which even surpassed the roar of the lion. He also, as is the habit with proud bulls, rentasunder the rocks, viz. the solidified snow, with his hoofs. The Gavayas that belong to the same species as that of the bull were not used to such terrible bellowing and so looked at Siva's bull, greatly frightened. They failed to see how one apparently belonging to their own species could be responsible for such terrible noise, hence their fright at the idea that he might be some one else, perhaps some monster lurking under that shape. The bull's bellowing surpassed the roar of the lions. The more the lions roared the more loudly did the bull bellow, intolerant of any rivalace गारण संघाताः (masses) एव शिलाः. समुल्लिखन् lit, scratching up, that is, tearing asunder. द्वेंकलः द्वेंण कलः मधुरध्विनः यस्य सः Mallinatha). कल usually means 'producing a sweet and Jistinct sound' and Mallinatha is quite justified in explain-कि कल: as मधुरव्यनि:; but the context requires a more forcible meaning, like 'bellowing' or कल: might be taken to mean charming owing to his proud demeanour.' Mr. Ray takes द्पैकलः to mean 'bidding defiance.' ककुद्मान्, one who has the कन्त् (the hump), a bull. Cf. for the idea in the first half of the verse, क्रचित्त्रयम्बकवृषभविषाणकोटिखाण्डिततटाशिलाखण्डम् etc. Kādam ख्य is a गोसदशमृगविशेष, Bos Gavocus, असोढः सिंहानां ध्वनिः येन सः

गीर

ous

ing

IIi-

he mral

bs

as es.

(취-

he

a

0

I.F.

1-

Z. .

J.

5.

.

S.

t"-

Stanza 57-The poet describes in this verse, how Siva . practised penance like an ordinary ascetic. He kept the fire which was but one of his own forms; there was thus no need; for him to worship something belonging to himself, or himself in another form. People practise penance with some bject in view. What possible object can be divined in le case of Siva, the God of gods, who ordains the fruit of penance for others? Siva has no desire for any fruit, he has with him everything that can possibly be secured. It: was therefore for the sake of lokasamgraha that he belaved like a common ascetic. Cf. अनवाप्तमवाप्तव्यं न ते किंचन विद्यते। गैजनुप्रह एवैको हेतुस्ते जन्मकर्मणोः। Raghu X. 31, हृदयस्थमनासन्नमकामं त्वि व्यक्तिनम्...। ibid X. 19, also न मे पार्थास्ति कर्तव्यं त्रिषु छोकेषु किंचन 🗠 गन्वाप्तमवाप्तव्यं वर्त एव च कर्माण ॥ ° Gita III. 22. On आग्नेमाधाय, Nārā-Nana remarks, नात्र गार्हपत्यादीनामसीनां श्रीतेनाधानविधिना संपादनं विविक्षितं ल सपलीकस्यैवाधिकारात्। अष्टमूर्तिः — One who has eight manifestations or forms, an epithet of Siva. The expression occurs in Kumāra VI. 26, विदितं वो यथा स्वार्था न मे काश्चित्प्रवृत्तयः। ननु मूर्तिभिरष्टा-भित्यंभूतोऽस्मि सूचितः ॥ also,...अवेहि मां किङ्करमष्टमूर्तेः कुम्भोदरं नाम निकुम्भ-Raghu II. 35. The eight forms are the five great elements, the sun and the moon and the sacrificer. The Nandi of Sak mentions all of them, या सृष्टिः सन्दुराद्या वहति विष्हुतं या हिवर्श च होत्री ये द्वे कालं विधत्तः श्रुतिविषयगुणा या स्थिता व्याप्य विश्वम् माहः सर्वेबीजप्रकृतिरिति यया प्राणिनः प्राणवन्तः प्रत्यक्षाभिः प्रपन्नस्तनुभिरवतु वस्ता-शिमिरीशः ।। also read सूर्यों जलं मही वायुर्विह्रिराकाशमेव च। दीक्षितो ब्राह्मणः इत्येतास्तनवः क्रमात् ॥ Visnu Purana I, भूमिरापोऽनलो वायुरातमा व्योम रविः हत्यष्टी सर्वलोकानां प्रत्यक्षा हरमूर्तयः ॥ Vāyu Purāṇa; पृथिवी सलिलं तेजी भुगकाशमेव चं। सूर्याचन्द्रमसी सोमयाजी चेत्यष्टमूर्तयः ॥ (इति यादवः). Nārāyaṇa quotes the verse, सूर्यानलेन्द्वात्मधरानिलाम्बुव्योमाह्वया यस्य हि मूर्तयोऽयो तं लोकनाथं कथयान्ति सन्तः शैलेन्द्रकन्यापतिमष्टम्र्तिम् ॥ केनापि कामेन shows the the object is quite indefinable. Mallinātha remarks प्रयोजक मनुाद्दिय न मन्दोऽपि प्रवर्तते, इति न्यायात्कामेनोक्तम् । तस्यावाससमस्तकामत्वात् केन्यो उक्तम् ।

na

pr

OW

at

to sei

the

th

Wa

co

' S( pe

to cal

ter

ing

WC

Pā

col

SCI

all

at

not

It

dea

pri

dic

int

eto

as

wh cre had

Stanza 58-Himālaya, as a host, worshipped his guest Siva, in the proper manner, and having in his mind the declaration of Narada, decided upon a plan for accomplishing his desired object. He asked his daughter to be always in attendance upon Siva, so that in course of time, Siva might perhaps feel attracted by the charms of his daughter. this was the real intention of Himālaya is clear from शैलारमजारे पितुरन्छिरसोऽभिलापं व्यर्थे समर्थ्य लिलतं वपुरात्मनश्च। (III. 75). doubt appears to be more or less a questionable procedur, but such things do occur in actual life. The father of Vasava. datta had gone a step further in this direction. He had actually brought the intended son-in-law, King Udayana, by a ruse, to his capital and appointed him music-master to his daughter, and provided him with ample opportunities to win her over, with the result that Udayana eloped with Vasave dattā. Himālaya did not want Śiva to go so far, for li daughter was प्रयता (self-restrained) and besides accompanied by two of her friends. अनर्थम्—अमूल्यम् (Mall nātha·). अर्घम् (मूल्यम्) अर्हतीति अर्घः, न अर्घः अनर्धः तम्. If अर्घः taken in the sense of पूजाविधि, the expression would mean 'ा who cannot be sufficiently worshipped,' 'the most adorable Arunagiri reads अनर्धम् and explains अर्घः पूजा तद्दहितोऽनर्धः। द्वीयत्तः तद गोचरामित्यर्थः। अर्घ्य is a respectful offering, offered to guests et on their arrival. It consists of water, milk etc. आपः क्षीरं अवा च दिध सर्पिषतण्डलम् । यवः सिद्धार्थकथैव अष्टाङ्गोऽर्घः प्रकीर्तितः ॥ Now-a-days . the अध्ये is offered only to the bridegroom when he goes वर्ष to the bride's house for marriage. स्वर्गः ओक: (abode, Lati œkos = a house) एषां ते. those whose abode is heaven, the gods. अर्चितम् = अर्च्यमानम् that is, the P. P. is used in the sense of the present, according to the Sūtra, 'मतिवुद्धिगुजार्थभ्यश्च' इति वर्त माने क्तः 'क्तस्य च वर्तमाने 'इति षष्टी. The Trivandrum edition reads संबोसमंत्रां which means the same as संबोसमेताम्. The names of the two सर्खोड of Parvati were जया and विजया. प्रयताम् holy or selfrestrained. Arunagiri remarks गृहमेधिनो ह्यातिथीनां सत्काराय किया

Kumārasambhava: Canto I

तयोऽश्री

ws tha

त् केनापि

guest.

nd the lishing

ays in might गतमजापि

his no

edure.

āsava.

actu-

by a

to his

O WE

āsava-

or his

Was Malli

અર્ધ્ય ii

' one

able.

त्रीयस्त्रः

s etc

कुशार्थ

-days

OVE

Latin

the sense

वते reads es of self.

कन्यक

That

141

त्रिवृज्ञन्ति । यथा दुर्वाससः कुन्ती कुन्तिभाजः । यथा वा वलभदः सभद्रां यतिवेषस्य किरी-

Stanza 59-Siva no doubt was attracted by the extraordinary beauty of Parvati, and apprehended that she might prove an obstacle to his meditation. But he knew full well his own powers of self-restraint, and so did not mind her presence at all. Besides, it would have been extremely uncourteous. to dismiss the request of Himalaya, just to allow Parvatī to serve him and nothing more. प्रसर्थिन is one who is opposed to the अधिन. In legal terminology, अधिन is the plaintiff and प्रत्यधिन the defendant. प्रत्यिन् an opponent, प्रत्यिभृता thus means, ' who was an opponent or obstacle.' Mallinatha takes it to be a HUHUI compound. ग्रश्रवमाणा Pres. part. from श्र desiderative, meaning. serving' that is, without the sense of the desiderative. Many persons pass on as चीर, because there are no temptations to assail them. But they are not real afts. One can be called a real श्रीर, when one is found to successfully resist all temptations. Siva, it would be seen, proves his धीरत्व by burning Kama in Canto III.

Stanza 60-Parvati threw herself heart and soul into her work. It was undoubtedly an arduous work which Princess Parvati had to do. Flowers for being offered to gods had to be collected in the early morning, the altar had to be kept scrupulously clean, water and kuśa grass had to be broughtall this taxed her to the utmost. But she did not mind it at all. To her, the task was one of love and duty. For, had not Nārada declared that Siva would be her lord? She did not spare herself in making herself as useful as possible to Siva. It was quite natural that she should be fatigued and a good deal too, for this sort of manual labour was quite new to the princess. The cool pleasing rays of the moon on Siva's head? did much to alleviate this fatigue of hers. वालेपुष्प-flowers intended as बलि (offering). नियमविधेः नित्यकर्मानुष्ठानस्य(such as आचमन etc.) जलानि. सुकेशी may be taken to be a significant expression. as women with beautiful hair appear to greater advantage, while engaged in manual work. तस्य शिरसि चन्द्रस्य पाँदः Siva has a crescent moon on his head (चन्द्रमीलि: is an epithet of Siva). He had placed it on his head to remove the burning sensation of 1142

Notes on

the हास्राहल poison which he drank and which rendered his withroat dark or blue. On तिन्छर..., Nārāyaṇa remarks यथा कृषका करम खननो द्भवं खेदं तदुरभ्तमेव जलमपनयति तथास्या अपि हरसेवाजनितश्रमस्तिक अन्द्रपादैरेवापनुयत इति भावः। This verse is quoted in the Suvertitible with the remark सर्गान्ते वसन्तितलकम्. The ending verse or verses of a Canto in a Mahākāvya are in a metre different from the which is followed in the Canto. (See Introduction).

a D

in winder

CANTO II

ered bis

था कूपन्न-समस्ति च्छा- rttitilake

r verses

om that

[1-3 A deputation of the Gods headed by Indra, repairs to the Brahmaloka, to wait upon Brahmadeva, as they were very much tormented by the demon Taraka. Brahmadeva appears before them and the gods prostrate themselves before him. 4-15 The gods praise Brahmadeva in terms applicable to the Highest. 16-27 Brahmadeva is distressed at the state of the gods and asks them to tell him frankly why they have been to him. 28-52 Brhaspati on behalf of the gods makes a statement in detail as to how they were oppressed by Taraka grown insolent owing to the boon obtained from Brahmadeva. The sun, moon, wind, etc., even Indra, were all cowed down by him. Sacrifices were defiled and women molested by him. The horse Uccaihsravas of Indra also had been taken away. The gods therefore want to have a new General created for them, 53-61 Brahmadeva replies that he himself could do nothing in the matter, as he had given, the boon to Taraka before. Siva's son alone could bring about his defeat. gods should, therefore, try to attract Siva's mind to loveaffairs, by means of Parvati. Siva's son would be their victorious General. 62 Brahmadeva disappears after this reply and the gods go back to their abode. 63 Indra, wishing to entrust the work to Kama, calls him.]

Stanza 1-The story of Taraka is given in the Matsya Purāna, Adhyaya 146 onwards. He was the son of Vajranga and Varangi, born as the result of a boon conferred by Brahmadeva pleased with the penance of the former. He was appointed General, the moment he was born, by the Daityas. Before commencing hostilities with the gods. Taraka, in order to fortify his position further, practised penance for hundreds of years. When Brahmadeva was pleased with his penance, he wanted a boon that he should be invincible and also immortal. Brahmadeva told him that it was impossible that one with a body should be free from death. Taraka then asked that he may have death from a child only seven days old, thinking of course that such a thing would never happen. Brahmadeva granted him that boom Tāraka then defeated all the gods and made their life extremely miserable. He was ultimately killed by Kārtikeya when seven days old. दिवमोको येषां ते दिवोक्सः (दिवराज्दोऽदन्तः, from दिव); if derived from दिव, योरोको येषां ते; in this case the form would be दिवोक्स or दिवोक्स. तुरासाइ an epithet of Indra, तुरं वेगवन्तं साहयत्यभिभवित. स्वायंभ्रद—belonging to स्वयंभ् (स्वयंभ्रव भवति), an epithet of Brahmadeva who was not created by any one else. It is a very common theme in the Purāṇas, to make the gods go in a deputation to Brahmadeva, Viṣṇu, Siva. etc., whenever they are in difficulty. The gods similarly appeal to Brahmadeva, when harassed by Rāvaṇa in the Rāmāyaṇa. Kālidāsa in his Raghu (X) makes them go to Viṣṇu, instead of Brahmadeva. The abode of Brahmadeva is the Brahmaloka.

had

Siv

- ज्वल

क्रोध

183

Sar

exp

said

are

--3

beli

WOI

Bra

was

Rag स्तृति

स्था

upo

इत्या

one side

fro

Pra

refe

Vis

bet

crit

crea te 1

imp

In

sim

eon its:

and

the

Up

Stanza 2—परिम्लाना मुखश्रीः येषाम् परितः (all round) म्लाना परिम्लाना मुसानि पद्मानि येषाम् दीधितमान्—lit. one who is possessed of rays (दीधितः), the sun. The gods were not required to wait for a long time or to make any efforts to see Brahmadeva who of his own accord appeared before them, thus showing his great concern for the gods. The pale faces of the gods are compared to the lotuses that have closed their petals in the absence of the sun. When the sun rises, the lotuses blossom up. Similarly, the appearance of Brahmadeva had a very encouraging effect on the Gods, whose faces brightened up at the prospect of their torment coming to an end, owing to the advice of Brahmadeva. The gods are compared to the lakes (सरम् neuter gender) and the मुखश्री to the lotuses (पद्म is also neuter). The comparison thus, though apt, is not quite happy.

Stanza 3—धातारम् = सष्टारम्. सर्वतः मुखानि यस्य तम् having faces all round. Brahmadeva is said to be चतुर्मुख. The story goes that when Brahmadeva created Tilottamā, the most beautiful Apsaras, in order to bring about the down-fall of the brothers. Sunda and Upasunda, he himself was so much struck with her beauty, that he continued to gaze at her. When she moved a vay to a side, the impulse to see her was so great that a new face came out on the side to which she had gone. As she moved about him, other faces also came up and Brahmadeva became चतुर्मुख. According to another account, Brahmadeva had five faces first, one of which was afterwards cut off by Siva (आसीरपूर्व वरारोहे ब्रह्मणस्तु शिरो वरम् । पञ्चमं रुगु सुश्रोणि जातं काञ्चनसप्रभम् ॥ ज्ललत्पन्नमं शीर्षे जातं तस्य महात्मनः। तदेवमन्रवीदेवि जन्म जानामि ते ह्यहम्।। ततः कोधपरितेन संरक्तनयनेन च । वामाङ्गुष्ठनखात्रेण च्छिन्नं तस्य शिरो मया ॥ Matsya 183, 84-86). वागीशम् - वाचः सरस्वत्याः ईशं भर्तारम् (Nārāyana). Sarasavatī is the wife of Brahmadeva. Mallinatha takes the expression to mean वाचां विद्यानाम् ईशम् or Brahmadeva may be said to be the lord of speech, as the highest are or the Vedas are his निःश्वसित. Cf. यं ब्रह्माणामियं देवी वाग्वश्येवात्वर्तते । Uttra I. 2. अथ्याभिः -अर्थात अन्पेताभिः (' धर्मपथ्यर्थन्यायादनपेते ' इति यस्त्रत्ययः ।) which do not belie the sense, that is, which are not mere complimentary words, but literally true. What the gods said in praise of Brahmadeva, was no formal compliment paid to him, but was a statement of fact. Cf. स्तृत्यं स्तुतिभिरथ्याभिष्ठपतस्थे सरस्वती। Raghu IV. 6, इति प्रसादयामासुस्ते सुरास्तमधोक्षजम् । भूतार्थव्याहृतिः सा हि न स्तृतिः परमेष्ट्रिनः ॥ ibid X. 33. उपतिस्थिरे Perfect 3rd per. plural of equivith 34 which is Atmanepadin, in the sense of 'to wait upon ', ' to worship. ' ' उपाद्देवपूजासंगतिकरणामित्रकरणपथिष्विति वक्तन्यम् ' इस्रात्मनेपदम्। प्रणिपत्य, having saluted. A प्रणिपात is prostrating oneself before a person. As Brahmadeva had faces on all sides, the gods, who being too many could not stand all in front of him, were able all the same to achieve a proper Pranipata.

Stanza 4 - Mallinatha reads नमित्रमूर्तये for नमोऽस्त्वमूर्तये, referring to the three forms of the Highest, Brahmadeva, Visnu and Siva. There is hardly any doubt that अमूर्तिये is the better reading. It is reasonable to suppose that the first line describes the state before creation and the second, the state after creation. If we accept Mallinātha's reading, त्रिमूर्तचे would have to te taken with the second line, and would be given unnecessary importance, being uttered first. Brahmadeva is described here in terms of the highest Brahman. In Raghu X, the poet similarly describes Visnu and many ideas and expressions are common in both the descriptions. Before creation, that is, in its natural state, the highest Brahman has no form or name, and it is nothing but Atman or self, one without a second. All the duality or diversity in the world is the result of the Upadhis that become associated with the self. The Upanisads

19

00D

nely

ven

; if

l be यामे-

t of very

in a

hey

eva.

his

eva.

लाना-

rays

or a. his

ond to the rly; Fect

t of

of iter The

ces.

hat iful

ers. her

ved

rew

she

eva:

eva:

assert again and again that in the beginning only Atman existed and nothing else, सदेव सोम्येदमय आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीया Chandogya, आत्मा वा इदमेक एवाय आसीत्। Aitareya. The one Brahman becomes differentiated afterwards in accordance with the Gunas that are associated with it. The three Gunas are Sattra Rajas and Tamas, of the Samkhya philosophers, according to whom everything is constituted of these three Gunas, one Gun being preponderant always over the other two in any object The gods have the Sattva Guna or the quality of goodness preponderant in them, men have the quality of Rajas or energy and the demons, the quality of Tamas (darkness or ignorance) Brahman becomes the creator, the sustainer and the destroyer of the world in accordance with the association of these qualities. We take गुणत्रयाविभागाय going with भेदमपेयणे meaning 'in order that the division into the three qualities may come into existence,' that is, in order that it might be possible to create, maintain and destroy the world. Mallinatha as also Arunagin construe the expression with नमः, (विभाज्यते अनेनेति विभागः, गुणां त्रयम एव विभागः यस्य तस्मैः गुणत्रयेण विभागः यस्य). It is not a good idea " make the three Gunas the parts of the Highest.

A SOUTH OF THE PARTY

40 00

ŀ

Į

t

F

5

अ

·u

0

t

B

ito

B

D

नि

हिं

मा

विष

Stanza 5—अमोघ—which never fails to accomplish in purpose. बीजं is वीर्थम्. उसं sown, which is more appropriate with बीजम्, than the other reading मुक्तम which means विस्रष्टम्. प सोऽभिध्याय शरीरात्स्वात्सिस्धुर्विविधाः प्रजाः । अप एव ससजीदौ तास बीजमवास्जर। तदण्डमभवद्धेमं सहस्रां असमप्रभम् । Manu I. 8.9... प्रभवस्तस्य गीयसे might mess you, who are the source of the universe, are praised by us Arunagiri reads the second line as अद्श्वराचरं विश्वं प्रभावस्तस्य गीयो (this whole universe is sung as being the manifestation of that seed) (तस्य = बीजस्य. प्रभावः - विभूतिः) and remarks अतश्रराचरं वि प्रभवस्तस्य गीयसे इति पाठे यदमोघमपामन्तरित्यस्य पौनहऋयं स्यात् ।. The clums nature of the verse is quite obvious. As Mr. Ray points out the next verse referring to the three states of प्रलय, सर्ग and स्थिति, comes naturally after verse 4, where the भेद is spoken d in a general manner. The present verse therefore, has no propel scope here. It refers only to सर्ग which is referred to in the next verse also. As both Arunagiri and Mallinatha read the verse, it is difficult to treat it as spurious. गीयसे you are sung, that is described in glorious terms. गीयते लोकै: (Arunagiri) मन्वादिभिति े शेषः (Nārāvana).

Ātman

द्वेतीयम्।

ahman h the

Sattra

ng to Guna

bject, dness

energy

rance

troyer

these ng 'in

e into reate.

nagiri

गुणानी

lea to

h its

with सजत्।

mean us'

ग्राधितं

f that ums

out

r and en of ropel

verse,

at is

भिरिति

Stanza 6—इदं 'पश्चाद्भेदमुपेयुपे' (Verse 4, above) इत्यस्य विवरणम भतो न गतार्थत्वदोषः । (Mallinatha). Brahmadeva is described here as combining in himself the characteristics of the Trinity. Brahmadeva, Visnu and Siva, who are respectively known as creating, maintaining and annihilating the world. Associated with the Rajas quality, the Highest Brahman becomes Brahmadeva and creates the world; associated with the Sattva quality. it becomes Visnu and maintains it; and associated with the Tamas quality, it is Rudra or Siva, to destroy the world. Though these functions are different, it is the Highest, the one without a second, that stands behind and is responsible for 'all of them. Cf. नमो विश्वसू ने पूर्व विश्वं तद्दन विश्वते । अथ विश्वस्य संहर्त्रे तस्य त्रेधा स्थितात्मने ॥ Raghu X. 16, रजोजुषे जन्मनि सत्त्ववृत्तये स्थितौ प्रजानां प्रलये तमःस्पर्शे । अजाय सर्गास्थितिनाशहेतवे त्रयीमयाय त्रिगुणात्मने नमः॥ Kādam, also ब्रह्मले सजते लोकान्विष्णत्वे पालयत्यपि । स्वत्वे संहरत्येव तिस्रोऽवस्थाः स्वयंभवः ॥ The 'expression प्रलय...', is faulty and is resorted to probably for the sake of the metre. In a Dvandva compound, words ending in short 3 or 3, or words containing a shorter number of syllables, usually should be put in first; the expression thus ought to have been स्थितिसर्गप्रलयानाम्. The compound could have been preferably सर्गस्थितिप्रलयानाम्, as creation, maintenance and destruction, is the proper order in which the three states occur. poet apparently gives us an inverted order, but strictly speaking सर्ग ought to have come after प्रलय. Nārāyaṇa remarks अत्र सर्गस्थितिप्रलयानामिति कमनप्रहाय सर्गस्य चरमोपादानं तस्य पूर्वश्लोकप्रतिपादिखेना-चुवादरूपत्वादित्यवगन्तव्यम् । अविवक्षितं एव वा क्रमः ।

Stanza 7—Brahmadeva is the creator of the whole of the universe, but his creation is not all of one kind. The creation of waters for instance is mental. Similarly he is described in the Purānas as having created some Prajāpatis also mentally. But the major part of the creation is caused by the coming together of Male and Female which are but the parts of Brahmadeva who split himself into these in order that procreation may be possible. स्त्री च पुनांश्व स्त्रीपुरी । अचतुर इत्यादिना निपातनादच समासान्तः । प्रसूर्ति भजते इति प्रसूर्तिभाक्त तस्य. (मिथुनीभूय संतानकारिण कृत्यर्थ । Arunagiri). पितरी is an एक पिद्वन्द्व ('पिता मात्रा 'इत्येकशेषः ।). भाता च पिता च, the compound has also the forms मातापितरी от मातरपितरी. स्मृती seems to have been used here in the sense of described in the Smṛtis' such as Manusmṛti. The Smṛti is literally, which is remembered, and stands next in importance to the Sruti or the Vedas. Cf. द्विधा कृत्वारमना देहमधैन पुरुषोऽभवत्। अर्थेन तस्यां स नारीं विराजमस्जात्रश्रः ॥ Manu I. 32.

B

1

h

n

h

p tl

SC

m

स्

.ar

ha

a

tr Ta

as

is

W

Pr

H

C

R

-ob

fu

in

It

p:

N

th

is आ

Stanza 8-Brahmadeva has his own standard to measure time. For ordinary mortals, the sun determines the day or night; the rise of the sun is day and his disappearance is night Day and night are determined by the sun also for the Pitrs and gods. The day of the Pitrs is the dark half of the month, and the night, the bright half of the month, The day of the gods is the Uttarayana (the period of six months when the sun goes to the north) and the night is the Daksinayana (the period of six months when the sun goes to the south). (अहोरात्रे विभजते सर्यो मानुषदीवेके । रात्रिः स्वप्नाय भूतानां चेष्टायै कर्मणामहः । पित्र्ये राज्यहनी मासः प्रविभागस्त पक्षयोः । कर्मचेष्टास्वहः कृष्णः शुक्रः स्वप्राय शर्वरी ॥ दैवे रात्र्यहनी वर्षे प्रविभागस्तयोः पुनः। अहस्तत्रोदगयनं रात्रिः स्यादक्षिणायनम् । Manu I. 65-67). The day of Brahmadeva, however means the Udaya of all beings, and his night is the destruction of the creation. The day is said to last for a period of one thousand caturyugas (चतुर्गुगसहस्राणि ब्रह्मणे दिनमुच्यते) or a period of 4,320,000,000 human years. (ब्राह्मस्य तु क्षपाहस्य यस्प्रमाणं समासतः। एकैकशो युगानां तु क्रमशस्ति विवोधत । चत्वार्याहुः सहस्राणि वर्षाणां तत्कृतं युगम्। तस्य तावच्छती संध्या संध्यांशश्च तथाविधः॥ the Krtayuga pro per lasts for 4.000 years (of gods), its influence continues to exist for another 800 years, so that in all, the period of the Krtayuga is 4,800 years of gods, इतरेषु ससंध्येषु ससंख्यारोषु च त्रिषु । एकापायेन वर्तनी सहस्राणि शतानि च ॥ यदेतत्परिसंख्यातमादावेव चतुर्युगम् । एतद्द्वादशसाहस्रं देवागं युगमुच्यते ॥, the Tretayuga lasts for 3,600 years, the Dvapara for 2,400, and the Kali for 1,200 years, that is, in all 12,000 years of gods. This period is the युग of the gods. (दीविकानां युगानां तु सहसं परिसंख्यया । ब्राह्ममेकमहर्तेयं तावतीं रात्रिमेव च ॥ तद्वै युगसहस्रान्तं व्राह्मं पुण्यमहर्विदुः । रात्रि च तावतीमेव तेऽहोरात्रविदोः जनाः ।। तस्य सोऽहिनैशस्यान्ते प्रसुप्तः प्रतिबुध्यते । प्रतिबुद्धश्च सजित मनः सद्सदात्मकम् ॥ ibid I. 68-73). The day of Brahmadeva is 1,000 yugas of gods, or 1,20,00,000, years of gods, and as the day of the gods is equal to the year or 360 days of men, the whole day of Brahmadeva is equal to 12,000,000 × 360 or 4,320,000,000 years of men. Cf. यदा स देवा जागति तदेदं चेष्टते जगत्। यदा स्विपिति शान्तात्मा तदा सर्वे निमीलित ॥ तस्मिन्स्विपिति सस्ये तु कमीत्मानः शरीरिणः। स्वकर्मभ्यो निवर्तन्ते मनश्च म्लानिमृच्छति ॥ Manu I. 52-53. The end of a day of Brahmadeva, brings about the ordinary Pralaya of the world; the Mahapralaya occurs after a hundred years

Kumārasambhava: Canto II

nce

नत् व

ire

10

bt.

and

ind

ods

oes

of सूर्यो

गस्तु

नः। of

his-

to ह्मणो

त

त्राणि

ro-

rist

iga-

र्तन्ते

वार्ना

for

of हसं

दुः।

12-nd

en,

OF

त्।

जा: १

he

of 149

Brahmadeva व्यस्तं रात्रिन्दिवं (रात्रिश्च दिवा च रात्रिनिद्वम्) येन (यस्य Mallinātha). Strictly speaking रात्रिनिद्वम् is usually an adverb, meaning by day and night ' (that is, having the sense of the locative); here the expression has to be taken to mean simply 'day and night'. प्रलयोदयो is explained by Mallinātha as संहारस्छी, that is, he takes उदय to mean सृष्टि. It is better to take उदय to correspond to स्थिति, as the सृष्टि is already referred to in verse 7, so that the remaining two, स्थिति and प्रलय, would be spoken of in the present verse. सृष्टि commences immediately Brahmadeva wakes up, and continues throughout the period he is awake, so that Mallinātha's interpretation would also do; but it is more probable that the poet here refers to स्थिति rather than to सृष्टि, as stated above. The reading यावेव स्वप्नवोधो does not make any difference in meaning.

Stanza 9—There is a series or विरोधामासङ or apparent contradictions in the verse. If Brahmadeva is जगद्योनि, that is, if he has a योनि, how can he be called an अयोनि:? To say that one is a cause and also without a cause is contradictory. The contradiction is based upon understanding अयोनि: as a negative Tatpuruṣa compound, and is to be got over by taking अयोनि: as a Bahuvrīhi (न विद्यते योनि: यस्य), so that there is no contradiction in the statement that one, who is himself not produced, is the cause or producer of other things. Brahmadeva is also without an end, but the world ends in him at the time of the Pralaya. He exists prior to the creation, but has no beginning. He is the sole master of the world and is subservient to none. Cf. सर्वज्ञस्त्वमविज्ञातः सर्वयोनिस्त्वमात्मभूः। सर्वप्रभागात्मक्त्यं सर्वस्वभाक्षात् ॥ Raghu X, 20.

Stanza 10—A कृतिन् is one who has secured all his desired objects. The expression might mean 'mighty' or 'powerful' also. The poet wants to describe here the all-pervading nature of Atman, beyond which nothing really exists. It is unnecessary to try to find out a different interpretation for आत्मानम् and आत्मना which occur thrice. Thus Nārāyaṇa takes the first आत्मानम् to mean मुज्यं स्वदेहं (तत्मृष्ट्युपायं च), that is, Brahmadeva knows beforehand what sort of body he is to create. Nārāyaṇa takes also the first and the second आत्माना as meaning simply स्वयम्. The second आत्मानं means

Notes on

स्वदेहम्. The third आत्मना is taken to mean स्वदेहेन. He summarises the sense of the verse thus-त्वमादावात्मदेहस्वरूपं तत्सगींपायं च स्वयमेव जानासि। ततः परं तं सृजसि। सर्गानन्तरं पुनः परार्धद्वयवत्सरपर्यन्तं रक्षिते स्वदेहे स्वावतारकार्येषु च निर्वृत्तेषु कृतकृत्यः सन् स्वदेहं स्वात्मन्येव लीनं करोषीत्यर्थः। Mallinatha also says न हि ते प्रश्चस्य इव ज्ञानोत्पत्तिलयेषु परापेक्षेति फलितार्थः। Cf. एवं सर्वे स सृष्ट्वेदं मां चाचिन्त्यपराक्रमः। आत्मन्यन्तदेधे भूयः कालं कालेन पीडयन्॥ Manu I. 51

Stanza 11-In this verse also, the Highest is described as being possessed of contradictory qualities; the purpose being, either to show that the Highest can not be described adequately as he is beyond all conceptions and can be described only negatively (नेति नेति), or that the Highest, being all-pervading, can naturally be taken to be possessed of all qualities that obtain in the world. The first view would be that of the Advaita philosophers, according to whom, nothing but Brahman or Atman exists. According to the second view, the qualities spoken of would be real ones, and are referred to the Highest, because he is everywhere. The lord is ga because he is seen in rivers or oceans; compact or dense, as in mountains etc ; gross as in घट पट etc. ; subtle (सूक्ष्म, that is, imperceptible to the senses) as in atoms; manifest as in his avatāras, unmanifest in his natural form. संघातेन कठिनः, संघात a compact mass or heap. Some see in this expression a reference to the atomic theory of the Vaisesikas, according to which, action takes place first in the atoms by the will of god, then two atoms come together to form a Dvyanuka, three Dvyanukas form a Tryanuka, four Tryanukas form a Caturanuka and so on the gross earth, gross waters etc., are formed (ईश्वरस्य चिकीर्षावशात्परमाणुषु क्रिया जायते । ततः परमाणुद्वयसंयोगे सरि द्वयणुकमुत्पद्यते । त्रिभिद्वर्यणुकैस्रचणुकम् । एवं चतुरणुकादिकमेण महती पृथिवी महत्या आपो महत्तेजो महान्वाबुहत्पदाते । (तर्कदीपिका). We think that it is rather far-fetched to take संघातकारिनः as referring to this atomic theory. Again, a contrast is intended between द्व: and संघातकाठिन:; now this contrast cannot refer to the atoms, as द्व is also constituted of atoms (a द्व only differs in the manner in which the atoms are massed together). The plain meaning of संचातकिन (extremely solid) brings out the contrast admirably and more forcibly. Mallinatha takes व्यवतः as कार्यहराः, and व्यक्तेतरः as सारणह्यः, which is the same thing as manifest and unmanifest

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

respective ditail

अणिम The absu Gitā gene assur anyt geth

the

By th

the !

later list). of th were Svary are to Vedice with the V prisin tacke fig: m Om. ed ju prese

nātha sion a Ve

रहत्येन Read n-

।यं

ति

: 1

:1

लेन

ed.

se.

ed be ng.

all

be

h-

nd

re

rd

se,

at is ात'

a.

to

d.

99

re.

ति

या

19

у.

W.

t-

1e

हेन

re

25

st

respectively. व्यक्तेतर other than व्यक्त, that is, अव्यक्त Cf. क्यक्तः व्यक्तकारणम् Raghu X. 18, अव्यक्तं व्यक्तिमापन्नं मन्यन्ते मामबुद्धयः शिर्गि VII. 24. सूक्ष्म subtle, not perceptible to the senses. Mallinātha understands by विभूतिषु—the eight सिद्धिs or miraculous powers. That this cannot be the meaning of विभूत्यः is clear from the fact, that प्राकाम्यं is included in the list of the सिद्धिः भणिमा लिंघमा प्राप्तिः प्राकाम्यं महिमा तथा। इशित्वं च वशित्वं च तथा कामावसायिता। पि The expression प्राकाम्यं ते विभूतिषु thus becomes more or less absurd. We take विभूति in the sense in which it is used in the Gitā X, viz. a glorious manifestation or manifestation in general of the Highest. The idea is that the Highest can assume any form he likes. He has absolute power to do anything. The Trivandrum edition drops this verse altogether.

Stanza 12-The Highest is here said to be the origin of the Vedas, four characteristics about which are referred to. By the Vedas are generally meant, the Rgveda, Yajurveda and the Samaveda (which are often referred to as the त्रयी; in later times the Atharvaveda seems to have been added to the list). The Vedas are अपीरुपेय and are said to be the निःश्वसित of the Highest. The Rsis merely saw the Vedas which were not composed by them. A reference to Yajna and Svarga in the verse, clearly shows that under गिराम्. are to include not only the Vedas, but other constituents of Vedic literature also, such as the Brahmanas (which deal with the ritual of the sacrifices and show the application of the Vedic hymns to them) and perhaps the Aranyakas com-Prising the Upanisads (which are philosophical treatises tacked on to the Brahmanas). The first characteristic of the mentioned is that they commence with the sacred syllable Om. प्रणवः is the आकार or the syllable ओम्, which is to be uttered just before any Vedic passage is uttered. It is said to re-Present the Hindu Trinity in later literature (= Visnu, = Siva, and म् = Brahmadeva), उद्यातः beginning. Mallihatha says that by उद्घात we are to understand उपसंहार (conclusion sion) also, so that the syllable आम् should mark the end o Vedic passage also and quotes ब्रह्मणः प्रणवं कुर्यादादावन्ते व सर्वतः वित्येन: कृतं पूर्व परस्ताच विशेषत: 11 from the appendix to the Nirukta Read the following from Manu ब्रह्मणः प्रणवं कुर्यादादावन्ते च स

po

fit / in

विष्य श्रेयः

भुङ्

पचन

पार्थ

foll

doe

wh

the cip

rep kby

viti the

Pur

Wh

con

प्रकृति

nan

the

Aba

tran

five

Mar

bns

Part

(長

प्रकृति

Prak

प्रकृतिं

कार्यक

अकृतिर उपद्रष्ट

वेति पु

also

स्रवत्यनोंकृतं पूर्वे पुरस्ताच विशीर्यति ॥...अकारं चाप्युकारं च मकारं च प्रजापतिः। वेदः त्रयात्रिरदुहद्दभूर्भवः स्वारितीति च ॥...एतदक्षरमेतां च जपन्व्याहृतिपूर्विकाम् । संध्ययोवेदः विद्विप्रो वेदपुण्येन युज्यते ॥ ...ओंकारपूर्विकास्तिस्रो महाव्याहृतयोऽव्ययाः। त्रिपदा क सावित्री विशेयं त्रह्मणा मुखम् ॥ एकाक्षरं परं त्रह्म प्राणायामाः परं तपः ... II. 74-83. Cf. आसीन्महीक्षितामाद्यः प्रणवश्छन्दसामिव ॥ Raghu I. 12. The second characteristic of the Vedas, is that they are guided by a sys. tem of accents, which must be religiously followed, as a change in the accent often leads to a change in the meaning. Malli. natha explains न्याय as नियन्ते ए। भैर्थिविशेषा इति न्यायाः स्वराः. The three accents are उदात्त (acute), अनुदात्त (grave) and स्वरित (circumflex, which is either independent or dependent, that is, due to the position of the syllable-an anudatta following an udatta resulting in a svarita). The उदात्त is not marked at all, the अउदात्त is marked with a horizontal stroke below and the स्वतित with a perpendicular stroke above. This is the system of marking accents in the Rgveda. There are other systems also. The Siksa of Panini says-मन्त्रो होनः स्वरतो वर्णतो वा मिथ्याप्रयुक्तो न तमर्थमाह । स वाग्वज्रो यजमानं हिनहित यथेन्द्रशत्रः स्वरतोऽपराधात ॥ pointing out to the importance of attending to the accents (इन्द्रशत्रं is Bahuvrīhi, (इन्द्र: शत्र: यस्य सः) when accented on the first syllable and is an epithet of Vrtra; as a Tatpurusa it means 'the slayer of Indra' and is an epither of Pralhala. (See S'atapalha Brahmana for the story, how Vrtra himself came to be killed owing to the wrong accent of इन्द्रशत्रु). न्यायैक्षिभिः can be explained in another way also. न्याय may be taken to mean 'a system, or way'so that the expression means which are to be found in three ways viz. Rk. Yajus and Saman. Or, can the expression refer to the three Pranayamas, referred to in Manu, (प्रान्त लान्पर्युपासीनः पवित्रैश्चैव पावितः पाणायामेश्चिमिः पूत्रस्तत ऑकारमहैति ॥ meaning that one becomes fit to utter or study the Vedas, when one is duly sanctified by the three Pranayamas)? The third characteristic of the Vedas, is that they enjoin sacrificial action (this is of course in accordance with the interpretation put upon the Vedas by the followers of the Karmamarga) According to the Purvamimansa school, sacrifices are most important and they vouchsafe heaven or svarga for their reward. The followers of the Uttaramimansa or the Vedantic school regard heaven as a non-eternal thing and advocate Jhana alone as the means of Moksa. Karman serves the purवेद-

योवेंद.

दा चैव

74-cond

Sys.

ange

lalli.

The (cirt is, gan

tall,

the tem

ems

युक्तो

ting

is is able lay-

atha

lled

ain-

em,

und

res-

ing.

hen

ird

cial

ion

a).

eir

itic

ate

ur-

pose of only making the mind pure and thus making a person to secure Jāāna. The Gītā refers to the importance of यज्ञाs in the following verses—सहयज्ञाः प्रजाः सह्वा पुरावाच प्रजापतिः । अनेन प्रस्किष्ण्यमेष वाेऽस्त्विष्टकामधुक् ॥ देवान्भावयतानेन ते देवा भाक्यन्तु वः । परस्परं भावयन्त क्षेयः परमवाप्स्थथ ॥ इष्टान्भोगानिह वा देवा दास्यन्ते यज्ञभाविताः । तेर्दत्तानप्रदायभ्या यो मुक्कते स्तेन एव सः ॥ यज्ञारीष्टाशिनः सन्तो मुच्यन्ते सर्विकित्विषः । मुज्जते ते त्वचं पापा ये पन्त्यात्मकारणात् ॥ ...एवं प्रवर्तितं चकं नानुवर्तयतीह यः । अध्यप्युरिन्द्रियारामो मोषं पार्थ स जीवति ॥ (III. 10–16). Mallinātha who seems to be a follower of Jāānamārga, remarks कमस्वगी ब्रह्मापवर्गयोरप्युपलक्ष्मणे as he does not like to see Svarga described as the highest fruit to which a man should aspire.

Stanza 13—As Mallinātha has remarked (सांह्यमतेन स्तुवान्ते). the poet here identifies the Highest with the two eternal principles, Frakṛti and Puruṣa of the Sāmkhya philosophy, the reputed founder of which is Kapila. According to the Samkhyas the Purusa or the soul really takes no part in the activities of the Prakrti or Pradhana who alone works and creates the world. Bondage lies in the erroneous conception of the Purusa that he is associated with the activities of the Prakṛti. When the real knowledge dawns upon him that he has no concern with her, he is free. The Kārikā मूलप्रकृतिरविकृतिः महदाद्याः प्रकृतिविकृतयः सप्त । षोडशकश्च विकारो न प्रकृतिने विकृतिः पुरुषः ॥ gives the names of the twenty-five tattvas admitted by the Samkhyasthe Mulaprakrti, otherwise called Prakrti or Pradhana, Mahat, Ahamkara and the five subtle elements which transformation of the Prakrti; the sixteen products,—the five gross elements, five Karmendriyas, five Juanendriyas and Manas; and Purusa who is neither Prakrti, nor Vikrti and thus stands apart. The Prakrti like an actress, plays her Part before the Purusa who is really a mere looker-on (रङ्गस्य दर्शायित्वा निवर्तते नर्तकी यथा नृत्तम् । पुरुषस्य तथात्मानं प्रकाश्य विनिवर्तते ऋति:।). According to the Gītā, however, the Highest is not Prakrei or Purusa, but the Purusottama, other than these two, प्रकृति पुरुषं चैत्र विद्धयनादी उमाविप। विकारांश्च गुणांश्चेव विद्धि प्रकृतिसंभवान्।। किर्यकारणहेतुत्वे हेतुः प्रकृतिहच्यते । पुरुषः सुखदुःखानां भोवतृत्वे हेतुहच्यते ॥ पुरुषः प्रकृतिस्थो हि सङ्कते प्रकृतिजान्गुणान् । कारणं गुणसङ्गाऽस्य सदसद्योनिजन्मसु ॥ ज्यहरातुमन्ता च भता भोक्ता महेश्वरः । परमारमेति चाप्युक्तो देहेऽस्मिन्पुरुषः परः ॥ य एवं वैति पुरुषं प्रकृतिं च गुणैः सह । सर्वथा वर्तमानोऽपि न स् भूयोऽभिजायते ॥ XIII. 18-23; बीड0 हाविमी पुरुषों लोके क्षरश्चाक्षर एव च। क्षरः सर्वाणि भृतानि कूटस्थोऽक्षर उच्यते ॥

than :

भतः hav

hence eiri ge consti

those

after t

of Sva

Karm

even a

शासतार

सुखम् ।

प्रवित्र

बाशे नङ्

दिता व

द्धपरम्

तत्परम् =

subjec

giri re र्थश्रोच्यां

विमुक्तर

इवार्णवे

prayer

tion m

truthf

attrac

बन्तस्य

Naray

नहाणः स

lit. Wi

offer a

with .

bod

his hea

deva.

new in

उत्तमः पुरुषस्त्वन्यः परमात्मेत्युदाहृतः । यो लोकत्रयमाविस्य विभत्येव्यय ईश्वरः ॥ यस्मात्स्रत्मत्तीतोऽहमक्षरादिष चोत्तमः । अतोऽिस लोके वेदे च प्रथितः पुरुषोत्तमः ॥ ibid XV 16-19. पुरुषस्य अर्थान् प्रवर्तयतीति ताम्. Mallinātha explains पुरुषस्य अर्थन् भोगापवर्गरूपः तदर्थे प्रवर्तते इति. पुरुषार्थ is four-fold-धर्म, अर्थ, काम and मोक्षः It is used also in the sense of मोक्ष only. This verse is quoted in the Sāhitga to show that अप्रतीतत्व is often a गुण (गुणः स्याद्मतीतत्वं इत्वं चेद्वाच्यवक्तृयोः), if the obscure terms (here प्रकृति and पुरुष) used are intelligible both to the speaker and the hearer. The Alamkārasūtra also quotes it for the same reason. The Trivandrum edition reads this verse after the next one त्वं पितृणां...

Stanza 14—The पितृ s are अग्निष्वात्त and others. See notes on I. 17. The Highest is beyond everything that can be conceived. Cf. इन्द्रियाणि पराण्याहुरिन्द्रियेभ्यः परं मनः। मनसस्तु परा बुद्धिर्यो बुद्धः परतस्तु सः॥ Gītā III. 42. Mallinātha quotes from the Kathopaniṣad, इन्द्रियेभ्यः परा द्यार्था अर्थेभ्यश्च परं मनः। मनसश्च परा बुद्धिर्वुद्धेरात्मा महांस्ततः। महतः परमव्यक्तमच्यक्तात्पुरुषः परः। षुरुषात्र परं किंचित् सा काष्टा सा परा गतिः॥ वेधसाम् = दक्षादीनाम्, मरीच्यादीनाम्, the first progenitors or प्रजापतिः, अथान्यान्मानसान्युत्रान्सदशानात्मनोऽस्जत्। भृगुं पुलस्त्यं पुल्हं कतुमाङ्किरसं तथा॥ मरीचिं दक्षमित्रं च विसिष्ठं चैव मानसम्। नव ब्रह्माण इत्येते पुराणे निश्चयं गताः॥ Vāyu IX. 68-69 also Viṣṇu I. 7. 5. Aruṇagiri reads दैवतम् for देवता.

Stanza 15-The poet says that in the Highest all distinctions cease. The Highest can thus be both हञ्यम् as well as होता. or भाज्यम् and भोक्ता, etc.—statements that are not possible in the case of other things. Cf. ब्रह्मार्पण ब्रह्म हिवर्बह्मामी ब्रह्मणा हुतम्। ब्रह्मे तेन गन्तव्यं ब्रह्मकर्मसमाधिना । Gītā IV. 24. Both the Karmakāṇda and the Jnanakanda deal with the same Paramatman. The sacrificer and the offerings in the sacrifices, the fruit promised by the sacrifices viz. Svarga and enjoyment in general, and the enjoyer of the fruit-all these associated with the Karmakanda of Jaimini are identified with the Highest. In the same manner, everything knowable and the subject in knowledge, so also the object of meditation and the meditator-all these associated with the kānda are identified with the Highest. The poet indirectly suggests that there is no fundamental difference between the Karmamarga and the Jaanamarga, lead to the same goal. भोज्यम्-eatable, 'भोज्यं भक्षे 'इति निपातनारी कुत्वामावः. The reading भोग्यम् which means 'objects of enjoy ment in general 'is perhaps better as it refers to a wider circle

Kumārasambhava: Canto II

क्षरम-

XV.

अर्थ-

मोक्षः lin

ीतत्वं

ised The riv-

OI

red.

सः ॥

येभ्यः

तम-

नाम् .

नसा-

त्रं च

-69

nc-

होता,

in त्रहीव

nda

The

TO.

in

ted

the

and

ion

na-

145 nce

oth नाव

oy.

cle

..

155

than भाज्यम् which confines itself to mere objects fit to be eaten. भृतः नाश्वतिसद्धः शाश्वतः, the form is not quite justifiable, it ought have been शाश्वतिक; but शाश्वत is also met with in literature. bence Vāmana remarks प्रयोगवशात्साधुरिति । शाश्वतः इति प्रयुक्तेः. Arunaerigets rid of the difficulty by reading शाश्वतम् which Narayana construes with भोग्यम्, and sees in the expression a refutation of those who argue that the fruit of the sacrifice cannot continueafter the sacrifice is over, hence all talk about the enjoyment of Svarga as a result of the sacrifice etc. is moonshine (the Karmamārgins believe in the existence of an अपूर्व which exists even after the sacrifice is over, to obviate this difficulty). शक्तामिति भोग्यविशेषणेन यत्कर्मफलं तत्कर्मनाशेन नश्यति यथा मर्दनकर्मनाशे तत्फलभूतंः म्लम्। तस्मादिमहोत्रादिकर्मणां कालान्तरे स्वर्गादिफलदातृत्वं वदतां वेदवाक्यानामुन्मत्त-प्रापितप्रायत्वमेव इति नास्तिकानुमानं निरस्यते । आग्निहोत्रादि फलं तु नित्यमेव न कर्मवि-बाबे नस्यतीति भाव:। The Paramatman is वेद्य and ध्येय, and also िता and ध्याता, being identified with the soul. The reading. ल्लाम् would mean 'that well-known (तत्) and important 'or लिस् = तस्मात् उपासकात् पर्म. The Paramarman is thus both the subject and the object of knowledge and meditation. Aruna-[iti remarks-अत्र पूर्वीर्धेन वेदेषु कर्मभागविषयोऽर्थः उत्तरार्धेन ज्ञानभागविषयोऽ-श्रीच्यते। Cf. अभ्यासनिगृहीतेन मनसा हृदयाश्रयम्। ज्योतिर्मयं विचिन्वन्ति योगिनस्त्वा मुन्तये ॥ ... बहुधाप्यागमैभिन्नाः पन्थानः सिद्धिहेतवः । त्वय्येव निपतन्त्योघा जाह्ववीया बार्णवे ॥ Raghu X. 23, 26.

Stanza 16—इति practically amounts to 'these'. स्तुतीः lit., prayers or rather words of the prayer, for the whole description made up one prayer. यथार्थ not going against the sense truthful. हृदयं गच्छन्तीति हृदयंगमाः, going to the heart, that is attractive. खच्प्रकरणे 'गमेः सुप्युपसंख्यानम् 'इति खच्प्रत्ययः। 'अग्रद्विषद्वन्त्रत्यम् मुम् 'इति मुमागमः। Arunagiri reads याथार्थ्यहृदयंगमाः on which Marayana remarks लोके हि प्रसादनाय कियमाणाः स्तुतयः प्रायेणारोपितार्थाः, स्तुत्यस्तु यथार्था एवति भावः। प्रसादस्य अभिमुखः (अभिगतं मुखं यस्य सः) प्रारेण के के के कि प्रसाद अभिमुखः (अभिगतं मुखं यस्य सः) प्रारेण के के के के कि प्रसाद के के कि प्रसाद के के कि प्रसाद के के के कि प्रसाद के कि प्रसाद के कि के कि प्रसाद के कि कि प्रसाद के कि

Stanza 17—पुराणं—पुरा नवं भवति (Nirukta III. 20) what was in old times, that is, old, primeval. कविः कान्तदर्शनो भवतिः

atte

obvi

illy

a hu

appo

yoke

idea

place

to be

were presi

they prop

10 01

behir

कवतेर्वो । (Nirukta XII. 13) wise, or a poet. Brahmadeva is the first poet as the Vedas sprung from him. चतुर्भिः मुखैः सम्यक् ईति Mallinatha says, we cannot take चतुर्मुख as a समाहार, as in the case, the form would have been चतुर्भुखी. चरितार्था = कृतार्थी. The expression चतुष्ट्यी प्रशत्तः seems to have been used simply to show that the fact that Brahmadeva was possessed of four mouths helped the gods in hearing his words properly and all round as it helped them in prostrating be ore him, all at the same time. Brahmadeva began to speak with all his four mouths so that the gods sitting on the side and the back (if at all, the expressions 'side' and 'back' can be used with reference to Brahmadeva) could hear him properly. यथा देवाः सर्वतोमुखल दस्य सुलभसांमुख्याः सन्तः सर्वे एव युगपत्परितश्चोपतिस्थिरे तथासांविप तान् सर्वासे चतुर्भुखावीनिर्गतया चतुष्टय्या शब्दानां प्रवृत्या युगपत् परितथ प्रत्युक्तवानित्यर्थः। (Arun giri). चतुष्ट्रयी प्रवृत्तिः may be interpreted in other ways also. श्रुहृश्वलो डित्थ इत्यादौ चतुष्रथी शब्दानां प्रवृत्तिः । ' इति महाभाष्यकारः । so th भावर word गो is strictly equal to गोत्वरूपजातिमान्, ग्रुह्रत्वरूपगुणवान् चलनरूपिकयावान् , डिल्थनामायम् ; that is, the संकेत of a word is on the have four उपाधिक, जाति, गुण, क्रिया and द्रव्य. (See Kāvyaprakāśa II) some Or the चतुष्ट्यी प्रश्नतिः refers to the पदचतुष्ट्य, referred to b Yāska, तद्यान्येतानि चत्वारि पद्जातानि नामाख्याते चोपसर्गनिपाताश्च तानीमा शिका भवान्ते। (Nirukta I). Or as Mallinātha remarks, शब्दानां प्रशृतिवेखी slow प्रमुखा वाग्वृत्तिः । उक्तं च-वैखरी शब्दनिष्पत्तिर्मध्यमा श्रुतिगोचरा । द्योतितार्था च पश्यत् एवऽठा सूक्ष्मा वागनपायिनी ॥ In these interpretations, however, the propriet The fa of the expression is lost. For, any speech, according to the the st first two alternatives, can have चतुष्ट्यी प्रज्ञित (consisting of the smile four Upādhis, द्रव्य, गुण, क्रिया and जाति or, of नाम, आख्यात, उपसर्ग and depriv निपात). Mallinatha's reference to the four-fold division of म wshin is absurd. For he surely cannot mean that all the four divisions of RH, which are more or less contradictory, were present at the same to the time in Brahmadeva's speech. Brahmadeva's speech was and remov because speech is meant to be heard properly and the gods di thing hear it properly, or it was चरितार्थ, because being uttered b Brahmadeva himself, it was sincere and truthful. no camouflage about it which was bound to prove true. ऋषीणां पुनराद्यानां वाचमर्थोऽनुधावति ।. This verse is similar to Raghu four s 36, पुराणस्य कवेस्तस्य वर्णस्थानसम्भारिता । वभूव कृतसंस्कारा चरितार्थैव भारती ॥

Stanza 18—प्राज्यः (great, mighty) विक्रमः येषां ते. प्राज्य is uselbe A simply to secure an alliteration with प्राप्तिभ्यः. A deliberation attempt for securing an alliteration in the whole verse is quite is the obvious. अधीकार (or अधिकार, as the preposition can be option-क् ईरिता lly lengthened before चल, when the whole word does not mean n that ahuman being. 'उपसर्गस्य घञ्यमनुष्ये बहुलम्' इति दीर्घः) an office, . The appointed task. युगानि इव वाहवः येषां ते, who have arms like the show yokes, that is, long and stout, reaching up to the knees. The ouths idea in स्वानधीकारान्प्रभावैः अवलम्ब्य is this:—The gods have been round placed in responsible positions by Brahmadeva. They ought e same to be therefore always at their posts. But now they have as it ouths were deserted their posts and come there in a body. Brahmadeva ill, the presumes that though the gods have come to him in person, erence they have left their powers behind to discharge their tasks ोमुखल properly, that is, the power of the gods is so well-known that सर्वाने mone would dare to disturb the arrangements made by them, Àruņa behind their back. Mallinātha remarks यथाधिकारं स्थित्वापि इत्यर्थः, so that according to him a contrast is intended between,... us the भावेत्वलम्ब्य and प्राप्तेभ्यः. You all retain your posts and still you गुणवान् । have all come here together. There must, therefore, be on the something very serious that has brought you here. śa III

Stanza 19—Brahmadeva looks at the gods and, being atonished to find that their faces had all lost their natural slow and that they were uncommonly pale, wants to know the reason thereof. क्रिप्ट-dimmed or obscured. ज्योति: a luminary. The faces are compared to the luminaries like the moon and the stars that do not shine brightly owing to the mist. The simile also hints that just as the luminaries in question are deprived of their light only temporarily by the mist and begin to shine forth in their natural splendour at the disappearance to their faces, when the cause for dejection would have been desided thing as हिम...प्रकाशानि. प्रसाद clarity, glow.

Stanza 20—Brahmadeva now explains the general statecount made in the last verse viz. that the gods had lost all hu leir glow, by referring to some particular cases. He refers to hoperates out of eight, Indra, Varuna, Kubera and Yama preside over the East, West, North and South respectively, here
here

4

. •

-al

m

·W

no

to

de

·on लोक

of oth but

gro the

dej

the fire

and

rod.

exti

The

अयं तु

not seen

वितुपा

men

comi

teads

readi

enough, Indra as the lord of gods, is noticed first. सरायुत्र ale called इन्द्रायुव is the rain-bow. The expression means here लक्षणा, the variegated colours of the rain-bow. The thunderbole स on account of its having lost all power, no longer flashes on It has, as it were, become blunted. Or स्रायुच may be takening the sense of 'the weapon of the gods'. The thunder-boltm longer discharges any bolt or weapon which had been so usel for the gods in former times, in which case, we shall have suppose that the thunder-bolt sends forth a distinct bolt. In a bow shooting forth an arrow. ब्रनस्य हन्ता is Indra. See note on I. 20. कुष्ठिताः अश्रयः (edges) यस्य तत्. On अर्चिषाम् . Arunagi , remarks. अत्राचीिष किरणाः न तु ज्वालाः, तासामूर्ध्वमुखत्वेनाश्रिवत् सर्वतोमुखलाहिः

Stanza 21-प्रचेत्स is an epithet of Varuna, whose chan scteristic weapon is the पाश (which is also sometimes spoken) as the weapon of Yama, the God of death). Varuna is a ver important deity in the Rgveda, where he is represented ruling over the moral order of the universe. His पात्र are als referred to (उदुत्तमं मुमुग्धि नो विपाशं मध्यमं चत । अवाधमानि जीवसे । [1] . 21). In later literature, he is described as the lord of water and is one of the दिनपालs, ruling over the West. The noose Varuna, which had been the dread of his enemies so long, now become quite impotent, like a serpent who is under t influence of a charm. It is a common belief that certa charms render the poison of a serpent quite harmless. verse 24 below, the Adityas are separately mentioned. Indra and Varuna are included in the list of the twe . Adityas, Nārāyana justifies this separate mention of Indra 1 Varuna thus - न्तु 'अमी च कथमादित्याः' इत्यनेन श्लोकेन द्वादशादित्यावर् वक्यमाणत्वादिन्द्रावरुणयोथ द्वादशादित्येष्वेवान्तर्भावात् कथं पृथक् वर्णनम् । मैवम् । कारभेदनिमित्ताद् विग्रह्भेदात् पृथग् व्यवहारोपपत्तेः। The figure of speech the verse is निदर्शना. The पाश is said to be possessed of plight of a serpent. This impossible connection ends i comparison. Just as the serpent under a spell becomes d impotent, so the noose also has lost its dreaded power.

Stanza 22—Kubera is one of the दिक्पालंड, ruling over this als North. He is also the lord of wealth and Yaksas, and resident his capital Allaimpo at his capital Alaka on the Kailasa mountain. His char But p teristic weapon is the mace. He is deformed in his body,

युव als

nere b

derbolt

hes up.

akenin

bolt m o useful

have !

lt, lik

note

बत्वासिंहे

chan okend

a ver

nted a

are also

1 L 25

water

oose (

ng, h

der th

certa

ess.

Bot

twell

ra a

यावस्थ

I La

of a ds i s qu

ver

resid

char

ly,

क्षेत्र only one eye. The name is thus explained; कुत्सितं वेरं शरीरमस्य कुष्टिलात्। 'कुत्सायां क्षिति शब्दोऽयं शरीरं वेरमुच्यते। कुहेरः कुशरीरत्वात्राम्ना तेनैव मोऽङ्कितः। 'इति वायुपुराणात्। or कुम्वित यनम्। Kubera, unlike Indra and Varuna, had come without his characteristic weapon, the mace. This bespoke great mental torture and humiliation which had caused him to discard his favourite mace as being no longer of any use. The arm without the mace is compared to a tree without its branches. मनःशहयं पराभवम् is a रूपक. The defeat sustained was the rankle in the mind, that is, he had been all along brooding over his defeat.

Stanza 23—यम (यमयतीति, the controller) is the God of death. one of the दिक्पालs, ruling over the South, He is the lord of पितृ-लोक, with दण्ड (also पाश) as his characteristic weapon. The rod of Yama had never failed so far in inflicting death upon others. But now it has lost all its potency and it is nothing but a mere rod which can be used for scratching up the ground or drawing figures on it. Scratching the ground with the feet or something in the hand is a sign of great mental dejection or pre-occupation. The loss of the blazing lustre of the rod, has reduced it to the condition of an extinguished fire-brand which people can handle without the least concern, and use for marking the ground. To such a pass has Yama's tod, once the terror of the whole world, come! निर्वाण extinguished. अलात a fire-brand. लाघन-smallness, degradation. The figure of speech in the verse is निद्शीना. Arunagiri remarks अयं तु स्रोकः 'प्रशमादार्चिषाम् ' (II. 20) इत्यस्यानन्तरं पठनीयः। He does not state why this should be so. The reason apparently seems to be that in the order of the main दिक्पालs given (इन्द्रो बह्निः वितृपतिनैकृतो वरुणो मरुत् । कुवेर ईश पतयः पूर्वादीनां दिशां कमात् ।) Yama is mentioned immediately after Indra.

Stanza 24—The printed editions with Mallinatha's commentary read प्रतापक्षतिश्वतिशतलाः. Mallinatha's commentary reads ...तेजसां क्षरोण शीतलाः from which it is clear that Mallinatha's reading must in all probability have been प्रतापक्षयशीतलाः which had been so long full of dazzling brightness, making it impossible for any one to look at them even for a moment. But now none so poor to do them reverence. Any one can

th

महत

प्रवि

सर्य

हारे:

यसम

See

द्रवन्त

lit.

elev

साविः

pari

in th

जित: the निर्ऋति

भद: of th

Siva

are k

mere anyb

fix his gaze at them as long as he wills, as if they were some pictures drawn on canvas, as all their lustre has gone, The Adityas are twelve, born of Kasyapa and Aditi भगोंऽशश्चार्यमा चैव मित्रोऽथ वरुणस्तथा। सविता चैव धाता च विवस्वांश्च महावलः। त्वश पृषा तथैवेन्द्रो द्वादशो विध्णुरुच्यते । इत्येते द्वादशादित्याः कश्यपस्यात्मसंभवाः। (Śāntiparvan 207, 17-18). अंशो भगश्च मित्रश्च वरुणश्च जलेश्वरः । त्या धातार्थमा चैव जयन्तो भास्करस्तथा ॥ त्वष्टा पूषा तथैवेन्द्रो द्वादशो विष्णुरुच्यते । इक्षेत्रे द्वादशादित्याः कारयपेया इति श्रुतिः ॥ (Anusāsanaparvan 255. 15-16) The Visnu Purana I. 15, 131-132, and Matsya 6, 3-4 give the same list. The number of Adityas in the Rgveda varies from six to eight. ज्ञणोत मित्रो अर्थमा भगो नस्तुविजातो वस्णो दक्षो अंशः । II. 27. 1, देवा आदित्या ये सप्त तेभिः सोमाभिरक्ष न इन्द्रायेन्दो । IX. 114. 3; अष्टी पुत्राले अदितेः ये जाताः । X. 72. 8. The Atharvaveda knows only eight of them. The Taittiriya Brahmana mentions 3-3 among them, while the Satapatha names twelve with Visnu among them, These twelve Adityas are said to burn the Universe at the time of Pralaya. प्रकामम् (at will) आलोकनीयताम् .

Stanza 25—The Wind-gods appear to be greatly agitated from which fact one can easily infer that they have not been allowed to blow on as they like and that they have received a check to their speed from some superior enemy Similarly, the blocking of the current of waters can be in ferred when one comes across the water going against the current. प्रतीप-lit. going against the current (प्रतिगताः आ अत्र) contrary. The Maruts are usually said to be forts erect nine in number (Cf. वाता वाता दिशि दिशि न वा सप्तधा सप्त भिना on th Veni III). Arunagiri gives their number to be eight, the h स्पर्शेनो वायुरानेलो मास्तस्तथा। प्राणः प्राणेशजीवौ च मस्तोऽष्टी प्रकीर्तिताः॥ Tb and Matsya 7th Adhyaya gives the following account of the birth of the 49 Maruts. Diti, the mother of the Daitys Prope had been practising penance to secure a son who would their Malli kill Indra. Kasyapa, her husband, gave her that boon and भावः। enjoined upon her to lead an extremely pure life for year. While only three days had remained for the period to come to com to come to an end, Diti, out of inadvertence, went to slee Rain without washing her feet. Indra snatched this opportunity dalling entered her body and cut the womb into seven and sever are di sons were born and began to weep. When they would no being cease weeping India and had had being cease weeping, Indra cut each one of them into seven par and he ate the 161

Kumārasambhava: Canto II

and thus they became forty-nine. Owing to the penance of their mother, these sons became immortal and were called महत् as they were addressed by Indra, मा हदत (...ततस्तदन्तरं लड्या प्रितृष्टस्तु शचीपतिः ॥ वञ्रेण सप्तथा चके तं गर्भे त्रिदशाधिपः । ततः सप्तेव ते जाताः कुमाराः सूर्ववर्वसः ॥ हदन्तः सप्त ते वाला निषिद्धा गिरिदारिणा । भूयोऽपि हदतश्चैतानेकैकं सप्तधा हीं: ॥ विच्छेद वृत्रहन्ता वै पुनस्तदुदरे स्थितः । एवमेकोनपञ्चाशद् भूत्वा ते रुख्रुर्धशम् ॥... यसान्मा हदतेत्युक्ता हदन्तो गर्भसंस्थिताः। महतो नाम ते नाम्ना भवन्तु मखभागिनः॥). See also Ramayana I 46. 47. मरुतो मितराविणो वा मितरोचिनो वा महद दवन्तीति वा । (Yāska XI. 14).

II, 27. Stanza 26—आवर्जितेषु जटामालिषु विलम्बन्यः शशिकोटयः येषु ते. आवर्जित पुत्रासो lit. secured, won over, hence down-cast. The Rudras are eight eleven. अजैकपादिहिर्बुध्न्यो विरूपाक्षोऽथ रैवतः । हरश्व वहरूपश्च त्र्यम्बकश्च सुरेश्वरः ॥ hem, सावित्रथ जयन्तश्च पिनाकी चापगाजितः । एकादशैते कथिताः स्द्रास्त्रिभुवनेश्वराः ॥ (santithem, parvan 207. 20-21). The names are slightly differently given t the in the Anuśāsanaparvan 255. 12-13. अजैकपादहिर्दुःन्यः पिनाकी चाप्ररा-जितः। ऋतश्च पितृरूपश्च त्र्यम्बकश्च महेश्वरः ॥ वृषाकपिश्च शम्भुश्च हवनोऽथेश्वरस्तथा ॥ In the Adiparvan 67. 1, their names are as under, मृगन्याधः, सर्पः, निर्कृतिः, अजैकपात् , अहिर्वुध्न्यः, पिनाकी, दहनः, ईश्वरः, कपाली, स्थाणुः and भवः, See also Visnu Purāna I. 15. 122-24. Siva is the chief of the Rudras. The other Rudras also, it seems, have like Siva the crescent moons in their matted hair. The Rudrasare known for their anger and destroy their enemies by a mere growl or Hum sound. So long they had not met with anybody to challenge them and so had their heads always. etect, the matted hair properly supporting the crescent moons on them. But now, after having sustained a severe defeat at the hands of Taraka, their heads are down-cast through shame and consequently the crescent moons on them, being not properly placed, hang down from the hair. This shows that their boasted growl had proved to be NOU quite impotent. n an Mallinatha who reads क्षतहुंकारशंसिनः remarks हुंकारशस्त्रा हि रहा इति भावः। Arunagiri reads क्षताहंकारशंसिनः and explains अहंकारोऽभिमानित्वम्। erio अहंकारस्याधिदैवतं सिवः स एवैकादशात्मा स्द्रः । तत इयमुक्तिः. In V. 54, the poet slee Rain refers to the हमार of Siva, from which it appears that unity Mallinatha's reading is better. These eleven Rudras, it seems, sever the different from the Rudra described in Visnu Purana I. 8, as being born of Brahman and immediately crying and running, part and hence receiving the name Rudra from Brahman, or they ate the different forms of the original Rudra (...प्रादुरासीत्प्रभोरङ्क

some

gone.

Aditi,

विल: |

भवाः ॥

। तथा

। इत्येते -16).

e the from

tated

ceiv-

nemy.

e in

t the forty.

भिन्नाः।

गगर

The

f the ity35

आप

1

be 80 en

in

W

वास

पत्य

san

wif

Go

san

wat

stor

of A

Acc

fort

ordin gent

beha

speak not e

कुमारो नीळळोहितः । रुदन्वै सुस्वरं सोऽथ द्रवंश्व द्विजसत्तम । किं रोदिशीति तं ब्रह्मा रुद्तं प्रत्युवाच ह ॥ नाम देहीति तं सोऽथ प्रत्युवाच प्रजापितम् । रुद्रस्त्वं देव नाम्नासि मा रोदीधेर्यमावह ॥ एवमुक्तः पुनः सोऽथ सप्तकृत्वो रुरोद् वै । ततोऽन्यानि द्दौ तस्मै सप्त नामानि वै प्रभुः । स्थानानि चेषामष्टानां पत्नीः पुत्रांच वे प्रभुः ॥). On Rudra, the Nirukta (X. 7) remarks रुद्रो रीतीति सतः, रोरूयमाणो द्रवतीति वा, रोदयतेक्वी 'यदरुदत्तसुद्रस्य रुद्रत्वम् 'इति हारिद्राविकम् ।

Stanza 27 — लच्या प्रतिष्ठा (proud position, stability, applica. tion) यै: ते. कृता व्यावृत्तिः (turning back, supersession) येषां ते. The gods had their position as rulers of the world, firmly establish. ed before, but Brahmadeva is afraid that some enemies have succeeded in encroaching upon their rights and so the gods now enjoy only a restricted sovereignty. उत्सर्ग is a general rule and equate is an exception and it is well-known that exceptions are more powerful than the rules, so that the latter have scope only in those cases which are not covered by the former. The general injunction मा हिस्सा forbids all killing, but it has no scope in the case of the याज्ञिकी हिंसा which is enjoined by other Sruti texts. scope of the general injunction therefore becomes restrict ed only to the ordinary हिंसा. The अपनादं or particular injunctions thus are more powerful. अपवादानां वलवत्तरत्वं ' सावकात निरवकाशयोर्निरवकाशो बलीयान् इति न्यायात्—Arunagiri who also reads न खलु स्थ वलोत्तरैः for यूरं किं बलवत्तरैः । Cf. यः कश्चन रघूणां हि परमेकः परंतकः। अपवाद इवोत्सर्गे व्यावर्तियत्माश्वरः ॥ Raghu XV. 7.

though Stanza 28—वस an affectionate term of address. The With meaning 'a child' would also suit here as Brahmadeva is the wisdo पितामह of all. इत: is equal to मत्तः. Brahmadeva must be take Pose ? to point out to himself with his finger or in any other intell to kin gible manner, when he uttered this expression. Brahmader eyes n means to say that the fact that all of them had come to him by a g a body, and that they had lost all their lustre: clearly showed do not that they had been oppressed by some enemy and that the marks danger was very serious. He would warm them however ged that they had not chosen the right person for having their grievances redressed. For what was he after all? He merely the creator of the world and not its protector. He had of Indian nothing to do with the protection of the world, which we have clearly the province of the gods themselves, the Lokapalis hes.

स्दलं

सि मा

सम सप्त

i, the

दयतेर्वा

म् ।

He would like however all the same, to know why they had been to him. The clever Brhaspati, the spokesman of the gods, it would be seen, does not allow himself to be disheartened by these words of Brahmadeva, and corners him by asking not for protection, but for the creation of a General who would be victorious over the enemy. (See verse 51 below)

Stanza 29—मन्दानिलेन उद्भूतः यः कमलाकरः तद्भृत् शोभितं शीलमस्य तेन. plica. नासन् is an epithet of Indra. वसनो देवा वसूनि रत्नानि अस्य वा सान्ति वसोर-The प्यमिति वा दैत्यानां वासं वाति वा। Indra is supposed to have a thoublishsand eyes on account of the curse of the sage Gotama whose emies wife Ahalya was ravished by him wearing the disguise of the Gotama. The sage cursed him that he would have a thouis a and apertures on his body, which were transformed afternown wards into so many eyes, when Indra prayed for mercy. This that story in the Puranas is based upon the description of a natural e not phenomenon in the Rgveda, viz. the pursuit by Indra (the sun) हिंस्यात् f the of Ahılya (the dawn) whose Jara, Indra is described to be. The According to another account, Indra is supposed to have put strictforth so many eyes in order to have a proper look at the extraordinary beauty of the Apsaras Tilottama. Indra made a r ingentle sign with his eyes to Brhaspati that he should speak on ावकाशbehalf of the gods. Apparently, Indra himself wanted to reads speak, but the last words of Brahmadeva, that the gods need परंतपः। not expect protection from him, made him nervous and he thought that the case of the gods required to be presented The with proper care. And who else than Brhaspati who was is the wisdom and oratory incarnate, could be selected for this purtaker Mose? A mere sign by the eyes was sufficient for Brhaspati to know what was wanted of him by Indra. The thousand tyes moving gently are compared to as many lotuses shaken im by a gentle breeze. (As a matter of fact, the eyes of the gods owe do not wink, they are always steady; hence Mallinatha's re-प्रदेश सिनमेषाणामिष प्रयत्नवशात् अक्षिस्पन्दो न विरुध्यते।). नोदयामास् goaded, Stanza 30—Brhaspati was the preceptor and counsellor e half of Indra. He was thus the प्रज्ञाचक्ष: of Indra. This चक्ष: was obviousmore important to Indra than his own thousand physical pals ves. This नक्षः again was possessed of two eyes, referring

8

u

th

IE

an

th

no

po

यदा his

· N

the लोक

be

(Se

सत्यत

तलात

इत्यसु

प्राणह

8 W.

in d then

With

Tāra

just

the 1

त्तादपुरे

भेषिकत

Nārā

Stop t

Wait :

164

to the fact that Brhaspati had only two eyes, or दिनेत्रह refers to the fact that Brhaspati was धर्महिष्ट: as well as अर्थहिष्ट: बाचस्पति: may be taken as an Aluk compound, according to the Sutra 'पन्नयाः पतिपत्र', which really concerns Vedic forms Brahmadeva is called a जलजासन, as he is born of the lotus in the navel of Visnu. Mr. Ray explains द्विनेत्रम् as having two guides; guided both by the exterior and the interior of things. It must be confessed that द्विनेत्रं चक्षुः is not a happy expression. though some charm is created by the strange statement that one eye is possessed of two eyes. The reading विनेत हरेश्वक्षदेशनक्ष-इत्ताधिकम् of the Trivandrum edition is obviously better, विनेत = विनयोपदेशकम्, directing the right path. What Indra's thousand eyes could not grasp, Brhaspati was able to know, hence he was the best person to present the case of the gods properly. He knew what to say and also how to put it in proper words.

Stanza 31—भगवन, possessed of भग, the six-fold ऐथ्रये. ऐथ्रयेंस समप्रस्य वीर्यस्य यशसः श्रियः । ज्ञानवैराग्ययोश्चेव षण्णां भग इतीरणा ॥ आमृष्टम् overpowered assailed. Brhaspati begins his speech, referring to Brahmadeva's query in verse 27 above. He says Brahmadeva's surmise that the gods had been overpowered by some enemy was quite correct. In fact, Brahmadeva as the inner controller (antaryamin) of all, was bound to know everything that was going on in the world. For प्रत्येक विनियुक्ताली compare ईश्वरः सर्वभूतानां हृद्देशेऽर्जुन तिष्ठति । Gita XVIII. 61.

Stanza 32—भवतः लब्बेन वरेण उदीर्णः (उद्धतः). The Trivandrum edition reads त्वया दत्तवरोदींणी...This is a significant expression Brhaspati means to say that Brahmadeva cannot shirk his responsibillity so easily in the matter by arguing that he concerned with the creation and not with the protection of the world. For the trouble is of his own making. It was Brahma deva who had granted a boon to Taraka that he would not be killed by any one except a child seven days old. No wonder be w then that Taraka should ride roughshod over all, and indulge the d in an orgy of atrocities. असर-a demon, derived by Yāska as असुराः असुरताः स्थानेष्वस्ताः स्थानेभ्य इति वा । अपि वा असुरिति प्राणानाम अस्तः शरी भवति तेन तद्दन्तः । सोर्देवानस्जत तत् सुराणां सुरत्वम् , असोरसुरानस्जत तद्सुराणामं अस्तिमिति विज्ञायते। (Nirukta III 8). The word is not used in a bad

द्रेनेत्रम्

हिष्टिः.

g to

Ims.

is in two

ings,

sion,

that शचक्ष-etter.

dra's

now.

gods.

it in श्चर्यस्व over.

g to that

d by

the

now

कात्मान

rum

5:014

his

e is the ma-

गरीर

णाम" had

sense in the Rgveda, but means 'powerful' 'mighty' and is used with reference to deities like Indra and Varuna. It is the same word as the Ahura of the Avesta. When the Aryans and the Iranians quarrelled, it seems that the word, as used with reference to the Iranian deities, came to have a bad significance and later writers, not knowing the real sense of Asura, coined the word Sura, to mean 'a god' so that Asura might mean 'one not a god, a demon '. धूमाकार: केतु: a comet. The rise of a comet portends great disaster. Nārāyana quotes from गाम्भेसंहिता, उत्तिष्ठति बढ़ा भीमो ध्रमकेतुर्नभस्तले। तदा विनश्यति क्षिप्रं जगदेतच्चराचरम्। Shakespeare in his Julius Caesar refers to the comet as heralding death to kings, When beggars die, there are no comets seen, The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of princes' (Act II. Sc. 2). लेकानाम् of the people, or rather of the worlds which are said to be either three (Heaven, Earth and Patala) or fourteen. (Seven higher, भूलोंक, भुवलोंक, स्वलींक, महलींक, जनलींक, तपोलोक and स्त्रलोक (or ब्रह्मलोक); and seven lower, अतल, वितल, सुतल, रसातल, तलातल, महातल and पाताल). On महासुर:, Arunagiri remarks महासुर इत्रमुखिजयित्वात् तस्य कूरत्वमुक्तम् । Närayana adds भूमिद्रव्यपुत्रदार-प्राणहरणेनासुरविजयी तुष्यति ।

Stanza 33-यावनमात्रेण-मात्रशब्दोऽवधारणे (Arunagiri). दीर्घिका is a well with a long or oblong shape. Brhaspati now explains in detail how the great gods are degraded by Taraka in making them serve him as he would will them to do. Thus the sun with his blazing heat has no admittance in the capital of Taraka. He is forced to send only mild heat which would be just sufficient to make the lotuses bloom, without oppressing the ladies in the harem. (यावतैव निजातपेन वापीकमलविकाससिद्धिः, रवि-त्तिपुरे तावन्मात्रमेवातपं करोति न न्यूनमधिकं वा । न्यूनत्वे कमलोन्मेषाभावनापराध्रप्रसङ्गात् भेषिकत्वे तु तदवरोधवध्रुमुखाराविन्दपारिम्लानतााविधानेनात्यन्तमपराधप्रसङ्गाच्चेति भावः Narayana).

Stanza 34—Elsewhere the moon shines with all his digits only on the full-moon day. In the bright half of the fortnight nder be waxes, by one digit each day, till he becomes full, and in the dark half, he wanes till he is in conjunction with the sun on the Amavasya day. But Taraka has by his firman put a stop to this waxing and waning, and has ordered the moon to wait upon him with all his digits always. Taraka has however

be

bei

उद्या

are प्रावृत

set8

of I

the best

stra

his i

Var

extr

wou rain

supp

स्रोत्तरव

to cu

and d

ing v

Possi

punis

a lon

devel

not b

ing or how,

S

graciously allowed the moon to keep one of his digits, which has been appropriated by Siva as an ornament on his forehead. Why Taraka showed this concession to Hara is not told by the poet. Nārāyaṇa who reads रेखां for लेखाम्. suggests that the digit on Siva's head being a very small one. was ignored by Taraka (किमनया ममात्यल्पतया रेखयेति तदुपेक्षामात्रेण चन्द्रः परमे-श्वरपराधीनां रेखां नादत्त इत्यर्थः।) Or it might be that as the digit in question did not strictly belong to the moon, Taraka did not insist upon its attendance on him. The suggestion that Siva might have been Taraka's favourite deity lacks anthority. Taraka is known to have propitiated Brahmadeva and not Siva. Possibly, Taraka apprehended the least danger from Siva who having renounced the world, was not likely to take any wife and hence there was no possibility of any child being born to him, which would bring about Taraka's death, Or, does the poet show his partiality for Siva by making such an exception in his favour? The waning of the moon is attributed to the digits being drunk one by one by the Gods and the Manes. Read ahe following from माधवीयकालनिर्णयः प्रथमी (कलां) पिवते विहिर्द्वितीयां पिवते रिवः। विश्वेदेवास्तृतीयां त चतुर्थी सलिलाधिपः। पञ्चमीं तु वपद्कारः षष्टीं पिवति वासवः। संप्तमीमृषयो दिव्या अष्टमीमज एकपात्॥ नवमी कृष्णपक्षस्य यमः प्राश्नान्ति वै कलाम् । दशमीं पिबते वायः पिबत्येकादशीमुमा ॥ द्वार्बी पितरः सर्वे समं प्राश्नन्ति भागशः। त्रयोदशीं धनाध्यक्षः कुवेरः पिवते कलाम् ॥ चतुरंशी पश्चपतिः पञ्चदर्शी प्रजापतिः । निःपीतः कलाशेषश्चन्द्रमा न प्रकाशते ॥ कला पोडाशिका ग तु अपः प्रविशते सदा । अमायां तु सदा सोम ओषधीः प्रतिपद्यते ॥ तमोषधिगतं गावः पिवः न्त्यम्बुगतं च यत् । तत्क्षीरममृतं भूत्वा मन्त्रपूतं द्विजातिभिः ॥ हतमिष्ठषु यज्ञेषु पुनरायायते शशी। दिने दिने कलागृद्धिः पौर्णमास्यां तु पूर्णता॥ The idea of the moon being drunk in this way must have been due to his identification with the सोम drink in the Vedas.

Stanza 35 कुसमानां स्तेयम् तस्मात् साध्वसं तस्मात्. The Trivandrum येषाम्. edition reads साहसात् for साध्वसात्. साहस—punishment, or danger and re तालवृन्त is a fan. तालस्य इव वृन्तमस्य having a stalk like that of palm-leaf. The wind also is in constant attendance on Taraka by th and always blows gently about him, as if fanning him with a ttend he ex fan. He is so much afraid of Taraka that he does not blow in the pleasure-garden at all, lest he might unconsciously cause would Beside some flower or other to drop down by his force, and thus render 1s exh himself liable to be severely punished by Taraka for rude behaviour. उद्याने व्यावृत्तगति: is a case of सांपेक्षसमास, the expression heing practically equal to व्यावृत्तोद्यानगतिः.

hich

-910

not. ests

was. परमे-

in

not Siva

rity.

not

rom

to.

hild

ath.

sùch

n is

Fods

प्रथमां

धिपः॥

नवमी

द्रादशी

वर्दशी

का या

: पिव-

यायते

eing

tion

rum

19er

raka

ude

Stanza 36—पर्यायेण by turns, in succession. उद्यानं प लयन्तीति उद्यानपालाः तैः सामान्यं यथा भवति तथा. पुष्पाणां संभारे तत्पराः. The seasons are six and they follow in a particular order (वसन्तश्च तथा प्रीव्म: प्रावृद्ध च शरदेव च । हेमन्तः शिशिरक्षेव षडेत ऋतवः स्मृताः ॥) Thus Grīsma sets in only when Vasanta comes to an end. But in the realm of Taraka, things are quite different. Taraka has ordered all the seasons to set in together and hand over to him their best products at all times. The seasons have got to obey this strange order and they attend upon Taraka, as if they were his mere gardeners, whose business is to obey and not to argue.

Stanza 37—सरितां पति: is taken by Mr. Ray to mean Varuna. Varuna is no doubt the lord of waters, but it is extremely unusual to call him ' the lord of rivers'. सरितां पतिः would more appropriately mean 'the ocean'. The drops of rain water fallen at the time of the स्वातिनक्षत्र into the shells are supposed to develop into gems (श्राक्तिकायां पतितो जलविन्दुः पण्मा-बोतरकालमुद्रीणों हि प्रशस्तं मौक्तिकं भवति । Nārāyaṇa). The ocean wants to curry favour with Taraka by presenting him extremely rare and costly gems. He watches those gems as they go on developing with great anxiety, so that they might be as perfect as possible. If they would not be perfect enough, Taraka would punish him. On the other hand, the ocean could not wait for flong time so as to allow sufficient time for the gems to develop, lest Taraka might blame him on that score also for not bringing the gems quickly. Thus the ocean had been resting on the horns of a dilemma and was passing his days, somelow, in an anxious manner.

Stanza 38 - ज्वलन्त्यः मणीनां शिखाः येषां ते, or ज्वलन्तः मणयः एव ।शिखाः भाम. Vāsuki is the lord of serpents (सपीणामस्मि वास्राकेः । Gitā X) and resides in Patala. Taraka makes the serpents also headed their king to serve him. He has ordered them to be in tha trendance upon him at night time, so that he may be saved he expense and trouble of lighting the lamps whose purpose would be admirably served by the lustrous gems in their hoods. Besides, ordinary lamps flicker away and go out when the oil exhausted. The gems in the hoods of serpents would give a constant steady light which would never fail. Serpents are supposed to carry gems in their heads, by the light of which they find out their prey at night. प्रदीप might mean प्रदीपभाजन (a lamp) or the light of a lamp (दीपभाजनवस्योदिसमष्टि).

thei.

विला

XV.

Nan

wife wife

expl पाताः

शीलम

Tar

cele Cār

orde

not

thei

free

if th

WOE

the:

han

the

ed.

Tri

18 :-

the

the

to I

mis

Ple:

tion

Test

Pla

car

SIOI

Ple

Stanza 39—तेन कृतम् अनुमहम् अपेक्षितुं शिलमस्य. अनुकूलं करोति अनुकूलं करोति अनुकूलं करोति अनुकूलं करोति अनुकूलं करोति अनुकूलं करोति तत्करोतित्यर्थे णिच्. कल्पनृक्ष is one of the five celestial trees (मन्दार, पारिजात, संतान, कल्प and हरिचन्दन). It is supposed to grant all desired objects. Mallinātha understands निभूषण in the sense of प्रसून (flowers). निभूषण may mean 'ornaments in general'. Even Indra stands in awe of the demon and tries to be on friendly relations with him by sending costly presents to him now and then. These presents are sent by messengers. Indra does not go personally to Tāraka, lest he might be imprisoned by him.

Stanza 40-We have been thus serving Taraka with a view to avert any conflict with him. The sun, the moon, and wind from heaven wait upon him; seasons and ocean from the earth attend to him; serpents from Patala do him service; nay, even Indra, forgetting his position as king of Gods, for the time being, is anxious to conciliate him. But all this has not his task of prevented Taraka from merrily continuing tormenting the three worlds more and more. This is not something entirely unexpected. Taraka is a villain and the best way to deal with such a person is by hitting back with all one's might and not by conciliation which is often misunderstood as a sign of absolute weakness. This verse is quoted in the Sahityadarpana as an illustration of the figure of speech अर्थान्तरन्यास. Cf. चतुर्थोपायसाध्ये तु शत्रो सान्त्वमपिक्रया। स्वेद्यमामज् प्राज्ञः कोऽम्भसा परिषिचाति । Sisupala II, 54.

Stanza 41—Brhaspati now describes some acts of wanton oppression committed by Tāraka. It is well known that actions calculated to inflict humiliation upon others, are worse and felt more than even the sternest punishment. The beautiful trees in the garden of gods—what harm could they have done to Tāraka? But no; he would cut them and fell them down here and there, and would glory in such acts of sheer vandalism. These trees had never been subjected to such treatment before. They were in charge of the heavenly ladies who used to take the utmost precaution while plucking their sprouts with their delicate hands, lest they might injure them. Cf. for the idea, आवर्ज्य शाखाः सदयं च यासां पुष्पाण्युपात्तानि किलासिनीभिः। वन्यैः पुलिन्दिरिव वानरेस्ताः क्रिझ्यन्त उद्यानलता मदीयाः॥ Raghu XVI. 19, also नादत्ते प्रियमण्डनापि भवतां स्नेहेन या पल्लवम्। Śāk. IV • Nandana is the name of the garden of the gods or of Indra अमस्त्र्यू like सुराङ्गना means 1 ather 'a celestial damsel' than 'the wife of a god.' Aruṇagiri reads छिन्नपातानाम् which Nārāyaṇa explains as छिन्नानां पाताः पतनानि छिन्नपाताः, अथवा छिन्नं छेदनं भावे निष्ठा तेन पाताः छिन्नपाताः तेषाम् अभिज्ञाः। कर्मणि चेयं षष्ठी।

Stanza 42—श्वासैः साधारणः अनिलः येषां तैः, वाष्पाणां सीकरान् वर्षितुं शिलमेशाम् तै:. बन्दी is a woman carried off as a captive by force. Tāraka has no chivalrous feelings either. He has carried off celestial damsels as captives and makes them fan him with Camaras. To the poor damsels, this must have been a great ordeal. It would have been easier to fan him when he was not asleep, for then they would have been able to control their feelings. But Taraka gives them an opportunity to weep freely by falling asleep and thus makes their task harder, for if they were to sigh heavily, his sleep would be disturbed and woe be to the person who would dare to do that. The ladies therefore, somehow manage to wipe out their tears by the hands, which coming into contact with the Camaras make them wet and thus a breeze wafting sprays of water is produced. All this they do with subdued sighs. The reading of the Trivandrum edition, संतप्तश्वास..., is also a good one. The idea is:- Taraka knows very well that the breeze produced by the Camaras, coming in contact with the hot tears shed by the ladies and their hot sighs, would not be quite comforting to him, but he puts up with it, as he likes to gloat over their miserable condition. It is not fanning that he wants, but the pleasure derived from looking at the humiliation and degradation of his captives.

Stanza 43—The beautiful golden mountain Meru, the resort of the gods, and round which the sun and the other planets move, has not escaped devastation at his hands. He has carried off the peaks of Meru and planted them near his mansions—he has built so many of them—so as to serve him as pleasure-hills. In uprooting the peaks of Meru, he has also

22

ts are

vhich

पभाजन

अनुकू-

मन्दार, sired प्रसून

Even

endly

7 and

s not nim.

th a

and

the vice:

r the

not

k of

not

the

with mis-

se is igure

गमज्बर

nton

that are

The

they fell

ts of renly

king

disturbed the course of the sun हरित: is the name of the sun's horses which are seven, hence the sun's epithet सप्तसाप्त: The Nirukta II. 23 gives the names of the vehicles of different to gods-हरी इन्द्रस्य...हरित आदित्यस्य. The sun's horses are of a green blat colour. आक्रीडन्त एषु इति आक्रीडाः च ते पर्वताः or आक्रीडः (a garden) prive famis

are s

ed a looke

of HI

powe

conn

litera

Dem defili

अध्वरेष

com

whic

heav

वेदविशि

V. 4

I, 8).

(विधि

abs. s

आभम

is der

वैनं वित

यत्ततः

मिमिभ

verse Ragh with acts (

41-4

his e heav

fourt

Was .

Stanza 44—दिग्वारणानां मदेन आविलम् (soiled, turbid). हेमाम्भोस्वाणि एव सस्यानि एषाम्. Aruṇagiri reads अम्बुरुह for अम्भोरुह. Tāraka has committed an out-rage on the heavenly Ganges also. The Ganges had beautiful golden lotuses all of which have now been taken away by force and transplanted in the pleasure.
wells near his mansion. He wanted to take away her waters also, but as they were rendered dirty on account of the rut of the intoxicated quarter-elephants that sport in them, he left them alone. Cf. for the idea of the दिगगज sporting in the Ganges, नदत्याकाशगङ्गायाः स्रोतस्युद्दामदिगगजे Raghu I. 78. The दिगगज
аre eight, guarding the eight quarters. ऐरावतः पुण्डरीको वामाने अमुदोऽज्ञनः । पुष्पदन्तः सार्वभौमः सुन्नतीकथ दिगगजाः ॥ सस्य ाड that which is first uprooted and then planted, त्रोहि etc. उत्खातन्नतिरोपणात् सुवर्णपङ्कजेष्ठ सस्यत्वारोपः । (Nārāyaṇa).

Stanza 45—खिलीभूत-व चिन्न form from खिल (a waste land), lit. having become a waste land, hence unfrequented, barren, अवनानाम् आलोकनं तेन (or तिस्मन्) प्रीतिः. The gods no longer move about in their ærial cars to visit the different worlds. They dare not do it as there is no knowing when they would come across Tāraka who would show no mercy to them. Thus the Gods have to lie concealed for all time. Cf. वैमानिकाः पुण्यकृतस्य- परतां पथि। पुष्पकालोकसंक्षोभं मेघानरणतत्पराः ॥ Raghu X. 47. The reading आघात for आपात means the same thing. विमान is variously derived-विशिष्टं मानयन्त्यनेन, विशेषण मान्त्यास्मन् इति वा, विगतं मानम् उपमा अस्योति वा.

Stanza 46—Tāraka does not allow the oblations to reach the gods for whom they are intended, but snatches them off himself from the mouth of fire, and devours them himself. He is a very crafty demon. He allows the sacrifices to be commenced and carried on for a time without the least disturbance, and at a time when every one is labouring under a false sense of security, he suddenly makes his sun's appearance in some disguise or other and carries off The the oblations in defiance of all. Before the gods could make fferent of his disguise and take suitable measures to protect the green plations, they are already gone. The gods are thus deof their legitimate share in the sacrifices and are famished. Such disturbance in the case of sacrifices that HILLI are so essential for the upkeep of the universe, has creatāraka ed a very serious situation which must be immediately The looked to. माया अस्य अस्तीति मायिन् (त्रीह्मादित्वादिति), one possessed र्भाया (magical power). माया has the meaning 'wonderful power in the Rgveda and the expression माथिन is found in connection with such deities as Indra and Varuna. In later literature the word came to mean 'delusion' 'magical power.' Demons are often described in the Puranas as obstructing and defiling the sacrifices, wearing all sorts of disguises. विततेषु अष्येषु may also be taken as a loc. abs. construction. वितत-spread. commenced. अध्वर a sacrifice. It is derived as न ध्वरति इति (that which never fails) or अध्वानं राति इति (which shows the way to heaven) or न ध्वरा यस्मिन् in which there is no killing or हिंसा (या वेदविहिता हिंसा नियतास्मिश्वराचरे । अहिंसामेव तां विद्याद्वेदाद्धमीं हि निर्वभी ॥ Manu V. 44). Yāska says अव्वर इति यज्ञनाम, ध्वरतिर्हिसाकमी तत्प्रतिषेधः । (Nirukta 1.8). यज्या is one who offers a sacrifice according to the rites (विधिना इष्टवान्) 'सुयुजोङ्वनिप्' इति ङ्वनिप्प्रत्ययः । नः मिषतां (पर्यताम्) is gen, abs. showing अनादर. जातवेदाः एव मुखं or जातवेदसः मुखम्. The gods are अभिमुखाः and receive their oblations through him. जातवेदस् fire is derived by Yaska as follows: - जातवेदाः कस्मात्, जातानि वेद, जातानि कें विदुः, जाते जाते विद्यते इति वा, जातवित्तो वा जातधनः, जातविद्यो वा जातप्रज्ञानः। गतजातः पशुनविन्दतेति तज्जातवेदसो जातवेदस्त्वामिति ब्राह्मणं तस्मात् सर्वानृत्नपश्चोऽ-मिमिसपन्तीति वा। (Nirukta VII. 20). Cf. for the idea in the Yerse, अर्चिरायज्वाभिर्भागं कल्पितं विधिवत्पुनः । माय।विभिरनालीढमादास्य वे निशाचरैः॥ Raghu X, 45. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatikanthabharana with the remark सप्तमीवाच्यं भावलक्षणम्

now sure-

aters

ut of

e left

the गगज्ड

वामनः

h is सुवर्ण-nd).

ren.

ove-

hey

ome

the स्त्य-

The

115-

पमा

ch

off

Te best

ng.

is.

Stanza 47-Brhaspati, after having described certain acts of oppression that affected all gods in general in verses; 11-46, now narrates certain particular losses. Indra has lost his excellent horse which was his pride and the ornament of heaven. उने अवस is the name of Indra's horse and is one of the fourteen excellent objects that were produced when the ocean was churned by the gods and the demons. The following:

verse gives the names of the fourteen jewels लक्षी: कीस्तुमपारि चातकस्र धन्तन्वरिश्चन्द्रमा गावः कामदुघाः सुरेश्वरगजो रम्भादिदेवाङ्गनाः । अश्वः सप्तस्त हटी जातक छरा वरतन्यार वरतमा भार कार्यु । जातक प्रतिदिनं कुर्यात् सदा मङ्गलम् । See occu also Adiparvan, 18th Adhyaya. उच्चै:श्रवस् is derived as उच्चै: श्रवस् विश्व (ears) यस्य, उच्चैः शृणोतीति वा, उच्चैमहत् श्रवो यशो यस्येति वा. उच्चैः high, exalted and दहबदं embodied. The reading देहबन्धम् (देहं बधातीति) means the बगार same thing. With the disappearance of उच्चे:श्रवस्, Indra's fame also disappeared. उच्चैःश्रवस् is all white and fame is also conventionally regarded as white. Arunagiri shows how the than various acts of oppression involve various methods of carrying sea on war with the enemy. Thus in verse 41, विश्वसन or destruction the is mentioned; in verses 43 and 44, अपवाहन or forcible carrying कार्क off is referred to; in verse 45, obstruction is alluded to, and the other verses speak of विलोप. (अत्र प्रकरणे 'तेन' (verse 41) इत्यादिना विध्वंसनम् ' उत्पाट्य ' (43). 'मन्दाकिन्या ' (44) इत्यादिना चापवाहनम् स्वन ' (45) इत्यादिनोपरोधः, अन्यैस्तु विलोप इति विम्रहप्रकारा उक्ताः।)

agai

agai

that नाम व

तु मह

राजा

पुष्कर

The

how

Ray

is go

Indi was

that he l

48 a

agai

Whi

ther

vers Ver

goo

Indi

it is god

वयं lead

Stanza 48—Brhaspati says that the gods have done their best to combat the growing insolence of Taraka, but all to m purpose. It is only after exhausting all their resources that they have approached Brahmadeva to help them. सांनिपातिक संनिपातात् त्रिदोषविकारात् आगतः तेन निर्वृत्तो वा. When all the three humours बात, पित्त and कफ are affected, it is impossible to cure the patient. Nārāyaṇa quotes वातिपत्तकफानां च संनिपातो यदा भवेत्। तत ्जातो ज्वरस्तीत्रो ह्यसाध्यः सर्वभेषजैः ॥ वीर्यवन्ति – प्रशस्तवीर्ययुक्तानि, प्रशंसायां मतुष्

Stanza 49—प्रतिघातेन उत्थितम् अचिः यस्य तेन. निष्कम् is उरोभूषणम् It also means 'a golden coin'. The चक्र is the famous सुदर्शन of Visnu. The gods had based very high hopes on this disc which was never known to have received a check. disc also belied their hopes. When it was cast against Taraka it clashed against his throat, but could not cut it as the throat was even tougher than the disc. The result was that the disc coming into violent contact with the throat, gave rise to flame the lustre of which spread downwards to the chest and it appeared for the moment as if the demon had worn a chest.ornament hanging down from the neck. Mallinatha seems to understand that the disc itself remained as an ornament (स्वयमेव निष्कमिव स्थितमित्यर्थः) This could happen only momentarily and the disc could not be there for all time 25

Kumārasambhava: Canto II

173

हितुभपारि-ाः सत्तमुत्ते is clear from the expression प्रतिघातोत्थितार्चिषा (the प्रतिघात could See occur not always, but only once when the disc was hurled ने: आई against the throat). This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka exalted and Alamkaracudamani with the remark, अत्र हि हरे: संबन्धित्वेन शक्तस्य us the बगासपदरवामीति हरेरेव प्राधान्याविवक्षा न चक्रमात्रस्य ।

s fame

s also

their

to no

that पातिक• three cure

। तदा

तुप्।

षणम् ।

ीन of disc

this

raka

roat

disc

to a and 11 8

atha

s an

only

e as

Stanza 50 - निर्जितः ऐरावतः थैः ते, that were even more mighty ow the than Indra's elephant. ऐरावत (इरा उदकानि सन्ति अस्मिन् इरावान् the arrying sea तिसन् भन: 1) is one of the fourteen jewels churned out of uction the ocean. तटाघात is butting against the banks, also called arrying ब्राक्रीडा. • The mighty elephants practised this butting o, and against ordinary objects which were too soft for them, but against the huge massive clouds Puskaravartaka and others se 41) that display their activities only at the Pralaya. पुष्करा (or पुष्कला) पवाहनम नाम ते मेघाः बृहतस्तोयवार्जिताः । पुष्करावर्तकास्तेन कारणेनेह शब्दिताः ॥ नानारूपधरास्ते त महाधीरस्वनास्तथा। कल्पान्ते बृष्टिकर्तारः संवर्तामेनियामकाः ॥ The आदि includes-राजावतीक and others. Mallinatha seems to understand by पुकरावर्तक, two classes of clouds (पुष्कराश्र आवर्तकाश्र नामादयः येषां तेषु). The expression in जातं वंशे अवनविदिते पुष्करावर्तकानाम् (Megha) seems however to suggest that only one class of cloud is meant. Mr. Ray rightly points out that this verse is misplaced here. If it 18 genuine, it should come after yerse 47, where the horse of Indra is referred to. The poet says that the horse of Indra was carried off, but his elephant was spared, the reason being. that Taraka had a host of elephants superior to Airavata but he had no horse that could match with Uccainsravas. Verses 48 and 49 refer to the remedial measures taken by the gods. against Taraka. Verse 49 refers to the disc of Hari, than which there was nothing more powerful. After such a climax, there could be no going back and verse 51 follows properly verse 49, with a formal demand for the creation of a General. Verse 50 has thus clearly missed its place.

Stanza 51—विस-all-powerful, सेनां नयतीति सेनानीः तम्. A. good general is quite essential to secure victory. Now that Indra and Hari have failed to make any impression on Taraka, it is necessary that somebody should be created to lead the gods, as none amongest the existing gods is fit for that task. वें सन्दुमिच्छामः means not that the gods wish to create a leader (this they cannot do, as creation rests with Brahmadeva) but 'we wish a general to be created by you.' The ing gods correspond to मुमुक्षव:, Taraka to भव or संसार, the general Bra to be created to धर्म. In order to secure Moksa, Jnana quant the Highest is necessary (ज्ञानान्मोक्षः). Karman—even the mor ext exalted one-only ties a person to this Samsara by subject and ing him to births and rebirths. One might secure Svarg by suitable Karman, but Svarga is not the bighest liber tion. When one's merit is exhausted one has to come bad from Svarga to the mortal world (ते तं भुक्तवा स्वर्गलोकं विशालं क्षी पुण्ये मत्यें छैं। के विश्वनित । Gitā IX. 21). One must, therefore, try secure such merit as would sever the bondage of Karman This can be done by doing Karman without a desire for in fruit, simply as duty and dedicating it to God, and by securing Jbana (यथैघांसि समिद्धोऽप्तिर्भस्मसाःकुरुतेऽर्जुन । ज्ञानाग्निः सर्वकर्माणि भस्मसात् क्रो तथा ॥ ibid IV. 37, कर्मजं बुद्धियुक्ता हि फलं त्यक्तवा मनीिषणः । जन्मवन्धविनिर्मुक्त पदं गच्छन्त्यनामयम् ॥ ibid II. 51).

list

tot

WO

rel

hit

bu dru

इति

dir

Bra

gra

to eve

and

WO

Th

nat

qui

विय

do

hel

her

अव्य cas

tre चायु

Da

Stanza 52—Brhaspati means to say that the forces of the gods are quite eager to fight with Taraka; they have been cowed down only for the time being; some leader is wanted who would inspire confidence in them. With the help of such a leader who could be trusted to guard the forces, Indra would easily vanquish Taraka. The goddess of victory who had been with the gods so long, has been now carried off by Taraka, as one would carry off a woman as a captive. She as also other female captives would be soon recovered if Brahmadeva could create a worthy leader for them. It is very common with Sanskrit poets to describe जयश्री as a woman who is carried off by force. Cf. ज्याघातरेखे समुजो सजाभ्यां विभर्ति यश्चापमृतां पुरोगः। रिपुश्रियां साञ्जनबाष्पसेके बन्दीकृतानामिव पद्धती द्वे ॥ Raghu VI. 55. गोत्रिभिर 15 an epithet of Indra. It is usually explained as गोत्रान् गिरीन् भिनीत इति, referring to the mythological story of Indra's having clipped the wings of mountains. Or गोत्र might mean 'a cowpen referring to the clouds that have waters confined in them and गोत्रसिद् might refer to the well-known description of Indra's striking down the clouds (रूत्र) and letting forth rain. reading सुरिश्रयम् for जयश्रियम् is also a good one.

Stanza 53—Mallinātha reads तस्मिन् for तस्य. वदासे अवसिते 100 abs. construction. आत्ममू: is Brahmadeva. A shower of rain followu.' The ingthunder, especially in the hot season, is a very welcome event. general Brahmadeva's words also, which promised safety to the gods māna of and showed them the way out of the difficulty, were naturally the more extremely welcome to them. गर्जित corresponds to the solemn subject and serious speech of Brhaspati. जिगाय lit. conquered, hence Svarg surpassed.

libera

e bad

गालं क्षी

try to

arman

for in curing

पात् कर

वेनिर्मुका

of the been anted

such

Indra o had

raka,

other

ould with arri-

त्यः।

is is भनीत

:lip-

en'

and ra's

The

loc.

W-

Stanza 54—The gods must have been exceedingly anxious to listen to what Brahmadeva wanted to say in reply. He, in order that their suspense need not last longer, first tells them that their desire would be fulfilled. This must have given great relief to the gods who naturally further wanted to know whether they would have immediate relief or not. Brahmadeva says that the relief would take some time to come and further adds that he himself would not be able to directly create a leader for them, but would show the way how it could be done. The Trivandrum edition reads-आत्मन: on which Arunagiri remarks आत्मन रित कमिण षष्ठी। अंशेनात्मानं न सदयामीत्यर्थः।

Stanza 55—Brahmadeva explains why he could not take a direct part in the creation of a general for the Gods. It was Brahmadeva himself who had raised Taraka to power, by granting him the boon. Brahmadeva was thus a sort of father to Taraka, and who would be guilty of killing one's own brood, even if it was vicious? If a poisonous tree is reared by you and you know that to uproot it would be a wise act, still you would not like to do the work of uprooting it yourself. This tendency might be a foolish one, no doubt, but it is a natural one. It is obvious that Brahmadeva's logic is not quite a sound one, The emphasis however is to be put on न्यम्. Brahmadeva has no objection if some one else were to do the disagreeable task, and in fact, he is prepared to give help to the best of his abilities, but only indirectly. इत: from hence, that is, from me. असांप्रतम् = अयुक्तम्, it is used as an अव्यय. It is not necessary to have विषयक्ष in the accusative Case as असांप्रतम् itself denotes the relation of कर्म. विषवृक्ष is a tree, the mere touch of which brings death, यस्य स्परानमात्रेण रायुसंस्पर्शनेव वा। म्रियन्ते जन्तवः सर्वे विषवृक्षः स कीर्तितः॥ (Nārāyaṇa). Daksinavarta reads संवध्यः on which Arunagiri remarks, तत्तु न

H

रि

श्री

郁

da

उप

त

st

T

st

तः

म्

th

gr

च्छे

वग

संव

त्द

aı

th

शं Br

ve

sq

Bu

us fo

bi su

lo

म्थ

चतुरश्रं निर्हेतुकत्वदोषात्। This verse is quoted in the Kāvyālamkāras sūtravrīti, with the remark निपातेनापि अभिहिते कर्मणि न विभक्तिः।, in the Vrītivārtika, as an illustration of अभिधा, and as an illustration of अपदेश, in Kāvyapradīpa, Kāvyānuśāsana, Sarasvatīkanīhā bharana and Ekāvalī,

Stanza 56-Brahmadeva answers an objection likely to be raised that he ought not to have given so much power to Taraka. He ought not to have raised a spirit which he possibly could not lay low. His defence is that he had no alternative in the matter. Taraka had practised such an unheard-of penance that it had threatened to consume the whole world (ततः स्वदेहादुत्कृत्य कर्षे कर्षे दिने दिने । मांसस्यामी जुहावासे ततो निर्मोसतां गतः ॥ तस्मित्रिमोसतां याते तपोराशित्वमागते । जज्वलुः सर्वभूतानि तेजस तस्य सर्वतः ॥ उद्विमाश्च सुराः सर्वे तपसा तस्य भीषिताः ॥ Matsya 148. 12-15) What was he to do then? He had to grant him a boon whatever it might be if the world was to be spared. And Taraka would ask no other boon but that he should be अवध्य by all Even that boon he would have been forced to grant, but he succeeded in persuading Taraka that such a impossible to grant (न युज्यते विना मृत्युं देहिनो दैत्यसत्तमः। यतस्ततोऽपि वस मृत्यं यस्मात्र शङ्कसे ॥ ibid 148. 22) and ultimately Taraka agreed to be अवध्य by all except by a child seven days old. It was a question of choosing the lesser evil and he therefore could not be blamed for what has been done. प्रतिश्रुतम् promised. श्रु with प्रति governs the dative, Mallinatha reads वरेण शामितम् . अलम् = पर्याप्त sufficiently powerful. Nārāyana remarks उपद्रवसहनमेव हि भरमीभावाः वरीय:। 'त्यजेदेकं कुलस्यार्थें ' इत्यादिन्यायात् । अतो लोकानुप्रहार्थमेव मया तहुकता वर्ष सर्वे तस्मै दत्ता इति भावः।

Stanza 57—संयुगे (in battle) साधुम् सांयुगीनम् warlike, brava Aruṇagiri reads संमुखीनम् standing face to face, Mallinātha reads उचन्तं for उद्गदम् and Aruṇagiri निषिक्तान्त for निषिक्तस्य. On अंशात् Nārā- yaṇa remarks रेतसः स्त्रीयोनी निषिक्तोंऽशः पुत्र एवेति निषेकसामर्थ्यादंशशब्देनात्र पुत्रोऽभिधीयते. Brahmadeva means to say that none else but Siva's son would be able to destroy Tāraka, नीललाहित is an epithet of Siva, नीलश्वासी लोहितश्च कण्ठे जटास च। one who is datk at the throat and red at the matted hair, or नीलं येन ममाई तु रसार्क सोहितं तिषा। नीललोहित इत्येवं ततोऽहं परिकीर्तितः॥ (स्क्रान्दे) इति वा इस्विस् सुकुटः। Siva's throat is dark owing to the effects of the Hālāhala poison, sprung from the ocean, which he drank, when none else was willing to do so. Hence he is called शितिकण्ठ (शितिः कालः कण्ठोऽस्य), नीलकण्ठ, or श्रीकण्ठ (धृतं काले विषं घोरं ततः श्रीकण्ठतामगात । इति नीलकण्ठस्तवः इति मुकुटः). अपिबत्तद्विषं स्द्रः कालानलसमप्रभम् । कण्ठे स्थापितवान्देवो लोकानां हितकाम्यया ॥ यस्मात्तु नीलता कण्ठे नीलकण्ठस्ततः स्मृतः । (Adiparvan 18, 22-26). The Sāntiparvan attributes the darkness of the throat to its being seized by Nārāyaṇa, अथ स्द्र उपाधावत्तावृषी तपसान्वितौ । तत एनं समुद्रभूतं कण्ठे जन्नाह पाणिना । नारायणः स विश्वासमा तनास्य शितिकण्ठता । (352, 47-48). Another account gives the stroke of Indra's thunderbolt as the cause of the darkness of the throat.

Stanza 58—परिच्छिन्ना प्रभावस्य ऋद्धिः (prosperity, excess) यस्य सः. The Highest is often spoken of as the Light beyond all light, standing beyond all darkness (ignorance). Cf. ज्योतिषामि तज्योतिः तमसः परमुच्यते । तिरात्त XIII. 17, तद्देवा ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरायुर्होपासतेऽ मृतम् । Brhadāranyaka. The second line speaks of Siva as being the Highest god, superior to Brahmadeva and Viṣṇu. His greatness is infinite and so cannot be gauged. Cf. प्रत्यक्षोऽप्यपरिच्छेरो महादिमहिमा तव । Raghu X. 28. Nārāyaṇa remarks हरतेजसामन्तमन्त्रगन्तु हंसमारह्म प्रजापतिरूथ्ये गतः । विष्णुस्तु भूदाररूपमादायाधोभागं गतः । बहुादिव्यसंवसरं गत्वराभ्यासुभाभ्यामपि न तदन्तोऽवगत इति पुराणप्रसिद्धा कथानेन वाक्येनोकता । तदुक्तं नोध्ये गम्यः सर्सिजभुवो नाप्यधः शार्क्षपाणेः इति ।

Stanza 59—ते यूयम्. you, who are so much desirous of finding aremedy. अयस्कान्त the magnet, from अयः (iron) and कान्त (favourite) the सकार coming in according to the sutra 'कस्कादिषु च ' इति सकारः। शंसंखं भवति इति शंभु: he who produces happiness, an epithet of Siva. Brahmadeva means to say that the task of the gods would be very difficult; as Siva has been engaged in practising a rigorous penance, he would not be easily induced to think of marriage. But there is nothing like trying, and Umā would prove of great use to them in the matter. As iron has a natural attraction for the magnet, so Umā who was Siva's own wife in the past birth, has a natural attraction for him, and would perhaps succeed in attracting Siva's mind. The expression लोहबत् creates some difficulty. and is used in the sense of the genitive or locative, or the instrumental when some similar किया is intended ('तत्र तस्येव' 'तेन तुल्यं किया चेद्वतिः)'. Thus मधुरावत पाटलिपुत्रे प्राकारः means मधुरायामिव..., ब्राह्मणवत् अधीते means ब्राह्मणेन तुल्यमधीते. We cannot take inkūra.

Ti: 1, io

llustra.

kanthā.

y to be wer to ich he

nad no

e the जुहावासे

ने तेजसा

2-15)

whatāraka

y all

ut he पि वस

ed to

was a

with =पर्याप्त

ी भावार

ा वराः

rave.

reads

Vārā.

ल्टेनात्र

iva's

et of

roat

साक्त

इर्याद

the

Was

the ring

सुरव

येषा

sigi

Bra

hea pla

adv

ते-t

cou

कृत्दा

per:

taki

यस्य'

Indi

grea

that

the (ve

कान्तर

Mac

epit

take

the के हुन्य

Indi

be s arro

अलते

nam

Mad

banc

लोहनत् to mean लोहस्य or लोहे इव or लोहेन तुल्यम् (as no क्रिया is stated). The sense required is लोहम् इव, which the two sutras quoted above fail to substantiate. To obviate this difficulty to a certain extent we have construed लोहनत् with सनः, and अयस्कान्ते with उमारूपेण (meaning 'in the form of Umā,' and not 'by the beauty of Umā') instead of taking अयस्कान्तेन लोहनत् as a separate comparison. Nārāyaṇa tries to justify the use of नत् thus, 'ते तुल्यं क्रिया चेद्वतिः' इति तृतीयान्ताद् विहितः प्रत्ययः सर्विवभक्त्यर्थानन्तर्भावयतीति कैयर-पदमज्ञयोंः प्रतिपादितम् । अत एव सर्विवभक्तीनां क्रमेणोदाहर्णे 'ब्राह्मणेन तुल्यं, ब्राह्मणिन भवन्तं पश्यिम 'इति द्वितीयार्थों वितिर्दांहतः ।

Stanza 60—Brahmadeva says that no other woman but Umā is fit to become the wife of Śiva (योषित्सु तद्वीर्येनिषेकमूमिः सैव क्षमेत्यात्मभ्रवोपदिष्टम् । III. 16). As waters alone can bear the seed of Brahmadeva (see यदमोघमपामन्तरुतं वीजमज त्वया। verse 5 above; waters again are one of the eight forms of Śiva who is अष्टम्तिः), so Umā alone can bear the seed of Śiva. The reference to the waters is brought in to serve the purpose of an Upamā,

Stanza 61—आत्मा self, here used in the sense of 'a son'. A son is said to be the father himself reborn. Cf. अङ्गादङ्गात् संभविस हृदयाद्धिजायसे । आत्मा वै पुत्र नामासि स जीव शरदः शतम् ; ॥ also आत्म वै पुत्र उत्पन्न इति वेदानुशासनम् । (Skandapurāṇa, quoted by Nārāyaṇa) शितिकण्ठ-see note on नीललोहित in verse 57 above. The expression is significant. Siva saved the universe from a great disaster by drinking the Halahala poison; his son also who is Siva himself transformed, would, by following the foot-steps of his father, save the universe a second time by destroying Taraka. Arunagiri remarks शितिकण्ठस्येत्यनेन कालकूटनिगरणं द्योतयता स देवोऽस्मार्क परमापत्स शरणिमति द्योतयति । When Taraka is destroyed the captive damsels would be set at liberty and would be able to be united with their husbands. The ladies, so long as they were separated from their husbands had not cared about their toilet and had been wearing a single braid of hair, which is the characteristic mark of a विरहिणी. Cf. वसने परिधूसरे वसाना नियमक्षामतनुर्धृतैकवेणिः। अतिनिष्करणस्य श्रद्धशीला सम दीर्घ विरहन्नतं वहन्ती ॥ Kak VII परिपाण्डदुर्बल कपोलसुन्दरं दथती विलोलकबरीकमाननम्। करुणस्य मूर्तिरथवा शरीरिणी विरह^{न्यथेव} वनमेति जानकी ॥ Uttara III. 5. The वेणी therefore means एकवेणिः, as contrasted with the त्रिवेणी or पश्चवेणी ornamental adjustments of the hair in which the ladies indulge when they are happy with their husbands. Ladies in separation are also described as keeping their hair all loose, which are tied and adjusted when the separation comes to an end. Cf. for the idea in the verse मोक्ष्य के सर्वन्दीनों वेणीवन्धानद्षितान्। शापयन्त्रितपौलस्त्यवलात्कारकचप्रहैं: ॥ Raghu X. 47.

Stanza 62—विश्वस्य योनिः (source) तम्. विद्युध-a god, विशिष्टः दुधः येपाम्। त्रिकालक्षजीविश्विष्यत्वात्। विशेषेण वुष्यन्ते वा। The expression is significant. The gods were wise enough to bear in mind what Brahmadeva had told them. In fact, as they went back to heaven, they were all brooding over the same and evolving plans as to how best they should carry into effect Brahmadeva's advice. The Trivandrum edition reads प्रतिययुद्धितम् for देवाः दिवं ययुः। ते-those, that had come in deputation.

Stanza 63—तत्र in heaven. निश्चित्य having decided as to the course of action to be followed, or it may be construed as कृद्पे कार्यसंसिद्धौ निश्चित्य having fixed upon Madana as the fittest person to accomplish the desired object. मनसा अगमत् remembered. The reading कार्यसंसिद्धिःवरा...dispenses with the दूरान्वय involved in taking कार्यसंसिद्धौ with त्वरा in another compound. त्वरया द्विग्रणं रंह मस्ति. The mind is already known as the swiftest object, but Indra's mind flew swifter still. Narayana remarks that this great baste of Indra, in spite of the warning of Brahmadeva that the gods should wait for a time, foreshadows disaster in the course taken (त्वराद्विगुणरंहसा अनेन विशेषणेन 'कश्चित्कालः प्रतीक्ष्यताम् ' (verse 54) इति ब्रह्मणा निर्दिष्टस्य कालप्रतीक्षणरूपस्यांशस्य कार्यसिद्धित्वरयाति-भन्तलात् कामदहनरूपो भविष्यन्ननथीं Sपि सुचितः।). कन्द्पे—an epithet of Madana. कुत्सितः दर्पः अस्य, यद्वा कं सुखम् तत्र तेन वा दप्यति । पाकशासन—an epithet of Indra. पाकस्य दैत्यभेदस्य शासनः (शासयतीति) or पाक might be taken to mean 'ignorant' (ৰান্তাৰ) or even 'wise'. Indra guides the ignorant. Paka was the brother of Bali, पाकं जधान तीक्षाप्रेमींगी ^{केंह्}कवाससैः। तत्र नाम विभ्रुलेंमे शासनःवाच्छेर्रहेढैः। पाकशासनतां शकः सर्वामरपतिर्विभुः॥ Stanza 64—अथ immediately after he was remembered by Indra. Madana could easily see that he was called by Indra to be sent on some mission, so he brought with him his bow and arrows and his inseparable companion, the Spring. लिलतायाः योपितः श्लेत इव चारुणी शुङ्के यस्य तत्. रतेः वलयपदम् एव अङ्के यस्य तत्. Rati is the name of Madana's wife. There were marks of bracelets on Madana's neck owing to Rati's fast embrace by placing her hands round his neck (कण्डालेषे चिरं कण्डावसक्तत्वाद वलयप्रतिविम्वलाञ्छित-tated). I uoted to a 天和诗诗

y the parate s, 'तेन ते कैयर-

ह्मणिमव

h but मेः सैव eed of

ove; (तै:), o the दङ्गात् आत्मा ana) ssion aster Śiva f his

aka. 在印章 tive ited ated

had stic जि:।

वधेव as of ith

मित्यर्थ: । Nārāyaṇa). सहचरस्य मधोः हस्ते निक्षिप्तः चूताङ्करः एव अस्त्रं येन कः तथा. मधु: Spring, while मधु neuter means 'honey'. शतमख or शतका lit, one who has a hundred sacrifices to his credit, is an epithet of Indra. शतकतु occurs in the Rgveda, but in the sense of 'one possessed of infinite powers' (新页 meaning 'power,' same word as Lat. Kratos). When later on and came to mean 'a sacrifice' the Puranas took advantage of the word to build mythology upon it, with the result that it was believed that one who would perform a hundred sacrifices, was entitled to become the king of the gods. Hence the description in the Puranas of Indra's various attempts to put impediments in the way of those who would perform sacrifices. Cf. अतिष्ठदेकोनशतकतुले शक भ्यस्याविनिमृत्तये यः । Raghu VI. 74. पुष्पं धनुः यस्य सः पुष्पधन्त्रा, an epithet of Madana, who has his bow as well as arrows made of flowers. Cf. with this description of Madana, मुखरमधुपमालाचारमौर्वीसनाथं त्रिस वनजययोग्यं चापमंसे द्धानः । मुखमुदितविलासं वीक्षमाणः प्रियायाः सहस्रधुरिह मन्दं मद् मायाति कामः ॥. Pārvatīpariņaya II. 8. This verse is quoted in the Alamkārasekhara as an instance of विपर्थयोपमा, and with the remark भ्रवो:वल्या वर्णनम्, in the Suvrttatilaka and Alamkaracudaman with the remark उपकान्तवृत्तव्युदासेन सगीदीनां वृत्तान्तरेरुपसंहारः कर्तव्यः। This verse is in मालिनी metre, the remaining verses in the Canto being in अन्दर्भ.

dec

WO

11-goo

SOI

up

col

be

his

wi

the

Vą

801

th

his di

ex No co district of 46 52 bl ta hi

di

iu

CANTO III

येन सः

शतकन्

Pithet

of 'one word

rifice' rology

e who ecome

nas of ray of ने शका

pithet

owers.

ाथं त्रिमु

न्दं मन्दः

in the

th the

amani,

कर्तव्यः।

Canto

[1-10 Madana appears before Indra who courteously receives him. He asks Indra the reason of his being called an d declares that he would succeed in any mission on which he would be sent. He would disturb even Siva in his penance. 11-21 Indra replies that it is a very important work that the gods expect Madana to accomplish. The gods want to have a son born of Siva and Uma who has been just then in attendance upon Siva, as directed by her father Himālaya. course would take with him his companion Madhu. It would be a feat well worthy to be accomplished, to conquer Siva by his missiles. 22-23 Madana accepts the mission, shakes hands with Indra and accompanied by Vasanta and Rati, repairs to the hermitage of Siva on the Himālaya. 24-39 All of a sudden Vasanta makes himself manifest in his full glory; the fragrant touthern breezes begin to blow, the Asoka puts on blossoms, the deer become intoxicated with love, the nightingale begins his sweet song, etc. The sages practising penance find it difficult to control themselves; every one shows signs of being excited by love. 40-42 Siva continues to practise his meditation. Nandin warns his followers to behave themselves and at his command, the whole penance-grove becomes silent and undisturbed. 43-45 Madana enters the forest, avoiding the gaze of Nandin and sees Siva occupying the Virasana posture. 46-51 Description of Siva. Madana feels nervous at his sight, 52-63 Description of Uma who offers flowers to Siva who blesses her that she would obtain a husband who would not take to another. 64-70 Madana seizes this opportunity to aim his sammohana arrow at Siva who, finding his mind somewhat disturbed, looks about him to find out the cause and beholds Madana about to shoot an arrow at him. 71-74 The fire in the third eye of Siva burns Madana to ashes, and Siva suddenly disappears with his followers. 75-76 Parvatī, greatly disappointed, is carried back home by her father.]

Stanza 1—Madana was a mere servant of Indra who, on ordinary occasions, would maintain his dignity as a master, by just giving him a passing glance and nothing more. But now,

0

e

e

N

I

п

S

a

n

0

t

li

d

P

Madana has risen enormously in his estimation, as on him solely depended the success of the mission. Indra, therefore flung his dignity as a master to the winds for the time being, and received him most cordially and even obsequiously, He looked at him with all his thousand eyes, ignoring the other gods, nay, offered him even a seat (see verse 2). while on other occasions, he must have made him stand by his side, Such a conduct in the case of a master towards a servant is not at all unnatural. Masters when they have something important on their sleeves, are known to relax their usual stiff attitude towards their servants, मघवन् an epithet of Indra महाते, पूज्यते इति, this is how the word is usually derived. In the Rgveda, मध्वन is a characteristic epithet of Indra, and means 'the gift-giver.' मघ—gifts, or wealth. त्रिदशाः—gods, त्रतीय यौवनाख्या दशा येषाम् (the gods are said to be always young) त्रिदेश वा (who are thirty in number) or जन्मसत्ताविनाशाख्यारितस्रो दशा वेषामिति वा। (this however would refer to all creatures in general and not to the gods only). The number of the gods given in the Rgveda often varies. Sometimes they are said to be thirty, at other times, thirty three. The Satapotha Brahmana gives the number to be thirty-three (अष्टी वसव एकादशस्त्रा द्वादशादित्यास्त एक-त्रिंशादिन्दश्चेन प्रजापतिश्व) consisting of eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, twelve Adityas, Indra and Prajapati. The Puranas were not satisfied with such a small number of gods, and some give their number to be thirty-three crores instead of thirty! We take गौरव to mean 'stiffness', 'dignified behaviour' and with this interpretation the reading आश्रितेडपि of the Trivandrum edition, which gives us the अपि, would be better. गौरव might be taken to mean 'courtesy' or 'respect'; then the meaning would be 'the courtesy shown by the master to the servant varies according to the importance of the work which he wants to accomplish, and not according to the merits of the servant.

Stanza 2—Indra offered a seat just near his throne to Madana who naturally felt greatly flattered by this unusual courtesy shown to him by his master. Accomplished courtier as he was, he acknowledged the favour with a suitable bow and without wasting any further time, immediately began to address Indra. आसनसानिकृष्टम् = संनिकृष्टासनम् । आहिताम्न्यादिषु पाठात् साधुत्म or it would be a शेषषष्ट्या समासः विस्तृष्ट (निस्तृ would be a better expression) pointed out. मिथ: in private, so that others might not hear their conversation. प्राक्रमत—The Atmanepada is according to the sutra 'प्रोपाभ्यां समर्थीभ्याम्.'

n him

refore,

iously,

g the while side, int is

thing

usual Indra

1 the

neans

तृतीय

त्रिर्देश वे दशा

neral

n in irty.

the एक-

Iras.

not give

We

with rum be

ning

rant

he

the

to ual

ier

OW

to त्वम

Stanza 3—पुंसां ज्ञातिविशेष is a सापेक्ष समास, the expression being equal to ज्ञातपुंचिशेष. विशेष a characteristic or distinctive merit. Mallinātha explains it as सार. The expression is meant to flatter Indra. Madana means to say that he has a very good master in Indra who knows how to make use of his servants best, by asking each to do work which he can accomplish best. लोकेषु in all the worlds. Madana would not grudge to do the appointed work anywhere as he has sway over all the worlds. Madana says that he was greatly flattered to find that his master remembered him. He would, however, like to see that he would be given an opportunity to show his devotion to his master by carrying out his orders faithfully. To serve Indra would be a still greater favour.

Stanza 4—पद—post, here Indrahood. Madana's thought naturally was that Indra must have become nervous owing to some one aspiring to become Indra by an extremely rigorous penance, as there had been many such occasions before. The danger had been averted every time, with his help by sending beautiful Apsarases to entice the person in question. Cf. for the uneasiness of Indra at the extraordinary penance of others, या तपीविशेषपरिशक्कितस्य सुकुमारं प्रहरणं महेन्द्रस्य। Vikrama I, पुरा स दर्भाङ्करमात्र इतिश्चरन्मृगै; सार्धमृषिर्मघोना । समाधिर्भातेन किलोप-नितः पञ्चाप्सरोयौवनकूटवन्धम् ॥ Raghu XIII. 39, also...नालं विकर्तुं जनितेन्द्रशङ्क इराङ्गनाविश्रमचोष्टितानि ॥ ibid XIII. 42, Madana assures Indra that if he were afraid of some one practising penance, with a view to oust him from his post, there was no cause for uneasiness at all. He has his bow quite ready with an arrow fixed upon it. There would not be even a moment's delay in bringing the miscreant in question down to his knees. निदेशे वर्तते इति, obeying the commands of, that is, completely under the influence of my bow. भवति—the present tense is used to show that the action would take place immediately. Mallinatha remarks वर्तमानसामीच्ये वर्तमानवद्वा 'इति लदः. As we have यावत्, it would be better to explain the लद्द as 'यावत्पुरानिपातयोर्लद' इति भविष्यदर्थे लद The present tense used with पुरा and यावत gives the sense of the future.

hi

pe

W

his

DI

OV

jus

the

wh

उशन

भा pul

oth

Ind

rece

иро

of h

her

sedu

one

तेन वि

107.9 निक्

of a the

to sa Vield

This

thou

nce

be

Mada

the la

Der 7

Stanza 5-Madana means to say that if there be some one whom Indra does not want to secure Moksa, as his active services would be required in the interests of the universe, it would not at all be a difficult task to bring him round. मुन्तिमार्ग or ज्ञानमार्ग requires absolute renunciation of activity with reference to Samsara. Karman ties a man down to the worldly life, necessitating births and rebirths. But if every one were to shun this Samsara, the world would not go on, and as the lord of the world, it is obviously the duty of Indra to see that no one whose services are absolutely essential for the upkeep of the world, shirks his responsibility with a view to secure Moska which is after all his private interest, which must be subordinated to public good. If Indra therfore does not want such a person to retire from public service, Madana would be able to accomplish this object easily. आरंचिताभिः (नर्तिताभिः gracefully moving) भूभिः चतुरैः (charming, beautiful). Mallinatha takes आरेचित in a technical sense (आरेचितलक्षणं तु-स्याद्भुवोर्लिलता-क्षेपादेकस्या एव रेचितम् । तयोर्भूलसमुत्क्षेपं कौटित्याद्भूकुटिं विदुः ॥). कटाक्ष-a sideglance, कटौ अतिशायितौ अक्षिणी यत्र । कटं गण्डमक्षेति वा । The side-glances, like so many nails, would fix the person in question to Samsara. The Trivandrum edition reads विलासे: (graceful movements) for कराक्षे: The whole verse may be taken to be one sentence also, without understanding सः for the latter half.

Stanza 6— उरानम् or Śukrācārya was the son of Bhṛgu. He was extremely wise and an authority on Nītisastra. He afterwards became the preceptor of the demons (भृगो: पुत्र: किविद्वाञ्छकः किविद्वाते ग्रहः। ...योगाचार्यो महाबुद्धिदेंत्यानामभवद्धरः। सुराणां चापि मेधावी ब्रह्मचारी यतव्रतः॥ Adiparvan 67. 42-43). The Gītā also speaks of him as the best of the wise (...कवीनामुराना किवः X. 37). प्रयुक्तः रागः (विषयाभिषदः) एव प्राणिधः (messenger or spy) The Nītisastra lays down proper rules of conduct which, if followed, would lead to the temporal and spiritual advancement of a person. It does not deal with Kāma or Mokṣa, the remaining two factors of the four-fold Puruṣārtha. Madana means to say, if there were some one who was thoroughly grounded in the science of polity, having learnt that science from the great Śukrācārya

6

se of

e one

Ctive

se, it

रतमार्ग

With

rldly

e to

the

that keep cure

t be want

d be ताभिः

ātha

लेता-

ide-

ces,

āra.

its)

nce

He

ter-

कुक:

वारी

as ।गः

ays

ad

oes of

ere

of

V2

himself, and whom Indra wanted to vanquish, it would be quite an easy matter to deal with him. He need not go even personally against him. He can send his representative Raga. who would create in him, the desire for sensual pleasures and his down-fall would be brought about in no time. Artha and Dharma for which Indra's enemy was striving, would be overpowered and brought to naught by Kama preponderating, just as the current of a river in flood causes damage to both the banks. The Trivandrum edition reads पीडयानि for पीडयामि, which means the same thing. On उज्ञनसा, Narayana remarks कानस एव नीतिशास्त्रप्रावीण्यामिति प्रसिद्धं 'न कश्चित्रापनयते पुमानन्यत्र भागेवात् ' 'भार्गवेण समो नये ' इत्यादिष् । Stanza 7-Madana, who knew too well the unscrupulous conduct of his master with reference to the wives of others (e. g. Indra's relations with Ahalya) wants to know if Indra had been attracted by some lady who had refused to receive his advances. If that be the case, he would so work upon the lady that not only would she yield easily, but would of her own accord offer herself to Indra. एकः पतिः यस्याः सा, who has a single husband, that is, who is not faithless towards her husband, दु:खशीलाम्, of course, from the point of view of the leducer. लोलम् unsteady, चञ्चलम् . अतिशयेन नितम्वः यस्याः सा नितम्विनी lit. one who has large hips, a beautiful woman. स्वयमेव ग्राहः स्वयंग्राहः तेन विषक्तौ बाहू यस्याः ताम् प्राह is used here in the sense of प्रहण. The expression ought to have been really स्वयंत्रह (cf. स्वयंत्रहान्छेषसुखेन निक्यम् Sisupāla I. 50), as ब्राह is usually confined to the sense ^{0ि व जलचर.} Mallinātha explains स्वयं गृह्णातीति स्वयंत्राहा च निषक्तवाहुश्च the reading निषिक्त is not so good as विषक्त) ताम्. Madana means to say that even the most stubborn Pativrata would have to field through his power.

Stanza 8—कामिन्, one who is given to sensual pleasures. This explains the सुरतापराध. The Trivandrum edition reads सहसा thoughtlessly) अपराधात्. इडः अनुतापः (usually means 'repennce', here 'torment' as repentance cannot be spoken of belonging to the body) यस्य तत् . प्रवालैः शय्या एव शर्णं यस्य तत् . Madana means to say that he would very easily make he lady who had quarrelled with Indra to see the error of ways and to long for union with him. He would so work out the sentiment of love-passion in her that she would have to make use of all cooling appliances, such as sandal paste, a bed of sprouts, to allay her torment, and in the end she would be forced to seek union with Indra. This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka, with the remark लोकप्रसिद्धनिको लोकः प्रमाणम् ।

fe li fo

0 tr

as

fo

m

कर

सः ad

its

ma

etc

of एव

MO

wit

उपप

Wha

DDa

com

othe

dabl

the

SD O

Vajr

limi

coul

Stanza 9-Rig be pleased, do not become uneasy, Indra would have no occasion to use his famous thunder-bolt, for howsoever mighty the enemy might be, Madana would easily vanquish him and render him even ridiculous by making him quail before women who are proverbially weak (बीम्बोडी बिभेल्विति, किमतः परं क्रीवत्वं संपादयामीति भावः। Arunagiri). The enemy again would be afraid, not of being struck at or spoken to harshly (which may to a certain extent be excusable), but of mere throbbing of the lower lip. To such an abject state would the enemy be reduced.

Stanza 10-पिनाक: (पाति इति) पाणौ यस्य. पिनाक is the name of · Siva's bow. Great warriors have special names given to their bows. Thus Gandīva is the name of Arjuna's bow, Sarnga, that of Visnu's. Madana says that he is confident of securing victors over Siva, though the latter has the dreadful Pinaka bow while he would use only flowers as his weapons. Any other person he would vanquish single-handed, but to defeat Siva, he would require the co operation of his indispensable comrade, Vasanta Siva, he would recognise, as an opponent worthy of some consideration; other archers he would regard with supreme com tempt. Here the expression पिनाकपाणे: is not superfluous, though we have हरस्य (पिनाकपाणि: is an epithet of Siva), as the expression is used to show a contrast with कुसुमायुघ, and also to show the Siva is irresistible with his dreadful bow. तव प्रसादात - Madai would give the credit of his success to Indra, his master. सिध्यन्ति कर्मसु महत्त्वपि यन्नियोज्याः संभावनागुणमवेहि तमीश्वराणाम् ॥ sak V हर-हरतीति, the destroyer of all worlds, an epithet of Siva. के मा केडपीत्यर्थः, they are of no count. This verse is quoted in the bloom Sāhilya, Vyaklivineka and Va Sāhilya, Vyakliriveka and Kāvyānuśāsana to show अधिकपद्वा । सार्थकता ; in the Kanalana सार्थकता; in the Kuvalayānanda, Alamkārakaustubha Alamkārasūira, as an instance of the figure of speech alak that in Vittivartika, as a case of योगहाढि, and in the Alamkaratilal that

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

t she ich as

in the

Verse

सद्विषये

Indra

lt, for easily

g him

ब्रीभ्योऽरि

enemy

en to but of

would

ame of their

sa, that victory

u while rson be would asanta

ne con

e com

though

ression

w that

Madar

er. C

ik VI

रुपदताया

187 with the remark अत्र अहं कुसुमायुधः हरस्तु पिनाकपाणिः तथापि धैर्येच्युतिः किष्यामीति विशेषोक्तौ गुणः।

Stanza 11-Indra had squatted upon his seat with the feet on the region of the thighs and had been anxiously listening to the words of Kama. Such a posture is more or less formal and rigid. When Kama referred to his being able tooverpower Siva-the very task which Indra intended to entrust to him-Indra's anxiety was greatly relieved and he now assumes a more comfortable and informal posture, by stretching forth his feet on the foot-stool placed before the seat. पादम might mean 'a foot' (as, often only one fcot is placed on the कर्देश) or 'both the feet '. आकान्त्या संभावितं (honoured) पादपीठं येन सः; with the reading... पीठम् , the whole expression would be an adverbial clause going with अवतार्य. Placing the foot on it is itself the honour done to the footstool. विवृत laid bare or made manifest. The prowess was manifested in the words कुर्यो हरस्यापि etc. (in verse 10 above) uttered by Madana. आखण्डल-an epithet of Indra, आखण्डयति शबून् , अखण्डमैश्वर्य ज्ञानं वा लाति गृह्णाति इति अखण्डल सः एव आखण्डलः । अन्येषामपि दश्यते इति दीर्घः, पृषोदरादिसूत्रेण वा. The word most probably is the Sanskritised form of Alexander.

Stanza 12—उपपन्नं befitting, worthy or capable of; it is used with the locative. Cf. अथवापपत्रमेतद्विभयो नातिभिन्ने राजनि । S'āk II, जपन्ना हि दारेषु प्रभूता सर्वतामुखी ॥ ibid V. Indra means to say that whatever Madana has said is quite true, his power is quite unquestioned. In fact, there are only two missiles at his command which could never fail—one is the Vajra and the other, Madana himself, the latter being easily the more formidable of the two. For, the thunder bolt could be used against the evil-doers only and not against those who have become object of dread to Indra by their severe penance. Thus the Vaira has only a restricted scope. But Madana has no such imitation of powers. He is the monarch of all he surveys and could beat any body. कुलिश-Vajra, derived as कुली (कुलि: hand) के मार्भ वितान कालिनः पर्वतान् स्यति वा, कुल्सितमीषद्वा लिशति । सर्वतः गन्तुं शिलमस्य. कुण्डhose progress is checked, powerless.

Stanza 13—Indra means to say that he is fully aware of the great power possessed by Madana and it is for that reason that he is going to assign a very important task to him. Good

sh

T

n

al

m

(9

हा

pl

to

va

V/

हिर

th

का

प्ररो

Sa

Br आर

प्रभो

rep

10

चैव

the

Pro

मन्त्र

nāt

रीवां

fine

Poe

an a

the

it t

be 1 isp

for 1

masters, after carefully noting the capabilities of their servants, do appreciate their merits by employing them to do very important works. Vișnu who pervades the whole universe thought of making Sesa his own couch for resting upon, when he saw that Sesa had proved his fitness for that task, by successfully holding the earth on his hoods. सुनः धरः (धरतीति थरः) भूधरस्य भावः भूधरता ताम्. शेष also called Ananta is the chief of the Nāgas (अनन्तश्चास्मि नागानां Gītā X.) and a son of Kadru, He practised severe penance and was asked to select a boon by Brahmadeva. Sesa requested him that he (Sesa) should always have his mind engrossed in Dharma, Sama and Tapas, Brahmadeva was extremely pleased at this and assigned to him the task of holding the earth on his hoods in the interests of the people (see Adiparvan 36 —अघो भूमी वसत्येवं नागोऽनन्तः प्रतापनान्। धारयन् वसुधामेकः शासनद्ब्रह्मणो विभोः ॥). He is said to have a thousand hoods and Visnu rests on him in the milky ocean (भोगिभोगास-नासीनं दहश्यस्तं दिवौकसः । तत्फणामण्डलोदर्चिर्माणेयोतितवित्रहम् ॥ Raghu X, 7) । आत्मसमम्—shows the great respect in which Indra holds Madana िनियोक्षे-कर्त्रभिप्राये क्रियाफलं आत्मनेपदम्.

Stanza 14-Indra means to say that fortunately, the question whether the task to be allotted to Madana, would be accepted by him or not, does not arise; for Madana himself has alluded to the task as being within his power when he declared that he would defeat even Hara. For, it is just the very work viz. that of drawing away Siva from his penance and making him think of marrying Parvati, that the gods want to assign to him. युवाङ्क or युवध्वज, an epithet of Siva, one whose emblem the bull Nandin who is his vehicle. बागगतिम् आशंसता in talkini about your arrow reaching even Hara (in verse 10 above, हरस्यापि... धैर्यच्युतिं). आशंसता = कथयता. It does not mean प्रार्थयमानेन, हा in that sense, the root would take Atmanepada (आर्ग स्यादिच्छायां संततीति स्तृतौ भवेत्), the root is शंस् to tell or praise, with Mallinātha remarks अत्र 'आशंसता प्रार्थयमानेन' इति नाथव्याख्यानमनार ्रव्याख्यानम्। आङ्पूर्वयोः शास्तिशंसत्योरिच्छार्थत्वे आत्मनेपदनियमात्। याच्यार्थत्व अामाणिकत्वात्। 'कुर्यो हरस्यापि ' इत्यन्नानयोरभावादयोगाचोति। Arunagiri est bei plains आशंसता to mean इपद्ज्ञवता, taking आ in the sense of This is not happy, as the reference in verse 10 (क्यों हरस्य etc. is certainly not slight. प्रतिपन्नकल्पम् कल्प in the sense of 'almost ईषदसमाप्ती "इत्यादिना कल्पप्रत्ययः। यज्ञांशभुजः are the gods who get

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

very verse when

s, by ते धरः) f the

He

n by ways

apas,

him

ts of पवान ।

usand भोगास-

(7)

dana

the 1d be

If has

WOIK,

aking

ign to em is lkins

. कुया

नेन, 8

भाशंस ।

ith a

तसनार्थ

पंतिस्या Ti ex

most

get !

189

share in the sacrificial offerings. The expression is significant. The gods are known to be यज्ञांत्राभुज:, but they have been getting nothing now owing to Tāraka's depredations. They are उचिद्विष also. Arunagiri reads उचित्राम् which goes with ईप्सितम्, the most desired object. He also reads अथमत्र for एतदेव.

Stanza 15—उज्ञानित from वस् to desire, 'ग्रहिज्या ' इत्यादिना संप्रसा-रणम् एकस्य इषोः निपातेन साध्यः. The Trivandrum edition reads हायः (हर्तु शक्यः) for साध्यः. Though Siva is absorbed in contemplation of the Highest Brahman, still Madana would be able to conquer him with a single shot of the arrow. variously explained. It might mean (1) ब्रह्मा अङ्गभूः तनयः यस्य whose son is Brahmadeva (अहंकारस्ततो जातो ब्रह्मा श्रभवृतुर्भुखः। हिरप्यगर्भो भगवान्सर्वलोकपितामहः ॥ Śāntiparvan 357. 21, and Śiva is the अहंकारदैवत. The poet also refers to it in यसामनन्त्यात्मश्चवोऽपि कारणम्। V. 81). Aruṇagiri remarks अनेन पूर्वमाप देवः पुत्रवानिति प्रोचयाति । (2) ब्रह्मणः अङ्गभूः the son of Brahmadeva. The Santiparvan speaks of Siva as born of the fore-head Brahmadeva, अथ तत्रासतस्तस्य चतुर्वेकत्रस्य धीमतः। ललाटप्रभवः पुत्रः शिक् आगाग्रहच्छ्या । 360. 11, also कल्पादावात्मनस्तुल्यं स्रतं प्रध्यायतस्ततः । प्राहुरासीत् प्रमोरङ्के कुमारो नीललोहितः ॥ Viṣṇu Purāṇa I. 8, 2 (3) The source or repository of the Vedas (ब्रह्मन्) and the subsidiary lores or the Vedāngas (शिक्षा कल्पो व्याकरणं निरुक्तं छन्दसां चयः। ज्योतिषामयने के वेदाङ्गानि षडेव तु ॥ शिक्षा the science of pronunciation, कल्प the science of ritual or ceremonial, व्याकरण grammar, छन्दस् prosody, निरुक्त etymology, ज्योतिष astronomy. (4) ब्रह्मणां सद्योजातादि-मन्त्राणामङ्गानां हृदयादिमन्त्राणां भू: स्थानं ब्रह्माङ्गभू:। कृतमन्त्रन्यास इत्यर्थः। (Mallinatha) (5) the source of systems of philosophy, such as the विसिद्धान्त, that deal with the Highest. We think it is futile to find out some propriety for the expression in question. The poet seems to have used it, simply because he wanted to have an alliteration with ब्रह्मणि. ब्रह्मन् or the प्रसारमन् is the Highest of the Vedantic philosophies. The Advaita philosophers regard it to be without any attributes or विशेषs etc., and incapable of being described, which can be spoken of only as नेति नेति. It can be realised by knowledge and nothing else; ब्रह्मविद् ब्रह्मवे भवति. It is pure intelligence or bliss.

Stanza 16—Śiva has controlled his self and is in no mood for thinking of love. And there is only one suitable wife for him, viz. the holy daughter of the illustrious Himālaya. Madana's first task would be therefore to make Siva feel attraction for Pārvatī. It would be a very hard task indeed, but the union of Siva and Pārvatī and no other lady is absolutely essential, as has been declared by Brahmadeva himself (उमे एव समे बोहुं... II. 60). समा able, proper. तस्मे dative, as words meaning 'to like 'etc. govern the dative of the person who entertains that feeling. योषित्—a woman, योषित युध्यते बा. This verse is quoted in the Sarawatīkanthābharana, as a case of संबीत.

Notes on

190

Stanza 17-Indra says that fortunately for them, the stars are in their favour, as Madana would not be required to take the trouble of bringing Parvatī from afar, near to Siva. She has been actually in attendance upon him. So half of Madana's work has been already done. It now remains for him to create love between the two. This accuracy of the information about Parvati's waiting upon Siva could not be doubted, as it was brought to him by his zealous spies, the . Apsarases, whose word could be absolutely depended upon. Madana, therefore, could take the information as absolutely reliable and chalk out his plan of campaign in that light, आधित्यका the high region or table-land of the mountain, while उपत्यका means the adjoining region of the mountain. The termination त्यकन् is added to अधि and उप in the above senses. " उपाधिभ्यां त्यकन्नासन्नारूढयोः ' इति त्यकन् । उपत्यकाद्वेरासन्ना भूमिरुध्वेमधित्यका The expressions may, according to some, be not restricted to the mountain, but used with reference to other objects also. स्थाणु निष्ठतीति, who stands always, that is, who is eternal, an epithet of Siva. Cf. नृक्ष इव स्तब्धो दिवि तिष्ठत्येकः। Śvetāśvataropanisad also स्थाणुवित्रश्चलो यस्मात्तस्याणुरिति श्चतः ॥ अप्सरस्s are heavenly courtezans born of waters, and servants of Indra who generally uses them to entice those who are regarded as dangerous owing to their practising severe penance, अद्भयः सरन्ति इति. word is usually used in the plural though the singular is also met with (स्त्रियां बहुष्वप्सरसः स्यादेकत्वेऽप्यप्सरा अपि । इति शब्दाणैवः). Nirukta (V. 13) thus explains the word, अप्सरा अप्सारिण्यापि वा अप इति रूपनाम...तद्रा भवति रूपवती तद्नयात्तमिति वा तद्स्य दत्तामिति वा। Cf. अप िनर्मथनादेव रसात्तस्माद्वरित्रयः । उत्पेतुर्मनुजन्नेष्ठ तस्माद्यसरसोऽभवन् ॥ Ramayana

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

#: | W

Th

or spi

but

is v

obj but bim wh mig

used sens trait caus sens

the असम imm said obvi

Mail Hattel Saras the sa

which is the distribution of the distribution

en uni

bangs

Kumārasamhhava: Canto III

19L

म्। वर्गः that class or host. प्रणिधिः—प्रकर्षेण निर्धायते ज्ञेयसत्र, a spy, one who possesses information that is worth knowing.

aya.

feel deed.

ly is deva

e, as per-

ाते वा.

se of stars

take

She

f of s for

the

t be

the

DOD.

itely

ight.

hile

The

nses.

यका।

d to

also.

1, an isad

enly

ous

The

also

The

अप्स

अधि

ana.

Stanza 18—अर्थ: is the creation of a general for the gods. This अर्थ depends entirely upon another अर्थ, viz. the union of Siva and Parvati. But Madana's services are also required in order to accomplish the desired object of the gods. The sprouting of a seed depends upon a number of causes such as the proper digging of the earth, the supply of manure etc, but the most important or immediate cause of its production is water. Similarly, for the accomplishment of the desired object of the gods, other causes would certainly be wanted, but the most efficient or immediate cause would be Madana himself who would bring about the union of Siva and Parvati, which would lead to the rise of a leader for the gods. Or अर्थ might mean हरवशीकरणरूपः and अर्थान्तर is पार्वतीसंनिधानरूपः प्रत्यय is used here in the sense of हेतु or cause. The word is used in this sense in Raghu X. 3. अतिष्ठतप्रत्ययापेक्षसंततिः स चिरं नृपः प्राङ्मन्थादनभिन्यक्त-रलोपतिरिवार्णवः ॥ For the production of an object a number of causes are required, समवािय (intimate or material cause), असमवायि (non-intimate) and निमित्त (instrumental). Thus for the creation of a घट, मृत्तिका is the समवायि cause, मृत्तिकासंयोग is the असमवािय cause, and कुलाल, दण्ड etc. are निमित्त causes. That immediately after which the effect is produced is generally said to be the करण (साधकतमं कारणम्). The उत्तमप्रत्यय here is obviously used in the sense of करण. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyaprakāśa with the remark अत्र द्वै व्ये इति कटु (Mammata reads अपेक्षते प्रत्ययमङ्गळन्थे in the second line; 'प्रार्थने ऽति-भुरसाषणस्यैवौचित्येनास्यात्र दोषत्वम् इत्युद्दयोते स्पष्टम्), and also in the Surasvatikanthābharana, Alamkārasūtra and Kūvyapradīpa the same reason.

Stanza 19— कृतमस्यास्तीति कृती धन्यः. अन्येषां साधारणं न भवतीति which is peculiar to the person in question. Indra means to say that Madana is the most blessed person in the world, as he deed that he is asked to accomplish is such that it could so be done by any one else, and that the fate of the universe supon it. Madana has become thus a world-hero. Even unimportant characteristic action, provided it is peculiar to a person, is bound to make him famous, owing to his being indispensable in the world. In the case of Madana, the characteristic Th action is both अनन्यसाधारण and प्रसिद्ध, thus making him mor invaluable. नाम may also be taken in the sense of संभावना.

but

thi Ma

epi

wh

of t

वातो

Vy

poe

a fe

froi

sub

plac

प्राभृत

ख्यते

sens

take

exp

whi

be t garl

exp:

rec

in w

Nar

Stanza 20-Indra further expounds the extremely enviable position in which Madana stands. First, the gods who usually confer boons on others, have themselves appeared in the role of suitors before Madana. Secondly, the work that he is asked to do, is not the work for an individual, but one which concerns all the three worlds. By accomplishing it, he would oblige the whole universe. Thirdly, there is no destruction of any kind involved in the action to be taken. One may gar conscientiously object to any work, even if one is asked also to do it by the gods and for the sake of the world, if it of would lead to wanton destruction. But no such objections and need be raised in this case. Madana's vow would not lead to also any killing, No doubt, it would destroy Siva's penance to al resp certain extent, but it can not be called actual हिंसा. Thus the mea deed in question, looked at from every point of view, is unobjectionable and laudable in the extreme. Not every one is fortunate enough to secure such an opportunity. One would have given anything to stand in Madana's position. He is the most enviable person in the world. Mallinatha takes अहो ब in the sense of संबोधन. बत might be taken in the sense of बिला (वतामन्त्रणसंतोषखेदानुकोशाविस्मये हित विश्वः।), Aruṇagiri reads अ यथासि स्पृहणीयवीर्थ:, taking यथा in the sense of योग्यता ' Your prower is rightly to be envied.' On अतिहिंसं न, Nārāyaṇa remarks, सर्वेषान चापेन कियमाणं कर्म शरीरनाशकत्वेन हिंस्रमेव भवति तव तु तपोमात्रहिंसया नात्यन्ति मिति भावः । Cf...गान्धर्वमाधरस्य यतः प्रयोक्तुर्ने चारिहिंसा विजयश्च हस्ते । Rush V. 57. विष्टप-a world, विशानित अत्र जनाः, the word is written as कि also (पिस्यते पिष्यते वा अत्र).

Stanza 21-This is said with reference to Madana's speed that he would defeat Hara, with Madhu as his associate (vel 10 above). Indra means to say that it goes without saying that Vasanta would help Madana in whatever the latter would inte undertake. Vasanta and Madana were inseparable friends decl wherever one was found, the other was bound to be their Vasanta, therefore, was in no need of being expressly told the he should help Madana. He would do so of his own according teristic The wind does not require to be told that it should help the burning fire by fanning it. It does it quite naturally. All n most this, of course, is an indirect command to Vasanta to aid Madana whole-heartedly. मन्मथ-मथतीति मथः, मतो मथः मन्मथः an epithet of Madana. It is quite apt here as Madana is to go on nviable a mission of disturbing the mind of Siva. हतम् अरानम् अस्य, one who feeds upon the oblations offered in the sacrifice, an epithet he role of fire. Cf. for the idea in the latter half of the verse, स्वयमेव हि is asked बातोडिंभेः सारथ्यं प्रतिपद्यते । Raghu X. 40, This verse is quoted in the would Vyaktiviveka.

Stanza 22-At the time of departure, Indra offered the farland worn on his person, as a parting gift to Madana and ne may also patted him on the back or shook hands with him by way asked of encouragement. Madana gratefully received the garland l, if it ections and placed it on his head, thus giving it a place of honour. also started, receiving the commands of his master most nce to all respectfully. मूर्जा आज्ञाम् आदाय—this is an idiomatic expression hus the meaning 'receiving the command most humbly.' Sanskrit iew, is poets often describe this to be a physical process; for instance, ery one a feudatory prince is often said to place the despatch received. would from his master on his head by way of showing complete e is the submission to it. In Mālavikā, King Agnimitra is described asplacing the despatch from his father on his head (राजा सहसारेथाय प्राम्तकं सोपचारं परिगृह्य शिरसि कृत्वा परिजनायार्पयति ।). Cf. गुणानुरागेण शिरोभि-ह्यते नराधिपैमील्यमिवास्य शासनम्। Kirāta I. शेषा is used here in the sense of a garland from an idol or worn by an ascetic, which is taken as a gift (प्रसादानिजनिर्माल्यदाने शेषेति कीर्तिता। इति विश्वः). The expression रोषामिव आज्ञामादाय may mean 'receiving the command which was like a garland offered, ' in which case there would be the figure of speech उपमा and we are not certain whether a farland was actually offered by Indra as a present. If the expression is taken to have the Alamkará उन्नेक्षा, it would mean receiving the command, as one would receive the garland' in which case no actual garland can be supposed to have been given. There being nothing to determine whether the poet Intends to have an उपमा or उत्प्रक्षा here, the Alamkara must be declared to be उपमोत्प्रेक्षयोः संदेहसंकर. ऐरावतस्य आस्फालनेन (stroking for encouragement, गजाश्वानां युद्धारमभोदावुद्धर्षणार्थे यदाहननं तदिहास्फालनशन्देनो च्यते। Nārāyaņā) ककेशः तेन-Indra's hand by coming constantly into usually ch con-

25

ction of lead to सही व

of विस्स्य

ids at

rowes

सर्वेषामा

त्यन्तिहर

Ragh

as W speed

(ver

riends.

there

ld that accord

contact with the extremely tough skin of his favourite elephant Airāvata, had become rough. Cf...हरे:... सुरद्विपास्फालनकर्फशाङ्गुली। सुने... Raghu III 55, also ऐरावतास्फालनविश्वथं यः संघट्टयनङ्गद्दमङ्गदेन ibid VI. 73. The हस्तस्पर्श was meant to encourage Madana.

यस्य,

mea ed h

of g

acco

love

vers of o

of th

It w

will

to t soul

grea

as i whi

the

bre

oth

hus

left

nat

lov

OW

खार

यस्य

the (क

WC

by yie

ray

pr

(q

व्य

fa

-4 · g

Stanza 23-Madana was accompanied by Vasanta, as also by his wife Rati. Both of them, especially Rati, had a presentiment that all would not go well with Madana in his mission directed as it was against the Lord of the three worlds. This आशका or apprehension on their part was due to their great affection for Madana (Cf. अतिस्नेहः पापश्रङ्की । Śāk IV, also स्वगृहोयानगतेऽपि ास्त्रिम्धे पापं विशङ्क्यते स्तेहात् । किस् दृष्टबह्वपायप्रतिभयकान्तारमध्यस्थे ॥ Nāgānunda V. 1). Nārāyana's explanation that Rati was apprehensive, because she knew what was in store for her husband, on account of her being a perfectly chaste wife (अन्न पातेनतात्वात् परमेश-रप्रभावज्ञानं तेन च परमेश्वरतपोविद्यमाचरत्रयं मे भर्ता कथं भविष्यतीत्याशङ्का तथा चातुप्र-याणम्) seems to be rather far-fetched. Rati could have easily known that the mission undertaken by Madana was exceedingly dangerous, without making use of the powers she possessed as a Palivrata. She therefore wishes to be by the side of her husband (प्रमदाः पतिनत्मंगाः see IV. 33 below). आराङ्कासहितं यथा तथा साराङ्कम् It may be understood as going with both Madbava (Vasanta) and Rati, or with Rati alone. अङ्गस्य व्ययेन (destruction) प्रार्थिता कर्मणः सिद्धिः येन. Madana also was no less aware of the danger involved in his mission. But he had given his word to Indra and knew the extreme importance of the work assigned to him. He therefore was determined to do his best in the matter, cost what it might. Nārāyana dissolves the compound as अङ्ग व्ययार्थमेव प्रार्थिता कमीसिद्धिः येन and remarks that the expression shows the great infatuation of Kama, that he should have taken cudgels against Siva himself, an encounter with whom was bound to end in his utter discomfiture (...तस्य देवस्य समाधिभङ्गे प्रश्तस्य मदनस्य स्वशरीरनाशादन्यर्तिक वा फलं भविष्यति । तस्मादङ्गव्ययार्थभेवास्य तत्समाधिभङ्गाकाङ्गा अहो महानस्य मोहातिशय इति भावः।). This does not seem to be a happy interpretation. The expression however does suggest the subsequent destruction of the body of Madana.

Stanza 24—संयमः (restraint of the sense-organs) अस्ति एषा तेषाम्, तपसि यः समाधिः (चित्तैकात्रयं) तस्य. The Trivandrum edition reads तपःसमाधिप्रतिकृत्वज्ञतिः (तपःसमाधेः प्रतिकृता वृत्तिः यस्य). संकल्पः योविं

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

an epithet of Madana, as he is produced in the mind by means of thoughts. आत्मानम् ऋतुविशेषात्मकं स्वभावम्. Spring manifested himself at his best and assumed a form which was a matter of great pride to Madana, for it was so conducive to the accomplishment of his work. Spring is a great excitant of love. The reading आदाय means 'having taken up'. The verse suggests that Madhu could be hostile to the meditation of ordinary ascetics only.

Stanza 25-The poet now describes in detail, the effect of the sudden manifestation of Spring at his best, in that grove. It was really the time of the Daksinayana, but as Madhu willed that it should be the spring-time, the sun at once took to the northernly course, as a result of which, the fragrant southern breezes (from the Malaya mountain) which are a great excitant of love, began to blow. The breeze is said to be as it were the sigh heaved by a woman. The expression दक्षिणा which means 'southern' as also 'a courteous woman' suggests the case of a woman who has an unscrupulous lover who, breaking the appointment made with her, goes to enjoy some other lady who has excited his pity, as she has got a deformed husband wholly unworthy of her. The woman who is thus left in the lurch by her lover, being extremely courteous by nature, does not think of avenging herself upon her faithless lover, but is content with blaming her fate and sighing heavily owing to her heavy grief. Such a woman is technically called खण्डिता (ज्ञातेऽन्यांसङ्गविकृते खण्डितेष्यांकपायिता Dasarūpa II. 25). कुवेरः नाथः यस्याः सा दिक् (whose guardian is Kubera, that is, the North); the expression also suggests a woman who has a deformed (कृत्सितं वेरं शंरीरमस्य कुवेरः') husband. This circumstance explains Way the unscrupulous lover goes to her. He is either excited by pity at her condition or thinks it very easy to make her yield to his wishes. उम्मराझा: is the sun, lit. one who has bot rays; the suggested sense is an unscrupulous lover. proper season; an appointment or engagement. गन्यवह-wind (वहतीति वहः गन्धस्य वहः गन्धवहः); also carrying fragrance, going with नि:श्वास. The sighs are fragrant on account of the मुखाङ्गराग. व्यलिकं (anguish) तेन निःश्वासः or व्यलीक might mean अपराध, the faithless conduct of her lover. The reading क्वेरगुप्ताम् means guarded by Kubera'. Cf. जिगमिषुर्घनदाः युषितां दिशं रथयुजा, परिवार्तित-

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

ant उलै। ibid

also entiion This

Fec-

तेऽपि ında ive. on

मेश्व-नुप्रsily gly l as

her

तथा ava on) the

to d to ter, अङ्ग-

W8 sels to नस्य py

the

Qqi ion

ोविं

वाहनः। दिनमुखानि रविर्हिमानिप्रहैर्विमलयन्मलयं नगमत्यज्ञत् ॥ Raghu IX. 25. This verse is quoted in the Alamkārasūtra and Alamkāras. arvasva, as an instance of स्वरूपोत्प्रेक्षाः

tha

nai

संभव

thi

to vel

TOU

the

Ma

qu

संनि

लिख सद्यः

(N

one

tio

आध

pre ou

gol

in Ka

ing

un

tha

30

ma

कुसु

सित

यत De

of

Stanza 26-The Asoka trees put on blossoms and sprouts at once all over. Usually the sprouts are put on first and then flowers, but this order was dispensed with and both the flowers and sprouts made their appearance simultaneously, The whole of the tree was again filled with them from top to bottom, thus putting forth its best appearance. According to the convention of Sanskrit poets, the Asoka tree blossoms when kicked by a beautiful woman with her foot (The verse स्त्रीणां स्पर्शास्त्रियद्भविकसाति वकुलः सीधुगण्डूषसेकात् पादाघातादशोकस्तिलक-क्रावकौ वीक्षणालिङ्गनाभ्याम् । मन्दारो नर्भवाक्यात् परुमृदुहसनाचम्पको वक्त्रवाताचतो गीतान्त्रमेरुर्विकसति च पुरो नर्तनात्कर्णिकारः ॥ gives the names of various trees, together with the causes which make them blossom; Mallinatha also quotes-सन् पुररवेण स्त्रीचरणेनाभिताडनम् । दोहदं यदशोकस्य ततः पुष्पोद्रमो भवेत् ॥ and पादाहतः प्रमद्या विकसत्यशोकः शोकं जहाति बकुलो मधुसीधुसिक्तः। आलोकितः कुरबकः कुरुते विकाशमालोडितस्तिलक उत्कलिको विमाति॥) References to the Asoka being kicked by beautiful women with their feet having the jingling anklets on (नुपुर Marathi पैजण) are quite common in Sanskrit literature. Cf. कुसुन कृतदोहदस्त्वयां यदशोकोऽयमुदीर्यिष्यति । Raghu VIII. 62, क्षनेन तनुमध्यया मुखरन्पुराराविणा नवाम्बुरुहकोमलेन चरणेन संभावितः। अशोक यदि सद्य एव कुसुमैने संपत्स्यसे.....। Mālavikā III, रक्ताशोकश्चलिकलसयः.....। एकः सख्यास्त सह मया वामपादाभिलाषी ... Megha. This verse is quoted in the Alamkārasūtra and the Dasarūpa as describing the outward manifestations of time (कालविभाव), the spring.

Stanza 27—प्रवालोहम means here उद्गतं प्रवालम्, उद्गम being taken in the sense of उद्गतद्गन्य. The Spring was taking every care to see that his friend Madana was properly equipped. He gave him excellent arrows viz. the fresh mango-blossoms (चूत is one of the five arrows of Madana, here चूत means the चूत्पूज or चूताङ्कर) properly fitted up. Arrows have feathers attached to them for ensuring greater speed. The tender sprouts served the purpose of the feathers. Arrows again have the names of their masters inscribed on them (Cf. बाणाहरेरेन परस्परस्य नामोजित वापस्तः शरोहः। Raghu VII. 38. In Vikram V. also, the arrow that killed the vulture is known to belong to Ayus, as his name was engraved on it, ऋणु तावत्प्रहर्तुनीमाक्षराणि। (वाचयाति) उर्वशी-संभवस्यायमैलसूनोर्धनुर्भतः । कुमारस्यायुषो वाणः प्रहर्नुर्द्विषदायुषाम् ॥). Madhu did not like that the arrows of his friend should be lacking in this characteristic of ordinary arrows. He therefore arranged to exhibit the name of Madana on his arrows in black ink, in a very prominent manner. There were numerous bees hovering round the blossoms; it was these bees themselves that were the letters in Madana's name inscribed on the arrows. Thus Madana's out-fit, so far as the arrows were concerned, was quite complete. Nārāyaṇa remarks अक्षराणां मणीरूपितत्वेन वर्णसाम्यं संनिवेशसाम्यं चोत्प्रेक्षाहेतुः। ... उत्तेजनवाजरचनादिभिः संपूर्णतां नीते हि शरे नामाक्षराणि लिख्यन्त इति लोकप्रसिद्धः क्रमः समाप्तिं नीते इत्यनेनोक्तः। Mallinātha reads स्यः for सह्यः, which would go with निवेशयामास, or समाप्तिं नीते (Madhu finished off with the arrow or inscribed the name at once). He also takes समाप्ति नीते नवच्तवाणे as a loc. abs. construction, which is unnecessary and again, we do require some अधिकरण for the नामाक्षरs to be mentioned. By taking the expression as अधिकरणे सप्तमी, the meaning is more clearly brought Stanza 28—Beautiful Karnikāra flowers of a dazzling golden colour (आकृष्टहेमद्यतिकर्णिकारम्, verse 53 below) sprang in abundance. It was a great pity, however, that the Karnikāra did not add to its gorgeous colour, a corresponding fragrance. And this fact made the lovers especially The idea in the verse is that the Karnikara flower was so beautiful in other ways that youths very much regretted that it could not be fragrant also. that it is the beauty of the Karnikara and its being an excitant of love that is emphasised here and not that the youths felt distressed, as the latter sentiment by itself would go against the general trend of the description of the manifestation of spring (Narayana remarks, अस्य वाक्यस्य कर्णिकार-ष्रुमानां निर्गन्धतया सहृदयहृदयपीडाविधाने तात्पर्यामिति प्रतिभाति । तचायुक्तम् । तथा सिति प्रकृष्टश्रङ्कारोद्दीपनवर्णनानुगुणत्वप्रसङ्कात् । तस्मादेवमत्र तात्पर्यं वर्णनीयम् । कर्णिकार्-असमं तथा नामात्युज्जवलं यूनां हृदयहारि जातं यथा तेषां निगैन्धतामवधार्य सहृदयहृदरे दू-यत इति पूर्वीर्घे वाक्यार्थः।). The कर्णिकार flower as is known in the Deccan has neither a gorgeous colour, nor a complete absence of fragrance. In the latter half of the verse, the poet accounts

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

25, as-

uts nen the sly. to ing

ms he कक-चूतो ous

m ; हस्य हुलो ॥), ıen

thi सुमं यया सूर्मन स्तब

ard

to ve is

ed of six

ed

for the state of things described in the first half. Brahmadeva is more or less a jealous god. He does not like the idea that anything should be quite perfect in this world. He, therefore, purposely keeps certain objects in want of certain characteristics. Cf. the well-known Subhāṣiṭa शशिन खळ कळङ्कः कण्टकः पश्चनळ युवातिकुचनिपातः पक्कता केशजाले। जलधिजलमपेयं पण्डिते निधनत्वं वयसि धनविवेको निर्विवेको विधाता॥ This verse is quoted in the Aucityavicaracarca, with the remark अत्र केवलकार्णिकारकुसमवर्णनमात्रेण विधातृवाच्यतागर्भेणैव प्रस्तुतश्चङ्काराजुपयोगिना तदुद्दीपनविभावोचितं न किंचिद्दिसिहतम्।

The

pres

with

mar

the redn

is th

and śāsa: first

शोभय

VETS

adve

the

ted,

the win

WOL

As t

on t

मर्भर leav

the

Well

leav

agai

into

The

exci

love

thei

love

Whe

cuc

Pric

Stanza 29-The Palasa or Kimsuka flowers are extremely red; they blossom out fully a little later than spring time. They had their petals closed, so that they presented a curved appearance like the crescent moon. The red curved flowers also resembled, the curved nail-marks inflicted by Vasanta (identified with a lover) on the body of the Sylvan sites (identified with ladies). The नखक्षत on the fair bodies appear red. The नखक्षतs are referred to in the Kāmasūtra, Ratirahasya etc. Cf. प्रियानितम्बोचितसंनिवेशीर्विणटयामास युवा नखाँग्रः। Raghu VI. 17, उपहितं शिशिरापगमिश्रया मुकुलजालमशोभत किंशुके । प्रणयिनीव नखक्षतमण्डनं प्रमद्या मद्यापितळज्जया ॥ ibid IX. 31. सद्यः might be construed with नखक्षतानि also. सद्यः समुत्पन्नानि नखक्षतानीवेत्यर्थः । स्थली—a natural spót of ground, while स्थला means a spot artificially prepared; स्थली अकृत्रिमा, कृत्रिमा स्थला, स्थलं तूभयसाधारणम् . This verse is quoted in the Aucityavicāracarcā to show रसोचित्य, in Alamkārakaustubha and Citramimansa as an instance of उस्रेक्षा, in the Kuvalayananda. as a case of स्वरूपोत्प्रेक्षा, and in Suvrttatilaka, for वसन्तवर्णन.

Stanza 30—Vernal beauty is identified here with a woman who is engaged in decorating her body. A woman puts on her fore-head the Tilaka (the Kumkuma mark on the fore-head of ladies who have their husbands living) which is often mixed with करत्रिका. Cf. करत्रिकातिलकमालि विधाय सायम् Bhāminivilāsa II. A woman also paints her lip red with zome dye. The मधुश्री has the Tilaka flowers in place of the Tilaka mark, and the general red colour in place of the lac-dye to decorate herself. Cf. रक्ताशोकरचा विशेषितगुणो विम्वाधरी लक्कि:आकानता तिलककियापि तिलकेलेमिंद्ररेफाडाने: सावज्ञेव मुखप्रसाधनिक्षी श्रीमीधवी योषिताम् ॥ Mālavikā III. 5. मुखे—(1) in the beginning of the season, (2) on the face. रागेण (1) redness, (2) लाझारागेण.

eva

hat ore,

Tis.

ाना है.

विको

rca.

भंगीव

ely

me.

ers

nta

tes

ear

sya

17,

दया

ith

oót

विश

he

nd

as

a

an

he is यम्

th

he

ne

11-धो

1g.

II.

The Trivandrum edition reads लग्न...चित्रे for...चित्रम्. The expression would then go with मुखे. The red Tilaka flower with the black bees clinging to it, resembles the Tilaka mark of women mixed with collyrium or कस्त्रिका. चालार्ण—the young, that is, the morning sun who has a charming redness about him. अरूण here means the sun. Properly अरूण is the charioteer of the sun, born prematurely of Vinatā, and the elder brother of Garuda. See Adiparvan 16, Anu-insanparvan 20, for his birth etc. Cf. for the idea in the first half of the verse, अलिभिरज्ञनमनोहरे: कुसुमपङ्किनिपातिभिराङ्कितः । न खल शोभयति स्म चनस्थली न तिलक्षितलकः प्रमदामिन्। Raghu IX. 41. This verse is quoted in the Alamkārasūtra.

Stanza 31-After having described the effect of the advent of spring on trees, the poet now describes its effect on the animals in the forest. The deer became extremely intoxicated, and with their sight blinded by the pollen-dust from the Priyala flowers, they ran about aimlessly against the wind, which involved an amount of exertion which they would not have made, if they had been free from intoxication. As they ran about, the large number of dry leaves fallen on the ground at the advent of spring, made a marmara sound. mit is an onomatopoetic word. This marmara sound of the leaves might either be due to the movements of the deer, or to the falling of the leaves themselves from the trees. It is well-known that the beginning of the spring causes the dry leaves of trees to fall down after which fresh leaves are Produced प्रत्यनिलं an अन्ययीभाव compound, towards, that is, against the wind. The action of the deer suggests that an intoxicated person, blinded by passion, acts in a foolish manner. The प्रियाल is also called राजादन.

Stanza 32—The sweet warbling of the cuckoo is a great excitant of love. Proud ladies who have quarreled with their lovers and who refuse to be reconciled with them, give up their hauteur and become quite willing to be united with their lovers, even without waiting for a formal apology from them when the love-inspiring notes of the cuckoo are heard. The cuckoo is thus the unfailing missile of Madana to destroy the pride of women. Madana, as it were, orders them through the

.cu

the

ap

ma do

lov

sat

not

tha

the

exp

-महर्ष

मनो अक

sūt

भव

tt.

कथ fav

and

wh

श्रित

सः lov

for शृङ्

rec

add

dev

क्रीव्

of r

are सोड

a fe

SUC

the

it W

cuckoo to act as sensible women and to make up their quarrels as soon as possible and to enjoy the spring time. Raghu IX. 47 states what the order of Madana would be like, त्यजत मानमलें वत विग्रेहेंने पुनरेति गतं चतुरं वयः। परभृताभिरितीव निवेदिते स्मरमते रमते स्म वधूजनः॥ Cf. लं कामिनो मदनदृतिमुदाहरन्ति मानावभङ्गनिपुणं त्वममोघमस्त्रम्। Vikram IV. In these two quotations, the female cuckoo is referred to, so that there is no propriety in referring to a पुंस्कोकिल here. Probably the exigencies of the metre necessitated that expression. Mallinātha however remarks पुंत्रहणं प्रागलभ्यद्योतनार्थम्. Nārāyaṇa says कूजनसामर्थ्यप्रतिपादनार्थं पुंस्त्विशेषणम्. क्षाय sweet-sounding. The eating of the mango-sprouts apparently made the throat sweeter or rather fragrant. क्षाय means also red or dark red, but it is difficult to see how the throat could have been made क्षाय in this sense. स्मर् an epithet of Madana, स्मर्यत्युत्कण्ठयति, स्मर्यते अनेनेति वा.

Stanza 33-The cold season had come to an end and Spring had manifested himself, so that there was no necessity now for the Kimpurusa damsels to apply the wax-salve their lips, or some cosmetic to their cheeks a protection against cold. Their lips विशद or free from any encumbrance, such as the wax etc. which, as is well-known, is applied to them, so that they might not get swollen or otherwise damaged by the extreme cold. Similarly no cosmetic was necessary for the face also and the damsels could be seen now in their natural beauty (शीतकाल एव हि स्त्रीणामधरेष्वलक्तकरसार्पणम्, अलक्तकस्योग्णस्वभावत्वात्।... उष्णस्वभावकुङ्कमार्पणाभावादापाण्डरीभूता मुखच्छवियाँसां तासाम् । मुखेऽपि स्वाभाविकी शोभैव प्रकटाभूदिति भावः। Nārāyaṇa). The ladies were also in the habit of drawing ornamental paintings on their breasts, cheeks etc. in the hot season especially, with cooling substances like sandal, musk etc. These figures are often compared to the Kurabaka flowers (विरचिता मधुनोपवनश्रियामभिनवा इव पत्रविशेषकाः। मधु-लिहां मधुदानविशारदाः कुरवका रवकारणतां ययुः ॥ Raghu IX. 29. also प्रत्याख्यात-विशेषकं कुरवकं स्थामावदातारूणम्। Mālavikā III). As it began to grow hot, perspiration was now visible in the case of these पत्रविशेषकऽ Cf. घर्माम्भोविसरविवर्तनैरिदानीं सुग्धाक्ष्याः परिजनवारसन्दरीणाम् । तल्पान्ते विहितवि चित्रपत्रलेखावदग्ध्यं जहति कपोलकुङ्कुमानि ॥ Mālatī I. For किंपुरुष, see notes on I, 14. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatikanthabharana, with the remark स्वेदेन रसस्य जनम.

Stanza 34-Madhu could easily influence the deer, the cuckoos etc, in the forest. The ascetics practising penance there were naturally astonished at the sudden and untimely appearance of spring and succeeded with great difficulty in maintaining their hold on their minds which had almost broken down under the unexpected developments of the excitants of love. स्थाणुननोकसः means 'those who had been staying in the name forest, where Siva had been practising penance'. It is not necessary to take the propriety of the expression to be that the sages succeeded in controlling their minds, owing to the fact that Siva was near them, as this would go against the expression प्रयत्नसंस्ताम्भतविकियाणाम् (Nārāyaṇa however remarks महर्षयः कृतबहविधप्रशस्ततपस्त्वात् परमेश्वरसांनिध्यवशाच प्राणायामप्रत्याहारादिनिरात्मनो मनोविकारं कथमपि निवारयामासुरित्यर्थः ।). प्रशस्तं तपः येषां ते तपस्विनः, आकालिकी = अकालार् भवाम् untimely (भवार्थे ठक्). Mallinātna explains it by the sutra 'आकालिकड!यन्तवचन' etc. समानकाल आयन्तावस्था; आकालिकीम् अकाल-भवत्वात् उत्पत्त्यनन्तरिवनाशिनीमित्यर्थः। The expression would then mean 'transitory or momentary' which hardly suits the context. कथांचेत् somehow, with difficulty.

Stanza 35-After Madhu had thus carefully created a favourable atmosphere, Madana with Rati reached the region, and at once a desire for union entered the minds of the couples who gave vent to it in various actions. काष्ट्रां गतेन ('द्वितीया श्रितातीत' इत्यादिना समासः) स्नेहरसेन अनुविद्धम् , काष्टा means उत्कर्षः स्नेहः एव सः or स्नेहरस might be taken to mean स्नेहातिशय or the essence of love. रस or भाव is the sentiment of love etc. that is predominant for the time being. The Rasas are usually said to be eight-रिङ्गारहास्यकरुणरौद्रवीरभयानकाः । वाभित्साद्भुतसंज्ञौ चेत्यष्टौ नःख्ये रसाः स्मृताः । Some lecognise शान्तरस also, निर्वेदस्थायिभावोऽस्ति शान्तोऽपि नवमो रसः। Some add a वात्सल्यरस. These sentiments are brought into being or developed by what are called विभावः (रत्याद्युद्वोधका लोके विभावाः कान्यनारचयोः।) circumstances which produce a particular state of mind or body. These sentiments are pointed out by what are called अनुभावs (उद्बुद्धेः कारण स्वैः स्वैबिहिर्भावं प्रकाशयन् । लोके यः कार्यरूपः भीऽनुमानः काव्यनाट्ययोः ।) which are the external manifestations of a feeling, by gestures, looks etc. The poet now describes in the ^{8ucceeding} verses these अनुसावs which indicated the feelings of the couples. As the word रस occurs in the expression काष्ठागत... it would be better to explain भाव, as Nārāyaņa does, as संभोगेच्छा.

26

tates विग्रहेर्न f. त्वां . In that y the els as lināsays ating eeter it is य in ति वा.

and ssity alve etc. now etc. they

ex-

the

ural 11... विकी the eks like the मधु-

यात-Wor प्रकड. तविotes

na,

Mallinatha explains भाव as रत्याख्यं ग्रङ्गारभावम्. Cf. for the idea. आदाय चापमधिरोपितषद्पदज्यं तस्मिन् हिमाचलमुपेयुषि पञ्चवाणे । वेलातिलङ्गिः क्रिमि प्रणयातिरेकाद् द्वन्द्वानि लील्यमभजन्त विमोहितानि ॥ Pārvatīpariņaya III.

unit

III.

...स 26 b

Vikt

The

mea

rem

Ekā

The

love

to w

bega

in ve

ratio

drop

the o

certa

of th

spol

flow

pupi ungi

in th

arriv

cons

by.

thev

bent

ofter

Stanza 36-The bee and the antelope are described as acting the part of gallants. . The bee chivalrously allowed his mate to drink the honey first from the flower, and then drank the remaining portion himself from the same. Gallants also make their beloved drink the wine first and then drink it themselves (नागरिका होकस्मिन्नेव पात्रे संस्तं मद्यं वल्लभां पाययन्ति स्वयं चानुपिवन्ति। Nārāyaṇa; cf. मदिराक्षि मदाननार्पितं मधु पीत्वा रसवत्कथं नु मे । Raghu VIII. 68). The antelope scratched his mate with his horn, producing an extremely agreeable sensation which made her close her eyes. The closing of the eyes, as is well-known, is an indication of extreme delight. प्रियासन्वतीमानः following his mate or अनुवर्तमान might mean 'acting agreeably towards'. कृष्णसार-व black spotted antelope. कृत्णेन सारः श्वलः; the word is written as कृष्णशार also (कृष्णश्चासी शारश्च). This verse is quoted in the Dasarupa as an instance of कालिवभाव (the season which conduces to the development of the love-sentiment), in the Sarasvatīkanthā. bharana, with the remark तत्र सरीसपमगयोरीया, and in the Kāivyānuśāsana, Alamkāratilaka and Sāhityadarpana as an instance of रसांभास, as the sentiment of love is depicted here as existing in lower creatures.

Stanza 37-करेणु-a she-elephant, 'करेणुर्गजयोषायां स्त्रियां पुंसि मतङ्गजे ' इति मेदिनी। The word is written as गरेणु also. गण्डूप 2 mouthful of water. The reading of Mallinatha रसात्पङ्क जरेणु.... is decidedly inferior. There is no reason why रसात् 'through love' should be particularly mentioned here. It is to be understood in all cases referred to. The Cakravaka first ate a portion of the lotus-stalk himself, to ensure that it was all right, and then presented it to his mate. रथाङ्गस्य चकस्य नाम यस्य, रथाङ्गनामा the Cakravāka bird (the expression is used by Kālidāsa, in not c Mālavikā V. अहं रथाङ्गनामेव प्रिया सहचरीव मे । also in Raghu III. 24). References to the Cakravaka are quite common in Sanskrit intw literature. These birds are supposed to be moving always in pairs and are looked upon as a model husband and wife. They CITCH nary are separated by a single lotus-leaf at night time and are described as bemoaning their separation all night, They are as

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

203

Stanza 38-The Kimpursas are known for their singing. The Kimpurusa could not get an opportunity to kiss his beloved'a face as long as she would be singing. He therefore had to wait for the end of the song, and kissed her face before she began another, पत्रलेखा is the same thing as the पत्रविशेषक spoken of in verse 33 above. श्रमवारि lit. water due to fatigue that is, perspiration. समुच्छासित lit. loosened, hence soiled. The perspiration drops caused by fatigue on account of continuous singing, made the ornamental paintings on the face wet and soiled them to a certain extent. पुष्पास्त्व wine drawn from flowers, the माध्वी type of the three (गौडी माध्वी च पैष्टी च विज्ञेया त्रिविधा सुरा) kinds of liquor, spoken of by Manu or general might mean 'wine scented with flowers.' One who has taken a little too much of wine, has the pupils of the eyes constantly moving this side and that. चुचुम्बे is ungrammatical, as चान् is Parasmaipadin. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatikanthabharana, with the remark किनरेषु संभोगाआसः।

Stanza 39—The poet describes the effect of Madana's arrival as taking place even in the case of trees that have no consciousness. They too began to embrace tha creepers near by. As the trees were considerably taller than the creepers, they secured this embrace by those branches that had been bent down. Creepers that entwine round bigger trees are often described as being the wives of those trees. It is not quite clear whether the poet has in mind this natural intwining of creepers, when he speaks of the embrace by the trees, or attributes a deliberate act to them, as the tucumstances that lead to this action are quite extraordinary. Manu, as a matter of fact, does not regard trees etc. It is wholly devoid of consciousness, but as those whose lea, मिपि

as his ank also it

III. luclose an e or

n as upa

the tha

vya-

e of gin gift gu a is ugh

tion and and in in 24).

skrit vs in They are

y are

bow

(in)

be II

parti

had takin

Whe

be w

who

a pre

he v

gave caus

placi

mou

right

was e

चापला

your

that :

the w

not, t

the b appea

a pict

अण्डज

Pecti

degre

भवतोद

म्त्याश्च

गेक्षिकम

विण्ड प्ररे

त्रमम

Pict U

be wieditio

consciousness is internal and not capable of being manifested. by acts (तमसा बहुह्त्पेण वेष्टिताः कमेहेतुना। अन्तःसंज्ञा भवन्त्येते सुखदुःखसमन्विताः। I. 49). The feelings of trees etc. can now be scientifically ascertained, thanks to Sir J. C. Bose's discoveries. The creepers are identified with ladies embracing their husbands. Ladies approaching their husbands have their lips throbbing and breasts heaving. In the case of the creepers, the tremulous sprouts were the lips and the fully developed clusters of flowers the heaving breasts, Nārāyaṇa remarks संनिहिते हि प्रियतमे चधुनो स्तनप्तिरघरस्करणं च भवति। कामशास्त्रप्रसिद्धश्रायसर्थः। This verse is quoted in the Kāvyānusāsana and Sarasvatīkanthābharaṇa, as an instance of संभोगाभास, and in Alamkāratīlaka, as an instance of श्रिसार.

Stanza 40—Siva continued to practise his meditation as before, though every one else had been considerably affected by Madana's influence. The poet says that there was nothing surprising about this, as Siva was a perfect master of himself and an आतमेश्वर par excellence, would never allow anything to disturb his meditation. श्रताः अप्सरसां गीतयः येन सः - The Apsarases are not mentioned before; it is the Kimpurusa women that are referred to in verse 38 above. These celestial nymphs cannot be those that are ordinarily used for the purpose of putting obstacles in the meditation of sages, as no distinct reference is made to such a fact. From verse 17 (अप्सरसां मुखेम श्रुतम्) we learn that certain celestial nymphs had been staying on the Himalaya, and they might have been enjoying themselves by singing etc. Narayana suggests that these nymphs might have been waiting upon Siva, as they would wait upon other gods (अत्राप्सरसां सेवार्थमागमनं नान्यमुनिसंनिधाविव चित्तक्षोभविधानार्थम्। अगवत्सेवायाः सर्वेसुरसाधारणत्वादप्तरसामुपस्थानम् ।). Siva heard the ench anting songs of the Apsarases, when he occasionally was free from the state of समाधि, but he did not allow himself to be carried away by them even for a moment, and became engrossed in meditation again, प्रसंख्यान is परमात्मानुसंधानम्. Arunagi quotes from Pātañjalabhāṣya, 'तदेव रजोलेशमलापेतं स्वरूपप्रतिष्ठं सत् पुरुषान्यथाख्यातिमात्रं धर्ममेघाख्यध्यानोपगमं भवति । तत्प्रसंख्यानमित्याचक्षते ध्यायि इति । चित्तस्य धर्ममेघाल्यध्यानोपगमः प्रसंख्यानम् समाधिभेदे प्रभवः (समर्थाः) verse is quoted in the Dasarupa and the Sahityadarpana as a instance of सत्त्व and धेरी.

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

sted.

वताः।

cally

epers adies

and alous

rs of प्रयतमे

se is

as an ce of

n as

ed by

thing

mself.

g to

rases

that mphs

se of stinct

मुखेभ्य

aying

msel.

mphs

upon

नाथम्।

ench.

free

to be

पायिनः

This

205

Stanza 41-Siva had been practising his meditation in a. hower of creepers and Nandin, his vehicle and chief follower. in I. 56, he is described as a regular bull, here he appears to be more or less possessed of a god-like form. The Anusasanamrun 255. 25 refers to him as नन्दीश्वरी महाकायी प्रामणीवृष्भव्वजः। had taken upon himself the duties of a door-keeper and was taking scrupulous care to see that no one disturbed his lord. When he found that something unusual was going on out-side. he was afraid that the Ganas or hosts of followers of Siva, who had taken their positions near by (see I. 55) might fall a prey to the general commotion visible in the forest, and so he warned them not to lose control over themselves. gave this warning not by word of mouth as that would have caused disturbance to his lord, but by the usual signal, by placing a finger of the right hand perpendicularly on the mouth. The golden staff which he ordinarily carried in his right hand, was placed on the left fore arm, as the right hand was engaged in giving the signal. वामे प्रकोष्ठे अर्पितं हेमवेत्रं येन. मा वापलाय—भवत is to be understood; do not act foolishly; behave yourselves. व्यनैषीत् ordered, directed.

Stanza 42-Such was the awe in which Nandin was held. that at a mere sign from him, not only the Ganas of Siva, but the whole of the four-fold creation stood still. The trees shook not, the bees ceased their humming, the birds became silent and the beasts stopped all movement. The whole of the forest appeared, owing to the absence of all movem ent, as if drawn in apicture. The creation is divided into four kinds, उद्भिजा, स्वेदज बढ़न and जरायुन (for which बृक्ष, द्विरेफ, अण्डन and मृग stand res_ pectively in the verse) arranged according to the increasing bettee of consciousness possessed. Read पश्वश्च म्गाश्चेव व्यालाश्चो. म्बतोदतः। रक्षांसि च पिशाचाश्च मनुष्याश्व जरायुजाः ॥ अण्डजाः पक्षिणः सपी नका भिराश्च कच्छपाः। यानि चैवंप्रकाराणि स्थलजान्यौदकानि च ॥ स्वेदजं दंशमशकं यूका-स्विकमत्कुणम् । उष्मणश्चोपजायन्ते यचान्यत्किचिद्दिशम् ॥ उद्भिज्जाः स्थावराः सर्वे बीज-भण्डप्रसीहिणः। ओषध्यः फलपाकान्ताः बहुपुष्पफलोपगाः॥ Manu I. 43-46. चित्रापि-रिमम् the expression should have been rather चित्रापितम् only. means 'actions'; with the actions transferred to a octure, that is, everybody stood in the same position in which as before Nandin gave the signal. The Trivandrum dition reads चित्रार्पतारण्यम्, which simplifies the sense, but to compare कानन with अरण्य, seems to be hardly poetic. The expression in the text occurs in Raghu II. 31, वामेतरस्तस्य करः...। सक्ताङ्गुलिः सायकपुङ्ख एव चित्रार्पितारम्भ इवावतस्थे।

लोव

अम

बा. giv

Pā

wi

W

po

flai

bef

(सर

तमो

चार

ग्निन

इन्न

शादृ

des

.Ma

gg:

is t

कल leg

loa

be lap

. Wb

स्तध

याडु

पूर्वत

योग परि

the

We

to

Stanza 43-Madana succeeded somehow in avoiding the gaze of Nandin and entered the लतागृह (referred to in verse 41) where Siva was meditating. Inside the creeper-bower also, he found the place to be quite convenient for hiding himself as the branches of the Nameru trees had been closely tangled on the borders. दृष्टिप्रपातम्-प्रपात 'attack' the stern range of his sight. The Trivandrum edition reads दृष्टिप्रतीपम्. Arunagiri explains प्रतीपम् as आभिमुख्यम्, प्रतीप usually means 'going against,' पुर: ग्रुक्तम्-the Venus in front; Mallinatha explains it as पुरागतः शको यश्मिन् देशे तं पुरः शकं देशिमिन Venus, when in front at the time of starting on a journey, is believed to be extremely inauspicious, causing even death. Nārāyana remarks प्रयाणे हि पुरुश्चकः प्रतिषिद्धो मुहुर्तशास्त्रे-आग्नेयाचास्तारकाः साभिजित्काः प्रागाद्याशासंस्थिताः सप्त सप्त । यस्यां तिष्ठेद् भार्गवो दिद्यमुख्यां यात्रा पुंतां प्राणमानार्थहन्त्री ॥ इति । Mallinatha quotes प्रातिश्चकं प्रतिव्यं प्रत्यङ्गारकमेव व। अपि शकसमो राजा हतसैन्यो निवर्तते ॥

Stanza 44-Siva was seated on a raised plot of ground under a Devadāru tree, on which a tiger's skin was spread A tiger's or a deer's skin is the seat of ascetics. The poet was forced to use the expression आसन्नश्रीरपात, in his craze for alliteration with आसीनम्. The expression however is not without significance as it suggests that Kama in thus entering the creepr-bower, was going to certain death. The वारीएक was caused by the fire from the third eye of Siva, hence the epithet 'the three-eyed one' is equally significant. त्रियम्बक नी अम्बकानि (नयनानि) अस्य; the form would be ज्यम्बक, but as the exigencies of the metre require one more syllable, the poel takes the liberty of reading it as त्रियम्बक. Reading a form as to make it consist of more syllables for the sake of metil is quite common in the Rgveda. From the remark of Mall nātha केचित् साहसिकाः 'त्रिलोचनम्' इति पेदुः, it is clear that book emendators of texts are not a modern invention, but existed in the middle ages also. Bhartrhari also uses त्रियम्बकम, and usage by great poets has come to regard the form as quite normal one. त्र्युम्बक is variously derived-त्रिष्ठ अम्बकमस्येति वा. त्र्या लेकानामम्बकः पिता इति वा, त्रीन् वैदान् अम्वते शब्दायते वा, त्रिषु लेकेषु कालेषु वा अम्बः शब्दो वेदलक्षणो यस्येति वा, त्रयः अकारोकारमकारा अम्बाः शब्दा वाचका यस्येति ना तिह्योऽम्वाः द्यौभूम्यापो यस्य वा। The Anusasanparvan 205 thus gives an account of the production of the third eye. Once Parvati in jest closed with her hands the two eyes of Siva, with the result that the whole of the universe became blind. When all the creatures had thus been reduced to a miserable position, a third eye on the fore-head of Siva appeared, the flames of which burnt down the Himalaya who was standing before him. Himālaya was afterwards revived by Śiva (मन्नेत्रे पिहिते देवि क्रीडनार्थे हडत्रते । तत्कृते नष्टचन्द्रार्के जगदासीरभयाकुलम् । नष्टादित्ये तमोभूते लोके गिरिसुते प्रिये ॥ तृतीयं लोचनं सृष्टं लोकं संरक्षितुं मया ॥ 55-57; तृतीयं वास्य संभूतं छछाटे नेत्रमायतम् । द्वादशादित्यसंकाशं छोकान्भासावभासयत् ॥ तत्र तेना-विना तेन युगान्ताभिनिभेव वै। अदद्यत गिरिः सर्थो हिमवानव्रतः स्थितः ॥ 35-36; हुमात्रे भगवता सौम्ययुक्तेन चेतसा । क्षणेन हिमवाञ्ज्ञेलः प्रकृतिस्थोऽभवतपुनः ॥ 42). शार्व्हस्य चर्मणा व्यवधानवत्याम् . व्यवधान lit. that which intervenes, a covering.

Stanza 45-This verse and the following five ones describe Siva engaged in medication as he appeared to Madana, These verses contain merely expressions that qualify त्रियस्वकं in the last verse and are to be construed with दर्श therein. Thus verses 44-50 form grammatically one group, having only द्द्शे as the verb. Such a group of verses is technically called a कुलक (द्वाभ्यां युग्ममिति प्रोक्ते त्रिभिः क्षेरकैर्विशेषकम्। क्लापकं चतुर्भिः स्यात्तद्ध्वे कुलकं स्मृतम् ॥ Siva was seen sitting with his legs on his thighs (somewhat like the position 'sitting load in musketry practices), the upper part of the body being straight and erect, and the hands placed on the lap. This is what is technically called a पर्येड्स or वीरासन which is described as एकं पादमथैकिस्मिन्वन्यस्योर्गण संस्थितम्। इतरास्म-स्तथा चोर्ह वीरासनमुदाहतम् ॥ (विसिष्ठः), उत्तानिते करतले करमुत्तानितं परम्। आधा-याङ्करातं ऋत्वा ध्यायेद्यस्तत्र नान्तरम् ॥ (Yogasāra). पर्यङ्कस्य वन्धेन स्थिरः प्रकायः (प्री कायस्य) यस्य or पर्यङ्क might be taken to mean the योगपृष्ट्क which is described as पृष्ठजान्वोः समायोगे वस्त्रं वलयवद्रहम्। परिवेष्ट्य यद्ध्वे सित्रहेत्तरोगपड्कम्। The tying of the body by means of the योगपद्दक would also render it स्थिर and ऋज्. The shoulders were a little depressed owing to the hands being placed on the lap. These hands were fair like the lotus and hence it appeared to the on-looker as if Siva had a fully blossomed lotus on his ex.

T:...

the

rerse

19WO

ding

been mean

ition

प्रतीप ont

शमिव

ey, is

eath.

तारकाः १ पुंसां

व च।

ound

read.

poet

e for ering

रिरपात

e the क्र-त्रीवि

s the Doet .

rm 50

metr

Mall boild

xisted, and

, त्रया

Notes on

lap. राजीवम् a lotus. Cf. the Nandi verse of the Mrcchakatika, which describes Siva's समाधि and contains the expression प्राह्म and also आत्मन्यात्मानं पर्यन् which resembles आत्मानमात्मन्यवलोक्यन्तम् in verse 50 (पर्यङ्कप्रस्थिवन्धद्विगुणितस्जिगाश्केषसंवीतजानोरन्तःप्राणावरोधन्युपर्त-

सकलज्ञानरुद्धोन्द्रयस्य । आत्मन्यात्मानमेव व्यपगतकरणं पश्यतस्तत्त्वदृष्ट्या शम्भोर्वः पातु शून्येक्षणघरितलयत्रह्मलमः समाधिः ॥).

208

Stanza 46-Siva wears serpents on his person as ornaments or for the purpose of tying up his hair etc. (करेग शम्भोवेलयोक्तताहिना V. 66). Siva had finished his जप, for which the string of beads is made use of, being held in the hand, and had been absorbed in deep meditation. The string of beads, not being required for the ध्यान, was placed on the ear and in order that it might not slip away, it was first made two-fold with the result that it exactly fitted the ear to which it was clinging, कर्णे अवसक्तं द्विगुणं (द्वी गुणी परिवृत्ती यस्य तत्) अक्षस्त्रम् यस्य तम् . अक्षस्त्र is a rosary of beads which ascetics use for counting their prayers, Siva also wore a skin of a black antelope. The skin was already black, but it was rendered the more so on account of the dark throat of Siva, coming into contact with it. कुष्णत्वचम् = कृष्ण-मुगाजिनम्. The Trivandrum edition reads मृगत्वचम्. The expression...विशेषनीलां however requires that a black skin should be directly referred to. Even if the reading मृगत्वचम् is accepted, it would have to be taken to mean a कृष्ण or नीलमृगलवम् . It is not quite clear, where exactly the deer's skin was worn. Nārāyaņa thinks it was worn on the waist (कटिप्रदेशस्यापि योगातुगुणं स्थिरत्वापादनप्रकारम् आह-प्रन्थिमतीं मृगत्वचं द्धानमिति ।) in which case the कण्डन्ना has got a long distance to go to reach the skin. It might possibly have been worn on the upper part of the body as a sort of upper garment, from the throat downwards. But no reference to any lower garment is made in the description, which seems to be necessary, though Siva is a दिगम्बर, in view of the fact that Parvatī was in attendance upon him. Narayana's above remark seems to have been prompted by this consideration. The skin had knots tied up, so that it might not slip away.

Stanza 47—An ascetic concentrates his sight on the tip of his nose (समं कायशिरोधीवं धारयत्रवलं स्थिरः संप्रेक्य नासिकाप्रं हैं दिश्वानवलोक्सन् ॥ Gitā VI, 13). The eyes are not completely

clos eye to a thi

whi the बहिष bec

tha dow नयन

eye: येषां

San

fror rain und resi the अपान

द्रपमा गस्मा निवाते the'

युजतो

vita

Was ofth Is, t

ग्पाले is ve

- हेपाल to re Issue

at al

closed, but are slightly open. The movements of the pupils, the eye-brows and the eye-lashes are, however, absolutely brought to a stand-still. लक्ष्यीकृतं (लक्ष्यतां प्रापितम् , लक्ष्य is the target, something aimed at) ब्राणं येन तम्. ब्राण lit. smell or sense of smell. which according to the Tarkasaingraha is नासायन्ति; used here in the sense of नासाम्र itself. Mallinatha quotes from योगसार 'करणान्य-बहिष्कृत्य स्थाणुवनिश्वलात्मकः । आत्मानं हृदये ध्यायेनासायन्यस्तलोचनः ॥ '. नेत्रैः because Siva has three eyes. The nose being on a lower level than the eyes, the rays from the latter were naturally shot downwards. अधोभागे मयूखाः येषां तैः, किंचित्प्रकाशाः (कश्चन प्रकाशः यासां ताः, नयनानामीषन्मीलनात्) स्तिमिताः (motionless) उग्राः च ताराः (pupils of the eyes) येषां तैः, भ्रुविकिया Knitting of the eye-brow. विरतः प्रसङ्गः (व्यापारः) येषां तै:, आविस्पान्दिता पक्समाला (eya-lashes) येषां तै:.

Stanza 48—Siva absolutely remaining steady in his Samādhi, is beautifully compared to (1) a cloud which is free from any movement or disturbance, when not showering forth rain, (2) a big well whose waters are unruffled and (3) a lamp undisturbed by the wind. The Maruts are five-प्राण, अपान etc. residing in the body. According to Mallinatha, the simile of the clouds indicates प्राणनिरोध, that of the store of water अपाननिरोध, and that of the lamp the निरोध of the remaining three vital airs. Arunagiri remarks अत्राध ऊर्ध्व तिर्यक् च वायोगीतित्रयानिरोधा-रुमानत्रयोपपत्तिः । बृष्टेः संरम्भः यस्य नास्ति सः अवृष्टिसंरम्भः तम्, उद्गतः तरङ्गः यस्य or गुलात् सः उत्तरङ्गः सः न भवतीति अनुत्तरङ्गः तम्. निवात is absence of wind, निवाते or निवातेन तिष्कम्पम्. The simile of the lamp is referred to in the Gita VI. 19. यथा दीपो निवातस्थी नेङ्गते सोपमा स्मृता । योगिनो यताचित्तस्य युजतो योगमात्मनः ॥

Stanza 49—The lustre that issued from the head of Siva, was so excessively brilliant that it easily obscured the beauty of the crescent moon on his head. शिरस्त:—from the head, that s, the न्रहारन्ध्र, which is a hole on the crown of the head (शिर:-भालें इन्तिरेष्ठद्रं प्रभास्वरं ज्योतिः Vyāsa on Yogasūtra III. 31) and which s very lustrous, कपालस्य नेत्रान्तरेण लब्बमार्गैः. Mallinatha explains भाल as नदाकरोटि, Arunagiri as ब्रह्मशिरःसंवन्धि, that is, they both seem to regard the क्पाल as a natural adjunct of the head. If the light issues from the head or ब्रह्मरन्ध्र, why is the कपालनेत्रान्तर referred to भे all? Has the skull connected with the ज्ञास्त्र any special

27 ka,

यिङ्क

न्तम

ारत-

पातु

na-

करेण

the

had not der

vith ing,

is a

ers.

ady

lark

कृष्ण-

ex-

ould

ted,

It is

orn.

न्गुणं

the

ight

as a no

ion,

,iew ava-

this

not

the.

वं स्व

tely

म

tl

G

स h na ह्य

th

th

To

an sig

an

is fro

su

to lik सन

los

sig

Siv

We

he वीर्थ

bee

निव

bei

the

tri

102 is e

IG.

eye-hollows? The above explanation of कपाल is thus open to objection. Can it be that we are to take कपाल to mean the skulls worn by Siva on the head as ornaments, and not क्यांल of his own head? The idea is that the light from the head had to pass through the eye-hollows of the skulls worn on the head before it reached the moon. Narayana thus gives the Yogic idea योगिनो हि नियमितप्राणा आग्नेयमण्डलापर्नामधेयं कुण्डिलनीशन्दाभिवेयमात्मते मूलाधाराद्रश्याप्य क्रमात् सुषुम्रान्तरं नाभिप्रदेशं हृदयं भूमध्यं च नीत्वा द्वादशान्तिश्वि परमात्मिन योजयन्ति । मृणालस्य सूत्रात् अधिकं सौकुमार्ये यस्याः ताम्. Trivandrum edition reads...सौकुमार्यान्...रस्मीन् for सौकुमार्या उक्षीम The light from the head obscured the rays of the The propriety of the expression मृणाल..., is not quite clear. In describing the rays as more delicate than the lotusstalk, the victory of the light from the head over the moon's light becomes not worth mentioning. For, what credit can there be, if an extremely delicate person is overthrown by a strong one? The reading रत्मीन् agrees better with the मृणालसूत्र the rays might be described as being slender like the lotusfibre. The reading लक्ष्मीम् seems to fit in better with गलपयन्तम् Obscuring the beauty is a more emphatic expression than obscuring the rays.

Stanza 50 -- नवद्वारेभ्यः निषिद्धा मृत्तिः यस्य तत्. The nine द्वार्ड are the two eyes, the two ears, the two holes of the nose, the mouth, the organs of generation and evacuation (नयनश्रवणे द्वे द्वे नासिके वर्ष तथा। पायूपस्थी च देहें Sास्मन् नवद्वाराणि देहिनाम् ॥). In order that a person might be able to realize the Paramatman, he must be able to look inwards; the senses all look outwards and so the knowledge of the Atman can never be had from the senses (प्राञ्चि खानि व्यक्त् रस्वयंभूस्तस्मात् पराक् पश्यति नान्तरात्मन्।). The mind has therefore to be withdrawn from the senses and concentrated upon the self in the हृद्याकाश or the दहराकाश. हृद् the heart is a distinct place where the mind can go (यतो निर्याति विषयाद यस्मिश्चेव प्रलीयते । हृद्यं तद्विजानीयान्मन स्थितिगोचरम् ॥). आत्मानमात्मन्यवलोकयन्तम्—Cf. यत्रोपरमते चित्तं निरुद्धं योगसेवया यत्र चैवात्मनात्मानं पर्यत्रात्मनि तुष्यति । Gita VI. 20; a similər expression occurs in the Nandi verse of the Mrcchakatika quoted above Ta (verse 45). The Highest is अक्षर or undecaying. Cf. अक्षरं त्रा प्राप्त मम् Gitā VIII. 3. For क्षेत्रविद, read the following from Gill XIII, इदं शरीरं कौन्तेय क्षेत्रमित्यभिधीयते । एतयो वेत्ति तं प्राहुः क्षेत्रज्ञ इति तर्द्विदः।

n to

1 the

गांल of

ad to head,

Yogic

त्मतेजो

तस्थिते

The उद्मीम्

of the

quite otus-

oon's

t can

by a ालसूत्रः

otus-

यन्तम्.

than

re:

के वदन

erson

ble to rledge

व्यस्त्रण-

to be in the re the

ान्मनम

सिवया

ession

above

त्रह्म पर

Gila

देदः ।

महाभूतान्यहंकारो बुद्धिरव्यक्तमेव च। इन्द्रियाणि दशैकं च पञ्च चेन्द्रियगोचराः ॥ इच्छा द्वेषः सुंखं दुःखं संघातश्चेतना धृतिः। एतत्क्षेत्रं समासेन सविकारमुदाहृतम् ॥ क्षेत्र thus means the 'non-self.' The expression क्षेत्रज्ञ however is used in the Gitā, in the same Adhyāya, to mean 'the self' यावत्संजायते किंचित् सत्वं स्थावरजङ्गमम्। क्षेत्रक्षेत्रज्ञसंयोगात्तद्विद्धि भरतर्षभ।). The expression क्षेत्रविदः here simply means those who have rightly understood the nature of the क्षेत्र and its difference from the क्षेत्रज्ञ (Cf. क्षेत्रक्षेत्र- इयोरवमन्तरं ज्ञानचक्ष्रण। भूतप्रकृतिमोक्षं च ये विदुर्यान्ति ते परम् ॥ ibid XIII. 34).

Stanza 51—अयुग्मनेत्र lit. one who has not got a pair of eyes, that is, one who has three eyes; Siva. Madana never dreamt that he would have to fight with such a formidable adversary. To think of doing injury to Siva was impossible; what then of an actual physical contest? Madana became so nervous at the sight of Siva, that he was not aware of the fact that his arrow and the bow slipped from his hand. The force of अपि in चापमपि is this:— An arrow is quite a small thing, and its slipping down from the hand may not be credited with any significance, but surely a warrior ought to be aware of the fact, if his bow were to slip down. But Madana was completely stupefied and looked like one who has lost his senses. साध्वसेन सन्नी इस्ती यस्य सः. For सनसाप्ययुष्यम् cf. सा दुष्प्रथपी मनसापि हिंसी... Raghu II. 27.

Stanza 52-Madana had almost given up the battle for lost, but suddenly there appeared on the scene Parvati, the sight of whose unparalleled beauty infused fresh spirit in him. Siva was no doubt a formidable adversary but Pārvatī's charms were equally irresistible if not more; so Madana thought that he had still a chance of securing victory over Siva, Madana's नीवे (prowess, spirit) is identified with fire. This fire which had been almost extinguished was enkindled by Parvati's beauty. निर्वाणभूयिष्ठ-निर्वाणेन भूयिष्ठम् बहुलम् (full of) or निर्वाणं भूयिष्ठं यस्मिन् (भूयिष्ठ being an adjective and निर्वाण a noun) or निर्वाण भ्यिष्ठः भागः यस्मिन the greatest part of which is निर्वाण. The expression should be translated as 'almost extinguished,' निर्दाणोऽनाते. निर्दातसु गतानिले. The P. P. of all with a is affin, if it does not mean anything connected with the wind, in which case the form is निर्वात. निर्वाण is extinguishment; it also means 'the state of complete peace or extinction', the Moksa of the Bauddhas. व्युर्गुण-गुण merit, fl fl

48

a

K

tl

日の

iI

b

P

I

t

n

1

a

a

t

d

g

g

₹2

q

यां

aı

tì

tl

त्रां

द्वि

इ

excellence. वनदेवतान्याम्-they are the two friends referred to in I. 58 (सर्वासमेताम्): we must suppose that these two friends, whose names are given as विजया and मिलिनी by Arunagiri or ज्या and विजया by others, were two sylvan deities. In VI. 39, the poet says योषितो वनदेवता:, so that all the damsels on the Himalaya were sylvan deities and no ordinary women. This verse is quoted in the Dhvanyālokalocanā, with the remark अत्र संपूर्णालम्बन्नोद्दीपनविभावतायोग्यस्वभाववर्णनम्, and in the Vyaktivivekavicāra with पूर्वपदाधप्राधान्येन क्रावित्सुप्सपेति समासो दश्यते।

Stanza 53—Verses 53-56 describe Pārvatī's appearance. She had not put on any golden ornaments, but had worn only different flowers that make their appearance in spring. But these flowers were so beautiful and brilliant that they easily threw into background any ornaments of gold or pearls. Thus the Asoka flowers surpassed the rubies; the Karnikāra, gold; and the Sindhuvāra, pearls. अशोकैः निभीतिसाः पद्मरागाः (rubies) यस्मिन् तत्. आकृष्टा हेम्नः युतिः यैः ताहशाः कर्णिकाराः यस्मिन् तत्. If the reading is आकृष्ट it would mean 'appropriated'; आकृष्ट is more emphatic than आकृष्ट. In Raghu VI. 1 similarly, for आकृष्टलीलाक्लोक-पालान्, we have the reading आकृष्ट…;मुक्ताकलापः—a necklace, rather than a collection of pearls. वसन्तपुष्पाणि एव आभरणम्. सिन्दुवार is the निगुण्डी flower which is white. This verse is quoted in the Daśarūpa in connection with वेषविभाव, and in the Sarasvalikanthābharaṇa, with the remark उद्दीपनविभावेषु माल्यम्.

Stanza 54—किंचित् इव—इव is वाक्यालंकारे here. We cannot translate it by 'as it were 'as Pārvatī was actually bent down by her breasts. तर्णस्य अर्कस्य रागः इव रागः (redness) यस्य तत्. A red garment is said to be proper for the spring season (अत्राहणाः स्वर्धारणं वसन्तीचितम्। Nārāyaṇa: तर्णार्करागमिति वसन्ते स्त्रीणां रक्तं वासः Aruṇagiri). Cf. अरुणरागनिषेधिमिरंग्रुकैः... Raghu IX. 43, कुम्मरागाः रिणितेंदुंकूलैः Rtusamhāra VI. 4. The expression quin... has occurred before in verse 39. The Trivandrum edition reads मुनाब (charming) for quin. In favour of quin, it might be said that the expression suggests also that the breasts of Pārvatī were quin; against it, it might be argued that a quintत्वक might perhaps cause the creeper to bend too much. As Pārvatī was moving, she is said to resemble a moving creeper (Cf. Vikram

III. 3 गिरिरिव गतिमान, where Pururavas is compared to a mountain in motion). Her breasts resemble the bunches of flowers and her red garment to the red foliage. The reading महीवता (संजाता: पहन्याः अस्याः 'तारकादित्वादितच्') means the same thing as पहनिनी. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyālamkāratippaņa, Kāvyānuśāsana and Citramīmānsā, as an instance of उत्प्रेक्षा, in the Sarasvatīkanthābharaņa, with the remark उद्दीपनिवभावेषु वस्त्रम्.

Stanza 55-Parvatī was wearing a girdle of Bakula flowers. As she walked on, the girdle, being rather loose, or on account of the nervousness and sentiment of love aroused in going to Siva, was slipping down her hips and she had to hold it again and again by her hand to put it in the right place. Parvati looked extremely bewitching in this position. The poet now says that the wreath of Bakula flowers worn by her as a girdle, was as it were a reserve string to Madana's bow. It is well-known that archers always keep a string or two in reserve for their bows, so that if one string is broken, no unnecessary time should be lost in fitting up the bow. Naturally enough, the reserve string should be placed in such a place that it should be quite safe there and should be again available whenever wanted. Madana was quite an expert in the art of knowing who are likely to be quite safe persons for depositing something with them. He selected Parvatī for keeping the second string to his bow, which bespeaks of the great trust he had in her. The plain idea is that the extraordinary beauty of Parvati was enhanced still further by the girdle. केसर is the Bakula flower. न्यासः deposit, स्थानं वेत्तीति स्थानावित् तेन. स्थान refers to Parvatī or to her hips. This verse is quoted in the Kavyaprakasa in connection with अविमृष्टविधे-यांग्रहोष. Mammata reads अवरोपयन्ती for अवलम्बमाना and द्वितीयमीवींमिव and remarks अत्र द्वितीयत्वमात्रमुःप्रेक्ष्यम् । मौर्वी द्वितीयामिति युक्तः पाठः । Mammata means to say that the idea here that the girdle was the second string requires the word द्वितीय to be free from a compound, so as to have its due importance. Nārāyana defends the reading द्वितीयमार्वाम् as follows, समासान्तर्गतत्वेऽपि कविशक्त्या द्वितीयात्व भितिपत्तेः सुलभत्वात् । न चात्र द्वितीयात्वमात्रमुत्प्रेक्ष्यम् अपि तु स्मरेण न्यासीकृतत्वं दितीयातं मौर्वीत्वं च । तत्र मौवात्वोत्प्रेक्षयैव तदितरोत्प्रेक्षासिद्धिरिति मौर्वीत्यमेवात्र विधेयांश नाविमृष्टविधेयांशत्वदोषः। The Vyaktiviveka, Alamkāratilaka,

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

in ids, जया the e is ठम्बvith

nce.

But asily hus old; es)

ha-लोकher the

ati-

nnot own A 表现。

रागा-

curgold that, were ight

was Kāvyānuśāsana and Kāvyapradīpa quote the verse in the same connection,

1 tb

Siv

arr

प्रति

alle

call

He

लोक

लोके

use

ing

Par

Par

end

tigh

pos uni

on.

qui

Wei

bec

Wei

tim

अधः

योगा

भाव:

चन

ann

knit mig

in c

Ar

Stanza 56-Parvatī had held a beautiful lotus in her hand. Her breath was also very fragrant, and the bee was naturally attracted by it. The bee, therefore, tried to be as near as possible to the fragrant breath, and was hovering round her lip. This was a great annoyance to Parvati, who tried to ward it off with the lotus in her hand. The bee. however, returned again and again, and the more it was driven off, the more grew its desire to enjoy the fragrant breath, Cf. the more detailed description of the bee causing annoyance to Sakuntalā (करं व्याधन्वत्याः पिवसि रतिसर्वस्वमधरं । Śak I). शोभनो गन्धो यस्य सः सुगन्धः (and not सुगन्धः) 'गन्धस्येदुत्पृतिससुरभिभ्यः' इतीत्. सुगन्धिः निश्वासः तास्मन् विवृद्धा तृष्णा (thirst, ardent desire) यस्य तम् . विम्बाकारः or विम्वत्त्यः अधरः विम्वाधरः (a मध्यमपदलापी compound) तस्य आसन्ने चरतीति तम्. संभ्रमेण लोला दृष्टिः यस्याः सा. लीलाराविन्द a lotus for pleasure or sport, taken in the hand, just to add grace. Cf. कश्चित्कराभ्यामुपगृहनाल-मालोलपत्राभिहतद्विरेफम्। रजोभिरन्तःपरिवेषवन्धि लीलारविन्दं अमयांचकार्॥ Raghu VI.

Stanza 57-At the sight of Siva (verse 51), Madana had become almost hopeless of victory over him. But when he actually saw how extraordinarily beautiful Parvati was, his hopes began to be revived. Siva was possessed of the terrible trident, Madana had only flowers as his weapons; still with the help of Parvati, he began to feel confident of achieving success in his mission, सर्वेषु अनयवेषु अनवद्याम् (वद्य fit to be spoken of, that is, praiseworthy, अवय, not praiseworthy, faulty. अनव्य faultless). होपदम् shame or cause for shame. Parvatī could easily put to shame Rati by her beauty. The reading होतिमिवादधानाम् means causing as it were shame (होति) to Rati. श्रालन is an epithet of Siva who has a शूल or trident for his weapon, जितानि इन्द्रियाणि येन तास्मिन्. इद्रिय a sense-organ, usally derived as इन्द्रस्यात्मन लिङ्गम् . The Trivandrum edition reads पुष्पकेतुः for पुष्पचापः. पुष्पकेतु is not the usual epithet of Madana who is called मकरकेतु:. आश्चांस (the Parasmaipadi form) would not mean 'hoped for 'which is the meaning wanted here.

Stanza 58—The two ব হাত্ৰs show that the actions referred to were simultaneous. ব-ব used thus should be translated by

Kumārasambhava: Canto III

me

her

was

as

who

see.

ven.

Cf.

to यस्य

ान्धिः

:or

तीतिः ort.

गल-

VI.

had tu-

pes

ent.

elp

in 15,

ss).

to ans

of येन

The

the

the

the red

by

end for the time being.

the moment that 'or 'as soon as.' It is not suggested that Siva stopped from contemplation, because Pārvatī had come to the door. It was a mere accident that Pārvatī's arrival coincided with the conclusion of Siva's meditation. प्रतिहार-door, प्रतिहियते इति where one is detained before being allowed to proceed. The Highest is ज्योतिषां ज्योतिः and is called परमारमन् to distinguish it from the individual soul He is also called प्रधात्तम. Cf. उत्तमः प्रश्वस्त्वन्यः परमारमेखुदाहृतः। यो लेकत्रयमाविश्य विभार्यञ्यय ईश्वरः॥ यस्मारक्षरमतीतोऽहमक्षरादिष चोत्तमः। अतोऽस्मि लेके वेदे च प्रथितः पुरुषोत्तमः॥ (Gīlā XV. 17-18). योग is practically used here in the sense of ध्यान (meditation) or the usual meaning चित्तगृत्तिनिरोध would also do. उपारराम-रम् with उप and आ takes Parasmaipada ('वाङ्परिभ्यो रमः' इति परस्मैपदम्). Having realised the Paramātman within himself, Siva brought his meditation to an Stanza 59—The meditation being over, Siva relaxed the tight Vīrāsana and assumed a more easy and comfortable posture. Siva as the lord of the three worlds, has the whole universe within himself. As long as the meditation was going on, owing to the suspension of the vital airs, Siva had become quite light and it was extremely easy for Sesa to bear his weight. But when the vital airs were set at liberty, Siva became weighty once more, and his weight being equal to the weight of the three worlds, if not more, Sesa had a very hard time of it to sustain him. Mallinātha reads फणाग्ने: for फणाभि: अपः below the seat, or in the Pātāla. Nārāyaṇa remarks अगवति भेगाइपरते तन्त्रारमसहमानेनानन्तेन सवी अपि फणास्तद्धोभाग एवाधाय भूमिर्ग्रताभूदिति भेवः। कृता प्राणानां विमुक्तिः येन सः, this प्राणविमुक्ति is technically called कित.

Stanza 60— ग्रुश्रूषया is practically equal to ग्रुश्रूषार्थम्. Nandin announced the arrival of Pārvatī, and Siva intimated by the knitting of his eye-brow without uttering a word that she night enter the bower. अतः क्षेपमात्रेण अनुमतः प्रवेशः यस्याः ताम्.

Stanza 61—The friends of Pārvatī first worshipped Siva in order to allow Pārvatī time to get over her nervousness. Aruņagiri remarks प्राक् पुष्पविकरणमाभ्यामीश्वरभावज्ञानार्थमिति दक्षिणावर्तः। देव्याः शालीनतापनयनार्थत्वं तु युक्तम्. Mallinātha reads प्रणिपातपूर्व ; the read. ing adopted in the text, which is that of Arunagiri, is preferable as some word like que, meaning 'first' or 'then' is necessary before the actual description of the action of the friends. स्वहस्ताभ्यां लून: shows their devotion to Siva. They would not allow any one else to gather these flowers, they would do the work themselves to see that it was well done. पुष्पोचय:-the expression ought to have been पुष्पोचाय: in the sense of 'flowers gathered by the hand ' according to the Sutra ' हस्तादाने चेरतेव इति.' But the form without the Vrddhi is quite commonly used by poets. शिशिरात्यय literally the end of winter, that is, the beginning of the next season, viz. the spring; hence, the spring season. Cf. the expression शिशिरापगमाश्रिया (Raghu IX. 31) uesd for वसन्तिश्रया. पहनानां भङ्गेः भिन्नः (lit. broken; hence, mixed or mingled with). पादमुले lit. at the root or the region of the feet.

0

no

ju

CE

K

h

aı

श

m er

h

इ

5

u

I

अ fi

V

a

0 य

त

4

Stanza 62—After her friends had made their salute, Pārvatī made hers. She could not shake off her nervousness even though she had got time enough to compose herself, and dropped down the sprout on the ear, and the Karnikāra on the head in the process of saluting Siva. नीलानाम् (dark) अलकानां मध्ये शोभितुं शीलम् अस्य इति. Dark long hair are a sign of beauty in women. विसंसयन्ती lit. making loose, displacing or dropping, कणीत् च्युतः पह्नवः यस्य तेन यसम्बन वा epithet of Siva (गुषभः ध्वजः यस्य).

Stanza 63—अन्यां न भजते इति अनन्यभाक् तम्. When Parvati saluted him, Siva blessed her, saying that she would obtain a husband who would be solely devoted to her. This statement of Siva was not a mere complimentary one, but was bound to be true in its literal sense. The words of great men, unlike those of ordinary people, are always spoken seriously and are intended to be interpreted as such. There is no subterfuge of camouflage of any kind about them. The reading भन्यम् for तथ्यम् is also a good one. भव्य which is bound to happen (न केवर्न कन्यकाजनप्रणामेष्वाचारसिद्धत्वादेवसुक्तं किंतु भाष्यर्थकथनमेवेत्येवकारस्यार्थः। Nara yana). The reading पाके for लोके would mean with reference 10 इंश्रा their result.' ईश्वरच्याहतयः ईश्वर is a significant expression. and is one who is possessed of the eight सिद्धिs, अणिमा, गरिमा etc. The thus has the power to see that his words prove true. व्याह Expression is used in the Parvatiparingua II also (नहीश्वराणां त्यो व्यभिचरन्ति।). Cf. for the idea in the latter half of the verse, बौकिकानां हि साधूनामर्थे वागनुवर्तते। ऋषीणां पुनराद्यानां वाचमर्थे।ऽउधावित ॥ Uttara I. 10. लोके-सवनत्रये, कदाचित्-कालत्रयेऽपि.

Stanza 64-Kāma had been looking on all the while quite prepared to shoot an arrow at Hara when the most favourable opportunity presented itself for the same. Poor fellow, he did not know, that in doing this he was courting his own death, just as the moth does not know that entering the fire means certain death to itself. An experienced archer as he was, Kama never took his eyes away from his mark and as is the habit with archers, continued to touch the bow-string now and then before the arrow was actually let off (ज्यापरामर्शश्च धन्विनां शरसंघानस्य पूर्वरङ्गतया प्रसिद्धः । Nārāyaṇa). This action of Kāma was meant to be noticed by Uma, so that it might serve as an encouragement to her, that there was some one who would be her helper in case of need (ज्यापरामर्शनस्योमासमक्षत्वमहमस्मि ते सहाय इति देवीप्रोत्साहनार्थम्। Nārāyaṇa). The comparison to the moth shows that it was an extremely rash deed that Kama had undertaken. He was playing with fire both literally (as he was later burnt down by the fire from Hara's third eye) and metaphorically. उमायाः समक्षम् (अक्णः समीपम्). शरासनम् a bow, शराः अस्यन्ते अनेन. If the reading is हरबद्धलक्ष्यः, it would mean 'who had fixed upon Hara as his target'.

Stanza 65—Gaurī then made a suitable present to Siva. What present would appeal more to an ascetic practising penance, than a holy rosary of beads? Pārvatī had taken the seeds of lotuses from the holy Mandākinī, had dried them with great care and then had formed them into a rosary. मन्दाकिन्यां यानि पुष्कराणि तेषां वीजै: कृतां मालाम्. The माला is of course the अक्षमाला. ताम्रा स्क् यस्य ताहरोन. गौरी so called, because she was extremely fair (शक्षेन्दुकुन्दधवला ततो गौरी तु सा समृता।). Arunagiri remarks तपस्विन इत्यु-पायनविशेषोचित्यार्थम् ताम्रहचेत्युद्दीपनाभिप्रायम्। मन्दाकिनीसंबन्धात श्वाध्यत्वम्।

Stanza 66—प्रणायनः प्रियाः यस्य सः प्रणायिप्रियः तस्य भावः तस्मात् . Śiva in spite of his reputedly dreadful nature, has a soft corner in his heart for his devotees. He could not therefore refuse, out of etiquette, the present offered by Pārvatī. Madana who 28 read. rable essary ends, l not

o the
—the wers

used

, the pring uesd ningl-

irvatī ough pped d in शीलम् सयन्ती स्य तेन

arvati
ain a ment
ad to inlike
l are ge or

म् केवर्व Nara ice 10

and The

glan

all t

कुचत्

blos

bud!

(Cf.

ह्मव

are c on a

of t

char

love

साचि ing a

IV,

समाग

यस्य

was banl

conf

वृतीय

of ar

the शब्दा

the 1

love. As b

effor

was by s

look

गुमसं

itroi

ny

bayi

corr

had been watching for an opportunity to shoot an arrow at Siva, thought of this to be the best occasion when he could hit at Siva with the greatest possible effect. He, therefore, lost no time in putting up to his bow, his best arrow Sammohana (संमोद्दात अनेन इति, the Fascinating one) which had known no defeat so far. च-च in उपचक्रमें च and समधत्त च show that the two actions referred to were simultaneous. संमोहन, one of the five arrows (उन्मादन, तापन, शोषण; स्तम्भन and संमोहन) of Madana. Nārāyaṇa gives the names of the five arrows to be द्रावण: क्षोभणश्चन वशीकरण इत्यपि। आकर्षणश्च कामस्य वाणः संमोहनोऽपरः ॥ Cf. धनुष्यमोधं समधत्त सायक्रम्। Raghu III. 53. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyānuśāsana, as an instance of समुच्चय and in the Dhvanyālokalocanā, with the remark इत्यनेन विभावतयोपयोग उक्तः।

Stanza 67-For once, Siva's mind appeared to be amenable to the influence of Madana. It was impossible that he would give way at once. But the sentiment of love did enter his mind and he looked at the beautiful lip of Uma with a view to kiss it. "He employed all his three eyes for that purpose. Hara is compared to the ocean which is proverbially serene. It is well-known that the rise of the moon creates the phenomenon of the tides on the sea. When the moon just rises up, the effect on the sea is not so pronounced, but only slight. The sea also is then किंचित्परिल्प्ताधिये: (the reading परिवृत्त means 'abated', the धेर्थ of the sea is its calmness). विम्बस्य फलंमिव अधरः यस्य तस्मिन्. Red lips of beautiful women are often compared to the Bimba fruit which has a red colour. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyaprakāśa as a case of संदिग्ध-प्राधान्य, अत्र परिचुम्बितुमैच्छिदिति किं प्रतीयमानम् किंवा विलोचनव्यापारणं वाच्यं प्रवानमिति संदेहः । and in the Kāvyapradīpa and Sāhityadarpaņa in the same connection. The Dasarūpa, Sarasvatīkanthābharana and Dhvanyālokalocanā (also the Sāhityadarpana) quote it as an instance of Bhava or the manifestation of the feeling of love.

Stanza 68—Pārvatī also, when she saw love in the eyes of Siva became affected by a similar sentiment. Her body had the hair standing on end; she could not, owing to bashfulness, look straight away at Siva, so she had to turn aside her face. She however continued to throw side-long

v at bluc

ore.

TOW:

had

that

e of

ana.

विण:

मोधं

the

ıyā-

ennter h a hat ver-

oon

the ad -

ss).

are

ur.

गध-गच्यं

z in ana

as

of.

yes dy

to ırn

ong

glances at him, and this perturbation of hers made her face all the more lovely. For स्मरत्, the Trivandrum edition reads बन्त which means निमीलत् 'forming buds.' स्फुरत् blooming or blossoming up into buds. The Kadamba is said to put on buds all over, when sprinkled over by the first rain-water. Cf. सस्वेदरोमाञ्चितकम्पिताङ्गी जाता प्रियस्पर्शसुखेन वाला। मरुन्नवाम्भः प्रविधृतसिक्ताः इसम्बर्गिः स्फुटकोरकेन ॥ Uttara III). The hair standing on end are often compared to the buds put on by the Kadamba tree, on account of the more or less simultaneous budding forth of the Kadamba, and the density of its buds. रोमाञ्च is a characteristic sign, like the स्वेद or कम्प, of the sentiment of love, joy etc. साचीकृता—असाचि (साचि adv. meaning 'obliquely '.). गांचे संपद्यमाना कृता साचीकृता तियेककृता. The reason for this turning away of the face is thus given by the poet in Malavika IV, कुत्त्लवानिप निसर्गशालीनः स्त्रीजनः — कार्त्स्मेन निर्वर्णयितुं च रूपमिच्छन्ति तत्पूर्व-समागतानाम् । न च प्रियेष्ट्रायतलोचनानां समय्रपातीनि विलोचनानि ॥ पर्यस्तं विलोचनः गस्य तेन—this shows the great confusion in which Parvail was thrown. Though the face was turned away, the eyesbankered after having a look at Siva, with the result that confused side-glances were directed at him. मुखेन is उपलक्षणे ज़ीया. This verse is quoted in the Sāhityadarpaṇa as an instance of हान (which is a less manifest भान), in the Dasarupa with the remark इत्यादावनुरागजन्यावस्थाविशेषानुभाववद्गिरिजालक्षणविभावोपवर्णनादेव ग्दापि शङ्कारप्रतीतिरुदेति ।, and in the Sarasvatikanthābharana with. the remark अनुभावादेरनेकस्य पुनरुत्पत्तिरनुबन्धः ।

Stanza 69—Siva was naturally surprised at the feeling of love—so foreign to an ascetic's nature—taking hold of him. As he had a complete control over his senses, he with a forcible effort got rid of the undesirable agitation of his mind. He was sure that this state of things must have been produced by something unusual going on about him. He therefore looked about him to find out the author of such mischief. अमसंस्थाकनेत्रः न भवतीति अयुगमनेत्रः। स्वस्य चेतसः विकृतेः. बलवत् with a trong effort, or completely, so that there might be no longer only क्षोम.

Stanza 70—The posture in which Madana is described as baying been seen by Siva is technically called the आलीड posture forcesponding to the 'standing load' position in modern.

and

read

WOI

class wer

WOI usec

सूत्रम्

यस्य

prak

सद्य:प

prac

thir

ban

her

bles

whi froi

समता

XII

me:

tak

can

Phe

que

Sar

Per

gag

musketry. Mallinatha quotes from Yadava the following five postures given in the धनुनेंद्-1 वैशाख (where the two feet are divi kept a span apart, as in the position of 'stand at ease.') hoir 2 मण्डल (where the two feet form a sort of arch.) 3 समह । where the feet are treated equally, that is, are joined together.) 4 आलीड (the left leg slightly bent and the right leg braced up) 5 प्रत्यालीड (opposite of आलीड). Modern musketn recognises only one standing posture, though it has other postures such as 'kneeling load', 'the prone or lying' and sitting load'. See also Agnipurāna Adhyāya 249, for more . details. The poet refers to this आलीढ position in Raghu III. 52, अतिष्ठदालीढिविशेषशोभिना,..। Others seem to recognise six postures instead of five (रमसस्त्वाह—वैष्णवं समपादं च वैशाखं मण्डलं तथा। प्रत्यालीह मधालीढं स्थानान्येतानि षड् नृणाम् ॥) दक्षिणे अपाङ्गे (अपाङ्गी नेत्रयोरन्तौ, अपाङ्गी अपाकृष्टोऽङ्गाद्वा, अपकृष्टान्यङ्गानि अस्मात् वा) निविष्टा मुष्टिः यस्य तम्. Nārāyana seems to read आकुञ्चितसन्यजानुम्. चक्रीकृतं (a च्चि form from चक्र) नार चापं येन तम्. This expression as well as दक्षिणापाङ्ग etc. shows that the bow was fully stretched and a deadly stroke was intended to be given (अनेन प्रहारस्य दृढपातित्वं सूचितम्। Nārāyaṇa). आत्मयोतिः is also an epithet of Madana. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatīkanthābharana, Kāvyānuśāsana and Kāvyālamkāra tippana as an instance of जाति, and in Alamkūrtilaka, as a case of धनुर्वेदनेपण्य.

Stanza 71—परामर्श: lit. a rude touch, hence, attack, outrage, तपसः परामर्शेन विशृद्धः मन्युः यस्य तस्य (मन्युदैन्ये कतौ क्रिध, here il means कोथ). श्रूमङ्गेन दुष्प्रेक्यं मुखं यस्य. Siva had become extremely enraged at the conduct of Madana. He did not expect such disturbance in his penance. He frowned in anger and his face became quite dreadful to look at. In order to punish Madana, Siva sent forth fire from his third eye. कृशानु—fire, कुत्यति ही from 'क्रश् तन् करणे,' he who causes decrease. The fire appeared as something shining at its source. It was first then and then burst into flames (उद्चि:). किल as is reported or 'indeed.' It the fire from the third eye of Siva that is credited with the power of burning down the universe. See notes on III. 4 where Himālaya is said to have been burnt down by that fire, with great flor Stanza 72-The Gods had been watching When they Tight interest from above the performance of Madana.

joined

II. 52,

rāyaņa

क) चार

s that tended

ात्मयोनिः

in the

mkūra.

a case

. out-

here it

emely

sucha

is face

adana,

यति इवि

peared

heni · It is

th th

[II. 44,

fire.

ng five aw the fire arising from the third eye, they could easily eet are divine what Madana's fate would be. They all therefore tried ase. ') intercede on his behalf requesting Siva to forgive Madana. But it was too late. Madana had been burnt down in a trice 3 समपद् and only ashes remained of him. The Trivandrum edition tht leg reads कोप for कोधम्. महत्s in the Rgveda are the wind-gods; the sketry word महत्, however, has come to be a synonym for any god in other classical literature. यावत् तावत् here shows that the two actions g' and were simultaneous. यावत्...चरन्ति may be translated as 'Ere the more words of gods could be heard ' etc. Here च्रान्त is practically used in the sense of अचरन् (अत्र लदप्रयोगस्यायं निर्वाहः। 'तदादौ च' भोजstures или...तदादी चोपपदे भूतार्थे लड् भवतीति । (Nārāyaṇa). भवस्य नेत्रात् जनमा बत्याली ह बस्य सः. भस्म एव अवशेषं यस्य तम्—This verse is quoted in the Kavya-अपाङ्की pakāśa (VII) with the remark इत्युक्तवत् भुकुटचादिविकारवर्जितः क्रोधः स्वःफलदः स्वर्गपातालगगनसमुद्रोलङ्घनाद्यत्साहश्च दिव्येष्वेव ।, and in Kāvyapradipa and Kavyanusasana in connection with प्रकृतिविपर्यय.

Stanza 73—When Rati saw the fire arising out of the third eye of Siva, and realised the danger in which her husband lay, she fell down in a swoon. She did not know that her husband was actually dead. This swoon was a sort of blessing to her for a time as she had lost all consciousness which would have made her even more miserable (as is clear from Canto IV). Cf. for the idea सा लप्तसंज्ञा न विवेद दुःखं प्रत्यागतासुः मतप्यतान्तः । तस्याः सामित्रात्मजयत्नलञ्घो मोहादभूत्कष्टतरः प्रवोधः ॥ Raghu XIV. 56. तीवः अभिषद्भः (calamity, grief) तस्मात् उद्भवः यस्य. The meaning 'grief' does not seem to be appropriate, unless we take the दुःख to refer to the danger to the life of Madana; it cannot refer to Madana's death. अज्ञात भर्तु: व्यसनं (distress, eu-Phemism for death) यया सा. कृतः उपकारः यस्या सा. This verse is quoted in the Sahityadarpana, Dasarupa, Kavyanus'asana and Sarasvatīkanthābharana as an instance of मोह.

Stanza 74—तं विद्रम might mean 'him (Madana) who was an obstacle.' तपस्वी—(नित्ययोगे मतुप्) one who always practises penance. The Puranas describe Siva as being always engaged in practising austerities. वनस्पति:—a tree without dowers (वानस्पत्यः फलेः पुष्पात् तैरपुष्पाद्वनस्पतिः। इत्यमरः।) 'पारस्कर-भैम्तानि ' इति सुद, वनस्य पतिः instead of वनपतिः becomes वनस्पतिः

th

gl

co

to

hi

do

hu

Pa

tu

th

be T

H

se

वल

का

CC

गा

-m

to मुब

यस

se

ch

ne

ey

fo

is

m

ho

m

ba

according to the above sūtra. अपुष्पाः फलवन्तो ये ते वनस्पत्यः स्मृताः Manu I. 47. वज्र—lightning. The comparison with वज्र shows the extreme ease and loss of delay, with which the removal of the larger was effected. The reading अवरूज्य for अवभज्य means the same thing. Siva did not want to remain in that place, as he could see that the presence of Pārvatī was not likely to render his penance free from obstacles. Or, he did not like to be a witness to the discomfiture of Pārvatī or to hear the lamentations of Rati. Nārāyaṇa remarks. 'अङ्गारसदशी नारी घृतकुम्म समः पुमान्' इति न्यायेन देवीसंनिकर्षण ममावश्यं चित्तविकारो भविष्यति देवा वैलक्ष्यविषादादिदर्शनेन कामपरन्याः शोकानुसंघानदर्शनेन च तपसो महान् विन्नो भविष्यतीया शङ्गयेत्यर्थः।

Stanza 75—उन्नतं शिरः यस्य, one who holds his head high. exalted, noble. With reference to Himalaya the expression would also mean 'possessed of high peaks'. शून्या = शून्यहृद्या. Parvatī was moving like an automaton to her house. She was not aware of what she was doing, so completely overpowered by dejection she was. This complete dejection was produced by three causes. First, she very much felt the affront given by Siva to her father, proud as he was, in not even giving a formal intimation of his departure to her father. The hopes of her father again, in securing Siva as the son-in-law were now totally frustrated. Secondly, she was reasonably proud of her beauty, as all women are and the fact that her charms failed to produce any effect on Siva was a cruel blow to her (Cf. निकि रूपं हृदयेन पार्वती प्रियेषु सीभाग्यफठा हि चाहता। V. 1...श्रीणां प्रियालोकफठो हि वेप VIII. 23.) And to crown all, this discomfiture of hers was witnessed by others and there again, by her bosom friends What greater humiliation could there be? It is well-known that humiliation inflicted in private is not so poignant as that inflicted in the presence of others, especially of friend. Mallinātha.reads समर्थ्य for समीक्य भवनं प्रति अभिमुखी (अभिगतं मुखं यह्याः स अधिकं जाता लज्जा यस्याः सा (सीभाग्यभङ्गस्यान्यदर्शनमेवात्यन्तलज्जावहं कि पु संखीदर्शनमिति भावः। Nārāyaṇa). This verse is quoted in Sarasvatikānthābharana in connection with मानिता, and in Kavyi nusāsana with the remark दैवाद्भिलाषाविप्रलम्भी:।

Stanza 76—Himālaya, on having come to know by his supernatural power of what had happened, at once repaired to the scene and the first thing that he did was to take his dauohter in his arms, who needed such support very badly. Her condition also was extremely pitiable. Himalaya also hastened to carry her back to his house as fast as his legs could carry him. This is quite a natural action on Himalaya's part. One does not like to stay in a place where one has suffered extreme humiliation. Himālaya is compared to a celestial elephant, Pārvatī to a lotus-plant, and the arms of Himālaya to the cusks. वेगेन दीर्घाकृतम् अङ्गं यस्य सः, when one moves with great speed, the body is lengthened; this is specially noticeable in the case of beasts. The expression can be construed with सुरगज: also. The Trivandrum edition reads वेगदीर्घांकृतामः (वेगेन दीर्घांकृतम् अभे येन सः). Himālaya's huge body coming into contact with the clouds seemed to make them broader as it were (अनेन विशेषणेन महा-बलतं महाशरीरत्वं च द्योत्यते। Nārāyaṇa), पन्थानं प्रतिगता प्रतिपथा ('अत्यादयः क्रान्तावर्थें द्वितीयया 'इति समासः'। पथिन् becomes पथ at the end of compounds by the sutra, 'ऋक्पूरच्यू:' इत्यादिना समासान्तः।) प्रतिनथा गीतः यस्य सः प्रतिपथगतिः. This expression shows the embarrassment of Himālaya who without looking to the right or to the left, hurried straight back by the way he had come. मुकुलिते (मुकुल—bud, lit. forming into a bud; hence, closed) आक्षणी यस्याः ताम्. The closing of the eyes is due to any excess of sentiment, whether that of joy, or grief etc. Here it was due to fear. Pārvatī so far had not seen the terrible side of Siva's character. She had become completely overpowered by nervousness at the display of Siva's anger and had closed her eyes lest she might at any moment see a terrible scene before her.

In stanza 66, in the last quarter, the reading बाण for सायक is usually preferred. With बाण, the last quarter becomes metrically faultless, as then it has eleven syllables. We think, however, that सायक (which Kālidāsa uses in Raghu, where the metre requires the quarter to consist of 12 syllables) is probably the genuine reading.

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

6

समृताः।

vs the

of the same

as he

ely to

: like

er the तकुम-

यतीत्या-

high.

ession

Pār-

e was

wered

duced en by

ormal

f her

f her

failed निनिद

हि वेषः

s was iends.

nown

that

Malli

याः सा

के पुर

avyú:

by his red to

देव्या

CANTO IV

tan

up afte

hal

SWC

her

Kāi

and

thir

(पुर

HUE

Thi

karo

aris

यस्या

WOI

lam

tort

Wer

to sy

कोसल

Rag

प्रपन्ने ।

तपोवर

वपस्त

Mad

Who

hims

there

foun

tema

one |

Mon

ब्रियः ह

[1-4 Rati regains consciousness and looks about her to see her lord, but finds only ashes in a human form. She becomes completely unnerved and begins to mourn for Kāma. 5-38 Rati's lamentation. She requests Vasanta to make arrangements for the funeral pyre so that she might burn herself to death. 39-46 A voice from the sky advises her not to give up her body, and informs her that Madana's death was due to a curse from Brahmadeva and that he would regain his body, when Siva would marry Pārvatī, pleased with her penance. At this, Rati gives up the idea of killing herself and anxiously waits for the happy day when Madana would be restored to her].

Stanza 1—मोह: परम् अयनं यस्याः सा. विवशा helpless, असह्या वेदना यस्य तत. नवं (नवप्रहणं दुःसहत्वद्योतनार्थम्) च तत् वैधन्यम्. fresh widow-hood is extremely unendurable. प्रतिपादयिष्यता instr. sing. of the future Participle of the causal of पद् with प्रति, causing her to understand, or to experience. Rati's coming back to consciousness was destined to make her more miserable as she had been so far kept in blissful ignorance about the death of Kāma, by the swoon. If she had had her own way, she would have perferred to be unconscious, but fate did not want to let her go so easily. It wanted her to taste the full cup of her misery.

Stanza 2—प्रलयस्य (प्रलयो नष्टचेष्टता swoon, unconsciousness) अन्ते उन्मिषिते, अवधान परं ययोः ते. The first thing that Rati did, coming back to consciousness, was to look about her closely and attentively for her lord, as she was entirely ignorant of the fate that had overtaken him. अनुसयोः—Rati had never been tired of looking at her husband who appeared to her to have fresh charm every moment. अत्यन्ते विद्यसं दर्शनं यस्य—who had gone away completely, that is, who was dead. Cf. for a similar expression सा चात्यन्तमदर्शनं नयनयोशीतित कोऽयं विधिः। Vikram IV. आङ्यातमस्ये गुरु भावि दुःखमत्यन्तद्धप्तिप्रयदर्शनेन। Raghu XIV. 49, इति ती विरहान्तरक्षमी कथमत्यन्तगता न मां दहेः ॥ ibid VIII, 56.

Stanza 3-As Rati looked about her, she saw at a distance the form of a man lying prostrate on the ground. Rising up immediately and believing that the पुरुवाकृति showed that after all there had been no danger to Madana's life, as she half suspected, and that he also had been thrown into a swoon like her, she hastened up to the place, but found to her consternation that the form was no doubt that of Kama himself, but it was ashes all over, so completely and quickly had he been consumed by the fire from Siva's third eye. पुरुषस्य आकृतिः इव आकृतिः यस्य तत्. The reading पुरुषाकृतिः (पहास्य आकृति:) would be in apposition to भरम, being consmued with दहरो. हरस्य कोप: हरकोप: सः चासौ अनलश्च हरकोपानलः तस्य भस्म. This verse is quoted in Dasarūpa, Kāvyānusāsana and Rasaratnākara, as an intance of इष्ट्रनाजात्करुण (that is, the sentiment: of pity arising out of the death of a beloved person).

Stanza 4-वृत्तघायाः आलिङ्गनेन धूसरा स्तनौ यस्याः सा. विकीणीः मूर्धजाः यस्याः सा. समं दुःखं यस्याः सा. Rati, when she came to know the worst, became once again extremely distressed and burst into lamentations. She rolled on the ground, writhing with mental torture, as a result of which, her beautifully adjusted hair were thrown into utter disorder. The whole forest-site seemed to sympathise with her in her terrible calamity. Cf. विलपनिति ^{शेसलाधिपः} करुगार्थय्राथितं प्रियां प्रति । अकरोत् पृथिवीरुहानपि सृतशाखारसवाष्पदूषितान्।। Raghu VIII. 70, नृत्यं मयूराः कुसुमानि चृक्षा दर्भानुपात्तान्विजहुईरिण्यः। तस्याः प्राप्ते समदुःखभावमत्यन्तमासीद्वदितं वनेऽपि॥ ibid XIV. 69 also त्वयोपस्थितवियोगस्य विभवनस्यापि तावत्समवस्था दृश्यते । उद्गिलतदर्भकवलाः मृगाः परित्यक्तनर्तना मयूराः। ^{बेप्}रतपाण्डुपत्रा मुझन्त्यश्रूणीव छताः ॥ Éāk IV.

Stanza 5-and used here in the sense of 'the body'. Madana's body was the loveliest one that could be imagined. When speaking of a handsome person, 'Why, he is like Madana imself' would naturally rise to one's lips. So great a loss therefore is naturally expected to produce the most profound effect. But Rati, for all practical purposes, has as it were temained the same as before. She has not died of grief which one had expected of her. Rati, in her dejection, accuses all women as being extremely hard hearted and thick-skinned. त्रियः किटनाः खलु might be translated as 'can it be that women

see-

mes-

5-38

nge-

lf to give

e to ody,

nce.

nxi-

tor-

वेदना

ow.

the

her

to e as-

eath

she

not full

255)

CD

sely

t of

ver

r to obo

or a.

rant

इति

are really so hard-hearted? 'उपमीयते अनेन इति उपमानम्—One to which something else is compared, a standard of comparison which is superior to the उपमेय, the thing compared. विलासन्—a lovely person. विलास is भूषणालापगतिकमेस चारता। घीरसंचारिणी दिश्मीत गींवृषमाञ्चिता। स्मितपूर्वमथालापो विलास इति कीर्तितः॥ दीर्थे—Cf. दीर्थे कि न सहस्रधाहमथवा रामस्य किं दुष्करम्। Uttara III.

1

f

S

a

1 jê

K

[

II

R

ता

in यह सी

as

ле

su

en

Sea

It

he

Th

कैतन

EXI

COL

(N

 $M\bar{a}$ tive is bha

dear

Stanza 6—क्षतं सेतोः वन्धनं यस्य सः. Nārāyaṇa seems to read क्षतसेतुवन्धनां going with निलनीम्. क्षणेन भिन्नं सौहृदं यस्य सः. (सह्दो माहः सौहृदम् । युनादित्वादण्यत्ययः ।; the form is सौहृद्दं also, there being उभयपदगृद्धि, according to 'हृद्धगसिन्ध्यन्ते पूर्वपदस्य च '). तव अधीनं जीवितं यस्याः ताम्. Madana is compared to a जलसंघात and Rati to the निलनी which flourishes in water. When the embankment is broken for some reason or other, the जलसंघात rushes forth, nobody knows where, leaving the निलनी to her fate. Similarly Madana has gone away, suddenly breaking off all ties of love, abandoning Rati who entirely depended upon him. Nārāyaṇa remarks अत्र सौहृदसेत्वोः परस्परसाम्यं प्रतीयते। निलन्या जीवितसिप जलसंघाताधीनम्। एकत्रसंचितो जलसंघातोऽपि सेतुभङ्गानन्तरं सत्वरं गच्छित गमनानन्तरं च कृत्र गत इति न जायते।

Stanza 7-Rati means to say that Madana and herself had all along been pulling on pretty well together. She had not offended him by her behaviour; he also had not given any cause for complaint on her part. If any one of these two thins had happened, Madana's absence would have been justifiable. But as matters stood, there could be no such excuse. Perhaps he had been joking with her, but could that be a proper time for jest? She had been lamenting bitterly, and jests surely should not be carried so far. प्रतिकृल lit, against the bank प्रतीर क्लात्. Instead of महा, the expression रतये is used on which Arunagıri remarks रतय इति परत्वनिर्देशः स्ववाल्लभ्यादियोतकः । and Narayana, रतय इति नामब्रहणेनात्मनः प्राचीनं प्रेमविषयत्वमनुस्मारयतीत्यथीन्तरसंक्रमितवाच्य स्वानिः। Cf. मनसापि न विश्रियं मया कृतपूर्वे तव किं जहासि माम्। Raghu VIII. 52. This verse is referred to in Vyaktiviveka and Kāvyānuśāsana as an instance of भन्नप्रक्रमता (the construction being passive in प्रतिकूलं न च ते मया कृतम्, which ought to have been अहं प्रतिकूलं न कृतवती so as to be symmetrical with कृतवानिस विप्रियं न मे).

Stanza 8—Rati tries to account for Madana's being angry with her. Perhaps, she says, he had been angry on account of ne to arison

सेन्-व

दृष्टिर्गीत-

कि न

read

दो भावः

being

जीवितं

o the

ent is forth,

ilarly

love.

a yana

संघाता-

च कत्र

f had I not

any thing

iable.

-haps

time

urely

प्रतीवं

hich

Jārā-

वाच्यं

I. 52.

na as

e in क्लं न

ngry

t of

the punishment inflicted upon him by her in private, when he had called her by a wrong name, thus giving signal proof that his mind had been attracted by some other lady. Incensed at this perfidy of his, she had bound him down, as one would bind a thief with ropes, by her girdle, and also punished his face, for having dared to utter the name of another lady, by striking it with the lotus on her ear. समर is put in, to secure an alliteration with समर्सि. It is also a significant epithet. (सार्यतें इति) has a long memory and so is not likely to forget events that have been long past. गोत्रस्य स्खिलतेषु (सपत्नीनामाक्षरप्रहणे-ध्वित्यर्थः। Nārāyaṇa). This is quite a common idea with Kālidāsa. Cf. गोत्रेषु स्खालितस्तदा भवति च ब्रीडाविलक्षिश्वरम्। Śāk VI. [यन्निमितं पुनर्भर्ता उत्काण्ठितस्तस्याः स्त्रिया नामधेयेन भन्नी देवी आलापिता ।] Vikram II. For मेखलागुगैर्वन्धनम् , cf. मेखलाभिरसकृच वन्धनं वश्चयन्प्रणयिनरिवाप सा ॥ Raghu XIX 17. अवतंसेन (अवतंस: an ear-ornament) उत्पलेन यानि ताडनानि. च्युतैः केसरैः द्षिते नेत्रे यैः तानि—this shows that the ताडन was inflicted on the face, as it was the chief culprit. रहस्यन्यवधूनामाक्षर-अहणे सति मया कृतयोस्तादशयोपराधयोरन्यतरस्य स्मरणेनैव त्वमिदानीं मत्समीपं नोपया-सीत्यृहं: । (Nārāyaṇa). This verse is quoted in the Citramimansa as an instance of उत्प्रेक्षा.

Stanza 9-Or rather, Rati means to say, Madana had never loved her sincerely. All the complimentary expressions such as 'O love, you are a part of my heart,' 'your image is enshrined in my heart,' which Madana showered upon her in season and out of season, were merely intended to please her. It was all froth, no substance. If Rati had resided in Madana's heart, she ought to have been dead the moment Madana died. The आश्रित could never remain without the आश्रय. कितनस्य भावः कैतवम् कितव a rogue, कितान् निवसतो वज्ञाति, the Nirukta (V.22) explains it as किं तवास्तीति शब्दानुकृतिः, कृतवान्वाशीनीमकः । उपचार insincere courtesy for the purpose of display, परस्य रजनार्थ यदसत्यभाषणम् (Mallinatha). Cf. उपचारविधिमैनस्विनीनां न तु पूर्वाभ्यधिकोऽपि भावशून्यः। Mālavikā III. उपचार in अलंकारशास्त्र means metaphorical or figurative use. पदम् = वाक्यम् (न पदं पदामित्याहुर्वाक्यं हि पदमुच्यते ।). This verse is quoted in Kāvyānuśāsana, Ekāvalī and Sarasvatīkanthābharana as an instance of कर्ण.

Stanza 10—परलोकं नवं प्रवासं कर्तु शीलमस्य—who has just been dead. What the idea in the verse is would depend on the meaning that we attach to the expression एष: जन:. The expression can be taken to refer to the speaker himself, meaning 'I' (Cft साल्यों—[अयं जनः कस्य हस्ते सर्मापतः श्वेk IV, जनमिममनुरक्तं विद्धि नाथेति गेरे Mālavikā II. 5, कथमेकपदे निरागसं जनमाभाष्यमिमं न मन्यसे । Raghu VIII 48, where similar expressions refer to the speaker). Or, एव: जन: might mean 'the world at large.' According to the first interpretation the idea would be as follows:-Rati means to say that by making her faint away just when Madana died, Destiny had deceived her cruelly, but it was not even now too late to follow her lord. Not much time had been lost. Not only the happiness of Rati but that of the whole world depended upon her lord (According to this explanation, the last part त्वदधीनं is but loosely connected with what precedes. Narayana begins his comment on the verse with अस्त्वहं निःस्नेहः, सस्नेहा त्वं त किं करिष्यसीत्यत्राह ।). The idea according to the second interpretation would be as follows:-Rati means to say that she would not much care for herself, but her chief concern was for the sake of the world at large. Madana's death has affected the world even more in a sense. For, she could put an end to her suffering by committing suicide and thus joining her lord in the next world. But what could the world do? Its happiness solely depended upon Madana and there was no remedy left for it which would retrieve its loss. Destiny has thus treated the world very shabbily (Mallinatha explains एष: जन: by लोक: and prefaces his comment with न च मे कश्चिद्विचारः किंत लोकः शोच्या इत्याह). It is difficult to choose between the two interpretations, Expressions like एवः जनः or अयं जनः are however, more usually found used in the sense of 'I'.

Stanza 11—रजन्यां यत् तिमिरं तेन अवगुण्टिते (veiled, enveloped). घनस्य शब्देन विक्रवाः. Rati explains what she meant by त्वद्धीनं खंड देहिनां सुखम्। In the absence of Madana, it would be well-nigh impossible for the ladies to reach their lovers clandestinely, surmounting all difficulties. So far Madana had goaded them to do so, and had infused strength in them to brave all dangers. But the intensity of love, which can achieve even the impossible, being absent, the ladies now would find it difficult to accomplish their desired object (न हि कामान्धानां भीतिरस्तीति भावः। Malkinātha.) प्रियाः—the reference is to the अभिसारिकां (अभिसारयते कार्ते या मन्मथवशंवदा। स्वयं वाभिसरत्येषा धीरेक्षताभिसारिका ॥ Sāhitya III).

for the idea, [मदनः खलु मां नियोजयित। किमन्न संप्रधार्यते।] Vikram II. [सखे मदनः खलु त्वामाज्ञापयित। शीन्नं नय मां तस्य सभगस्य वसित्म ॥] ibid III, इदयन्तु नाम मेन्ना भवतु निज्ञा वर्षमविरतं पततु। गणयामि नैव सर्वे दियतामिमुखेन हृदयेन॥ Micchakatika IV. If ladies go out even in thunder, lightning and in rain, when it is pitchy dark, to meet their lovers, the credit for it is solely due to love which renders a person almost mad. प्रापयितुम् = नेतुम्, the root नी, and other roots having the same sense take two accusatives, hence we have प्रियाः and वसतिम् both in the accusative case. ईश्वरः powerful, able.

Stanza 12-Wine as an excitant of love is very useful and is freely taken advantage of by lovers. But in the absence of love, the lover is degraded to the position of a mere drunkard who is an object of ridicule. The rolling of eyes red on account of intoxication and the uttering of faltering words—all this adds an indescribable grace to ladies excited by love. But without love, this kind of behaviour would be simply censurable. बाहणी—बहणस्य इयम् , wine. बाहणी is given as the name of Varuna's wife in Sabhaparvan 9. In Adiparvan 67, wine is said to be the daughter of Varuna born of the daughter of Śukrācārya (वरुणस्य भायी या ज्येष्टा ग्रुकादेवी व्यजायत । तस्याः पुत्रं वलं विद्धि सुरां च सुरनन्दिनीम् ॥). विडम्बना mockery, a matter for laughter. Cf. चाहता वपुरभूषयदासां तामनूननवयौवनयोगः। तं पुनर्मकरकेतन लक्ष्मीस्तां मदो दियतसंगमभूषः ॥ Śiśupāla X. 33. लिलतिविश्रमवन्धविचक्षणं सुरभिगन्थपराजितकेसरम् । पतिषु निर्विविश्वमधुमङ्गनाः स्मरसखं रसखण्डनवर्जितम् ॥ Raghu IX. 36. Nārāyana remarks मिद्रामदो हि प्रथमं नयनशोणिमान-मातनोति. पुनश्च स्खालितपदानि वचनानि जनयति । निह तयोरुभयोरपि भावरात्यत्वे तहार्शेनां हासादन्यत् किमपि संभवतीति भावः। Stanza 13—A moon-lit night is an admirable time for enjoyment for lovers. So far Madana and the Moon had been quite a happy pair of friends, enhancing each other's excellence. But in the absence of Madana, whom is the moon going to delight? He would now think his rise to serve no purpose and if he had had his way, would refuse to wax in the bright half of the fort-night. अकथा कथा संपद्यमानं कृतम्—कथीकृतम्, कथाशब्दादम्ततद्भावे चित्रत्पयः। which is merely reduced to words, that is, which has ceased to exist in reality. People now would talk of Madana's body in the past tense. निष्कलः उदयः यस्य सः (चन्द्रोदयस्य कामिनी-क्रामुक्समीगसींख्यं हि फलम्। न च तत् कामेन विना संभवतीति निशाकरस्य ssion (Cf.। गेये /III. जनः

first say tiny to the

pon दधीनं yaṇa तु कि tion not sake

her in iness left ated

लोकः च्यत ions, ially

nigh nigh nely, hem gers.

omalk-कार्त निष्फलोदयत्वमिति दुःखनिमित्तकं शरीरकार्श्यमिति भावः। Nārāyaṇa). The waning of the moon in the dark half is, as it were, due to the moon's grief for the loss of his friend and it would be quite against his wish to wax up again in the bright half. बहुल-कृष्णपक्ष, the dark half of the fort-night when the moon wanes.

with

met I

' अपि इति बह

in el

53. तेर

वतिकृत

33.. ख

XIX.

editio

about

be a p

a gen

(a qu

into a

इति as readin

the c

पण्डितां

plural

तल ho teristi

किमुत र

8āk V

IV,]

play t

the re

singul

whole lainkā!

हेषगृहम्-

Well-L

(1) the

wishe

enly :

are re

Stanza 14 - हरितम् (green, or ईषत्रीलम्) अरुणं चारु च बन्धनं यस्य सः, कलेन पुंस्कोकिलानां स्वनेन सूचितः. In the absence of Madana, the mango-blossom would fade into insignificance. It had been used as an arrow by him so successfully, but now none so poor to do it reverence. The expressions हरिता...and कलपुंस्कांकिल... are to be understood as referring to बाण also. An arrow also has a green-red feathered part. The presence of a mango-blossom is indicated by the sweet notes of the male cuckoo, which are due to their having eaten them (See notes on III. 32). The shooting of an arrow is indicated by the hissing sound of the arrow itself or of the archer (धन्विनां वाणमोक्षोऽपि तछिङ्गभूतेन हुङ्कारेणा-चुमीयते । कूजनसामर्थ्यप्रतीत्यर्थे पुंस्त्वविशेषणं सैनिकत्वप्रतीत्यर्थे च । Nārāyaṇa) The expression पुंस्कोकिल suggests greater sharpness, of the notes in the case of the चूतप्रसन, and of the soldiers in the case of the arrow. Daksināvarta reads सूचक for सूचित. सूचक means the pointed tip of the arrow.

Stanza 15—The bees are represented as if lamenting out of sympathy for Rati. गुणस्य (गुण: the string of the bow) कृत्यं. करणः स्वनः येथां तैः. The reading कर्रणस्वरैः means the same thing. In Kalk VI, similarly, the Kokila is said to produce a faltering note out of sympathy for Dusyanta (कण्डेषु स्वलितं गतेऽपि शिशिरे पुंस्कोकिलानां रुतम्।). गुरुः शोकः यस्याः ताम्, On गुणकृत्ये नियोजिता. Narā-yaṇa remarks. अनेन प्राचीनानेकोपयोगेंन भविष्यतः निरुपयोगत्वस्यात्यन्तदुःखिरोल्समुक्तम्।

Stanza 16—मधुरेषु आलापेषु निसर्गतः पण्डिता (पण्डा संजाता अस्य 'तारका दिलात इतच', यहा पण्डते स्म, 'गत्यर्था 'इति कतः). See notes on III. 32. for the importance of the Kokilā in settling love-disputes. She is the unfailing missile of Kāma to break down the unconciliatory spirit of proud women. Rati means to say that the Kokilās had been just waiting for Madana's orders to go to their respective posts on duty. If not Madana, who would give them the order? रत्यथी दृती रतिदृती तासां रतिदृतीपदेषु The word दृती really ends in a long ई, the poet uses the form

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

6.

Ţ.

1

3.

with a short &, apparently owing to the exigencies of the metre. Mallinatha remarks, डीवन्तस्यापि दूतीशब्दस्य छन्दोभङ्गभयात् हस्वः, आपि मार्ष मर्ष कुर्यात् छन्दोभक्के त्यजेत् गिरम्। 'इति केचित्। 'उणादयो बहुलम्। वृति बहुलप्रहणात् हस्वः इति बल्लभः। The poet uses the same expression र्ति elsewhere also (प्रतिकृतिरचनाभ्यो दूतिसंदर्शिताभ्यो। Raghu XVIII. 3. तेन दूतिनिवेदितं निषेदुषा etc. ıbid XIX. 18; वलृप्तपुष्पशयनान् लतागृहानेत्य कृतमार्गदर्शनः।; संगमाय निशि गृहचारिणं चारद्तिकथितं पुरोगताः। ibid. 23, 3. तां कामिनो मदनद्तिमुदाहरन्ति । Vikram IV). Hemadri on Raghu XIX. 18 remarks दू त्यां द्तिरिप स्मृता इति शब्दभेदप्रकाशे. The Trivandrum edition reads रतिदूतपदेषु कोकिलान्...पण्डितान् and solves the difficulty about the form द्ति. The reading on the face of it seems to be a palpable emendation and could not be considered to be a genuine one. No one would think of emending दूत into द्ति (a questionable form), but the temptation of emending द्ति into दूत would be almost too great for one who regards र्ति as ungrammatical. We therefore regard द्ति as the correct reading, which form, as has been shown above, occurs in the other works also of the poet. The reading कोकिलान... पिंदतान् seems also an emendation made in order that the plural पदेषु in रातिद्तिपदेषु might be properly explained. निसर्गपण्डि-ल however is elsewhere spoken of by the poet as a characteristic of the female Kokila (स्त्रीणामशिक्षितपरुत्वममानुषीणां संदर्यते मित या प्रतिवोधवत्यः । प्रागन्तिरक्षगमनात्स्वमपत्यजातमन्यौर्द्वेजैः परभृनाः खलु पोषयान्ति॥ धिk V.) It is again a कांकिला who is called a मदनद्ती in Vikram ly. In Mālavikā, Vikram and also Śāk, it is the females that play the part of go-betweens. It would have been better if the reading had been रतिवृतिपदे हि. With...पदेषु, Kokila, the singular, would have to be understood as referring to the whole class or species. This verse is quoted in the Kavyahinkāraṭippaṇa, with the remark करुणाविप्रलम्भस्त सङ्कार एव

Stanza 17—वेपथु: (trembling, it is a सान्तिकभाव) तेन सहितानि केपाइम्—P. P. used as a noun (भावे कतः प्रत्यथः) embrace. तानि—those well-known. We might take याचित also as a noun, in which case there would be three things which Rati remembers: (1) the supplications of Madana, to make Rati agreeable to his wishes (2) the embraces (3) the enjoyment. There are however only two चड used by the poet, which show that only two things are referred to. Nārāyaṇa remarks प्रथमं कृपितां मामनुनेतुं प्रीणपत्य याचनं

232

तदनन्तरं प्रसन्नायां मिय सरागमालिङ्गनं ततश्च रागस्य मृसुद्वोधे सित वहुविधानि सुरतानीति स्मरणक्रमोऽत्र विविक्षितः।

fini

Oo Nã

rig

wa!

सेहा

मेव

रुष

मेघर

cer

foo

Ma

im

dec

Bu

des

edi

my

att

अस्य

gal

me

for usu

Kā

tha

Spo

ne

eff

We

he

शक

दिव

भत्

the

विलं

Stanza 18—आर्तवम्-ऋतुरस्य प्राप्त आर्तवम् (ऋतोरण् इत्यण् प्रत्ययः) belonging to the season; the ऋतु here is the वसन्त, कुसुममयं प्रसाधनम् प्रियते does exist. Rati means to say that Madana's death was so sudden and unexpected that even before the flowers which he with his own hands placed on her head, ears etc. as a decoration, could fade away, he had passed away. The sight of the flowers thus makes her grief quite unendurable. Cf. for a similar idea, स्रतश्रमसंभतो मुखे ग्रियते स्वेदलवोद्दमोऽपिते। अथ चास्तमिता त्वमात्मना धिगिमां देहभतामसारताम् ॥ Raghu VIII. 51. The reading स्वयं is more emphatic than नवम् (fresh). The propriety of नवम् is thus brought out by Nārāyaṇa-अत्र कुसुमा-भरणानामभिनवत्वकथनेन क्षणादेव त्वमीहर्शी दशां गतोऽसीति व्यउयते।

Stanza 19-परिकर्मन् is decoration, painting, प्रसाधनम् परि मलयर्जनार्था किया परिकर्म, विवुध-a god, विशिष्टः वुधः येषाम् - त्रिकालज्ञजीवाशिष-रवात्, विशेषेण बुध्यन्ते वा. निर्भितः रागः यस्मिन् तम् . Madana had been engaged in painting the left foot of Rati with the lac dye, when he was suddenly remembered by Indra (see III. 63). As it was an urgent message from Indra, Madana leaving off the foot half-painted, started to see his master. Rati now wishes Madana to come back to her at least for the sake of finishing off the remaining painting work. (Cf. for a similar idea, where Aja bemoans that his wife passed away, without finishing off the half-strung girdle, तव निःश्वसितानुकारिभिवंकुलेरर्धिचतां सम मया। असमाप्य विलासमेखलां किमिदं किंनरकाण्ठ सुप्यते ॥ Raghu VIII. 64). विवृद्धे: is also used ironically. The gods are said to be very wise but they did not know the simple fact that it was a crime to disturb a person when engaged in dalliance with his beloved. They could be fitly called दाहण, as they showed by their action that they had no feeling. They had also sent Madana on a miss. ion which, they knew very well, was an extremely dangerous one. The Trivandrum edition reads विवुधेरिप यत्सदाहणैः on which Nārāyana remarks, विबुधानां सौम्यत्वस्यैवोचितत्वाद्पिशब्दो विरोधमाह, सीम्याल of the gods referred to by him, seems to be चिन्त्य. दक्षिणतास the left side of women is said to be प्रशासत, and so Madana had begun to decorate the left foot first, but before he could finish the paint on the left foot itself, he was called away. On दक्षिणेतरम्, Arunagiri says दक्षिणेतरमिति, तस्य स्त्रीणां संभागसाधनत्वात् । Narayana says that Madana had finished the paint on the right foot and then taken up the left foot when the work was suddenly interrupted by a call from Indra (अयमभिप्राय:-क्षेद्वातिशयात् स्वहस्रोनैव मम चरणद्वयमलक्तकरसेन रज्ञयितुं प्रवृत्तस्यं दक्षिणचरणरज्जनानन्तर-मेव देवकृतात् स्मरणाद् गतोऽभीति यत्, तस्माद् द्रत्तरमागत्य वामचरणमलक्तकरसेन राष्ठ्रयोति । प्रियतमकृतस्य वामचरणस्पर्शस्य विशेषतः स्त्रीणां सुखकरत्वं प्रसिद्धम् । यथोक्तं मेष्वतंदेशे—'वामश्वास्याः कररुहपदैः 'इत्यादि।).. It is difficult to say for certain whether Narayana's contention above that the right foot had been already painted is right. On Raghu VII. 8, Mallinatha says सन्यं हि पूर्वे मनुष्या अञ्जते इति श्रुते:। which by implication might be taken to mean that the gods and others decorate the right side first, so that Nārāyana would be right. But it would be seen from the next verse that the poet has more or less lost sight of Madana's celestial character and describes him almost as a human being. The Trivandrum edition reads एत्य मे for एहि मे. मे goes with चरणम or means 'for my sake.'

Stanza 20—पतङ्गानां वर्त्मना, that is, अग्निप्रवेशेन; the moth's attraction for the fire is quite well-known. अङ्कम् आश्रयितुं शीलम् अस्याः. This is quite a delightful and natural touch. Nothing is galling to a woman so much as the presence of a co-wife. Rati means to say that she would hasten up to follow Madana, if not for anything else, at least for preventing any other woman from usurping her position. दिवि-the expression clearly shows that Kālidāsa is nodding here, and has forgotten for the time being that Madana as also Rati are celestial beings. Again, the विलोभन spoken of would be more natural in the case of a human being newly going to heaven. Arunagiri and Nārāyana make clumsy efforts to justify the use of दिनि, but it would be more honest, we think, to acknowledge that the poet has made a blunder here, although excusable (ननु दिव्यत्वात् दिवीत्यनुपपन्नम् । मरणादतेऽपि राक्यं च प्राप्तुम् । न। दिव्यानामि शरीरत्यागानन्तरं गतयो भिन्नाः। ... Arunagiri; ... दिव्यानामपि शरीरत्यागानन्तरं स्वर्गं एवावस्थानिमति नियमा नास्येव। ...नापि दिव्यानामपि भतृंछोकप्राप्तिरनुमर्णेन विना संभवति... Narayana). भवामि present used in the sense of immediate future ('वर्तमानसामीप्ये वर्तमानवद्वा' इति लद)-विलोभ्यसे has the sense of the future, being equal to विलोभयिष्ये, as

ानीति

ययः)

प्रसा-

na's

tore ead,

way.

dur-

मोडीव

. 51.

The

समा-

परि

शेष्य-Seen

dye, As

the shes

hing

idea,

isb-

समं

64).

wise,

e to

ved.

tion

niss-

rous

hich

The

गेतरम्

had ould

the Sa

descri

S

विलोकित

in the engage pleasa

had u

these

affecti

Vasan

in the

sasano

िंगमेः र the Su

conve

koow

ber in who c

of Ma

trike:

Dade

had by transl:

वेत्रस्या (

he wa

vent l

Verse

नाय.

दियद्व

S

it'is connected with यावत ('यावत्पुरानिपातयोछेट्' इति छट). सरकामिनीड are the अप्सरस्ड, चतुरै:—the epithet shows that Madana would be lured by hook or crook. This verse is quoted in the Surasvatikanthābharana with the remark अत्र रते: कामशोकेन मरणसाहसे मनोडवस्थाप्यते।

Stanza 21—ज्यवाधितम् has been happily explained by Arunagiri as शिलालिखितं जातम्. The reading जीवतीित for जीविता would furnish only the reason for the वचनीय, and would not suggest the form the वचनीय would take (इति शब्दो हेती, न तु वचनीयप्रकारवाची। Arunagiri). जीविता seems to be better as it prominently refers to the way in which people would be censuring Rati after her death. Rati means to say that as a true Pativratā, she ought to have died the moment Madana died (आतीतें मुदिते ह्या प्रोषिते मिलना कृशा। मृते मियेत या पत्या सास्त्री श्रेयर पतित्रता॥). Dying now would not save her from the undesirable criticism of the people that after all Rati could not be classed as a real Pativratā; for, was she not alive—it might be even for a moment—after her husband was dead? There was no help now to free herself from this disgrace. It would cling to her, like a leech, for ever.

Stanza 22—परलोके or परलोकेन अन्तरितस्य (lit. which has an अन्तर intervening; that is, concealed). The reading परलोकत्वरितस्य (in a hurry to go to the other world) is simpler and perhaps better अन्यमण्डन-the funeral decoration of the body before it is cremated, such as putting on flowers etc. In the case of women particularly, who die before their husbands, it is quite an elaborate affair. Women who want to follow their husband in death, consign themselves to the fire along with the body of the husband, but Rati is handicapped in this case also. There is no body left of her husband at all. Both the life and body are gone, no one knows where. Arunagiri rightly rejects the reading स्वयमेन for सममे ा, accepted by Daksinavarta (...तन चतुरश्रम् अन्त्यमण्डनस्याशक्यत्वं सुपपाद्यम्। तत्र च स्वयमनङ्गस्य नोपयोगः). अतर्किताम् of which nobody has any inkling. The poet apparently does not refer to the अतिकितल of the course followed by Madana only, but refers to the state after death in general. Nobody has the faintest notion about it, in spite of the statements in the the Sastras. Shakespeare in Hamlet III. 1, thus beautifully describes the same idea, नोइ

be:

ıtī-

हसे:

by ता

ot

तु. it

be

a.

na

या le

bs

70 lp.

तर

in 15

a-

IIS

an

in.

je

is

re

1e

1

o£.

t.

15

10

But that the dread of something after death— The undiscoverd country from whose bourn No traveller returns—puzzles the will, And makes us bear those ills we have Than fly to others we know not of.

Stanza 23—उत्सङ्गे निष्णं (resting). धनुः यस्य. नयनस्य उपान्तेन्। क्लिकितम्. Rati is reminded of the happy times she passed in the company of her husband and Vasanta. Madana, while angaged in making the bent arrows straight, would be talking pleasantly with Vasanta about the various expeditions they had undertaken in concert. It was a veritable treat to listen to these talks. Madana would also be throwing occasionally affectionate side-long glances at Rati. विलोकितम् might refer to Vasanta also. Mallinatha reads यत् for तत्. This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka as an instance of स्वभावोक्ति, and in Kāvyānu-iwana, as that of जाति.

Stanza 24 - कुंसुमै: आयोजितं कार्मुकं येन सः, हृद्यं गच्छतीति हृद्यंगमः D गिः सप्युपसंख्यानम् 'इति खच्यत्ययः। The मकार in हृद्यं is obtained by the Sutra 'अहिंद्वदनतस्य मुम्'). At the remembrance of Madana's conversation with Madhu in the last verse, Rati is anxious to how his whereabouts. She wants some one who would comfort ber in her terrible bereavement. Vasanta was the fittest person who could undertake the task. He was a very intimate friend Madana and had helped him in various ways. But then ittrikes Rati that Vasanta, if he had been alive, would have made his appearance long ago. She is afraid therefore that Siva lid burnt him also along with Madana. न गमित: खलु might be translated as 'Has he not indeed been reduced?' The epithet war explains why Madhu also could have been burnt, though was not the chief culprit. A very angry man is likely to ent his anger on any one without any discrimination. This Perse is quoted in the Sarasvatikanthābharana as an instance of पाय.

Stanza 25—परिदेविताक्षरैः = विलापवचनैः (अक्षरग्रहणेनार्थावबोधातपूर्वमेकः स्विद्वदेहेतुःवं चोत्यते । Nārāyaṇa). दिग्ध-poisoned. The reading फलै: is-

make are l

for t

This

them

व गु

feath

SUCCE

bow, by h

at lea

come

विरल (

used

(स्थाने

भाज्ञां

root

in th

विसतन

the b

over the v

the t

light

thou

over,

rema

wher

थ्यसन-

(wit

236

also a good one. 400 means 'the tip of the arrow.' The readings अर्दित:, अर्पित: for आहत:, practically mean the same thing अभ्यूपपत्तम्, to oblige, to console. Madhu apparently had been there all the time, though at a distance, listening to the lamentations. He was ashamed to show his face to Rati, being completely overpowered by grief and dejection. Rati could not see him owing to her being blinded by grief. Madhu also did not think it proper to intervene too early, as premature consolation is but an augmentation of sorrow. But now that he had been referred to by name, Madhu made bold to go close to Rati, so that she might see him. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatikanthabharana as an instance of प्याय.

Stanza 26 स्तनी संवाध्य स्तनसंवाधम्. It is a णमुल् gerund according to the Sutra 'परिक्रियमाने च.' विवृतं द्वारं यस्य तत्. At the sight of Vasanta, Rati began to weep still more bitterly, beating her bosom all the while. Her grief which had been pent up before had as it were its gates opened and was to be seen in full swing (अन्तर्भागे निरुद्धं हि वस्तु यथा द्वारे विघटिते सति निरन्तरं निर्गच्छति तथा मनःस्थि दुःखमिप वन्धुजनस्याग्रे प्रलापाश्चसंतानादिरूपेण वहिः प्रसरत्येवेति भावः ॥ Nārāyaṇa । Cf. सन्तानवाहीन्यपि मानुषाणां दुःखानि सद्बन्धुवियोगजानि दृष्टे जने प्रेयसि दुःसहावि स्रोतःसहस्रेरिव संप्रवन्ते । Uttara IV, The absolute correctness of this statement would be vouchsafed by every one who had been placed in a similar position.

Stanza 27—क्पोत्तवत् कर्बुरम् (श्वलम्). The Trivandrum edition reads सहरम्, which goes with एनम्. कि स्थितम-to what miserable condition has he been reduced? And there too, fate is taking its revenge upon Rati. She is not allowed the possession of even the ashes. They too are scattered away by the wind Nārāyaṇa explains किं स्थितम् as स्थितमवस्थानम्। भावे निष्ठा किं किमर्थमवस्था नेन कालविलम्बनं करोषीत्यर्थः। कालक्षेपं मा कुर्वित्यामेप्रायः। स्थित इति पाठे किम् न्तूणी स्थितो भवसीत्यर्थः। According to him therefore, the idea in the verse is that Rati presses Vasanta to have a look at the ashes before they disappear. We think that it would be better to explain the verse as referring to the miserable condition which Madana has been to the miserable condition which Madana has been reduced and to Rati's harsh treatment of the by Fate even in the second by Fate even in that respect.

Stanza 28—Rati means to say that, if not for her sake, a least for the sake of his dear friend Vasanta, Madana ought मोजः। The

hing

been

o the

being d not

hib c ature

that close

n the cord-

sight

g her

efore,

नःस्थितं

ana).

इ:सहावि

f this

been dition

erable

aking

on of wind

मवस्था-

किमर्व

in the ashes

ke, at ght to make his appearance. For, paradoxical as it might seem, men are known to cherish a more permanent and lasting affection for their friends than for their wives. अनवस्थितं-not constant. This is a passing hit against men in general, who allow themselves to be attracted by other women.

Stanza 29—पार्थे वर्तितुं शीलमस्य तेन. सुरैः अधुरः च सहितम्. विसस्य तन्तः ान गणः यस्य. पेलवानि पुष्पाणि एव पन्निणः (arrows, lit. those having feathers) यस्य. Rati means to say that Madana's unimpeded success throughout the world, with his proverbially tender how, was in the main due to the whole-hearted help rendered by his loyal lieutenant, Vasanta. It is meet therefore that, at least for his sake, Madana should not tarry long, but should ome there immediately. पेलव-Amara seems to explain it as बेल or तनु; it means here 'delicate,' or 'tender.' The word is used in V. 4 (पदं सहेत अमरस्य पेलवं शिरीषपुष्पं...) and in VII, 65 (स्थाने तपो दुश्चरमेतदर्थमपर्णया पेलवयापि तप्तम्). The construction जगत wing आज्ञां कारितम् (' हकोरन्यतरस्याम् ' इति जगतः कर्मसंज्ञा) is causal passive, the noot क being one which takes two accusatives, and जरत् is put in the accusative instead of the instrumental. The expressions विसतन्तु...and पेलन्...are significant, emphasising the weakness of the bow. And even with such a bow Madana ruled triumphant over the world. This was due to the assistance of Vasanta.

Stanza 30—Madana is compared to the दीप and Rati to the wick (दशा) of the दीप. When the light is extinguished by the wind, it goes out for ever (when re-lighted, it is another light that would take its place); the wick remains in its place, though it loses all its lustre and is enveloped by smoke all. over, owing to the extinction of the light. Rati also has temained in tact, and is full of smoke viz. unbearable grief, when Madana is dead. The simile is thus quite a close one. असन—calamity, grief (with reference to Rati), and विक्षेप or blast with reference to द्या). The Trivandrum edition reads pt to अविषद्मव्यसनप्रधृपिताम् (अविषद्मेणासद्मेन व्यसनेन दुःखेन प्रधृपितां प्रकर्षेण धृपितामनुज्ज्वment जीम अन्तर्ज्वलच्छोकाभिध्मयक्तामिति वा। Nārāyaṇa). धृमिताम् धूमः संजातः अस्याः ताम्.

Stanza 31—विशसस्य कर्भ वैशसम् butchery ('नृशंसो विशसः करः' इति भोजः।), विश्वस from शस् with वि to kill (पचाराच्). अनपायिनि-कदाचिदप्यविरहिणिः

ex

Bu

(南

इव.

orn

her

She

she

Wit

wit

by bed

mig

her

and

pre

Tegi

याचि

कृतः

(अने

at t

मिय

fire

anor

Rati

Mal

perl

burr

MOI

With

have ज्वल

2238

(Nārāyaṇa), अनपायित्वेन विश्वस्ते (Mallinātha), of which no ham was expected, which was considered to be quite safe. Rai means to say that Fate, simply to annoy her the more, had perfected only half the vandalism intended by him, as things half done make the position more complex. He had killed Madana and let her go scot-free. But Vidhi was a fool not to know that Rati would never survive her husband. If he had not killed her, she would kill herself. Could any one believe that the creeper entwining herself round a tree, would fail to come down when that tree has been uprooted by an elephant? Cf. for a similar complaint अथवा मम माग्र विद्यादश्वानः किश्पत एव वेथसा। यदनेन तहर्न पातितः क्षिपता तिद्वरपात्रिता लता। Raghu VIII. 47.

Stanza 32—तत्—now that Fate has refused to kill me and that it is absolutely necessary to kill myself. अनन्तरम् adv. without delay; or, it might be an adj. meaning 'subsequent' उनलने अतिसर्जनं तस्मात्. Rati means to say that it was the duty of Vasanta to help her in preparing the pyre etc, so that she might reach her husband, by throwing herself into the fire. For ननु प्रापय, the Trivandrum edition reads अनु प्रापय Narayana remarks निधिवेपरित्यात् सहगमनाभानेऽप्यप्तिप्रनेशोपकरणं संपाय प्रधादिप भर्तुरन्तिकं मां प्रापय। प्रियनियोगनिधुराणां सहद्वधूनां प्रियतमसकाशप्रापणमें हि सहदामुचितमिति भावः। निधुरः (विगता धूः यस्य) afflicted 'वैकत्येऽपि विश्लेषे निधुरं निकले त्रिष्ठु 'इति त्रिकाण्डशेषः।

Stanza 33—From the conduct of the moon-light and the lightning, it is obvious that the rule that women should go the way of their husbands, is observed even by inanimate objects. It goes without saying therefore that those possesed of intelligence are all the more bound to obey this rule. तिडित मेघन मलीयते—when the cloud has discharged its quota of water, it ceases to exist and the lightning also is no more to be seen. Each of the two similes of the moon-light and the lightning is intended to serve a distinct purpose. The first simile refers to a case, where the wife follows the husband (who is not dead) wherever he would go; the second refers to the following in death by a lady whose husband is dead. Daksināvarta reads प्रयासने: (by ordinary persons) for विवेदी. Of course by प्रमदा: we are to understand here पतित्रताs.

harm

Rati

, had

hings

killed

ol not

If he

y one tree.

botoo:

भाग्य-

लता ॥

e and

adv.

uent,' duty

that

the प्राप्य.

संपाव

ापणमेव

डिप्

d the mate

sesed

rule.

ta of

to be

the first band

efeis

dead.

बेतनैः

Stanza 34 - कषायः (विलेपनम्) संजातः अस्य इति कषायितः. The expression might mean 'tinged red' as Mallinatha takes it. But the ashes are more or less grey and not red. विभावस: fire विभा प्रभा वसु धनं यस्य). नवैः पल्लवैः कृते संस्तर-the expression occurs in Raghu VIII. 57 (नवपल्लवसंस्तरेअपि ते मृदु दूयेत यदङ्गमर्पितम्). A lady following her husband in death puts on all her ornaments, and adorns her body with special care. Rati means to say that she does not want any decoration for herself. The ashes of Madana would be quite sufficient. She would face fire with the same eagerness and joy as she would go to her nuptial bed. The smearing of her breases with the ashes would give her the same delight as an embrace with Madana did in the past. And with the ashes of Madana by her side, would not the fire of the pyre be to her a pretty bed of fresh sprouts? Rati says all this in order that Vasanta might not think of dissuading her from her resolve to kill herself.

Stanza 35—He is a real friend who helps both in prosperity and adversity. Formerly Vasanta had helped Rati in the preparation of the bed of flowers, and now his services are required in the preparation of the pyre. प्रणिपाताय यः अञ्चालेः तेन याचितः. The reading विनिपाताञ्जलियान्तिताम् (विनिपातः death तत्समये इतः अञ्जलिः तेन याचिताम्) is perhaps better. विनिपात is significant (अनेन याचनस्य अप्रत्याख्येयत्वमुक्तम्। Nārāyaṇa) for, the wish expressed at the time of death is sacred and must be carried out at all costs. वहुताः mostly or on many occasions.

Stanza 36—तद्मु after the funeral pyre has been prepared. माथे अपितम्-this implies that Vasanta himself was to place the fire on her. दक्षिणस्य वातस्य वीजनै: The दक्षिणवात is the Malaya breeze, another friend of Madana, being an excitant of love. Rati means to say that Vasanta, with the help of the Malayamāruta, should see that the funeral pyre burns properly and quickly too. For, the more fiercely the fire would burn, the more quickly would she reach her lord in the other world, who must not have been obviously feeling at home there without her. The reading ज्वलंदे: which Nārāyaṇa seems to have before him, for त्वर्ये: is not so emphatic. Besides मद्भितं ज्वलंदे does already suggest the enkindling of the fire. Rati now wants it to burn as quickly as possible. विदितं P. P. used in the sense of the present, 'मतिवुद्धिपूजार्थेम्यश्च ' इति वर्तमाने जा। कस्य च वर्तमाने इति षष्टी। The Trivandrum edition reads मद्भिना for मां विना

5001

45 1

long

the

dist

हरस्य

exp

hov

and दीरित

Kār

Bra

pro

bur he t

also bay

the

of t

autl

him

dau

beca

Who

of] assu

to t

by 8ky

the महिम्न

दुहिता

मुं त्रस

Rgv

नाध्य

(III.

Stanza 37—Libations of water mixed with Tila, offering of flowers (referred to in the next verse) and balls of rice (Pindas) etc. are offered to the departed by their relatives. Rati wants Vasanta to offer a single libation for herself and Madana; for, in the other world, they would stay undivided and together. According to the Hindu scriptures, the husband and wife are not separated even in death. Arunagiri reads un (so that) for an.

Stanza 38—परलोकविधी = प्रेतकृत्ये, पिण्डादिकादिकाणि. विलोलाः पत्रवाः यासु ताः the sprouts waving by the wind would enhance the beauty of the सहकारमजरीड. निविधः from वप् with नि. which means 'to make an offering to the Pitrs,' पितृदानं निवापः स्यात् (Amara). प्रियाः सहकारस्य प्रसवाः यस्य सः तथा. Rati means to say that Madana would appreciate an offering of the mango-shoots most as he had all along been particularly partial to them.

Stanza 39-इति—having given all necessary instructions to Vasanta as to what should be done after her death. स्थिता ready for, bent upon. The reading faring (firm, not wavering) is also a good one. सरस्वती-speech, voice. आकाशभवा-the speech came from the sky; it could not be known who said it, it was an अज्ञरीरिणी वाक्. This is a common device with Sanskrit poets, a sort of deus ex machina. हदस्य शोषेण विक्रवाम् (the reading विह्नलाम् means the same thing 'tormented' 'oppressed'). शक्री is a मत्स्यविशेष according to Amara. Dr. Oppert, in his edition of वैजयन्ती, explains it as 'a carp, Cyprinus chrysoparcius. Rati is compared to the शकरी, and the voice from the sky to the first shower of rain. Both Rati and रामरी are oppressed; the former by grief, the latter by absence of water, and both are favoured respectively by a soothing heavenly voice and the first shower of rain from the sky. Both would have died if they had not been so favoured. प्रथमा दृष्टि:—the propriety of त्रथमा is that the first shower alone can be said to save the राष्ट्री the subsequent showers making her simply more comfortable. In the case of Rati also the heavenly voice was the first

Kumārasambhava: Canto IV

241 soothing speech, Vasanta consoling her afterwards (see verse-45 below).

Stanza 40—चिरात दुर्छभः न, that is, he would be सुलभ ere long. Arunagiri explains चिरात् as द्वीयसि काले and seems to take the above expression to mean 'he would be सुलभ to you in the distant future' which is obviously not a good interpretation. हास्य लोचने अर्चिः तस्मिन्. चलभ is a moth. The heavenly voice explains (verses 40–44) how Madana came by his death and how also he would be ultimately secured by Rati.

Stanza 41—उदीरितानि इन्द्रियाणि यस्य सः, उदीरित is a causal form, and so it implies the agency of Kama in this respect (अहो-वीरितेति णिचा कामस्य प्रयोजकत्वमन्याभेचारादर्थत एवायातीति शन्दतः प्रयोगाभावः). Kama in trying to create an unnatural passion in the mind of Brahmadeva, committed a great offence for which he was promptly punished. The curse was that Madana would be burnt to ashes. Brahmadeva, however, aware of the fact that he too was to blame to a certain extent in the matter, provided also for the termination of the curse (see next verse). We have not been able to find out the source of the account of the curse and its termination as given by the poet. The source of the Sivapurana has no value as the chances are that the author of the Purana borrowed his material from Kalidasa himself. The story about Brahmadeva's abhilasa for his daughter is usually given as follows:—Brahmadeva once became enamoured of his own daughter Sandhyā (or Sarasvatī). who, wishing to run away from him, when she became aware of his intentions, assumed the form of a doe. Brahmadeva assumed the form of a deer and followed her. Siva came to the rescue of Sandhya, and cut off Brahmadeva's head by his arrow. Brahmadeva remained suspended in the sky as the constellation मृगशिरम् and Siva's arrow became the constellation आर्द्रो which always follows मृगशिरस्. The महिमस्तोत्र thus summarises the story. प्रजानाथं नाथ प्रसममाभिकं स्वां वितरं गतं रोहिद्भूतां रिरमायेषुमृध्यस्य वपुषा । धनुष्पाणेर्यातं दिवमपि सपत्राकृतम-र त्रसन्तं तेऽद्यापि त्यजित न मृगन्याधरभसः ॥ The story is based upon Rgveda XI. 5. 61, पिता यत्स्वां दुहितरसिंध कन्स्मया रेतः संजग्मानो नि विचत्। बाध्योऽजनयन्त्रह्म देवा वास्तोष्पतिं व्रतपां निरदक्षत् ॥ The Aitareya Brahmana (III, 3, 33) contains the following passage in this connection,

1sed

क्तः।

for ring

rice

Rati

ana:

her.

are पलवाः

the eans

ra). Iana

he

ions

स्थता

ing /

ech

was

ets,

ling

शक्री

tion

ius.

y to

jed;

oth

and lied

y of फरी.

ble.

fist

fa

T

a

C

T

as 麻

वा

.D

0

0

st

·(₹

चो

.ब्य si

W

IC

C

.01

he

of

is

W

he

ri

go

यर

D

0

1:

प्रजापतिवै स्वां दुहितरमभ्यध्यायिद्विमित्यन्य आहुरूषसमित्यन्ये तामृत्यो भूत्वा रोहित भूतामभ्येतं देवा अपश्यन् न कृतं वे प्रजापतिः करोतीति ते मै=छन्य एनमारिष्यलेत-मन्योन्यस्मिन्नाविन्दंस्तेषां या एव घोरतमास्तन्व आसंस्ता एकथा समभरंस्ताः संभृता एव देवोभवत्तदस्यै तद्भूतवन्नाम भवति वै स यास्यै तदेव नाम वेद । It is not necessary to suppose that the above is merely a metaphorical description Such unnatural relations are known to have existed in pre-civilization periods and do exist even now among the wild tribes of Africa. As the name of Brahmadeva's daughter is also given as Sarasvati, it seems that the poet, in using the expression आकाशभवा सरस्वती in verse 39 above, wishes probably to suggest that it was this Sarasvatī herself who uttered the comforting speech from heaven. It was to a certain extent on her account that Madana had come to grief. It would be quite natural for Sarasyatī therefore, to sympathise with Rati, a member of her own sex, and to prevent further disaster by Rati's killing herself.

Stanza 42—तस्याः (पार्वत्याः) or तस्यां प्रवणीकृतः, पार्वतीपरत्वं प्रापितः इत्यर्थः। 'प्रवणस्तत्परे नम्र' इति शाश्वतः, प्रवण-devoted to, favourably inclined towards. उपलब्धं सुखं येन सः. Hara, after his marriage with Pārvatī would come to know his mistake in burning Kāma whose existence was quite necessary in the interests of the world. The सुख is the विवाहसुख or the expression might simply mean 'feeling at ease'. Siva would be in the proper frame of mind to do an act of grace in restoring Madana to his original form. The reading समग्रविष्यति would mean 'would make him complete, by giving him his whole body'. This verse is to be connected with इति चाह in the next verse, verses 42 and 43 thus forming a युग्नकः The present verse contains the words utterd by Brahmadeva.

Stanza 43—स्मरस्य शापस्य अविधि ददातीति ताम् . धर्मण याचिता—Dharma was a Prajāpati, born of Brahmadeva's right breast. Kāma was one of his three sons (स्तनं तु दक्षिणं भित्त्वा ब्रह्मणो नरविष्रहः। निःस्तो भगवान्धर्मः सर्वेओकम्रखावहः॥ त्रयस्तस्य वराः पुत्राः सर्वभूतमनोहराः। शमः कामश्र हर्षय तेषसा लोकधारिणः॥ कामस्य तु रितभौयो शमस्य प्राप्तिरङ्गना। नन्दा तु भायो हर्षस्य याम्र लोकाः प्रतिष्ठिताः॥ Adiparvan 17. 31–33). It seems that Dharma, on hearing of his son's misfortune came to the scene and persuaded Brahmadeva to relent a little. Such an intercession is quite common in the accounts of curses given in the Purāṇas. It however detracts somewhat from the grace of the

रोहिता

यत्येत-

म एव

ssary

tion.

civi.

ribes

iven

ssion

ggest

ting

ount

for her lling

प्रापितः

rably with

hose

The

eling

o do

The

e. by

with पुरमक.

rma

āma

नःस्तो

हर्षथ

हर्षस्य

rma, and

sion

the

the 78.

favour conferred, as it stands in the need of out-side pressure. The reading धर्मचारिणि removes this defect. धर्मचारिणी-one who acts according to religious precepts, a chaste woman. The heavenly voice explains that there was no wonder in thus Brahmadeva's cursing Madana and mitigating the curse in the same breath. The minds of the great are moulded that way. They are hard as the adamant, and at the same time soft as a flower (Cf. वज्रादिष करोराणि मदनि कुसुमादपि । लोकोत्तराणां चेतांसि को हि विज्ञातुमहीते ॥ Uttara III). ब्रिनिड (ascetics who have control over themselves) and clouds produce both अश्ान and अमृत, objects incompatible with each other. With reference to अम्बुधर, अज्ञानि means the thunder-bolt or lightning, and अमृत water. With reference to वृशिन, अश्विन stands for कोप and अमृत for प्रसाद. Arunagiri reads समरशापान्तभवाम (सारंशापप्रदानावसानसंभताम् । अनेन वशिमामनुष्रहस्वभावत्वादप्रायतिकत्वमनुष्रहवाचो Sस्या गोत्यते।) and remarks दक्षिणावर्तस्त स्मर्शापान्तभवा सरस्वती पाठमाहत्य न्याख्यातवान । तन्नारमाकं हृदयमावर्जयति. The reading with सरस्वती (Nom. singular) becomes quite clumsy, as it cannot be connected with आह.

Stanza 44—भावेतव्यः प्रियेण संगमः यस्य तादशम्. परिरक्ष—preserve all round, that is, with proper care. Rati is advised not to commit suicide, but on the contrary to take particular care of her body, for there was absolutely no doubt that union with her husband would take place in the future, when the period of the curse would be over. The separation from her husband is but temporary, like the river's losing her current in summer when she becomes all dry. But in the autumn, she regains her current right enough. In tropical countries, even big rivers get dried up in summer. रविणा पीतं जलं यस्याः सा—referring to the evaporation of water. The reading अपि वीतजला is also a good one, 'though deprived of her waters.' वीतानि (गतानि) जलानि यस्याः सा. We shall have to understand ग्रीध्मे here. तपात्यय lit. the passing of summer heat; hence, the autumn which succeeds the श्रीम season. Cf. the expression शिशिसात्यय which similarly means 'spring', the season succeeding the cold season.

Stanza 45—िकमिपि—something indescribable, strange. अहर्य हमं यस्य तत्. सरणे व्यवसायः यस्याः ताहशीं बुद्धिम्. व्यवसाय—determination or it might be taken to mean 'preparation' or उद्योग. सृष्ठु चरितार्थानि (चरितः संपादितः अर्थः एषां तानि) पदानि येषां तैः—the words used were 244 significant and calculated to achieve their purpose. The words of the heavenly voice considerably cooled the ardour of Rati as regards following her husband in death. Vasanta taking advantage of the wavering caused in the mind of Rati, succeeded in making her give up altogether the idea of dying, by pointing out to her the absolute reliability of the words heard. It would be an insult to the heavenly creature to persist in death after the clear and definite advice given. It was wise therefore to wait and see how the whole thing would end, The reading समिभेगृद्धरसे: (सम्यम् अभिगृद्धः रसः येषु तै:) means 'which were full of रस, that is, eminently soothing.'

bu

re

as to

ed

ca

he rig 30

he

all

W

to

for

in

we hea

boo

to acc

ans

wh 65-

tep her reso him arg wis tur fro and Stanza 46—किरणानां परिक्षयेण धूसरा. दिवातन belonging to the day, the affix तन being applied according to the sutra 'सायंनिरम्' etc. प्रदोषः (प्रारम्भो दोषायाः । प्रादिसमासः, प्रारच्या दोषाः यस्मिन्निति वा), the beginning of the night. The reading दिनान्तम् is better as it corresponds better with उपज्ञान्तम्. Rati emaciated and pale owing to grief is compared to the digit of the moon at daytime, which is slender and also pale owing to the obscuration of its rays by the sun; and her calamity to the day. The comparison also suggests future happiness for Rati. As the moon's digit would again become possessed of its lustre, when the day is over and would also be waxing in course of time, so Rati also would regain her full lustre when the curse would have run its period.

CANTO V

The

of

ed-

by:

ard.

in

rise

nd.

ich

the रम्'

the

s it ale

ay-

ion

he

the

nen

SO

uld

[1-7 Parvatī, who had seen her wish frustrated by the burning of Madana by Hara, determines to make a supteme effort by practising rigorous penance to secure Siva as her husband. Her mother Menā tries to persuade her to give up this resolve, but without success. Having secured her father's consent, Parvati goes to a peak which later came to be called after her. 8-29 Description of Parvati in her self-imposed role of an ascetic practising the most rigorous penance, leading an extraordinarily simple life. 30-32 Siva disguised as an ascetic Batu comes to her to test her love for him. 33-50 The Batu asks her if she has been all right and compliments her upon her character which would serve as a model for all ascetics. He, however, wants to know why Parvatī should have undertaken such a penance. for, she already possesses those things for which people go in for penance. If she practises it for securing a husband, well, there could not be any one on whom she has set her heart, who would be so cruel as to make her torture her body like that; the Batu ultimately offers half of his penance to Parvatī so that by its virtue, she might succeed in accomplishing her desired object. 51-64 Pārvatī's friend answers for her that she has been deeply in love with Siva who as yet does not show the least sign of caring for her 65-73 The Batu ridicules the idea of Parvati wishing to tecure Siva as her husband—Siva, who has neither beauty. nor wealth, who resides in a cemetery, who is born-nobody knows of whom etc. 74-84 Parvatī trembling with anger replies that the Batu does not know the real great Siva, hence his disparaging remarks about him. She reiterates her resolve of marrying Siva, whatever the Batu might think of him and gives him to understand that she is not prepared to argue the point with him any further. Finding that the Batu wishes to say something in reply, Parvati asks her friend to turn out the impudent fellow and starts at once to go away from him, with hauteur. 85-86 Siva discloses his own form and vouchsafes that he would be her servant for ever and for ever.

HEC

her

ren

दानत

Ar

इत्यप

mo

Nāi

राशी

of N

one seco

the

The

asso

all t

she

her

Eve

flow

one

a ma

to er

it w

Priv.

a ver

bird

incom

to (§

the ?

Alan

to th

down

246

Stanza 1—भग्नः मनोरथः (हरजायालगाप्तचादिलक्षणः) यस्याः सा. Pārvatī had been declared by all to be the most beautiful woman and she also thought highly of her beauty. But, when she found that her beauty had failed to produce any impression on Hara, she began to condemn it as absolutely worthless. For, of what use is that beauty which fails to attract the lover? It is quite immaterial what others think of it. If the husband does not like it, it might as well cease to exist. सीभाग्यं फलं यस्याः सा. सीभाग्य—good fortune, hence attraction. Cf. for the idea, भोज्यां प्रति व्यथमनोरथत्वाद्रूपेषु वेषेषु च साभ्यसूयाः । Raghu VII. 2. तथा—so precipitately and completely. अक्षणः समीपे समक्षम्, an अव्ययीभाव compound, according to the sutra ' अव्ययं विभक्तिसमीपसमृद्धि ' etc.

Stanza 2-Parvatī however did not lose heart at what had happened. She was determined to practise rigorous penance to secure what her beauty had failed to secure. had placed her aspirations too high. She wanted to secure Siva, the mighty ruler of the universe who had triumphed over death, and she also wanted to have his sole undivided love, by occupying half of his body as had been ordained by Nārada (I. 50). Surely no sacrifice would be too great for this purpose. समाधि: is used here in the sense of एकाप्रता. Arunagiri explains समाधिः as भन्नस्य मनोरथस्य पुनस्समाधानम्. He also reads अवन्ध्यकामताम् (अवन्ध्यः कामः यस्याः तस्याः भावस्तत्ता ताम्). On तथाविधं प्रेम etc. Mallinatha remarks तथाविधं प्रेम स्नेहः येनाधीङ्गहरा हरस्य भवेदिति भावः। ताह्शः पतिश्व यो मृत्यंजय इति भावः। द्वयमेव खलु श्रीणामपेक्षितं यर्क्तृवालभ्यं जीवद्रर्तृकत्वं चेति। For the potency of तपस् to secure the most difficult things, cf. Manu, यद्दु करं यद्दुरापं यद्दुरा यन दुस्तरम् । तत्सर्वे तपसा प्राप्यं तपो हि दुरतिक्रमम् ॥ The poet says that there was no wonder at all that Parvati should practising austerities to achieve her end. She could not have done anything else. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvati with the remark तपश्चरणादिजन्मा नैमित्तिको यथा.

Stanza 3—गिराशे प्रतिसक्तं मानसं यस्याः ताम्. The Trivandrum edition reads गिराशे प्रति सक्तमानसाम्. कृतः उद्यमः यया ताम्, वक्षसा परिस्या आलिङ्गय, महत् great, rigorous. The tender heart of Menā revolted at the very idea of her daughter, a Princess, betaking to the hard life of an ascetic, to which she was a complete stranger. She therefore tried her best to dissuade her from her resolve.

att

ind

ind

on

or,

ınd स्याः

lea.

11-

भाव

hat

ous-

She

ure

hed.

led

by.

eat

प्रता.

also

On

रस्य

क्षितं

ure

यच

ere

of

not cati

UD

u=

ted

the ser.

ve.

C,

महतः मुनित्रतात्—The ablative is used by the rule 'वारणार्थानामीप्सितः'; here the मुनित्रत is not the ईप्सित of Menā; hence Mallinātha remarks तथापि कृतोद्यमामिति मानसप्रवेशोक्ततवात् 'ध्रुवमपायोऽपादानानाम्,' इति अपा- दानलमेव स्यात् (here the motion is not real but fancied). Aruṇagiri remarks दक्षिणावर्तस्तु त्रतस्य मेनाया अनीप्सितत्वात् 'वारणार्थानामीप्सितः' रूपपादनत्वं न स्यात् । निवारयन्ती अपगमयन्तीति व्याचष्ट । This discussion is more or less hypercritical as the sense is sufficiently clear. Nārāyaṇa remarks अत्र कैश्विन्मुनित्रतस्य मेनाया अनीप्सितत्वाद्पादानत्वानुपपत्ति- रामिक्ता । तन्मन्दम् । भाष्यादौ कर्तुरित्यनुकृत्तेरप्रदर्शितत्वाद्।

Stanza 4-मनोषितम् the object in the mind. The reading of Mallinatha is मनीषिताः सन्ति गृहेषु देवताः (there are several deities that are your favourites, at home) which is faulty in more than one way. First, मनीषित as going with देवता is not quite happy; secondly, it is left to be implied what she has got to do with the deities at home. मनसः ईषितम्—सनीषितम् (शकन्ध्वादित्वात् साधुः). The Devatas are शची or इन्द्राणी and others that are more or less associated with marriage. Menā means to say that it is not at all necessary for Parvatī to go to the forest to achieve her end, she can worship as many deities as she likes at home. Again, her tender body would hardly stand the rigorous penance. Every thing has its limitations. The proverbially tender Sirīşa lower can bear the weight of a bee, but if on that account, one were to place a big bird upon it, one would be regarded a mad man. It is not certain whether Parvati would be able to endure the trouble of worshipping the deities even at home; it would be manifestly absurd to expose her body to the Privations consequent upon rigorous austerities. The शिरोष is a very delicate flower, often used as an ear-ornament by ladies (Cf. कृतं न कर्णार्पितवन्धनं सखे शिरीषमागण्डविलम्बिकेसरम् । \acute{Sak} VI). पतित्रन्-abird (पतित इति). क्र-क्र are used to show that there is a great incongruity or incompatibility between the two things referred to (ही कराब्दी महदन्तरं सूचयतः।). This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatīkanthābharana and Alamkārasekhara, as an instance of the वैदर्भी style, in Alamkārasarvasva as a case of कान्यलिङ्ग and in Alamkārasūtra and Alamkāratilaka as that of अश्वीलता (referring to the word पेलव).

Stanza 5—ईप्सिते अर्थे स्थिरः निश्चयः यस्य तादशम्. निम्नं (a lower level, downward course) प्रति अभिमुखम्. प्रतीपयेत्—denom. from प्रतीप

Di

di

Wa

DI

all

OF

ac

he अह

us

sti

(i

स्पः

यस

wi

te:

re

sit

াহা প্ৰত

(:

OF

sū

高 bh

flo

al ex

na

de

as

3 80

भुष

T

(against the course). As it is difficult to make the water flowing on a lower level go against its course, so it is with turning a person who is bent upon securing something, from the course chalked out by him. No cajoling or arguments on the part of Menā had any effect on Pārvatī. Her determination remained absolutely unshaken. The Trivandrum edition reads स्थिरेच्छाम् for ध्रवेच्छाम्.

Stanza 6— मनास्वनी is a spirited or proud woman who does not brook any insult or interference. Nārāyaṇa quotes the following, महाकार्थे इतोद्योगो विद्रेराहतमानसः। प्रारच्धं न त्यजित यः स मनस्वीति कथ्यते ॥ आसन्नायाः सख्याः मुखेन. फलोद्यः (от फलोद्ये) अन्तः यस्य ताह्याय. तपिस यः समाधिः (used here in the sense of 'application'). Pārvatī rather too bashful to broach the subject herself, requested her father through her friend to permit her to repair to the forest to practise austerities for which no time-limit was fixed. They were to be performed till she would secure her desired object. Himālaya knew her मनोरथ and also that her determination was not likely to be shaken. पितरम् and अरण्यनिवासम् are the two accusatives for अयाचत (याच् is one of those roots that take two objects) ' दुझाच ' इत्यादिना द्विक्रमेत्वम्.

Stanza 7—अनुरूप; (रूपस्य योग्य: worthy, proper) यः अभिनिवेशः (आप्रहः fixity of purpose) तेन तोषितुं शीलमस्य. Nārāyaņa explains the expression as अनुरूपे आत्मानुरूपे वरे विषये योऽभिनिवेशः अभिलाषारेकर्षः (this meaning of अभिनिवेश is found in Sak III [सखि दिष्ट्यानुरूपस्तेऽभिनिवेशः।]) तेन तोषितुं शीलमस्येति तथा. गरीयसा exalted or धीरेण. कृता अभ्यनुज्ञा यस्याः सा शिखण्डिमत्-(भूमि मतुप, abounding in peacocks). The expression is obviously used in order to secure a jingling of sounds with शिखर and does not appear to have any special significance. Nārāyaṇa however remarks अनेन केकालापमयूरनृतादिषु विकारहेतुषु सत्त्वि देव्या धीरत्वात् तपोलेपशङ्काया अभावः सूचितः। ...तपःसौकर्यार्थे दुष्टसत्त्वानामभावोऽप्यने नेव धन्यते। नहि सार्द्शाद्यिष्ठिते देशे शिखण्डिनस्तद्भयाद्भिवसन्ति। From verse below, however, it is clear that the forest in question did harbour wild animals also (विरोधिसत्त्वोज्झितपूर्वमत्सरं...). People afterwards called that peak after Gauri herself. The poet very beautifully described to the second and fully describes the different attitudes taken by the father and A father is were! A father is usually made of a sterner stuff, appreciates more the fighting spirit, and looks to the bright side of things.

mother is more nervous and takes more into consideration the difficulties in the way. Himālaya was right glad that Pārvatī was by no means down-hearted and readily consented to her proposal. Menā, on the other hand, was most reluctant to allow Pārvatī to take to the forest-life.

Stanza 8-It was an ordeal for Parvatī to take off her ornaments and to put on the rough bark-garment, Without a murmur, she cheerfully faced the ordeal as she had made up her mind once for all to take to the life of an ascetic and was अहार्थनिश्चया (अहार्थः निश्चयः यस्याः सा). The expression is mainly used to secure an alliteration with हारम् विलोलाभिः यिष्टाभिः (the strings of the necklace) प्रविलुप्तं चन्दनं येन तं हारम् बालारणवत् वश्र (पिङ्गलवर्णम्), अनेन वश्कलस्य नवत्वं द्योत्यते। तेन चाप्रशान्तकषायत्वादत्यन्तदुः-स्पर्शत्वम् । (Nārāyaṇa). पयोधरयोः उत्सेधेन विशीर्णो संहतिः (अवयवसंश्लेषः) यस्य तत्, or the expression might be an adverbial clause going with ब्बन्ब. She tied the bark-garment so tightly that the texture of the garment gave way somewhat owing to the resistance of the fully developed breasts. Cf. for a somewhat similar idea [सखि अनस्ये अतिपिनद्धेन वल्कलेन प्रियंवद्या नियन्त्रितासि । शिथिलय तावदेतत् ...। प्रियंवदा अत्र पयोधरविस्तारियतृकमात्मनो यौवनसुपालभस्व...] kāk I Daksiņāvarta seems to take संहति to mean 'softness' (श्रद्गत्वम्). The हार was also वालाहणवस्र owing to the ointment on the breasts. This verse is quoted in the Kavyalamkarasūtravṛtti as. an instance of the figure of speech परिगृति (the हार is exchanged for the ब्रह्मल) and in the Sarasvatīkanthābharana with the remark वर्णोत्करो नाम श्रुत्यनुप्रासः।

Stanza 9—प्रसिद्ध is used in the sense of भूषित (adorned with flowers etc.); the other meaning ख्यात (well-known) would also do. शैवलें: आसकः तत्सिहतम्. For the sake of symmetry, the expression सशैवलासक्रम् ought to have been शैवलें: Pārvatī, being naturally beautiful, looked charming even with the undecorated matted hair, and the cumbrous uncomfortable ascetic costume. Cf. सरसिजमनुविद्धं शैवलेनापि रम्यं मिलनमपि हिमांशोलस्म अभी तनोति। इयमधिकमनोज्ञा वल्कलेनापि तन्वी क्षिमिव हि मधुराणां मण्डनं नाकृतीनाम्। शिक्षिः I., also पतन्ति नास्मिन्विशदाः पतित्रिणो धृतेन्द्रचापा न पयोदपङ्कतयः। तथापि पुणाति नभः श्रियं परां न रम्यमाहार्यमपेक्षते गुणम्। Kirāt IV. 23, also... स्याणां विकृतिरिपि श्रियं तनोति॥ ibid VII. 5.

.32

vater

turn.

the

the ation reads

does

the नस्वीति

दशाय.

rvati

d her prest

ixed.

sired

ermi-

e the

take

निवेशः

the

this

T: [])

: सा.

ssion with

nce.

त्स्वपि

ऽध्यने-

se 17

bour

ards

auti-

and ater.

nore

A

Stanza 10- Parvatī threw off her girdle of gems and put on instead the Mekhalā of Muñja grass, which an ascetic has to wear. This Mekhalā again, has got to be three-fold. According to Manu II. 42, a Brahmana Brahmacarin is entitled a मौझी मेखला (मौझी त्रिश्तसमा श्रक्षणा कार्या विप्रस्य मेखला। क्षत्रियस्य तु मौर्वा ज्या वैस्यस्य शणतान्तवी ॥). मौजी—मुजलतया कृता. त्रयः गुणाः यस्याः सा त्रिगुणा ताम्. रोमाबिकिया is रोमाञ्च, the hair standing on end, तदेव पूर्व यस्य तत्पूर्व यथा तथा निबद्ध्या—the expression is a little bit clumsy. Cf. for a similar expression, कात्स्न्येंन निर्वणीयतुं हि रूपमिच्छन्ति तत्पूर्वसमागतानाम् । Mālavikā IV. रशनागुणस्य आस्पदम्-जघनम्. The Munja string as compared to the golden girdle was naturally rough and being possessed of three threads, it was still more It was the first time that Parvatī had worn such a rough object on her waist, with the result that constant horripilation was caused on her body by the rough and barsh touch of the string and her jaghana became red. The verse alsosuggests the state of a lover who, having secured union for the first time with another beloved, becomes exceedingly affectionate, with the hair standing on end on his body (अत्र सरागादिशब्दशक्यार्थीन्त्रमपि व्यज्यते । यथा कश्चित्कामी कयाचिन्नायिकया पूर्वे चिर-सङ्गतः सन् अपूर्वया त्रयधिकगुणयान्यया संगतः सुतरां रक्तो भवति, तत्संयोगे प्रतिक्षण-मुद्भूतरोमाञ्चोऽपि भवति, तथास्याः कटिप्रदेशो रशनया चिरसङ्गतः सन् त्रिगुणया तत्पूर्व-निवद्धया विहितरोमाश्चया मौञ्ज्या नितरां सरागो विहित इति । Nārāyaṇa).

occ

of t

cou

was

the

the

char

alta

han

obje

यस्या

तमुक् प्रशस्त

' आ witl

दिवसं

that slen

com

eng

mer

par

her

tion

glar

safe

don sele

mo

me:

asce

res

wer for

Stanza 11—Pārvatī leading the life of an ascetic no longer thought of painting her lip or of playing with the handball (see I, 29). Formerly her hand was engaged in decorating her lip with the red lac dye or in playing with the rubber-ball which bounded up again and again, coming into contact with her breasts and thus getting reddened by the unguent on them; but now the same hand was employed in more hazardous occupations. It had to pluck the Kusa grass for being spread over the altar etc., wherein her fingers often got pricked and it had to hold the rosary of beads for purposes of a japa. The Trivandrum edition reads निसन्न (abandoned) for विसन्न स्ताइरागे: अराणितात (from अरुण with the termination इतद्र तरस्य संजातम् 'इति). कुशानाम् अङ्गराः तेषाम् आदानेन परिक्षताः अङ्गुलयः यस्य सः अक्षसूत्रे प्रणयः अस्य अस्तीति. प्रणय means 'affection 'or familiarity,' The expression shows that Pārvatī welcomed this change of occupation for her hand. This verse is quoted in the Sāhityadarpaṇa, Alamkārasarvasva and Alamkārasūtra, as an instance of the figure of speech पर्योय.

25E

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

Stanza 12-At home, Princess Parvatī had most luxurious couches provided with the softest cushions, to sleep on; she was nevertheless often uncomfortable owing to the touch of the tender flowers dropped from her own head in rollings on the bed, as her body was more tender still. But now all was changed. She had to pass the whole day on the bare rough. altar-site and also to sleep in the same place, using her own hand as the pillow. But with her mind fixed on securing her object, Pārvatī did not mind all this at all. महार्हा (महान् अर्ह: मूल्यं गराः सा, exceedingly costly, most luxurious, महाईशब्देन हंसत्लगर्भ-तमुक्तम्। Aruṇagiri) या शय्या तस्यां यत् परिवर्तनं तेन च्युतैः. वाहुः लता इव (or प्रास्तो बाहुः) बाहुलता ताम् उपद्धातीति बाहुलतोपधायिनी ('व्रते' इति णिनिः ' आतो युक् चिण्कृतोः ' इति युक् । निषेदुषी fem. of निषेदिवस् Perf. Part. of सद् with नि. Arunagiri quotes from Yāyñavalkya स्वायाद भूमी छची रात्री दिवसं प्रपदैर्नेयेत् । स्थानासनविहारैर्वा योगाभ्यासेन वा तथा ॥ (III. 51) to show that an ascetic is to use the bare ground for sleep etc.

Stanza 13-Beautiful women are often described to be slender-bodied and चिकतहरिणीप्रेक्षणा (Megha). They are also compared to creepers for graceful gestures. As Parvatī was engaged in penance, tremulous glances and sportive movements were of course out of place. She had to sit steady in a particular posture, all the time. fixing her gaze on the tip of her nose or on some other object, to achieve perfect concentration of mind. Parvatī, therefore, had to divest herself of her glances and sportive movements as long as she was practising. penance, and so wanted some reliable persons to keep them in safe custody till she would take them back, on re-entering the domain of love after having secured Siva as her husband. She selected the creepers and the female deer for depositing, her movements and glances respectively. The whole thing simply means that her movements and glances before she took to the ascetic life, were like those of the creepers and the deer respectively and that she no longer made use of them as they were absolutely incompatible with the life of an ascetic. Cf. for the idea, कलमन्यभृतासु भाषितं कलहंसीषु मदालसं गतम्। पृषतीषु विलोलमीक्षितंः

गुणाः end. bit

Put

has

old, tled

वाला

The ally ore igh

ich ilso for gly अत्र

चेर-तण-पूर्व-

he to he in

ss en es

TT TT

con hav

वर्तम

to

Bes

dee frie

far

be o

any स्नान

Thi

see

mir

यस्य

इतीर्ग

tou

tos

es, s resp

her

she chil

are

मवित

शिश्चल Utta

स्ताम्

Rag

तिश्व

Rire

Nir

Whi

beas

पवनाधूतलतामु विश्रमाः ॥ त्रिदिवोत्सकयाप्यवेश्य मां निहिताः सत्यममी गुणास्त्वया। Raghu VIII. 59-6)., also, श्यामास्वद्गं निकतहरिणीप्रेक्षितं दृष्टिपातं वक्त्रच्छायां श्राज्ञिनि शिखिनां वर्हभारेषु केशान् । उत्पश्यामि प्रतनुषु नदीवीचिषु श्र्विलासान् हन्तेश्रसं क्राचिदिप न ते चण्डि साहश्यमस्ति ॥ Megha. नियमे तिष्टतीति नियमस्था तया. नियम is the vow, वत. Patañjali mentions the following नियमः (Yogasutra II. 32) शोचसंतोषतपःस्वाध्यायेश्वरप्रणिधानानि नियमाः ॥ which constitute the second step to Yoga. 'नियमाः शोचसंतोषतपोयज्ञहुतादयः' इति भोजः । Aruṇagiri reads द्वयीषु for द्वयेऽपि, which Mallinātha declares to be प्रामादिक. The plural however might be justified by referring to the many लताड and हिरणाङ्गनाड.

Stanza 14 अतन्द्रिता-vigilant, not slack. घटी एव स्तनी तयोः प्रस्तकौः The expression घटस्तन with reference to गुह would mean 'a jar-like breast.' Parvati reared the p ants, watering them herself, with the same care with which she would have looked after her own children. Nay, the plants were even more dear to her than her own son Guha, as they were her first chidren as it were, Guha having been born afterwards. It is well-known that the first child is fondled and tended with greater interest than others. Sanskrit poets are very fond of depicting their heroines wherever possible as engaged in watering the trees and tending them with particular care (See Sak Act I). Cf. also सेकान्ते अनि-कन्याभिस्तत्क्षणोज्झितवृक्षकम् । विश्वासाय विहंगानामाळवाळाम्बुपायिनाम् ॥ Raghu I. 51. The Trivandrum edition reads घटस्तनप्रस्नविनी (घटः एव स्तनः तस्य प्रस्तवः तद्वती) on which Narayana remarks अत्र स्तनप्रस्तवशन्दी वक्यमाणपुत्रवात्सल्यस्फुरणाशी । गुह—Kumāra Kārtikeya, so called because he was reared in a cave (गृहावासात् गुहोऽभवत्।). The Vanaparvan (Adhyaya 233) gives the various names of Kartikeya. Je is also derived as गृहति रक्षति सेनाम्. प्रथमम् आप्तं जन्म यैः तेषाम् . गृक्षकान् - गृष्ट शब्दादल्पार्थे कः । small trees, plants.

Stanza 15—अरण्यभवानां वीजानाम् (नीवारादीनाम् wild corn) अजल्यः तथां दानेन लालिताः. Pārvatī looked after the deer as she looked after the plants, She used to give them handfuls of corn and in a short time they became her close friends, so much so that the deer which are proverbially timid, allowed her to take her eyes right close to their own eyes (which are the most delicate part of the body). Pārvatī did this, just out of child-like curiosity to find out whose eyes were longer and hence more beautiful. लोचने-of Pārvatī herself. Some object to this 253

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

(वया।

च्छायां

तक्सं

नियम

नियमऽ

hich

ादयः।'

atha

tified

स्रवणैः.

-like

with

OWn

n her

Guha

first

hers.

her-

ding

भूनि-

hu I.

ाः तस्य

वशब्दी

cause

rvan

also

一 2 程 ·

अलयः

oked

and

that

her

icate

like more

this

construction on the ground that Pārvatī being व्रतस्था could not have indulged in this pastime, and construe लोचने with पुरः (अप्रे वर्तमानानां) सखीनाम्. The objection is not very sound. There ought to be some period for relaxation of the vow even for an ascetic. Besides, measuring the eyes of her friends with the eyes of the deer would more or less disclose the trust the deer have in her friends and not in herself. The eyes of Pārvatī, again, who was far superior in beauty to her friends, would be more fitted to be compared to the eyes of the deer. On अमिमीत लोचने, Mallinātha remarks इयमेव खलु विश्वासस्य परा काष्टा यदक्षिपीडनेऽपि न क्षुभ्यन्तीति भावः

Stanza 16 - कृतः अभिषेकः यया ताम् . A bath is essential before any sacred work is undertaken (अस्नात्वा नाचरेत् कर्म जपहोमादि किंचन । मानमूलाः क्रियाः सर्वाः श्रुतिस्मृत्युदिता नृणाम् ॥ इति स्मृतेः quoted by Nārāyaṇa). This expression shows the purity of the body. हुतः जातवेदाः (fire, see notes on II. 46) यया ताम्. This refers to the purity of the mind. त्वग् (lit. skin, bark) उत्तरासङ्गः (the उत्तरीय or upper garment) ग्स्याः ताम्. अनया अधीतम् (or अधीतम् अस्याः अस्ति) इति अधीतिनी 'इष्टादिभ्यश्च' इतीनिप्रत्ययः। This shows the आत्मश्चद्धि. The verse describes the daily toutine of Parvati's life. She, after having taken her bath, used to sacrifice to the fire and then pass her time in reciting the sacred texts, wearing the bark-garment. On hearing of her austerities, sages from other parts, far older in years, came to pay their lespects to her. They had not the slightest hesitation in doing her honour, though she was a mere child. For, young in years, she was much old in spiritual excellence, and so her being a child or a female, was no consideration to the sages. They only ured for the fact that she was a धर्मगृद्धा. Cf. for the idea, न तेन गृद्धी म्बति येनास्य पिलतं शिरः। यो वै युवाप्यधीयानस्तं देवाः स्थिवरं विदुः॥ Manu II, 157; शियुतं स्त्रीणं वा भवतु ननु वन्यासि जगतां गुणाः पूजास्थानं गुणिषु न च लिङ्गं न च वयः ॥ Ultara IV ; तामगौरवभेदेन मुनीश्वापश्यदीश्वरः । स्त्रीपुमानित्यनास्थैषा वृत्तं हि महितं जाम् ॥ Kumāra VI. 12,...तुतोष वीर्यातिशयेन वृत्रहा पदं हि सर्वत्र गुणैर्निधीयते ॥ Raghu III. 52...तेजसां हि न वयः समीक्ष्यते । ibid XI. 1; वृतहेतिरचधृतजिह्मम-विवित्तिमुनीनधरयञ्ज्ञाचिभिः । रजयांचकार विरजाः स मृगान् कमिवेशते रमयितुं न गुणाः॥ Rirāt VI. 24. ऋषि-(ऋषन्ति जानन्ति) those who know, sages. Mirukta derives it as ऋषिद्शनात् (because they saw the Vedas which are अपीरुषेय).

Stanza 17—विरोधिभिः सत्त्वैः उज्झितः पूर्वमत्सरः यस्मिन् तत्. That all

th

Fo

an

m

is.

wl

ताम

nu

he

'अ

इति ref

rei

4 3

fro

सस्त

Cf.

अस

wh

dir

bet

COI

bu

ray

मौज

fro

cha

Th

COL

of 1

MO

but

was

peacefully together in a penance-grove, is a common idea with Sanskrit poets. Cf. अहो प्रमाने महात्मनाम्। अत्र हि चाश्वितकमपद्याय निरोधं etc. (description of the hermitage of Jābāli in Kādam). अभीहें प्रसन् अर्चिताः (worshipped, honoured) अतिथयः यस्मिन् तत्. As a matter of fact, it was Pārvatī who worshipped the guests and not the trees, but they are described as welcoming the guests as they provided all the materials for their reception (अत्राक्त देन्या एव कर्तृत्वेऽपि यक्षाणां कर्तृत्वेनोपादानं तत्तदवसरे तत्तद्वव्योत्पादनेन यक्षाणां प्राधान्ययोतनार्थम्। Nārāyaṇa). नवस्य उटजस्य अभ्यन्तरे संभृतः अनलः यस्मिन् तर् ति appears that a special shed had been erected for the purpose of protecting the sacred fire from wind, rain etc. पावयतीति पावनम् अहिंसातिथिसत्काराग्निपरिचयाभिर्जगत्पावनं वस्त्रेत्यर्थः। (Mallinātha). Aruṇagini reads तत्र (गौरोशिखरं) for तच्च.

Stanza 18—पूर्वेण तपःसमाधिना. Aruṇagiri reads सर्वेसमा (श्रोतोष्णाः दिद्वन्द्वेषु सर्वेत्र समा) समाधिना. When Pārvatī realised that the kind of penance she had been practising so long was not calculated to secure for her, her desired object, she began to practise a more fierce penance which could have been undertaken only by stout persons whose bodies could stand all privations. But Pārvatī cared not for the sufferings of her body. She only looked to the goal.

Stanza 19—A golden lotus is extremely soft to the touch, but has great sustaining power. Pārvatī's body was extremely delicate but she showed by her rigorous penance that it had a marvellous power of enduring privations. The poet therefore says that her body, possessed of these two contradictory qualities was as it were created out of golden lotuses. The reading of the Trivandrum edition काञ्चनपद्मन्तीं (possessed of the qualities of a golden lotus) यत is also a good one. तया नरितं व्या जात she plunged into the life, that is, she became an out and out anchorite. So far she did occasionally think of things other than penance, but now all her thoughts were directed to penance and penance alone. The use of ज्ञुनम् shows that the figure speech is उत्प्रेक्षा, as an instance of which this verse is quoted in the Alamkāratilaka.

Stanza 20—श्रवि: is the summer season. The expressions श्रविस्मिता मध्यगता समध्यमा are more or less used to secure

255

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

alliteration. ग्रनि स्मितं यस्याः सा, the sweet smile never left her though she had been practising the most difficult पञ्चामिसाधन. Four fires are kept all round, one to the front, one to the rear, and two on the two sides, and the ascetic seated in the midst of them is to look with concentration, at the sun who is the fifth fire. This was practised by Parvati in summer. when the sun gives the maximum heat. नेत्रे प्रतिहन्तुं शीलम् अस्याः ताप्त. न विद्यते अन्यत्र दृष्टिः यस्या सा. Pārvatī by practice succeeded in nullifying the dazzling effect of the sun's lustre and could fix her gaze at the sun. Mallinatha remarks तत्र सवितेव पञ्चमोऽग्नि:-'अग्निः सविता सवितैवाग्निः' इति श्रौतिलिङ्गात् । ' ग्रीष्मे पञ्चाग्निमध्यस्यो वर्षास स्थण्डिलेशयः' इति स्मर्णात्. The sun is also described as depositing his refulgence in the fire at the end of the day. Commenting on दिनान्ते निहितं तेजः सवित्रेव हुताशनः। (Raghu IV. 1), Mallinatha remarks ' सौरं तेजः सायमिं संकमते '। ' आदित्यो वा अस्तं यन्निमनुप्रविशाति । ' अप्रिं वा आदित्यः सायं प्रविश्वति ' इत्यादिश्रुतिः प्रमाणम् । Nārāyaṇa quotes from Śisupāla (II.51), तेजस्विमध्ये तेजस्वी द्वीयानिति गण्यते । पञ्चमः पञ्चतप-सस्तपनो जातवेदसाम् ॥ सविता is lit. the impeller, प्रसवति इति the sun. Cf. for the idea in the verse, हिन्धुं जामेघवतां चतुर्णो मध्ये ललाटंतपसप्तसिः। असौ तपस्यत्यपरस्तपस्वी नाम्ना स्रतीक्ष्णश्चरितेन दान्तः ॥ Raghu XIII. 41.

Stanza 21—As a lotus appears more charming and bright when the sun's rays fall on it, so Parvati's face, as she directed her gaze to the sun. appeared more refulgent than before owing to the extreme heat of the sun. The face is compared to the lotus not in the conventional manner only, but on account of the effect produced on both by the sun's lays (न केवलं मनोहरत्वात् तद्वदनस्य कमलसाम्यम् अपि तु सूर्यरिश्मसंयोगे नितरा-मीज्ज्वल्याचेत्यर्थः। Nārāyaṇa). The idea is that Pārvatī's face far from being distressed by the terrible heat, looked even more charming. The face being सतार thus triumphed over the sun. The poet however says that this triumph was not quite complete. The rest of the face did not show the least sign of being affected by the sun, but the corners of the eye—the most delicate part of the face—however began to give way but this too was done extremely slowly; they too put up a gallant fight as long as they could—and a little darkish colour Was visible in them. The reading अभितप्तम् would mean 'heated all round.' गमस्तिः a ray (गो ज्ञेयवर्गः तं वमस्ति दीपयति।). इयामिका-

पावनम्. ṇagiri iतोच्णाkind

With

विरोधं

अभीष्टैः As a

s and guests

अत्राक्ते

आणामेव

मन्तत्. rpose

But only touch, emely

tise a

only

ictory
The
of the diamit

had a

nance ire of ed in

ssions ure an 256

dark colour, the expression is used in Mālanikā II (हेन्न: संदश्योत विश्व हि: स्यामिकापि वा।) in the sense of 'impurity' dross.'

wate

dow way,

thos

the I

$mod

the minu

on th

on th

culty

deep

of th

there

prop

प्रथमार्व

drop

ged i

the descr

folds

प्रमस

mean

ग्लीपु स

ग्राप्यभूर

श्यमाः

the !

quote

Instar

and in contin

the 1

Parva

helte

भादित

8

Stanza 22-Parvati observed a strict fast as long as she practised a particular an. At the end of the an also, she did not take any food, but broke her fast only by drinking water, which again she did not seek, and by drinking (that is, enjoying) the cool rays of the moon. In short, she lived the life of the forest-trees which also depend on water from the clouds, which comes to them unsought, and on the moon's rays for their nourishment. It is not clear whether we are to understand by the expression अयाचितो-पस्थितम् अम्बु rain-water in the case of Parvatī also. Perhaps some other sages may have brought the water to her, however did not seek ir. अयाचितम् एव उपस्थितम्. रसात्मस्य = अमृतमयस्य, the moon's rays are supposed to be constituted of nectar, perhaps owing to their cooling properties, and hence the gods and Pitrs are said to drink the moon. उद्भाते is the moon (उद् a constellation, उ क्रोधं डयते. उना शंभुना डीयते वा). पारंणा is the eating at the conclusion of a fast वृक्षाणां वृत्तिः तस्याः व्यक्तिरिक्तं साधनं यस्य सः goes with पारणाविधिः; if the reading is...साधनम, it would have to be taken as a separate clause. Verses 20-22 refer to Parvati's summer-penance, hence it is doubtful whether we are to understand this verse as describing the course followed by Parvati, throughout the year or only in summer. The position of the verse apparently suggests that it is the श्रीध्मपारणाविधि that the poet has in mind. There is no harm, however, if we take it as obtaining in all the seasons.

Stanza 23—Verses 23–25 describe Pārvatī's state in the rainy season. It is well-known that vapours rise up all along from the earth heated by the sun's rays in summer, when the first showers of rain fall down. Pārvatī's body also had been extremely scorched up by the heat of the sun and the other four fires required for the vaiinfinity, and the first showers of rain produced a similar effect on her. The reading दिवियेन for निवियेन is decidedly better as the poet himself classifies the fires into two classes—the fires which require enkindling and are on the earth, and the fire in the sky not in want of any fuel.

Stanza 24-The poet describes here the state of the first water-drops fallen on Parvati's head after the extreme heat of mmer. The drops fell on the head and continued their journey downwards. There were however many obstacles in their way, before their journey came to an end. First, there were those bushy eye-lashes which did not allow them to pass on at once. They were detained there for a while. Then they met the lower lip and after that there was a sudden fall-not on any smooth soft surface—but on the hard protuberant breasts, with the result that the poor water-drops were shattered into minute particles. Some of these particles however pushed on on their journey, but had to pass through the three intricate folds on the belly. After passing through the folds with great difficulty, they reached after a long time their destination the deep navel (and according to Mallinatha, they never got out of the navel as it was so deep; they were as it were imprisoned there)! To such a pass were the water-drops brought. propriety of प्रथम is thus given by Narayana, आतपादिशोषिते शरीरे श्यमिक्रुनामेव तथाप्राप्यपपत्तेः प्रथमशब्दप्रयोगः। The succeeding waterdrops had a comparatively easy journey. Parvatī, being engaled in penance, could not make use of her hand to wipe off, the water-drops from her body. Incidentally the poet describes the beauty of the eye-lashes, the lower lip, breasts, olds and the navel. ताडितं: अधर: यैः ते (एतेन अधरस्य मार्दवं गम्यते), भाष्ठ स्थिताः (अनेन पश्मणां ।निबिडत्वमुक्तम्), पयोधरयोः उत्सेधे (the v. l. उत्सक्के means the same thing) यः निपातः तेन चूर्णिताः (अनेन कुचकाठिन्यमुक्तम्), लीपु स्लिखताः (अनेन वळीनां सोपानवत् विषमत्वमुक्तम्), नाभि प्रपेदिरे (अत्र नाभेः गयम्मित्वनिर्देशात् तस्याः नितान्तगम्भीरत्वं द्योत्यते तेन च नाभेः सौष्ठवम् Nārāyaṇa). श्रमाः उद्विन्द्वः (उद्कस्य विन्द्वः, उद्क is changed to उद according to the Sutra, 'मन्थौदनसक्तुविन्दुवज्रभारहारवीरुधगाहेषु'). This verse is Noted in the Sahityadarapna and Alainkarasarvasva as an ustance of पर्याय in the Sarasvati as that of मा धुर्य and वर्णमस्ण ind in Alamkāracūdāmani as that of श्लिष्ट.

Stanza 25—In thunder, lightning and in rain, Pārvatī tontinued her penance, unmindful of her privations. Though the rains fell continuously and high winds blew all over tavatī lay on bare stones, free from even the semblance of a helter. The nights which are the witnesses of all that men do बारिस्य निवास योगीमिरापा ह्रदयं यमश्र । अहथ रात्रिश्च उमे च सन्ध्ये

33

उक्ष्यते

she

did

ter.

t is,

ved

ater

on lear

चेतो- aps

She

यस्य,

tar,

gods

(उडु

ting

य स

e to atī's

e to

by

ition

that take

the long-

the neen

ther

s of

for fires

2 00

अर्चे

is of यमेश्र ज्ञानाति नरस्य वृत्तम् ॥), kept a close watch on her, looking with their glances—the lightning flashes—apparently with a view to find out if Pārvatī was quailing before the rigours of the storm. Mallinātha remarks that the उत्प्रेक्षा refers only to the बिलोकन and not to the साक्ष्य, as the साक्ष्य is known to be a fact from the passage quoted above. The meaning therefore is 'the nights as it were looked at her 'and not 'the nights were as it were the witnesses of her penance etc.' शिलायां शेते इति शिला त्या ताम् ('अधिकरणे शेतेः' इति अच् प्रत्ययः), निकेते (निकेत abode) वसति इति निकेतवासिनी सा न भवतीति ताम्. An ascetic must not reside in any sheltered place. Cf. अनिकेतः स्थिरमितिभिन्तिमान् मे प्रियो नरः। Gitā XII, 19. अन्तरे वाताः यासां तासु. महन् तपः महातपः तिस्मन् साक्ष्यम् तत्र. क्ष्पा night (क्षपयित चेष्टाम्).

Stanza 26- उदके वासः उदवासः (उदक is changed to उद by the stitra 'पेषंवासवाहनधिषु च') तस्मिन् तत्वरा. अत्यन्तं हिमोत्करा; (हिमम् उक्तिगित इति) अनिलाः याम् ताः. सहस्य (सहिस बले साधः । 'तत्र साधः' इति यत्) is the पीप month, corresponding to January. It is the coldest month of the year. परस्परम् आकन्दितुं शीलम् अस्य तस्मिन् चक्रवाक (चक्रशन्ते उच्यते इति)—see notes on III, 37. Parvatī passed the colden nights, staying in water, with snow falling on all sides: cheerfully bore all privations and forgetting her own miser could sympathise with the Cakravaka pair that would be lamenting each other's separation at night time. In the hottest season Parvati practised the पञ्चामिसाधन, making the atmosphere still more hot; in the coldest season, she stayed in water making the cold still more unbearable. The poet in describing Parvati's penance, refers only to three seasons out of six, the त्रीच्म, वर्षा and शिशिर, leaving शरद, हेमन्त and वसन्त. Narayana remarks अथ शरदः शीतोष्णसमकाळ्वात् हेमन्तस्य शैरयाधिकयाभावाच तरकाळकतस्य विस्मयकर त्वाभावात् तदुपेश्य शिशिरकालकृतं तपःप्रकारमाह । The poet seems to have referred to the three seasons mentioned above as only those three are mentioned by Manu जीक्से पज्ञतपास्तु स्याद्वर्षास्वश्रावकारिकः आईवासास्तु (v. l. अप्तु वासस्तु) हेमन्ते कमशो वर्धयस्तपः। (VI. 23). Also read पुष्पम्लफलेशीप केवलेवतयेत्सदा। कालपकः स्वयंशीणवेदानसमते स्थितः॥... अर्थ-नात्मिन वैतानात्समारोप्य यथाविधि । अनिप्ररानिकेतः स्यान्मुनिर्मूळफलाशनः॥ अप्रयतः सुखार्थेषु ब्रह्मचारी धराशयः। सरणेष्वममश्चेव युक्षमूल्यिकेतनः ॥ (Manu VI. 21 25-26). On कृपावती, Narayana remarks, अत्र चक्रवाकविषयायीः कृपाय अतिवादनेन निजायासापरिगणनं द्योत्यते । द्यापरत्वं च तपस्वनां प्रसिद्धम्।

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

s with view f the

o the

a fact

ore is

were शिला-

ति इति

n any

ā XII

night

y the

is the

nonth

कशब्देन oldest

She

nisery

1d be ottest

obere'

water

ibing

x, the marks

मयक्र

have

those शिकः

Also

. अमे-

प्रयत

1. 21

क्रपाया

259

Stanza 27—पद्मवत् समन्धिना (शोभनो गन्धो यस्य तत् समन्धि, 'गन्धस्ये-इत्यतिसुसुरभिन्यः दतीत्). प्रवेषमानेन अधरेण एव पत्रेण शोभितुं शीलमस्य तेन. तुषारस्य बृष्ट्या क्षता पद्मसंपद यासाम्. सन्धानम् contact, replacing. The reading सन्तानम् would mean 'continuity'. The lotuses in waters had all been blighted away by the excessive snow (Cf. हिमसेकविपत्तिरत्र मे निहिनी पूर्वनिद्दीन मता । Raghu VIII. 45). If Parvatī's lotus-like face had not been there (Parvatī was उदवासतत्परा), one would have been justified in saying that there was a total absence of the water-lotuses. But Parvati's face saved the situation. As long as she was there, she did not allow their continuity to break, as at least one lotus viz. her face had withstood the onslaught of snow. A lotus is fragrant and has its leaves waving owing to the breezes. Parvati's face also gave out fragrant breaths. (Pārvatī was a पश्चिनी who is पद्मगन्धा, a type of beautiful woman the breath of a beautiful woman is often described to be fragrant, cf. निःश्वास इव सीताया वार्ति वायुर्मनोरमः । Rāmāyaṇa). The face also had the lower lip quivering under the influence of cold corresponding to the leaf of the lotus. The face thus could be identified with the lotus with all its accompaniments.

Stanza 28—स्वयम् एव विशीणैं: द्रमाणां पणैः वृत्तिः यत्र तस्य भावः तत्= स्वयंधिशीर्णद्रमपर्णम् , or ...पर्णवर्तनम् . प्रियं वदन्तीति प्रियंवदाः (आत्मनैव कृतस्यात्यन्त-दुश्वरस्य तपसः स्तृतेस्तेषां विशेषतः प्रियंवदत्विमिति भावः। Nārāyaṇa). ' प्रियवशे वदः खच ' इति खच्यत्ययः। ' अरुर्द्विषदजन्तस्य मुम् ' इति मुमागमः। The प्रियंवद्स्व lies in the happy epithet chosen. पर्णम् अस्याः नास्तीति अपर्णा. पुराविदः, र्वेशतान्तविदनः those who knew how Parvatī had carried on her penance, or प्राणजा: writers of Puranas. Satī had been named Parvati, in view of her descent, by her relatives; she came to be called Uma as her mother wanted to dissuade her from practising penance (I. 26) and the historians dubbed her Aparna, in view of her rigorous penance. The Puranas however seem to regard अपूर्ण as a sister of Parvati (मेना च सुपुने तिसः कन्या -योगवतीस्ततः। उमैकपूर्णाऽपूर्णा च त्रित्रत्रतपरायणाः॥ Matsya 3.8). The epithet श्रियंनदाः does not seem to have any great propriety. Mallinatha's reading त्रियंवदां (to be construed with ताम्) would make matters still worse. The commentary of Mallinatha here, to be in a corrupt form; the passage अत्र अपणीमित्यपपाठः, इतिशब्दाभिहिते द्वितीयानुपपत्तेः । यथाह वामनः—' निपातेनाप्यभिहिते कर्मणि न कर्मविभिन्तः, परिगणनस्य त्रायिकत्वात् ' इति । स्वयं प्रियंवदाः परेषामपि प्रियवादभाजनानि भवन्तीति भावः। seems to be a later addition. At any rate the last sentence taxi प्रियंवदाः etc. shows that the reading is प्रियंवदाः, while just above प्रियंवदाः sexplained as प्रियं वदतीति प्रियंवदाः...तां पावतीं..., showing that the reading accepted is प्रियंवदाम्. The reading वदन्त्यपणिमिति is ungrammatical. When we have इति, there is no necessity of an accusative; either ताम अपणीम् वदन्ति or ताम् अपणी इति वदन्ति. Pārvatī's penance exceeded all known bounds of rigour. To live on leaves of trees, fallen of their own accord, was admitted to be the maximum of privation, but Pārvatī gave up even using such leaves. She took absolutely nothing.

Stanza 29— मृणालिका (बालमृणाली। अल्पार्थ कः) तद्वत् पेलवम्. अहथ निशा च अहर्निशम् a samāhāra द्वन्द्व. The poet concludes the description of Pārvatī's penance by remarking that it exceeded by far the penance practised by any of the professional ascetics with their hardened frames capable of enduring all inclemencies of weather. Pārvatī's body was delicate like a lotus stalk, was not used to the stern life of an ascetic either, and yet she, by her indomitable will, succeeded in surpassing the ascetics. The bodies of beautiful ladies are often described to be as soft as a मृणाला. Cf. परिमृदितमृणालीदुर्वलान्यक्वकानि। Uttara I.

Stanza 30— अथ-When Parvati's penance had reached a point which was not attained by any one before, Siva was exceedingly impressed by the penance, but wished to test her affection for him, once, before accepting her as a wife. He, therefore, disguised as a Brahmacarin, pays a visit to Parvati. अजिनाषाढयोः घरः (घरतीति घरः). आजिन (अजित, अज्यते वा) is कृष्णाजिन the skin of a deer. आषाड-a पलाश staff ('आषाडो व्रतिनां दण्डे मासे मलयपवेते स्त्री पृज्जिमायाम् । इति मेदिनी ।). A Brāhmaņa Brahmacārin is to have 2 पलाश or बेल्व staff in his hand (ब्राह्मणो बेल्वपालाशो क्षत्रियो वाटखादिरौ। पैलवौदुम्बरी वैस्यो दण्डानहींन्त धर्मतः ॥ Manu II. 45). The दण्ड in the case of a Brahmana ought to be high enough to reach the hair (केशान्तिको ब्राह्मणस्य दण्डः कार्यः प्रमाणतः। ललाटसंभितो राज्ञः स्यानु नासान्तिको विशः ॥ ऋजवस्ते तु सर्वे स्युरव्रणाः सौम्यदर्शनाः । अनुद्वेगकरा नृणां सत्वचोऽनिमद्षिताः ॥ ibid. II. 45, 47). ब्रह्ममयेन ब्रह्म वेदः तेन अध्ययनं लक्ष्यते । अध्ययनमयेन वेदाध्ययनप्रकर्षजनितेनेत्यर्थः। (Nārāyaṇa), exceedingly refulgent owing to his study of the Vedas. The reading वर्षेसा for तेजसा is also a good one. The meaning is the same. The expression ब्रह्मवर्स occurs in Manu also, त्रह्मवर्चसकामस्य कार्यं विश्रस्य पश्चमे । (II. 37). जटिलः =जटावान् (मुण्डो वा जिटलो वा स्याद्थवा स्याच्छिखाजटः। ibid II, 219), शरीरबद्धः

9Ve

hat

is.

an tī's

on

be ing

हथ

ion

he eir

of

ot

ier

he

5 2

a

aser

le,

ű.

he

त्री

2

1

je.

ir

नो

11

न

a

Ħ

5:

बढं शरीरं येन सः, the form would be also बद्धशरीरः, बाहितामचादिषु पाठाव साधः। The reading श्रार्यक्यः is to be explained as शरीरं बधातीति शरिबन्धः। प्रथमाश्रमः that is, the ब्रह्मचर्याश्रम, as it is the first in order of the four stages of life mentioned in the Sastras. त्रहाचारी गृहस्यक्ष बानप्रस्थो यतिस्तथा । एते गृहस्थप्रभवाश्वत्वारः पृथगाश्रमाः ॥ Manu VI, 87. See Manu Adhyaya II, for a detailed description of the life of a Brahmacarin. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvata as an instance of नर्भगर्भ and in Citramimansa with the remark अत्रीपमा-प्रतीतिस्थले यथोत्रेक्षायां पर्यवसानम् ।. An additional verse is read by some before the present verse, सुराः समुद्रीक्य नगेन्द्रकन्यया कृतं तपः शम्भवशक्रियाक्षमम् । ययाचिरे तं प्रणिपत्य दुःखिताः पति चमूनां सुतमाजिहेतम् ॥ 'The distressed gods, seeing that the penance practised by the daughter of the lord of mountains, was capable of attracting Siva, falling at his feet, begged of him [to produce] a son, the commander of the forces, for leading them in battle.' The intervention of the gods is hinted by the poet in VI. 27, सोडहं तृष्णातुरैर्वृष्टिं विद्यत्वानिव चातकैः । अरिविप्रकृतैर्देवैः प्रसूतिं प्रति याचितः ॥. The introduction of the ascetic, however, without, actually stating who he is at this stage seems to be more poetic,

Stanza 31—अतिथिषु साध्वी आतिथेयी one who treats guests with particular regard. बहुमानः पूर्वे यस्याः ताहस्या, सपर्या worship, the offering of Arghya etc. Pārvatī treated all guests with great courtesy. But this particular ascetic, possessed as he was of an exceptionally refulgent form, was given a specially warm welcome. The poet says there was no wonder at all in this action of Pārvatī. For, noble forms do exact a special treatment even at the hands of those who have come to look upon all objects with a समग्रदि. साम्य is समत्व. Mallinātha takes साम्येऽपि (सित्) as a loc. abs. construction. According to him the idea seems to be that though Pārvatī and the ascetic were on an equal footing, he was given a special treatment owing to his being possessed of a noble form (साधवो न साम्याभिनिवोशिन इति भावः). The Trivandrum edition reads साम्येऽभिनिविष्ठचेतसाम्. An अपि however seems to be necessary.

Stanza 32—परिगृह्य is the same thing as प्रतिगृह्य. नाम is used here in the sense of अपरमार्थे. The ascetic who was really Siva was not fatigued at all. He had however to play the part of an ascetic and so he rested for a while in order to 115

to

is हां

स्य

qı

T

by सा

पद

द

of

gr

if

th

ri

W

ज

io

W

in

th

th

अ

re

as

e

ai

. Co

0 al

fc

e

n

le

remove his fatigue. He showed that he was taking rest for a while, though not really fatigued. Siva had almost made up his mind to accept Pārvatī as his wife. He would have fain liked to look at Umā with affectionate eyes and to deal with her with greater familiarity. But his disguise required that he should act towards her without the display of any special concern and so he behaved himself with great propriety so as to arouse no suspicion. ऋजुना एव, that is, विलाससून्येन अनुज्यितः ऋमः येन सः. The expression is mainly used for the purpose of securing alliteration with प्रचक्रमे. ऋम seems to have been used here in the sense of 'propriety,' 'proper manners.' Nārāyaṇa however says कुशलप्रश्रमारभ्य तर्पश्ररणकारणप्रश्रपर्यन्तो वस्यमाणो वचनविन्यासक्रमोऽत्र कमशब्देन विवक्षितः।

Stanza 33-squ used at the beginning of a sentence, introduces a question. It can also be translated 'I hope that.' समिधः कुजाश्र समित्कुंशम्—a समाहारद्वन्द्व compound. स्नानम् एव विधिः तस्मिन् क्षमाणि. The ascetic wants to know whether the materials required for the penance could be had in abundance and in the form in which the ascetics require them. The waters would be स्नानिविधिक्षम if they are quite pure and clear. Siva was aware that Parvati had been practising a penance beyond all her powers of endurance. Hence he purposely asks her whether she had not been over-exerting herself on any accour. To keep up physically strong ought to be the first consideration with those who want to achieve anything. A sound mind in a sound body, says the proverb. It is a sad fact however that this important principle is often lost sight of. आराम् first, important. Narayana remarks शीर्यत इति शरीरमुच्यते । तस्मार् रक्षणाभावे सद्य एव शीर्यत न च तद्भावे तपश्चरितुं शक्यमिति तपसि तच्छक्त्यनुसरणमि प्रष्टव्यमेवेत्यभिप्रायः।

Stanza 34—त्वया आवर्जितेन वारिणा संग्तम्. वीरुष् (विरुणिद्ध इति) is a creeper which has शाखापत्रसंचय अनुवन्धि, having no interruption. संबन्धि सततासक्तावनुबन्धः प्रकीतितः इति भोजः। चिरोजिन्नतः अलक्तकः येन तथाभूतेन सताअपि पाटलेन, दन्तवासस् (दन्तान् वस्ते छादयतीति) the lower lip, lit. which covers the teeth. Siva, in spite of himself, is forced to use language in the latter half of the verse, which would be more appropriate in the mouth of a gallant. The shoots are said to resemble the lower lip which thus becomes the उपमान. The lower lip again is unaided by the decoration of the lac dye, the 18

d

25 ie al

as H:

g

n

E

न

न्

use of which had long been given up by Pārvatī, since she began to practise austerities. दन्तवाससा तुलाम् आरोहित, here the word तुला is used with the instrumental (Cf. नभसा निमृतेन्द्रना तुलामुदितार्केण समाक्रीह तत्। Raghu VIII). Now, the sūtra तुल्यार्थरतुलोपमाभ्यां तृतीयान्यतर्माम् forbids the use of तुला with the instrumental; the example quoted कृष्णस्य तुला नास्ति, shows the use of तुला with the genitive. The use of the word with the instrumental is usually defended by understanding two तुला words, one सहशपदार्थवाची and the other साहर्यपदार्थवाची. and taking the तृतीयाप्रतिषेध as referring to the सहशपदार्थवाचकतुलाइन्द only.

Stanza 35 - करस्थानां दर्भाणां प्रणयात् अपराधिषु. The reading करस्थ-दर्भप्रणयापहारिषु (करस्थान् दर्भान् प्रणयेन अपहरन्तीति तेषु) means 'who carry off through love, the Darbhas in your hand.' प्रणय, desire or greed; affection. Parvatī would have been perfectly justified if she had become angry with the deer who would take off the darbha grass collected with great care by her for religious rites. But great ascetics or men do not get angry with persons who have offended them (अयमेव हि महामुनीनां स्वभावः यत् सापराघेऽपि जने द्यावत्त्वमिति भावः। Nārāyaṇa). The latter half of the verse implies that Parvati's eyes are superior to the eyes of the deer who only make themselves ridiculous by clumsily endeavouring to show that their eyes resemble those of Parvati. As in the last verse, this is a sentiment worthy of being put in the mouth of a true gallant. उत्पलस्य आक्षेपः (आक्षेपशन्दोऽत्र इन्यपरः। आक्षिप्यमाणम् उत्पलम् उत्पलाक्षेपः। Nārāyaṇa) तदूत् चलैः. Mallinātha's reading य उत्पलाक्षि प्रचलैविलोचनैः, does not appear to be a good one, as there is no propriety in calling Parvati उत्पलाक्षी, when her eyes are to be described as being superior to those of the deer, and again, in the latter half of the last verse also, we have no vocative expression. There is obviously a similarity of constructions in the case of the last verse and the present one.

Stanza 36 अपिनिरंतुं शिलमस्य व्यभिनारि न व्यभिनारि अव्यभिनारि allowing no exception, always true. उदारं दर्शनं यस्याः साः तथाहि for, to explain the same. Parvati's life is so spotless that not even the breath of a scandal dare reach it. It has become a model to be looked to even for the professional ascetics who lead the purest life. The idea that beauty or noble form and good conduct go together is a very common one with poets. Cf. [न ताहशा आकृतिनिशेषा गुणविरोधिनो भगन्ते।] Sak IV; न ह्याकृतिः सुसर्शे विजहाति कृतम्। Mrccha IX; भियेत वा सदकृतमीहशस्य निर्माणस्य। Uttara IV; आकृतिमनुगृह्यान्ते गुणाः। Viddha; न तुलाविषये तवाकृतिने वचोवरमीनि ते सुशीलता। त्वदुदाहरणाकृतो गुणा इति सामुद्रिकसारमुद्रणा ॥ Naisadha II; यत्राकृतिस्तत्र गुणा वसान्ते; 'I will believe thou hast a mind that suits With this thy fair and outward character.' Shakespeare, Twelfth Night, I, Sc. 2: This verse is quoted in the Kāvyūnuśūsana as an instance of अश्वीन्तरन्यास.

(7

स्या

As

di

Śiv

चित

तस्म

त्रति

सा

COL

mi

are pec

unr

War

mat

den

पदी

ये सः

mar

seve

sup

seve नी सं

II. 5

Par

asce

emb

natu

beca

and requit, sh

expl first

becar

Stanza 37—विकीणैं: सप्तर्पाणां (सप्त च ऋषयान्तेषाम्) विलिभेः प्रहसन्ति तैः. The reading प्रभासिभिः would mean 'resplendent'. न आविहै: (turbid) अनाविलै: . अनाविल pure, virtuous. For सप्तिषेड see notes on I. 16. They are described in VI. 5-11 also. VI. 5 refers to their taking a bath in the heavenly: Ganges, आप्छतास्तीरमन्दार-कुसुमोक्तिरवीचिषु । व्योमगङ्गाप्रवाहेषु दिङ्नागमद्गन्धिषु ॥. The waters of the Ganges, holy because of their falling down from heaven, were rendered more holy on account of their being used by the holy seven sages. The possession of these waters made Himālaya very sacred. But the sahctity of Himālaya was increased a hundred-fold by the virtuous and pure course of conduct of Parvati. The birth of such a daughter as Parvati sanctified Himālaya and his whole family. The waters of the Ganges may sometimes grow turbid, but Parvatī's acts were always अनाविल. बलि-oblations, such as flowers etc. बलिशन्द्रेनात्र तदुपयुक्तानि कुमुमादीनि लक्ष्यन्ते। (Narayana).

Stanza 38—त्रयाणां (धर्मकामार्थाणाम्) वर्गः त्रिवर्गः तत्र सारः (the best part, essence). मनसः निर्विषयो अर्थकामो (अर्थश्च कामश्च) यस्याः त्वया. So far, it had been known only by hearsay that Dharma was the best of the three अर्थेड. But now the fact that Pārvatī whose conduct was a model to be followed, had selected only Dharma, raised it greatly in the estimation of all. भाविन-प्रशस्ताभिप्राय. Aruṇagiri reads भामिनि and explains it as देनसंपन्ने (भाम देवानुक्ल्यं च सौभाग्यं चापि कथ्यते। श्वित पुराणकविः। Nārāyaṇa). Dakṣiṇāvarta explains भामिनि as कोपने which is the usual meaning of the expression and takes the expression to be a taunting one (तपसा यं कंचित कामयमानेव उद्ध्यसे ततः कामाइ धर्मवळप्रशंसया मा स्म कुप्येत्युपालम्भगर्भ संबोधनम्।). Aruṇagiri finds fault with this explanation on the ground that if it is accepted, the expression मनोनिर्विषयार्थकामया would also be an उपालम्म

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

(तदिभित्रायत्वे मनोनिर्विषयार्थकामत्वं त्वपरमार्थं स्यादिति वाक्यमेवेदमुपालम्मपर्यवसायि स्यात्। तथाशङ्कनीयत्वं न विस्नम्भणीयत्वम् तत्थोत्तरवाक्येषु च प्रत्ययो न भवेत्।) As a matter of fact, Siva knows that Pārvatī's mind was directed towards securing a husband and so to a certain extent Siva's address is अपरमार्थं. Nārāyaṇa remarks यस्मात् त्वया यौवनो-वितान् कामान् पितृगृहगतान्यतिस्रलभानि धनान्यप्यनाहत्य धर्म एव साभिप्रायं सेव्यते तस्मात् धर्मार्थंकामानां मध्ये धर्मस्यैव प्राधान्यमिति मे निश्रयो जात इति भावः।

Stanza 39 प्रयुक्तः सत्कारिवशेषः यास्मन् तम्. Arunagiri reads सा अतिपत्तम्. सा you who have treated me so kindly. संनतं गात्रं यस्याः सा, संनत stooping, charming ('नतं चारु संनतम् दित भोजः।). संनतम् coming together, friendship. सप्ताभिः पदैः अवाप्यते इति साप्तपदीनम्, (पद might mean 'a word' or 'a step; 'formed when seven words are exchanged or seven steps are gone over together). Good people become friends soon enough. They do not practise unnecessary reserve. This is said because the ascetic now wants to ask Parvati certain questions about her private matters. The special hospitality accorded to him also emboldens him to ask such questions. For साप्तपदीन संख्य, cf. प्राहः साप्त-प्दीं मैत्रीं जनाः शास्त्रविचक्षणाः।, सतां सप्तपदां मैत्री सत्सतां त्रिपदा स्पृता। सत्सतामपि ये सन्तस्तेषां मैत्री पदे पदे ॥ The genesis of the सप्तपदी rite in the marriage ceremony where the bride and the bridegroom walk seven steps together, is to be traced to this idea. They are supposed to be intimate friends after they have gone over the seven steps. Cf. for the idea in the verse, संबन्धमाभाषणपूर्वमाहुर्वेत्तः स नौ संगतयोर्वनान्ते । तद्भूतनाथानुग नार्हसि त्वं संवन्धिनो मे प्रणयं विहन्तुम् ॥ Raghu II. 58.

Stanza 40—अतः because as explained in the last verse, Pārvatī and the ascetic have become intimate friends. The ascetic wants to ask a little (किंचित्) and not too much. He is emboldened to do so owing to the natural curiosity and talkative nature of a Brāhmaṇa (सिद्धं होतद्वाचि वीर्य द्विजानाम् Uttara V) and because he knows that Pārvatī is of a forbearing temperament, and lastly he assures her that he does not want to wrest the tequired information from her. If she does not wish to divulge it, she is at perfect liberty to do so. बहु क्षिमा यस्याः ताम. Mallinātha explains the expression also as बहु क्तिसहाम् . द्विजातिभाव = ब्राह्मणत्व. The first three castes (ब्राह्मण, क्षित्रय and बैस्य) are called twice-born, because they alone are entitled to the thread ceremony and

34

ets.

संहर्श [V:

व्या ।

गुण this

ght. an

तैः.

वेहै:

tes

ers

ार-

he ere.

he ide

as

of

atī

he

re

गत्र

st it

of

as it

ds

1

नि

e

d:

1

20W

े ज्यो

क्रित्यथ

St

अनिष्ट

oble :

rith a ort-1

नात्मस

ikran

of is nd re

ltrea

ower

a the

thi

rell t

erpen

ompa

unish

hat t

e rol

10 W

गतं ट

न्मादित

Dal

that

e ve

गस्या

Mually

विसा

d th

lenc

वे कि

वादे

other samskāras which constitute their second birth (Cf. जन्मना) जायते श्रुद्धः संस्कारात् द्विज उच्यते।). A Brāhmaṇa is specially bold and out-spoken as he has nothing to lose by the wrath of others, being required to lead the simplest kind of life. प्रष्टुं मनः यस्य सः १ ('तुम्काममनसोरपि' इति मकारछोपः।). अयं जनः refers to the speaker, and means 'I'. The Trivandrum edition reads प्रतिवोधयिष्यसि (you would enlighten me on it) for प्रतिवक्तुमहैसि. This vere is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka with the remark अवाष्याहं प्रष्टुमना इति वक्तब्येऽस्मद्थस्य कर्तृत्वमन्यत्रारोध्येवसुक्तम्.

Stanza 41-The ascetic wants to know why Parvatī should be pracisting such a penance. People are usually found to take to austerities, for acquiring a birth in noble families (Visvamitra, for instance, wanted to be a Brahmana), or, for acquiring a beautiful or youthful body (witness Cyavana wishing to give up his old rugged body and to become a handsome young man), or, for securing affluence of every kind, But none of these considerations could have actuated Parvati, for, she had already the various things which others hanker after. She has her descent direct in the family of Brahmadeva himself (Himālaya was created by Brahmadeva and not by any other प्रजापति, यज्ञार्थ हि मया सृष्टो हिसावानचलेश्वरः । Brahmapurana); she has the most beautiful body in the world, all the loveliness in the three worlds constituting it as it were; her father, being the king of mountains and possessed of all excellent objects, affluence of every kind is in the hollow of her hands; and lastly she has what women would like most yiz, blooming youth. Arunagiri reads...सौन्दर्यमिवाजितम् for सौन्दर्यामिवादितम् . अजित secured, collected; उदित risen up, hence brought together.

Stanza 42—People also practise penance to avenge some insult given to them or to get rid of some unbearable calamity. Pārvatī may have some such reason to practise penance. This supposition also would not hold good in her case as explained in the next verse. प्रतिपत्ति is used here in the sense of प्रवृत्ति, ताम is used संभावनायाम्, possibly. मनस्विनी a woman possessed of a high sense of honour, not brooking any insult. Mallinatha and Daksināvarta explain अनिश्चत् as मनादिश्चतान्. As Arunagiri remarks, this explanation is to be rejected as the ascetic knows Pārvatī to be a maiden as is clear from अयोपयन्तारमल समाधिना in verse 45

मनाः

nd

rs,

a: L er,

ou

ed

इति uld

to lies

for ana

a nd,

atī.

cer

eva

any

she

in

ing

cts,

and

ing

जित

me

ity.

his

ned

नाम

fa

and rks,

rati

45

ow. अनिष्ठ is therefore to be taken in a general sense. विचारस्य कितन प्रहितेन. Arunagiri reads तलादिर (which is the same thing क्लोदिर) and remarks दक्षिणावर्तस्तु एतदिप सोन्दर्यवाचि भर्त्रपराधनिवारण-क्लियर्थ इति व्याचष्ठ । वयं तु स्तुतिमात्रपरमिति ।

Stanza 43-The ascetic gives three reasons why any kind safe is unthinkable in the case of Parvati. First, the very ble and beautiful form of Parvati is absolutely incompatible thany suffering (it is a common idea with Sanskrit poets at noble forms can not suffer misery, and if they do, it is but ort-lived; cf. अहो दुर्निवारता व्यसनोपानिपातानां यदीदशीमप्याकृतिमनाभिभवनी-गाससारकुर्वन्ति Kādam; [ताहशा आकृतिविशेषाश्चिरं दुःखभागिनो न भवन्ति] ikram IV); secondly, any humiliation under the parental of is impossible, for Parvatī was the idol of her parents drelatives; thirdly, no stranger would have dared to for, was she not the daughter of the all owerful Himālaya whose very name would strike terror the heart of any evil-doer? Who would dare even think of offering an insult to her? One might as all think of taking away the jewel from the hood of a mighty ment who guards it with special care (Himalaya is mpared to a पन्नग and Parvati to the रतन). The serpent would mish even the least action, the mere stretching of the hand to. hat to say of the actual taking of, the jewel, on the part of probber. Himālaya similarly would have crushed any one would even think of insulting Parvati अत्र देव्या महाभाग्य-विं वन्युजनमध्यवार्तिःवं पितृगौरवात् परानभिभवनीयत्वं चेति त्रयो हेतवोऽनिष्टप्राप्तचभावे गादिताः (Nārāyaṇa). अलभ्यः (लब्धुं न शक्यते इति) शोकेन अभिमवः यस्याः Daksinavarta explains the compound as अलभ्यो शोकाभिभवी यस्याः and takes शोक as referring to पितृष्टहे विमानना and अभिभव to पराभिनर्शः that according to him only two reasons are stated forth in everse. This explanation is obviously rather clumsy. शोभना स्याः तस्याः संबुद्धिः सुम्रं. The vocative singular of सुन्नू would ually be सुन्नः (Daksināvarta suggests the reading सुन्नः कुतस्तात-विमानना, with this form). Vamana's sutra ऊकारान्ताद्ध्यूङ् प्रवृत्तेः the vartika अप्राणिजातेश्वाररज्ज्वादीनान्, might be hauled up in ence of the form सुन्न, the word सुन्न: being treated like अलाव् किन्धः. On सुन्न Narayana remarks अनया संबुद्ध्या देच्याः सर्वजनेषु विदेहद्यत्वं व्यज्यते । हृद्यगतं ह्यक्षिभ्रवादावभिन्यकतं भवति । ... कारण्याद्रहृद्यस्वेनः च देवी प्रति जनानामनुरागातिशयः भवति । ... तस्माद् देवीस्यरूपानिरूपणानस्थायामेव विमाननाहेतोरभाव इति भावः। This seems to be rather hypercritical, lt ma The reading पन्नगरत्नसूत्ये is better than सूचये. सूत्ये = चालनाय सूचि a sharp point, रत्नस्चि the sharp point of a jewel.

in the Alain

S

Stanza 44- वार्षके शोभितुं शीलमस्येति तथाः प्रदोप the beginning of the night. विनिकीणीः तारकाः यया सा. Everything is proper in its own time. Bark-garments are a fit appendage to old age. natur One should take to the forest-life after having enjoyed the pleasures of youth. Parvatī ought to be wearing beautiful ornaments and enjoying the pleasures of youth in her present matte age, but instead she had taken to the use of bark-garments and magi the life of an ascetic. This is most unfair. Every one would part (raise a howl, if the night instead of runing its proper course, could providing enjoyment and charm with the moon and the stars he wo shining brightly, were to come to a sudden end giving place to after dawn. Parvatī corresponds to the night, यौवन to प्रदोष, वल्सल to her. अरुण and the ornaments to the तारकाड. Mallinatha's reading प्रार्थित न्सुद्रचन्द्रतारका does not correspond properly to आभरणानि अपास्य विभागी quote (विभाति नक्षत्रादिभिः) the night, अरुण (अरुणः वर्णः अस्यास्तीति) the dawn. Aruna is the elder brother of Garuda and the charleafter teer of the sun. This verse is quoted in the Alamkarasarvasm as an instance of परिवृत्ति. conde by hi Stanza 45-People practise penance in order that they tion. might gain an entrance into the happy land of the gods. This decor could not be the reason for Parvati's penance, for she has low already secured the Devabhumi. The gods themselves have beaut made the Himalayan regions their abode. After beating about Jouth the bush so long, the ascetic after eliminating all possible laster causes, comes to the point. Perhaps Parvati might be seeking efor a good husband for her. In that case, the procedure adopted णयोः by her is topsy-turvy. Such a beautiful maiden need not take द्व पि the trouble of seeking a husband at all. The suitor ought to kems move heaven and earth to secure her and not vice versa. Who luest has ever heard of a jewel running about and making inquiries as to whether any one would accept it? (न हि नरार्थ लिया तपिके ard-वित्तत्व्यम् किंतु तेनेन त्नमर्थमिति भानः। Mallinatha). If रत्न is taken to mean only 'a involve the first taken to mean only 'a involve t mean only 'a jewel' the figure of speech would be अप्रस्तुतप्रांति S if the means 'the best of the species', this would be a case of the species', this would be a case of the species'.

प्राथमिव क्यान्तरन्यास, अथ used प्रश्ने 'मङ्गलानन्तरारमभप्रश्नकात्स्न्येष्वथो अथ ' इति सिंहः itical, It may be translated by 'if' also. The Trivandrum edition reads य. मुद्दि अविक्छात which is the same as अन्त्रिक्यति. This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka with the remark आर्थ: साध्यसाधनभाव: and in the Mainkārasūtra as an instance of माध्ये.

ng of ourse,

ace to

) the

nario-

rvasva

they

This

about

t take

ht to

Who

en to तप्रशंसा

ase of Stanza 46-At the words अथोपयन्तार... in verse 45, Parvatt in its age, laturally heaved a hot sigh, because the ascetic had hit upon d the her secret. The ascetic says that the knowledge that Parvati was seeking a husband did not much clear up matters. utiful resent matter remained as inexplicable as before. He could not s and imagine any one so august as to require such a penance on the would part of Parvati to secure him, and if there be such one, he ould not imagine how he could refuse her prayer. In fact stars be would imagine any one fjumping with joy at being sought atter by Parvati. He would be coming in hot haste to claim हल to ber. Cf. for the idea in the latter half of the verse, लभेत वा ading अर्थियता न वा श्रियं श्रिया दुरापः कथमीप्सितो भवेत् ॥ श्रिये III. This verse is-विसानी Quoted in the Kāvyānuśāsana in connection with आकार.

Stanza 47—The ascetic remarks that the youth sought after by Parvati-whosoever he might be-deserves to beundemned as a remarkably, hard-hearted person, as he shows by his action that he does not feel any pity for Parvati's condiion. Her beautiful tresses have long been wanting any ecoration; they are transformed into matted hair and are e has sllowed to hang loosely on the cheeks—that they appear still have beautiful even in this condition is a different matter. outh in question had any sense of pity, he would have ssible lastened to remedy this state of things by presenting himself eking afore Parvati, and braiding her hair with his own hands. opted ज्योः उत्पलं तेन श्रन्यताम्. श्रथः बन्धः आसाम् अस्तीति ताः. कलमाप्रं (शालियकं) र पिङ्गला: स्थिर lit. firm. hence hard-hearted; the expression. eems to have been used also to suggest that the youth in westion is Siva (as स्थिर or स्थाण is also an epithet of Siva;uiries अपि might be taken in the sense af किमपि. कोऽपि स्थिरः remarkably तपसि ard-hearted.

Stanza 48—दिवाकरेण आष्ट्रधानि विभूषणास्पदानि यस्याः ताम्. The भूगास्पद्ड are the head, ear, hands, feet etc. on which orna-

th

70

ca

B

ot

P

P

W

या

হা

N

tl

h

a त्त

त्तर

ए प्र

h

भ

क

SI

B

ir

a

S

(

a

y

b

ti

4

1

i

ments are worn by ladies. These parts, of the body, being usually covered with ornaments had been to a certain extent protected before, against exposure to sun's heat etc., and were particularly tender. The whole of the body had no doubt suffered, but these parts had suffered most. They had been almost burnt up by the sun. The expression is to be taken with शशाङ्कलेखां also. दिवाकरेण आप्लुष्टं विभूषणास्पदम् (आस्पद in the sense of कृत्यम्) यस्याः ताम् ; the function of the moon viz. the whole world is rendered null and void by the sun. Parvail was also emaciated and pale like the moon's digit at day. Any one with a heart would feel sorry for such a plight of the moon and Parvati. The following verse from the Nitisalala of Bhartrhari gives दिवसधूसर: श्री as one of the श्रूबंड of the mind काकी दिवसधसरो गिलतयौवना कामिनी सरो विगतवारिजं मुखमनक्षरं स्वाकृतेः। प्रा े र्घनपरायणः सततदर्गतः सज्जनो नपाङ्गणगतः खलो मनसि सप्त शल्यानि मे ॥ The Trivandrum edition reads कस्य मनो न दीर्यते 'whose mind is not torn asunder?'

Stanza 49—चतुरं यथा तथा अवलोकितुं शीलमस्य. अरालानि (अराल crooked, अरमालाति अरा लाति वा) पक्षाणि यस्य. Both the expressions refer to the beauty of the eyes. The ascetic means to say that the only reason why Pārvatī's lover is still holding off, seems to be that he holds an exaggerated opinion of his own beauty. He is labouring under the delusion that he is the most beautiful person in the world and hence does not like to present himself so soon before Pārvatī who however possesses the most charming eyes. The Trivandrum edition reads करोति लें रिवेमस्य चक्षपः which would mean 'who makes the sun as the mark for her eyes' referring to the state when Pārvatī, in course of her penance, would be looking at the sun. He does not feel pity for her and suffers her to practise penance and does not want to show his face to her.

Stanza 50—The ascetic winds up his address by expressing his active sympathy for the distress of Pārvatī by an offer of the half of his penance, as the penance practised by he so far did not appear sufficient for her purpose and to continut to suffer any more would be nothing but atrocious. प्राथम प्राथम is the same as प्रयमाश्रम (verse 30 above). Brahmacarya. From that verse, we are apparently led to believe that the ascetic in question was a Brahmacarin and quite young. In verse 83 below, he is called a Batu. That being the case, प्रवीश्रमसंचितं is rather an awkward expression, as the Brahmacarin could not have any tapas to his credit in any other Asrama. The expression would have been quite appropriate in the mouth of an old sage who has given up active penance. The poet apparently has recourse to it, because he. wants to suggest another meaning. पूर्व (जगत्सगीदी) अश्रमेण (अना-ग्रासेन मायामात्रेणेत्यर्थः ।) संचितं (संपादितम्). By taking तपः to mean शरीरं (तपःशब्देन तपःसाधनभूतं शरीरं लक्ष्यते । साध्यसाधनभावश्व Nārāyana), तद्वभागेन would mean 'by the offer of the half of the body.' Siva in disguise thus makes a covert offer of the half of his body to Parvati. Arunagiri thus analyses the address of Siva to Parvati, अत्र प्रकरणे त्रिभिः क्षेक्रिस्तपस दिचतः क्रशलप्रक्षः, ततस्त्रिभिरनप्रवेशार्था तपसः प्रशंसा तत एकेनानप्रवेशः, तत एकेन स्वजिज्ञासांकथनं ततिस्रिभिः जिज्ञासासमर्थनं, तत एकेन स्वजिज्ञासितकथनं तत एकेन वास्तवोद्घाटनं तत एकेन तिस्थरीकरणं ततः प्रसङ्घात्त्रिमिर्वरोपालम्भः, तत एकेन कार्योपसंहारपरःसरः प्रश्न-इत्यनुज्झितकमत्वमनुसंघेयम् ।

Stanza 51—प्रविश्य used here in the sense of 'having divined her thoughts': पूर्वोक्तेन वचनविन्यासक्रमेणान्तः प्रविद्येत्यर्थः। ' यस्य यस्य हि यो भावस्तेन तेन च तं नरम्। अनुप्रविश्य मेथांवी क्षिप्रमात्मवशं नयत्॥ इति न्यायेन कपटबटुना वशीकृतत्वमनेन द्शितम्। (Nārāyaṇa). Pārvatī could not speak out her mind owing to shyness. The speech of the Brahmana, however, did require some answer, so, she turning her eyes which were so long directed towards the ascetic, towards her companion, made a sign to her to speak on her behalf. परिपार्श्व वर्तितुं शीलं यस्याः ताम् विवर्तिते अनजन (अजनरहिते) नेत्रे यस्मिन् कर्मणि यथा तथा. The eyes had no collyrium applied to them as she was engaged in penance. Narayana adds that the eyes were without the collyrium even before the penance owing to विरहपीडा and that the expression suggests to the companion that she should narrate Parva-M's trouble in detail (अनजनशब्देनात्र पाडाधिनसप्रतिपादनद्वारेण सर्वा आप मत्पीडा वक्तव्या इत्यर्थी ध्वन्यते।). अथो has the same meaning as अथ. It is more or less an archaic expression, occurring more frequently in older literature.

Stanza 52 वर्णिन् (वर्णः स्तुतिरस्यास्ति) a Brahmacarın. 'वर्णाद्ब्रह्मचौरिणि' इतीनिः । The Trivandrum edition reads वाञ्चितं for वर्णिनम्

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

being extent were doubt been taken e sense

Parvati v. Any of the isatala mind

तेः । प्रमु The is not efer to at the s to be y. He autiful present oresent ses the did off as the atī, in ce and

e does

by her ntinu

ahmabelieve

by

th

ना

ac

926

Me

50

me

de

Off

in

on dei

gav

CO

the sto

wh

the ref

of !

(तः

भन्न

कम

Ka

WO

noc

Wh

,COI

her

दशा

to.

-

me

gor

लला

अका

The epithet साथो is apparently suggested by the word साधु in कर तमिच्छामि च साधु वेदितम् in verse 50 above, with which the ascetic concludes his address. Nārāyaṇa remarks न हि साधुषु किंचित्यक थनीयमस्तीति भावः। नापि साधुर्वञ्चनीय इति च द्योत्यते। उष्णवारणम् an umbrella to ward off heat. To make use of a lotus which should be worn as an ornament on the head or the ear, to ward off the sun's heat is quite unnatural. Pārvatī's delicate and tender body also deserved a better fate than that of being made to suffer the rigours of a penance. Pārvatī's friend means to say that she would explain in detail how Pārvatī was forced to have recourse to penance to gain her object. यदर्थम् for whose sake.

Stanza 53 - चतुर्णी दिशाम् ईशान्. इन्द्रो विहः पितृपतिनैर्कृतो वरुणो मस्त । क्वर ईशः पतयः पूर्वादिनां दिशां कमात् ॥. Here only Indra, Yama, Varuna and Kubera, the lords of the four main quarters, East, South, West and North, respectively, are referred to. अधिगता श्री: यै: तान् or अधिका श्री: येषां तान्. मानिनी (or भामिनी v. l. accepted by Arunagiri) explains why Parvatī ignored the दिक्पालंड. were so easy to secure. Siva by destroying Madana had showed to the world that he was proof against feminine charms. was also a great warrior, with his terrible Pinaka bow. These characteristics of Siva made a profound appeal to Parvati who at once thought, proud as she was, that if there was a fit husband for her, it was Siva himself. It is well-known that one does not think much of an object which one can get easily. As Siva was अस्परार्थ, recourse to penance had to be taken. It was a case as it were of two proud persons, wishing to score over each other, both equally determined not to give way. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvati with the remark रतिविशेषेषु नैसर्गिकी.

Stanza 54—असहोन हुंकारण निवर्तितः. The रुद्ध are हुंकारशस्त्र . See notes on II. 26. अप्राप्तम् मुखं (tip of the arrow) यस्य सः विशीणां मूर्तिः यस्य पुष्पमेव चनुः यस्य शिली शल्यं मुखे यस्य सः शिलीमुखः an arrow. व्यायतः पातः यथा भवित तथा so as to strike her a long time. अक्षिणोत् wounded. The arrow gave a nasty blow to her and pierced her heart through. Kāma wanted to shoot his arrow at Siva who however unceremoniously warded it off by his Humkāra and burnt to ashes its author. The arrow, however, though it failed to reach its target, viz. Siva, found its mark in Pārvatī who was near by and who was too weak to resist its onslaught. And from that time Parvatī fell desperately in love with Siva. पुरारि: (पुरा-जाम अरि:) or त्रिपुरारि: is an epithet of Siva. For a detailed account of the three cities and their destruction by Siva. see Karnaparvan (Adhyāyas 24-27). also Bhāgavata 7. 10, Matsya 130-137. The story is briefly as follows: - The three sons of Tāraka, Tārākṣa, Kamalākṣa and Vidyunmālin, performed rigorous austerities and obtained as a boon from Brahmadeva permission to build three cities which could be destroyed only by a single arrow. Maya built three cities, a golden one in the heaven, a silver one in the Antariksa, and an iron one on the earth. The three brothers oppressed the world and defeated the gods who applied to Siva for relief. The gods gave Siva, each one half of his strength, and Visvakarman constructed a special chariot for him and Brahmadeva became the charioteer. The three cities which were always revolving stood stationary at the sight of Siva who with one arrow in which was focussed the strength of the three worlds, destroyed the three cities and the three Asuras in the bargain. reference to the three cities is an anachronism as this exploit of Siva seems to have occurred after the destruction of Taraka (तत्रासीत्प्रथमो राजन्संग्रामस्तारकामयः । निर्जिताश्च ततो दैत्या दैवतैरिति नः श्रुतिः ॥ भप्रदर्भा निरुत्साहाः पातालं विविश्वस्तदा । निर्जितेषु च दैरेबेषु तारकस्य सतास्रयः । ताराक्षः कमलाक्षश्च विद्युनमाली च पार्थिव। तप उप्रं समास्थाय नियमे परमे स्थिताः॥ etc Karnaparvan 24, 5-7). The poet's love for a jingling sound of words (पुरा पुरारिमप्राप्त...) seems to have been the reason of his nodding in this case. A manuscript reads समरारिम् for पुरारिम्, which would get rid of the anachronism in question.

Stanza 55—Verses 55-59 describe Parvati's love-sick condition before she thought of practising penance to secure her object. ट्रह्मनःसङ्गसंकल्पो जागरो कृशता रतिः। हित्यागोन्मादमूळीन्ता इत्यनङ्ग-रसा दश ॥ Of these, अरति, जागर, उन्माद and मूळी are mainly referred to. In the present verse, the poet speaks of the मदनन्यापि. उन्मदना उद्भूतमदना (Narayana remarks that मदन should be taken to mean मदनवेदना here, apparently because मदन was now dead and sone). उलादिकाचन्दनं तेन धूसराणि अलकानि यस्याः सा. ललादिका is literally क्लाटस्यः अलंकारः ('कणललादात् कन्नलंकारे' इति कन्। 'प्रत्ययस्यादि' त्यादिना अकारस्यकारादेशः); here it means 'the mark on the fore-head'

व वंर

etic

यक-

-91

be

the

der

to

Bay

to ose

त् ।

na

h.

यै:

by

ey ed

le '

se.

10

id

25

12

se

b

15

e

US.

1:

nig

दिना

firs hal

alm

Par

tos wh

she

to !

WO

frie

wh

to hin

her got

is s her

tiv

शेष

is.

ad

N

विष

बाह

in

CO

all

निर

th

or dı

it

Te

as

0

To allay the love-heat, sandal paste had been applied profusely to the fore head, which rendered the dishevelled hair whitish owing to its contact with them. Daksinavarta remarks that the expression ललाटिका indicates maiden-hood as, for married girls the तिलक is spoken of (विवाहदीक्षातिलकं चकार। VII. 24) and not the ललादिका. As Arunagiri remarks, this explanation is faulty (ऊढाया अपि विरहतापप्रशमाय चन्दनेन ललाटिकैवालंकारः, न तु तिलकः, तस्य ळळाटन्यापित्वाभावात् ।). As a matter of fact, ललाटिका should mean here only 'the mark on the fore-head' and not any regular ornament. जातु—कदाचिदपि, at all. बाला is significant. She had no experience of such a condition before, hence the agony was quite unbearable to her. तुषाराणां संघाताः ताश्च शिलाश्च तासां तलेषु. The plural (तलेषु) is significant. When one snow-slab lost its cooling property owing to its getting hot on account of the heat in the body, Parvati tried another; that too became hot in no time and so it was exchanged for a third and so on. Thus, though she tried a large number of snow-slabs, she could not feel at ease owing to the extremely unbearable character of the love-malady.

Stanza 56—उपात्तः वर्णः यस्मिन् , वर्ण is used here in the sense of गीतिकम (शकादी बाह्मणादी च शोभायामक्षरे वते । गीतिकमे स्तती वेष वर्णरान्द उदीरितः। इति हलायुधः). वाष्पेण सहिते कण्ठे स्वालितैः. Cf. कण्ठःस्ताम्भितवाष्पवृत्ति-कला sak IV. Parvatī, under the pretext of learning music, used to go to the woods, along with the Kinnara maidens who are famous for their sweet voice and knowledge of music. There they all used to sing the heroic deeds of Siva. The song used to make such a powerful impression upon Parvatī, that she often wept and could but utter faltering words, her throat being choked with tears. The Kinnara maidens too, sympathising with Parvatī in her distress wept along with her. Parvatī's distress was due to the thought that she was quite unfortunate in not being able to secure such a well-known hero as Siva for her husband. Mallinatha remarks that the expression सवाह्य... is to be taken to refer also to occasional fainting on the part of Parvati, so as to account for the weeping of her companions (अत्र वर्णस्खलंनलक्षणकार्योक्त्या पुनस्तत्कारणीभृतम् च्छावस्थाप्राद्धभावो व्यज्यतेऽन्य्या संबंशिदनानुपपत्तिरिति।). This however is not quite necessary. This verse refers to the प्रलापानस्था. प्रलाप being understood in the sense र्ध गुणकीर्तन.

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

ly

sh

at bs

ıd

is स्य

an ar

ad

as

he

ng

at

no

ıs,

ot

he

ο£

द

7-

d

re

e

0

1

g

g

's

e

ď

f

15

П

e

275

Stanza 57--तृतीयः भागः त्रिभागः शेषः (शिष्यते इति) यास्र. night is called त्रियामा (त्रयो यामाः यस्याः सा, आद्यन्तयोरर्धयामयोश्चेष्टाकाललेन हिनप्रायत्वात्), the period between 7-30 P. M. to 4-30 A. M. (the first half of the first Prahara, (6 P. M. -7-30 P. M.) and the latter half of the last Prahara (4-30 A. M.-6 A. M.) being regarded almost as day-time). A त्रिभागशेषनिशा thus begins at 1-30 A. M. Paryati could not get any sleep till that time but kept on tossing about on her bed, writhing with agony. Afterwards when through sheer exhaustion she closed her eyes for a while. she dreamt that Siva was by her side, and that he was going to leave her. She became awake all at once and uttered words like 'O Siva, where are you running away?.' Her friends of course could not find any one present there to whom these words were addressed. They also saw her trying to embrace somebody who was not existing, wishing to prevent him from running away, by keeping him tightly held up by her bahubandhana. Thus what little sleep she could have got, was frustrated by such episodes. The expression नीलकण्ड is significant. Parvati had experienced the क्ष्ठपाह by Siva and hence that epithet was uppermost in her mind. The alternative explanation of त्रिभागशेषासु given by Mallinatha, त्रिभ्यो भागेभ्य भेषास is not good as it does not mention definitely what the शेष is. इति = इति उक्तवा. अलक्ष्या (लक्ष्यरहिता, लक्ष्य target, the person addressed) वाक् यस्याः सा. असत्ये कण्ठे अर्पितं बाहुबन्धनं यया सा. On this Nārāyana remarks शुक्तिकारजतादिषु मिथ्याज्ञानेषु सदसद्विलक्षणं रजतादिकं क्षियः, इत्यद्वैतवादिनां मतं तदनुसारेणेयमुक्तिः। अन्यथा पुनरलक्षवागितिवदकण्ठापित-बाहुबन्घनेत्येव प्रयोगः स्यात् । This verse refers to जागर and उन्माद accord-The Sahityadarpana quotes this verse in ing to Mallinatha. connection with प्रलाप.

Stanza 58—Mallinatha reads यदा for सदा. सदा existing for all time (अनेन कालतः परिच्छित्रत्वं निरस्तम्। सर्वगतः अनेन देशतः परिच्छित्रत्वं निरस्तम्। सर्वगतः अनेन देशतः परिच्छित्रत्वं निरस्तम्। Nārāyaṇa). सदा is more emphatic, बुधैः shows that their words have to be relied upon. भावे तिष्ठतीति तम्—भाव affectiom or अभिलाष. स्वहस्तेन उल्लिखितः. चन्द्रः शेखरः (शिरोऽछंकारः) यस्य. Pārvatī drew with her own hand a picture of Siva and forgetting that it was a picture, used to upbraid Siva for not granting her request, though he knew very well how much she loved him, as he was all-pervading and existing for all time, This action of hers showed that she was quite a मुग्या, रहिसे in private.

Pārvatī did this when she thought that she was all alone. As a matter of fact, her actions were closely watched by her friends who had remained unobserved themselves (as Aruṇagiri remarks अस्मास्वद्दयमानामु पर्यन्तीष्वत्यर्थः।). Mallinātha however remarks सखीमात्रसमक्षामित्यर्थः। ...यग्रि रहसीत्युक्तं तथापि सखीसमक्षकरणाञ्चात्यागो व्यज्यत एव। Mallinātha seems to have been driven to this interpretation in his anxiety to explain how the friends came to know of what Pārvatī did in private. Aruṇgiri's explanation appears to us to be better. This verse also refers to the उन्मादावस्था.

b

Ji

Ci

वा दुः

P

0

k

8

i

a

0

is क

C

Y

-4

D

b

Stanza 59—विचिन्वती—अन्वेषणं कुर्वती, Parvatī as a last resort took to penance, not finding any other means. even after a deliberate search for them. गुरो: अनुज्ञयेति विसृद्ध्यकारित्वं चोत्यते। (Arunagiri). The Trivandrum edition reads यदा हि for यदा च.

Stanza 60—कृतं जन्म येषां तेषु. राशिमोलिः संश्रयः यस्य. प्ररोहं प्रति अभिमुखः। Pārvatī has been practising penance for a very long time. The trees which were planted by her with her own hands have now grown up sufficiently to put forth fruit. But Pārvatī's desire seems to be a long long way off from being fulfilled. It is still in the state of a बीजः even the shoots have not come up, then the flowers and then the fruit—who knows how long would it take before these intermediate stages are got over? The trees and Pārvatī's penance commenced their existence at the same time, but the former have stolen an easy march over the latter which is left lagging far behind. The reading उर्द for रहम is also a good one. न च = न तु.

Stanza 61—अहोत्तरम् अश्रुप्रधानं यथा तथा. The Trivandrum edition reads अह्मान्तरवीक्षिताम् (अह्मणाम् अन्तरे वीक्षिताम्). The friends of Pārvatī felt a great concern for her, as she had grown frightfully emaciated and they could not suppress their tears when they lookd at the Princess who was a mere shadow of her former self. अभ्युपपत्स्यते от अभ्यवपत्स्यते = अनुप्रहं करिष्यति. तस्य (इन्ह्रस्त, caused by Indra) अवप्रहः (drought) तेन क्षताम्. त्रुपा is an epithet of Indra, one who showers gifts and rain. Indra is the author of rain and also of the drought. The whole of the sentence is the object of न वेद्या. Mallinātha's alternative explanation of तद्वप्रहक्षताम् , where नत् is to be taken separately as an object of निवा is not happy. सीता—a ground that is ploughed and hence in great need of rain. तद्वप्रह्सताम् may be taken with Pārvatī also distressed at the disfavour (अवप्रह as opposed to अनुप्रह) shown by him.' Pārvatī is compared to a tilled ground, and Siva to Indra. The distressed condition of both Pārvatī and सीता is caused by the अवप्रह of Siva and Indra respectively, who alone are capable of removing that distress. The expression प्राधित- कुरुम: is purposely used as the same was used by the ascetic in his speech (V. 46). The ascetic wondered how the lover of Pārvatī could be प्राधितदुलेम. Pārvatī's friend replies that not only has he proved to be प्राधितदुलेम so long, but there is no knowing how long he would prove to be so.

r

-

İş

3

TS.

t

t.

11

18 0

d

1

S.

To

f

e

f

f

0

Stanza 62—इङ्गितम् जानातीति इङ्गितज्ञा. Pārvatī's friend was इङ्गितज्ञा as she knew from the mere look of Parvatī (विवर्तितानज्ञननेत्रमैक्षत V. 51) what was desired by her. We take इक्ति here to mean भाभेप्रायानुरूपचेष्टा rather than हृद्रतः भावः itself. अगृहः सद्भावः यथा तथाः सन्नानः the actual state of things, rather than सद्भिप्रायः 'good intentions' which is the meaning given to the expression by Mallinatha. Parvati's friend told everything without reserve as desired by Parvati herself. नैष्टिकश्वासी सुन्दरश्व. There are two kinds of Brahmacarins, नेष्ट्रिक and उपक्रवीण; the former lives a life of celibacy till death (निष्ठा मरणम् अवधिः यस्य सः नैष्ठिकः), the latter is allowed to take to गृहस्थाश्रम etc. The expression सुन्दर shows कामुकत्व. The two expressions नैष्टिक and मुन्दर are thus incompatible with each other. With reference to Siva, the Highest God, the contradiction is to be got over by appealing to his wonderful and indefinable power. Cf. कान्तासंमिश्रदेहोऽप्यविषयमनसा यः परस्ताग्रतीनाम् । Mālavikā I. अव्यक्तितानि इर्षस्य लक्षणानि (रोमाञ्चादि चिन्हानि) येन सः. The ascetic who was really Siva in disguise, was naturally over-joyed to find that Parvatī loved him so wholeheartedly. He however did not betray his feelings for a while, as he intended to test her still further. He therefore simply asked her whether all that was told by her friend was a fact to be taken seriously.

Stanza 63—मुकुछोक्नताः अङ्गुलयः यस्मिन. अप्रश्वासी हस्तश्च अग्रहस्तः, the fore-hand. The expression means the same thing as इस्ताग्रम् (हस्तस्य अग्रह्स्त, the अग्र and the हस्त are to be understood as identical metaphorically through the relation of गुण and गुणिन while in हस्ताग्र, there is भेद between the two (हस्ताग्रामहस्तयोगुणगुणिन

278

नोर्भेदामेदादिति वामनः।). It seems that while the conversation was going on. Parvati had continued her siq with the rosary of beads. But now when she thought that some answer from herself was necessary, she stopped her जप, placed the rosary in the अप्रहस्त whose fingers had naturally to be brought close together to hold it. She wanted to say very few words, but as she was overpowered with emotion, she took a long time to adjust her speech in the mind. She was the daughter of the mountain, and hence had inherited a remarkable degree of forbearance and fortitude, but on this occasion she was to a certain extent unnerved. The words she uttered were very few, but they contained a world of meaning. मितानि अक्षराणि यथा तथा मिताक्षरम्. On this Arunagiri remarks मितभाषित्वं तूत्तमनायिकाधर्मः । चिरं व्यवस्थापिता बाग यया सा. Narayana interprets this in a different way. He takes न्यवस्थापिता to mean संयता and takes the expression to mean who had been observing the vow of silence for a long time', remarking व्रतारम्भसमयादारभ्य तत्कालपर्यन्तं देव्या वाग्विसगीभावमाह । On कर्य-चित् also, he remarks मौनव्रतपरित्यागभीत्या लज्जापारतन्त्र्याचेति भावः।

eno

whi

it a

'ju

as a rela

out

she

Śiv

so s

Th

opi

Fo

say

in im

an th

pt

th

of 01

88

पा

B

a

b

g

iı

V

u

C

I

1

Stanza 64-The measured and trenchant character of the reply is quite apparent. Parvati means to say that what her friend had said was quite a fact. She has, with eyes open, entertained the desire of becoming the wife of Siva. She knows full well the extremely bold nature of her desire, and she has taken to penance in order to win Hara, as it was given out by people to her that that was the best means of securing her desired object. But her experience has made her less sanguine on the point. In spite of the penance of the highest order practised by her, she seems to be as far away from the goal as ever. And she could not suppress her desire either, as desires transcend all limitations and ignore all considerations about the possibility or otherwise of their being fulfilled. किल is taken to be अपरमार्थे or अलीकार्थे by Arunagiri and Mallinatha. According to this interpretation, the idea would be that Parvatī does not herself believe in the efficacy of penance,—a statement not quite complimentary to her, but justifiable on the ground that it is prompted by despair. किल might be taken to mean 'indeed.' also. The Sarasavati quotes this verse as an illustration of उदार्वाक्यता.

E-

S.

21

त

O

IS.

T

1,.

t

ŀ

1

e

n.

e

r

y

Ć

Ċ

Stanza 65--विदितो महेश्वर: I know Siva too well; or you know enough of him inasmuch as you were badly treated by him while destroying Kama. Arunagiri reads पुर: एव and explains it as महरीनात्प्रागेवारभ्य. It would be better to explain पुर: एव as 'just in front [of me.]' The Brahmacarin means to say that as a third party he would be the best person to judge the relative merits of both Parvatī and Śiva, with a view to find out whether their union would be desirable. As for Parvati, she was just in front of him, in flesh and blood, and though Siva was not actually present there, he knew him too well and so Siva might be taken to be present for all practical purposes. The Brahmacarin was therefore in a fit position to give his opinion in the matter. अमङ्गलानाम् (चितामस्मादीनाम्) अभ्यासे रितः यस्य. For वर्णी, see notes on stanza 52 above. न च न = न तु. The ascetic says that he regrets that he cannot see eye to eye with Parvati in the matter, especially when he takes into consideration the impure course of life practised by Siva. Parvatī was holiness and purity incarnate, while the less said of Siva in the matter, the better.

Stanza 66—अवस्तुनि यः निर्बन्धः परं यस्याः सा. अवस्तु—a contemptible or worthless object. आमुक्तं विवाहार्थे कोतुकं यस्मिन् विवाहकोतुक is the marriage-thread worn round the wrist by the bride and the bride-groom. It is generally removed after the third day of marriage. According to some, the thread is to be worn for one year or as long as the pair observes celibacy. The expression occurs in Raghu VIII. 1 (अथ तस्य विवाहकौतुकं लिलतं विश्रत एव पार्थिवः।). वस्रमीकृताः अहयः यस्मिन् तेन. तत् एव प्रथमम् अवसम्बनम्. The Brahmacarin now describes in detail the अमङ्गलाभ्यासरित of Siva and the consequent incompatibility of Siva and Parvati as huse band and wife. At the time of marriage, the bride-groom grasps the hand of the bride. This operation—quite simple in other cases—would prove to be a veritable ordeal for Parvatī. Siva's hand is encircled with terrible snakes whom he uses as bracelets. How could Parvati's delicate hand bear the contact with such a hand of Siva? It would be a wonder if Parvati would not actually faint on that occasion.

Stanza 67—The Brahmacarin means to say that nothing is farther from his thoughts than to force his own views on Parvati. A little consideration would convince her of 30

ir

N

T

.E

C

to

V

3

h

01

M

56 ti

Si

ਰ

1

+

t

इ

T

£

t

L

T

-1

5

1

VE

73

the impropriety of her choice of the husband. At the time of marriage, the garments worn by the bride and the bride-groom are to be tied together. These garments again are to be brand new. Parvatī, as would befit a Princess, would be wearing a very costly silken garment (something like our ज्ञालू or पैठणी) looking exceedingly charming with the figures of swans, peacocks etc. drawn upon it. Siva who is proverbially poor, might perhaps secure some fresh elephant-skin dripping with blood, for the occasion. That would be the utmost he could do. The old skin would be substituted by a fresh one. It would be a real sight for the gods to see when the costly silken garment of the bride would be tied to the fresh elephant-hide of the bride-groom. Could there be anything more incongruous than the tying together of these two garments which are poles asunder from every point of view? Let Parvatī think over this with an unprejudiced mind and she would see the folly of her ways. कलहंसाः (कलो मधुरवाक् हंसः) लक्षणं यस्य. तत् on which are drawn the figures of swans etc. दुक्ल (दुई कूलति) is a silken garment. शोणितस्य विन्दून् वर्षितुं शीलमस्येति तथा. Arunagiri takes तावत in the sense of ससंज्ञमम्, which is unnecessary and hardly improves the sense. The Trivandrum edition reads the latter half of the verse as 'वधूदुकूलं क च हंसलक्षणं, शोणितविन्दुवर्षि तत्. In verse 78 below, a गजाजिन is referred to. Again, after एते योगमहैत:, one would naturally expect a plain enumeration of the two objects referred to. Hence the reading adopted in the text seems to be better.

Stanza 68— चतुष्के यः पुष्पप्रकरः तिहमन् अवकीणयोः अल्वनतकः अहः येषु परेतभूमि is the cemetery. परेत lit. the departed one, that is, dead. चतुष्कं is a मण्डपित्रोष supported on four pillars, 'चतुष्कं सचतुस्तम्मं विवाहे स्नानमण्डपम्' इति भोजः। At the time of marriage, Parvatī would be seen by all, gracefully moving about in the marriage Mandapa tastefully decorated and with plenty of flowers scattered about, so as not to cause any pain to her feet charming with the lac dye applied to them. After marriage, she would be required to move along the rough bare ground in the cemetery which is Siva's abode, where the hair of the corpses scattered about would pain her feet like so many thorns. Even an inveterate enemy of Parvatī would feel pity for this degradation of hers. The feelings of her relatives and friends in the matter could better be imagined than described. No one would tolerate such a state of things even for a moment.

Stanza 69—त्रिनेत्रस्य (त्रीणि नेत्राणि यस्य तस्य) वक्षि सुलभम् अयुक्तक्ष्मम्—अत्यन्तम्युक्तम् . हरिचन्दन is red sandal. It is one of the five celestial trees. Indra and other Lokapalas apply Haricandana to their bosoms (आमृष्टवक्षोहरिचन्दनाङ्का मन्दारमाला हरिणा पिनदा। Sak VII). Siva can not afford it. He has however plenty of ashes, and those too secured from the funeral pyre, applied to his bosom and these would be transferred to Parvati's breasts at the time of the embrace. Could one imagine anything more humiliating than this? Mallinatha takes त्रिनेत्रवक्षः separately and explains it as इयम्बकालिङ्गनमित्यर्थः. The construction would be त्रिनेत्रवक्षः तव सुलभम् अपि भवति, अतः परम् अयुक्तरूपं किम् etc.

Stanza 70—अन्या—विरुक्षणा. वारणानां राजा तेन हार्यया. expression may refer to ऐरावत, the lord of elephants, or mean simply 'a big elephant.' गृद्धथासी उक्षा च गृद्धोक्षः (उक्षन् is changed to उझ at the end of a Karmadharaya compound) तम्. On पुरतः, Nārāyaṇa remarks पतिगृहप्रस्थानवेलायामित्यर्थः। अनेन पूर्वमेव वक्तव्यामिदं मया विस्मृतिमिति व्यज्यते । उद्धया—married. Arunagiri reads वारणराजभायिया by a lordly female elephant, and says ऊढाया बाल्यास्प्रभृति पितृगृह इत्यर्थे:। or ऊदया might refer to the occasion of the marriage procession when Parvatī would ride a she-elephant. Usually female elephants are made use of on auspicious occasions, hence the reading वारणराजभार्यया appears to be better. सहाजनः the big people residing on the slopes. When these people, who had been habituated to see Princess Parvati riding an elephant, would be looking upon Parvatī, the wife of Siva, mounting the old, haggard bull of Siva, their inherent goodness only would prevent them from bursting into a hoarse laughter indicating the utmost ridicule. They would restrain themselves and would be only smiling at the extraordinary spectacle of a Princess riding an apology for a bull! The ordinary folk, however, not caring so much for the feelings of Parvati would enjoy heartily the unique spectacle. स्मेरं मुखं यस्य सः.

Stanza 71—The Brahmacarin means to say that so far there had been only one object which had become, by its

the

and

ents

ent

Igly

nwe

laps

for

The *

be a ent

the

ous

are ink the

on

is giri

and ads

वर्षि

fter

ion

ted

福

is,

नुक

ge, be

of eet

ge, nd

he

DY

ty

282

foolish persistence in being united with Siva, an object of pity for all. The crescent digit of the moon had chosen its abode on the fore-head of Siva and every one was genuinely sorry that so splendid a thing should have the misfortune of being associated with human skulls and other unseemly objects which Siva wears. But no one expected that this example of the crescent moon would ever be followed by any one, much less by a person like Parvati renowned for her beauty in all the worlds; and so, when people would come to know that Parvati was thinking of securing for her husband, Siva, they would feel the deepest sympathy for her. For, how could Parvati, the belle of the whole world, be regard as a fit mate for a God who wears human skulls as ornaments? The expression नेत्रकोमुदी is significant. The moon is credited with enhancing madness of a person. It is no wonder therefore that something associated with the moon should display signs of madness. The reading पिनाकिन: for कलापिन: does not suit the context which requires an epithet showing some undesirable characteristic of Siva, while पिनाकिन: indicating Siva's heroism would make him a fit subject for being wooed. The Kavyaprakāśa (V) remarks on the verse, इत्यादौ पिनाक्यादिपद्वैलक्षण्येन किमिति कपाल्यादिपदानां काव्यानुगुणत्वम्। Nārāyana makes a vain attempt to justify the reading पिनाकिनः by remarking पिनाकिशब्दश्रवणमात्रेण तवार वीराप्रेसरत्वभ्रम इति भावः । यचात्र कैश्वित् पिनाकिपदप्रयोगो न दोषप्रकरणोपयोगी तस्मात कपालिन इत्येव वक्तव्यमित्युक्तं तद्य्यनेन परिहृतम् । The Kāvyaprakāśa (VII) also quotes the verse to illustrate the absence of यच्छव्द in cases where the object in question is well-known. Thus here, instead of saying या कान्तिमती कला सा, the poet only says सा कान्तिमती कला (प्रकान्तप्रसिद्धानुभृतार्थविषयस्तच्छन्दो यच्छन्दोपादानं नापेक्षते ।). also contains the fault of अक्रमता. Here the proper position of च in त्वमस्य लोकस्य च, is after त्वम्. The expression ought to have been तं च अस्य लोकस्य, as कला and त्यम् are the two objects referred to, and not कला and लोकस्य, but the exigencies of the metre seem to have made the poet helpless in the matter. कलावत an epithet of the moon, one who is possessed of digits. The reading कलात्मनः (कला एव आत्मा यस्य) means the same thing. remarks लक्योरविशेषात् कळात्मन इति च प्रतिभाति । अनेन स्वरूपतो मनोहरत्वम् उन्तम्। In the case of the moon, the समागमत्रार्थना is कृता, in the case of Parvati, it is कियमाणा. The statement about the समागम प्रार्थना of the moon is चिन्त्य, as Siva himself is described

.

bavi

unpi

pois

prac

Vya

quo

illus

with

पिनाव

स्पम्

भाव:

brid

and cter

He

a d defo

whe

sho

forr Par

any he i

qui

And

tow

one

Pau

and clot

his

in i

भ्यस्त

Ra

the lau

ber

ity

de

Ty

ng.

cts

of

ch

all

nat

ıld

ate

es-

nc-

ne-

of

the

ble

sm

ya-

मेति

to वाय

मात्

II)

ses

ead

क्ला

rse

of

ave

red

em

het

ing

ma

त्वम्

he गम"

15

having placed the moon on his forehead in order to allay the imprecedented torment caused by his drinking the Hālāhala poison. This verse is quoted in the Sāhityadarpaṇa and Kāvyapradīpa in connection with अक्रमता, also by Kāvyānusāsana and Vyaktiviveka to illustrate अविमृष्टविधेयांश्वल (the former likewise quoting it to show अस्थानस्थपदता), by the Alamkārasūtra to illustrate परिकर, and by the Alamkāracūdāmaṇi in connection with न्यूनपदता. (which elsewhere makes the same comment. विभागतियद etc. as made by the Kāvyaprakāśa quoted above).

Stanza 72—विरूपाणि (त्रींगि or भीषणानि) अक्षीणि यस्य तत् or विरुद्ध लम् अक्षीणि च यस्य तत्. अलक्ष्यं जन्म यस्य तस्य भावः; दिग एव अम्बरं यस्य तस्य भावः तेन. वालमृगस्य अक्षिणी इव अक्षिणी यस्याः सा तथा. People want a bridegroom who is handsome, born of a good family, young and wealthy. But Siva does not possess even a single characteristic that would make him eligible for being a bride-groom. He has three deformed eyes. Just as being short of a limb is a deformity, so, being possessed of more limbs is also a deformity. The eye is a very prominent factor that counts when beauty is to be considered. The deformity of the eyes. shows clearly that the rest of the body, even though properly formed, could not in any sense be called beautiful, while Parvati has the most lovely eyes. Secondly, no one knows anything about Siva's family, age etc. For aught we know, he might even be an illegitimate child; he might likewise bequite an old man unfit to marry a young maiden like Parvatil. And lastly Siva is not a rich man either. All virtues flock towards gold, says the proverb. If a man is sufficiently richeone often ignores his other short-comings. But Siva is an utter-Pauper; he does not get even a garment to clothe his body and moves about naked. It he has not means enough to clothe himself, how would he be able to maintain Parvati after: his marriage? Thus there is not even a single relieving feature. In the case of Siva, that would make him a fit bride-groom. भत्त singly as opposed to समस्त. This verse is quoted in the Kāvyaprakāša, Kavyapradīpa and Kāvyānušāsana to illustrate-Thus the expression अलक्ष्यजन्मता isthe fault अविमृष्टविधेयाँशत्व. laulty as the अल्प्यता of the जन्मन्, which is to be emphasised. here, ought to have been mentioned separately, as it loses its importance by being compounded with another word. Mammata suggests अलक्षिता जनिः as the proper reading.

thei

cond

way

awa:

The

महेश्वर

him

भात्म

mea

by t

Bral

अमङ्ग mon

of th

to d

that desir

for t resor

by so

is the

and .

Parva

some

are t

says,

पार्थारि

न वर्तेर लोकाः

एभिः 1

वचनेन

Triva

रातिभि

With

mind

Brah

Stanza 73—सा विधा यस्य सः तिद्वयः, पुण्यानि उद्धणानि यस्यः सा. There is absolute incongruity between Siva of impure habits and Pārvatī possessed of every sign that is regarded as auspicious by the सामुद्रिक. No one would think of making use of a बूल in the cemetery as a sacrificial post; similarly it would be ridiculous if Siva is mated with Pārvatī. The wanderer in the cemetery could by no stretch of imagination be considered to be worthy of Pārvatī. For the proper performance of a sacrifice, a post sanctified by mantras is required and not any post, much less one in an impure place like the cemetery. Pārvatī deserves to have a husband as pure and ho!y as herself. The युप is no doubt used for tying to it the victim in the sacrifice, as the बूल is used to execute criminals. But there the similarity ends between the two.

Stanza 74—प्रतिकूलं वितृ शिलमस्येति तथा. प्रवेपमानेन अधरेण (or प्रवेपमाने अधरे) लक्ष्यः कोपः यस्याः सा तया. विक्वित्रित भूलते (प्रशस्ते भूने) यस्मिन्कर्मणि यथा तथा. विक्वित्रित भूलते (प्रशस्ते भूने) यस्मिन्कर्मणि यथा तथा. विक्वित्रित भूलते प्रतिक्लवादिनि may be taken as a loc. abs. construction or merely as a loc. singular. While the Brahmacārin had been thus villifying Siva, Pārvatī became naturally very angry. Her lower lip began to throb, the eye-brows were knit and she refused to look straight at him and turned her eyes which had become red at the corners, side-ways to show her contempt. She would have fain cursed him, but she resisted that temptation as a Brāhmaṇa should not be usually cursed. The tirade of the Brahmacārin, however, could not be allowed to go unchallenged and so she proceeds to give him a spirited and crushing answer to all the points raised by him.

Stanza 75 — लोकेषु सामान्यं न भवतीति, अचिन्त्यः हेतुः यस्य तत् . परमार्थतः in reality. Pārvatī means to say that she is not at all surprised to hear the remarks of the Brahmacārin. It is the same case all over with people of dense intellect. Simply because they cannot understand a thing properly, they go on condemning it straight away, without waiting to find out if there is any motive underlying it or if there be some other explanation for it. They are only too glad to have an opportunity to cast mud on persons far greater than themselves. In doing this, they betray

Kumārasambhava: Canto V

am_

ere

and ious शूल

be

l to cri-

ost, vati

The

ice,

nil-

माने

तथा.

OF

nss

ry.

nit

yes

her

ted

ed.

red

red

र्तः

ed

all

ot

ht

ve

ey on

23

285

their own malice and ignorance. True, that the actions and conduct of Siva are, to a superficial observer, rather out-of-theway, but they could be easily accounted for and explained away, if the Brahmacarin had any thinking faculty left in him. The Brahmacarin boasts that he knows Mahesvara (विदित्ती प्रेसर: V. 65), but his words show that he has not understood him at all.

Stanza 76 — विपदां प्रतीकारः तत्परेण. भूत्यां सम्रत्सकेन, आशया उपहताः आत्मवृत्तयः येषु तैः, जगतां शरण्यः (the refuge, the protector). Parvati means to say that it is a great mistake to judge Siva's actions by the ordinary rules of conduct obtaining in the world. The Brahmacarin had charged Siva with being associated with अमङ्गलभ्यास (V. 65). But this charge would not stand for a. moment when one would not look at it from the point of view of the ordinary people of the world. Ordinary people desire to do everything that is auspicious, because they are afraid that by acting otherwise, they would fail to achieve their desired object or to ward off any impending calamity. for the sake of a positive or negative advantage, Mangala isresorted to by people in general, whose doings are prompted by some ulterior motive. But Siva has nothing to achieve; he is the Lord of the three worlds, he is a Sthitaprajña; Mangala and Amangala have no meaning for him. This argument of Parvati is true to a certain extent, but there is no doubt that some responsibility does rest on the shoulders of the great who are to act as a guide to the ordinary people. Hence the Gita says, यद्यदाचरति श्रेष्ठस्तत्तदेवेतरो जनः। स यत्प्रमाणं कुरुते लोकस्तद्नुवर्तते ॥ न मे पार्थास्ति कर्तव्यं त्रिषु लोकेषु किंचन। नानावासमवासन्यं वर्त एव च कर्मणि ॥ यदि हाह न वर्तयं जातु कर्मण्यतिन्द्रतः। मम वत्मानुवर्तन्ते मनुष्याः पार्थ सर्वशः ॥ उत्सीदेयुरिमे र्षेका.न कुर्यो कर्म चेदहम् । संकरस्य च कर्ता स्यामुग्रहन्यामिमाः प्रजाः ॥ (III, 21-24) पिमेः refers to मङ्गलेः (पूर्व मङ्गलभित्येकवचनस्य जात्यभिप्रायत्वादेभिरिति बहु-वजनेन परामर्शी न विकथते। Mallinatha). The reading आभि: of the Trivandrum edition is decidedly better. It would go with ग्रतिभिः (आश्रया उपहताः आत्मानः येषां तेषां वृत्तिभिः) ' wbat has he to do with these courses of conduct belonging to people whose minds are overpowered by greed?"

Stanza 77 किंचन (इन्धं) नास्ति यस्य सः, यायार्थ्य विदन्तीति ते. The Brahmacarin had charged Siva with being a pauper (दिगम्बरत्वेन

H

bo

ac

be

up

fa

T

th

bo

W

gi pe

fiv

cā

be

B

fa

m fre

of

as bi

olo

संच

प्र

मह

तां

Tef

sei

He

'tay

Ep:

BM(

inc

bo

निविद्तं वसु V.72). He had also referred to his इमजानवास (V.68), and terrible form possessed of serpents as ornaments (V.66). But these are mere half-truths. If Siva is known to be a pauper, he is also known to be the spring of all wealth and vouchsafes every kind of prosperity to his devotees. If the cemetery is his abode, the whole universe is equally so, as he is its lord. If he has a terrible form, it is equally true that the whole world loves to call him the most auspicious one. Such being the case, it is ridiculous to pretend that one could know the real greatness of Siva. Inscrutable are his ways and far from being an अवस्तु as the Brahmacārin chooses to call him (V.66), he is the greatest person imaginable.

Stanza 78—विश्वम् एव मूर्तिः यस्य तस्य. विभूषणैः उद्मासितं शीलमस्य तत्. पिनद्धाः (P. P. of नह with अपि, अपिनद्ध or पिनद्ध) भोगिनः यस्मिन् तत्. गजस्य अजिनम् आलम्बितं शीलमस्य तत् . दुकूलं धंतुं शीलमस्य तत् . इन्दुः शेखरः यस तत . कपालम् अस्य अस्तीति. Parvatī means to say that when Siva is known to be all-pervading and existing everywhere, it is ridiculous to describe him as being possessed of a particular shape and wearing a particular dress. The Brahmacarin's taunt, that his body is विरुपाक्ष (V. 72) and that he wears serpents on his body or that he dresses himself with an elephant-hide or that he has skulls (to which the Brahmacarin in his plenitude of wisdom, apparently failed to refer directly, though in V. 71, we have the expression क्यालिनः) is singularly out of place and betrays his own colossal ignorance, The क्यालं are said to have been the heads of Brahmadeva cut off by Siva in anger when twitted by the former that the latter was created out of his own fore-head. Arunagiri quotes the following in this connection, जगतिसस्थासमयेषु वेधसां प्रणामलोलानि विश्रांसि पादयोः । जगद्विरामेषु कपालशेषतां गतानि तिष्ठन्तु जटासु धूर्जेटः ॥ Cf. for the idea in the verse, तां तामनस्थां प्रतिपद्यमानं स्थितं दश ब्याप्य दिश • माहित्रा । विष्णोरिवास्यानवधारणीयमीहक्तया रूपमियत्तया वा ॥ Raghu XIII, 5.

Stanza 79—तस्य अङ्गस्य संसर्गम्. नृत्ते यः आभिनयः तस्य किया तम स्युतम् अम्बरम् एव ओकः येषां तेषाम्. The reading रजोऽपि ग्रुद्धये is more emphatic. विलुप्पते (is carried off) is, also a better reading than विलिप्पते. The Brahmacarin had shown a holy horror at the वितासस्म (V. 69) coming into contact with Parvati's body. Here again, he is quite wrong as the Citabhasman on Siva's body is perhaps the most sanctifying thing. Witness the action of the gods who certainly may be presumed to know better, in rushing forth to bow down to Siva and snatching up a little of the ashes—not directly from his own body but fallen down on the ground while Siva is engaged in his Tandava dance—for being applied to their heads. Pārvatī, then, who would secure the Citābhasman directly from Siva's body deserves to be called the most fortunate person in the world.

Stanza 80 प्रिमनः दिग्वारणः वाहनं यस्य सः, विनिद्राणां (that have given up their sleep, that is, that have fully opened their petals) मन्दाराणां रजोभिः अरुणाः अङ्गुलयः ययोः तौ. मन्दार is one of the five celestial trees. 'प्रभिन्नी गर्जितो मत्तः' इत्यमरः। The Brahmacarin had declared it to be a crowning piece of humiliation, to be riding the old bull of Hara, the Prince of paupers (V. 70). But just see what even the mighty lord of the gods, riding the famous Airavata elephant, thinks of the same, Whenever the mighty Indra happens to meet Siva riding his bull, he alights from his Airavata, and obsequiously enough, touches the feet of Siva with his head on which are worn the celestial flowers as ornaments. When such is the respect paid to Siva by Indra himself, what matters it, if he is a Prince or a pauper, rides an old bull or an elephant? Nārāyana remarks, किमर्थ तर्हि ब्रोण संचरपामिति चोद्यं पुनः 'अलोकसामान्यमिचन्त्यहेतुकम् ' इत्यनेनैव परिहृतमित्यवगन्तव्यम् । परमार्थतस्त परमेश्वरस्य चरितानि विषयतृष्णा न कर्तव्येति लोकाशक्षार्थमेव।तदुक्तमाचार्यैः— महोक्षः खद्रवाङ्कं परग्ररजिनं भस्म फणिनः कपालं चेतीयत् तव वरद तन्त्रोपकरणम् । सरास्तां तां सिद्धि द्वति तु भवद्भ्रप्राणिहितां नहि स्वात्मारामं विषयम्गतृष्णा भ्रययति ॥

Stanza 81—इयुतः आत्मा यस्य तेन. The Brahmacarin had referred to the अल्क्यजन्मता (V:72) of Siva. As this was a most serious and vulgar charge, it deserved a more vehement reply. Hence Parvatī uses the abusive epithet च्युतात्मन् and the first half of the verse contains a bitter sarcasm. Parvatī means to tay that only the most depraved mind could have dared to speak in that way. A gentleman would not have stooped to such a levity. Apparently the Brahamcarin has become quite incapable of seeing any merit in Siva. In referring to अल्क्यजन्मता, however, the Brahmacarin, possessed of dense intellect as he is.

68), 66). e a

and the he that one.

vays call

ould

तत्. तत्. यस्य 'a is t is ular rin's ears

an
an
an refer
i:) is

cut the totes

लानि for दिशो

त्य nore than

the ody.

has for once, blundered into the right. Siva is अल्क्यूजन्मा and this fact far from being a stain or something of which one ought to be ashamed, discloses his supreme greatness. Siva is the creator of Brahmadeva himself, who is miscalled आतम् . He existed even before anything had been created. That being the case, how could any one presume to know his origin? This verse is quoted in the Alainkārasūtra as an instance of the figure of speech अधापत्ति and in the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति and in the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति का the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति का the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति का the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति का the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech अधापत्ति का the Kāvyāmisāsana as an instance of speech spee fi

n

b

st

1

वा

g

is

al

स

d

th

V

b

sh

fr

av

to

S

of

to

ar

D

P

SC

30 gi

ot

sa

R)

लि

P

ar

to

DE

Stanza 82-Pārvatī, after thus having disposed of the various objections raised by the Brahmacarin, apparently finds from the expression on his face that he was far from being convinced by her arguments. She however does not like to carry on an endless conversation with him, knowing that the ascetic had determined not to be convinced. None are so blind as those who would not see. She therefore says that she would not like to argue the points further and that the Brahmacarin was perfectly at liberty to hold any views he likes about Siva. As for her, her mind has been completely swaved by love towards Siva nothing could induce her to change her feelings towards She was perfectly aware that, people like Brahmacarin would be blaming her for that, but she would care a fig for the same. A lover is blind to all adverse criticism, right though it might be. As Bacon has remarked 'to love and to be wise is not given to man.' The Trivandrum edition reads स्थिरं (firm) for स्थितम . We take कामश्रतिः to mean 'the course of conduct dictated by love' or one whose conduct is prompted by love. Mallinatha's meaning स्वेच्छाव्यवहारी does not seem to be quite happy. भावः एकः रसः यस्य तत्. This verse is quoted in the Sarasvati in connection with स्थिरानरागिता and मिश्र.

Stanza 83—स्पृरितं तदुत्तरं (भूषिष्ठम्) अवरं यस्य सः. From the throbbing lip of the Brahmacarin, Parvati could see that he was not prepared to close up all discussion and wanted to say something in his defence. So far she had more or less kept her temper and in order to avoid unnecessary wrangling had even admitted in a sense all that he had said against Sive-

(यथा श्रुतस्त्वया तथाविधस्तावदशेषमस्तु सः। V. 82). But now when she finds that the Brahmacārin wants to reopen the discussion, not understanding the implication of what she had said, she becomes angry and asks her friend to practically turn out the stupid officious ascetic. For, according to the smṛtikāras (see Manu II. 200) गुरोधेत्र परीवादो निन्दा वापि प्रवर्तते। कणों तत्र पिधातव्यो गन्तव्यं वा ततोडन्यतः ॥ a person should not even hear the abuse of the great or should leave that place where such abuse is going on if possible. आलिः a female friend, पापं भजतीति पापभाकः This verse is quoted in the Vyaktiviveka, with the remark आर्थः साध्यसायनभावः and in the Sarasvatī with निषेधहपः आगमः।

Stanza 84—स्तनात् भिन्नं वल्कलं यस्याः सा. वृषाणां राजा वृषराजः केतनं यस्य सः. Mallinatha reads बाला for सा च. The reading with सा च is decidedly better as thereby we get two च शहर showing that the two actions referred to were simultaneous. In the last verse, Parvatī had asked her friend to dismiss the Brahmacarin, but fearing that perhaps the Batu would refuse to go away she wants to resort to the simpler course of going away herself from that place. In her excitement, the bark-garment slipped away from her breasts, but she did not mind that as she wanted to run away from the Batu, as from a leper, as soon as possible. Siva who had been convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt of the sincerest love of Parvati for him, now decides not to torture her any further, gives up the disguise of the Batu and appearing in his original form, holds Pārvatī in his arms. Destroyer of Madana thus is overpowered ultimately by Parvati's love. क्रतस्मित: because Siva had enjoyed the whole scene immensely. On वृष्राजकेतन, Arunagiri remarks वृष्राजकेतन इत्यनेन भगवत्परिजनपरिच्छदादेरपि तत्राविभीवो ध्वनितः। According to Arunagiri therefore we are to suppose that the bull, the गणड and other paraphernalia of Siva also, made their appearance at the same time. This however is not quite necessary.

Stanza 85 शैलानाम् अधिराजः तस्य तनयाः सरसा (स्वेदार्द्रा) अङ्गयिष्टः (प्रशस्तम् अङ्गम् or अङ्गम् यष्टिः इव) यस्याः साः मार्गे यः अचलः तस्य व्यतिकरः तेन आकुलिता. सिन्धुः is any river. This is a very beautiful description of Pārvatī, when she finds herself, all of a sudden in the arms of Siva. It would be quite a fitting theme for a painter to exercise his art upon. On seeing Siva, Pārvatī began to perspire profusely, her whole body trembling (वेपशुः and स्वेदः

bis

to tor

ed

.392

is

of

of.

he ads

ing

ike

nat

ne

ore

rec

old

ind

ud

rds

he:

ald

ISE.

rk-

he ske

or

यस्य

ith

ob-

Was

say

ept

had

IVE

are सात्त्विकभावड). She had raised her foot to move on. But the foot was not placed on the ground as there was now no occasion to move away and besides Siva was in her way; she could not stand in the same place either, being overpowered with bashfulness. She therefore stood on with her foot raised up for a while. Her ardent desire to have a look at her lord who was so dearly won, prompted her to stay there, and her bashfulness with equal force, prompted her to free herself from his grasp and to go away. She was thus in a fix, not knowing whether to go or to stay. Siva is compared to an अचल, and Parvati to the सिन्ध. A river also when coming across a mountain in her course, seems to stand undecided as to what she should do, whether to move on or to stand still (both of which courses are equally impossible). The reading facty एव means the same thing. निशेषे loc. sing. 'for being placed on the ground'. This verse is quoted in the Dasarupa in connection with साध्वस, and in Sarasvatī with the remark रातिक्येणेव

Stanza 86—The reading अनवमाङ्गि (अनवमम् (उत्कृप्रम्) अङ्गे यस्याः तस्याः संवाद्धिः) means 'O you possessed of an excellent body.' अहाय at once, झटिति. When Siva declared that he was conquered by Parvati's penance and that he would be her slave for ever, Parvati, in a trice, forgot the extreme privations she had undergone during the course of her penance. When a person secures his desired object, he becomes infused with fresh vigour and the immense satisfaction at the thought that after all his labours have been rewarded with success, makes him oblivious of the troubles involved in achieving that object. He becomes a new man ready to undergo any further trouble. In the expression हेशः नवता विधत्ते, नवता must be taken to refer to the person in question. ह्य bestows freshness on the person, that is, infuses fresh vigour in him, when it leads Arunagiri reads होशः नवतां पियत्तं 'fatigue loses its freshness or poignancy' where नवता would refer to the हेश itself. On तवास्मि दासः कीतः तपोभिः, Nārāyaņa remarks ननु धनकीताश्वेति द्विविधा दासाः। तदुभयासावे कथं दासत्त्रम्, अत आह—तपोभिः कीत इति । ... अत्र तक्सो मुल्यत्वेनोपादानम् । क्रीतदासा हीतरदासापेक्षया नितरामात्मायता भवन्तीत्यभित्रायः। This verse is quoted in the Sarasvatī with the remark पश्चादर्थीन्वयः।

13

APPENDIX A

he

she

red

ord her self

not

an

ing

to oth

क्षिप

on ec =

ोणैव

या

у.

on-

she

na

th

nat ces

lat er

en

OI

ds

h-lt.

ाता

ीत

ता b Extract from the Sivapurāņa as given by Jīvānanda *

शैवे त्रयोदशाष्याचे किश्चिद्धिरूत्य। प्रमृतिर्भवत्तस्या मेनायाः कन्यका ग्रुभा ॥ १,२२ ॥ दिशः प्रसेदुः पवनः सुसं ववी शङ्गं निद्व्मुर्गगनेचरास्तथा । पपात मोलो कुसुमाञ्जलिस्तदा बभूव तज्जन्मदिनं सुसपद्म् ॥ १,२३ ॥ मेना तया पूर्णानिशेशवक्त्रचा स्फुरःप्रभामण्डलया रराज ह। यथा विद्राचलभूमिरञ्जसा घनोत्थया रत्नशलाकया मुने ॥ १,२४॥ ता पावंतीत्याभिजनाच्च नामतो जुहाव तद्भन्युजनः स्वभावतः । मात्रा निषिद्धा तपसे यदा तु सा ययावुमाख्यां भवभक्तिभाविनी ॥ १,२६ ॥ गङ्गा यथा हंसलगाः शरत्सु वे रात्रो स्वभासस्तु यथा महीपधीः। गुरूपदेशादुपदेशपण्डितां तां पूर्वसंस्कारगुणा ययुर्मदा ॥ १,२९ ॥ तत्पादपाथोजमुवा श्रिया मुने स्थलारविन्द्च्छविद्धपनिन्द्नम् ॥ १,३३ ॥ सुनुपुरभ्राजितपादपद्मयोराादित्सवो ईसगणा गतं ययुः ॥ १,३४ ॥ निर्माय पङ्केरहसंभवं मुसं जानू तद्यि ह्यनुवृत्तपूर्विके । शेषाङ्गानिर्माणविधो जडोऽभवद्विमोहितस्तन्मुखदर्शनेच्छया॥ १,३५ ॥ मध्ये च तस्थास्त्रिवली रराज सा कामोत्सवार्थ नवयोवनोद्भवा ॥ १,३९॥ स्तनदृयं वे ववृधे तथा मुने यथा न सुत्रं किल मध्यमं भवेत् ॥ १,४० ॥ एतिहिचित्रं शृणु तत्स्वह्मपकं वशोऽभवत्स्वेन पुरा पुरारिहा । फ्रमेण यामधंशर्रारसंस्थितां चकार सा ते किल कथ्यते कथम् ॥ १,५० ॥

एवं सर्वगुणोपेतामुमामालोक्य भूवरः ।

क्रिमेण योजयामास तौ हरार्चनकर्मणि ॥

हिमवानुवाच । शृणु गोरि वचोऽस्माकं शंकरे वर्तते मयि ।

हहामुत्र फलार्थं च तं पूजय समाहिता ॥

यदा देहं सती देवी दक्षरोपात्ससर्जं ह !

ततो विमुक्तसङ्गोऽभूत् शंकरस्त्वपरिमहः ॥ १,५३ ॥

स रुत्तिबासास्तप्रसे यतात्मा वर्तते मम ।

प्रस्थे चालकनन्दार्यां सदा शीकरशातिले ॥ १,५४ ॥

^{*} The figures opposite the verses indicate similar verses from the Kumara.

Kumārasambhava

इंश्वराणां सदा सेवा जायते सर्वमङ्गलस् ।
तस्मात्तद्र्वनासक्ता भव त्वं भवभाविनी ॥

वामदेव उवाच । पितुर्वावयमिदं श्रुत्वा जहास मनमा तदा ।
तथेत्युकःवा स्वपितरं परिचर्यापराभवत् ॥
जया च विजया तम्याः सख्यो द्वे परिचारिके ।
ताभ्यां साकं चन्द्रमुखी चन्द्रशेखरमार्चयत् ॥ १,५८ ॥
समाधेरनुमेने तां गिरिशः परिपन्थिनीम् ।
समाधिनिश्यलस्वं च सर्वेषां दर्शयन्मुने ॥ १,५९ ॥
लोकानां धर्मशिक्षाये नो जयाह तदा तु ताम् ।

प्राप्योऽहं तपसा सत्यिमिति लोकांत्र्य दर्शयन् ॥

गिरीशमुपचचार प्रत्यहं सा सुकेशी ॥ १,६० ॥
स्वजनकवचनाज्ञापालनायेशभक्त्र्या ॥
सकलभुवननाथः शंकरत्यन्द्रमोलिः ।
भवतु मम हि भर्ता भावचन्तीति लाभम् ॥

इति श्रीशिवपुराणे उत्तरखण्डे उमोत्पत्तिनीम त्रयोदशोद्ध्यायः । वामदेव उवाच । एतस्मिन्नन्तरे काले तारकेण दिवोकसः ॥ २,१ ॥ आजो पराजिता आसन् शक्रद्पंविद्यातिना ॥ तदा सर्वे तुराणाहं रुत्वाये हतिकमाः । स्वायंभुवं ययो धाम सत्यलोकमिति श्रुतम् ॥ २,१ ॥ दण्ट्वा तत्र जगन्नाथं विकसत्सुमुखश्रियः । बमूदः पङ्कजानीव शत्दर्ण्या दिवाकरम् ॥ २,२ ॥ ततस्ते लोकधातारं वागीशं सर्वतोमुखम् । श्रीणपत्य यथान्यायमिद्माहुरतदा मुने ॥ २,३ ॥

देवा कचुः । बहाणे सृजते विश्वं स्थितौ पालयते नमः ।
रुद्रहरपाय कल्पान्ते नमस्तुभ्यं विमूर्तये ॥ २,४ ॥
त्वया यक्षिप्रममलं बीजं जलिधसंचये ।
स्तूयते पसवस्तस्य चराचरिमदं जगत् ॥ २,५ ॥
दर्शयन् मिह्नानं त्वं तिसृमिर्मूर्तिमिः प्रभुः ।
उत्पत्तिस्थितिनाशानामेकोऽभूः कारणं स्मृतम् ॥ २,६ ॥
स्त्रीस्वरूपो भवानेव पुमानिस जगत्वते ।

तस्मात्सर्वेषु सत्त्वेषु विख्यातो पितरी मवान् ॥ २,०॥

4

तवावबोधो भगवन् भूतानामुद्याय च । प्रलयाय भवेद्रात्रिर्नमस्ते कालह्मपिणे ॥ २,८ ॥ जगदीशस्त्वमेवासि त्वत्तो नास्त्येव ईश्वरः । जगदादिस्नादिस्त्वं नमस्ते स्वात्मवेदिने ॥ २,९ ॥ आत्मानमात्मना चेदं सृजस्यवित हांसे च। आत्मज्ञानविद्रो नित्यं त्वां विदुर्नेतरे जनाः ॥ २,१० ॥ नमः समुद्रुद्धपाय संघातकिताय च। स्थूलाय गुरवे तुभ्धं सुद्भाय लघवे नमः ॥ २, १९ ॥ व्यक्ताव्यकाय देवाय सर्वलोकेश्वराय च। सर्वान्तःसाक्षिणे तुभ्यं निर्जराजरदायिने ॥ त्वत्तो वेदाः समृद्भृता ऋग्यजुःसामसंज्ञकाः। कर्मयज्ञाः स्वर्गफलाः साङ्गोपनिषदः शुमाः ॥ २, १२ ॥ धर्मार्थकाममोक्षाणामादिम्तां सनातनीम् । त्वामामनन्ति प्रकृतिं पुरुषार्थविदः प्रमो ॥ २,१३॥ इन्द्रादीनां च देवानां देवाय भवते नमः। मरीच्यादिविधातूणां विधातासि जगद्ररो । परतोऽपि परोऽसि त्वं सर्वेन्द्रियविगोचगः ॥ २, १४॥ हन्यहोत्स्वऋषेण भोज्यभोक्तृस्वऋपतः॥ सर्वेषां यजनादेवं भवान स्वर्गकलपदः। वेद्यवेतुस्वरूपेण व्येयव्यातृस्वरूपतः ॥ २, १५ ॥ निष्कामाणां मुमुश्रूणां मोक्षदोऽसि त्वमेव च । त्वमेव सर्वलोकाना स्त्रेष्टा पालयिता भवान् ॥ नाशकाले हरोऽसि त्वं सर्वपापहरो मवान् । युष्मनमुद्धाम्बुजं दृष्ट्वा वयं सर्वे निराकुलाः ॥ त्राहि नः करुणापाङ्गिररातिबलपींशितान् । नामित्रो वर्तते देव तव मित्रं कदाचन ॥ सर्वेत्र समद्शीं त्वं तथाप्यस्मांस्तु पाळ्य ॥ २, १०॥ स्वागतं वो महाभागाः सर्वदैत्यविमर्द्नाः। स्वर्गं च स्वमुजाकान्त्या भवन्तः पालयन्ति हि॥ २,१८॥ इदानीं तु कथं सर्वे नष्टभासोऽभवन् सुराः।

बह्या उवाच।

तुषारच्छन्नतेजांसि ज्योतींषीव विद्वायासे ॥ २,१९ ॥

बृहस्पतिक्वाच ।

Kumārasambhava

पुरुद्दृतस्य यद्द्रजमधः रुतसुरायुधम् । तिद्दानीं महाभागा दृश्यते इतयोवनम् ॥ २,२०॥ वरुणस्य तु यः पाशो बद्धामुख्वलः सदा। सोऽयं वे दृश्यते सर्पो मन्त्राहतबलो यथा ॥ २,२१ ॥ क्बेरस्य भुजः शून्यो गद्या दृश्यते सुराः ॥ २,२२ ॥ यमोऽपि विलिखन् भूमीर्दण्डेनास्तमितत्विषा ॥ २,२३ ॥ त एते द्वादशादित्या दृश्यन्ते गततेजरुः । मित्तिभागे गृहाणां च चित्रकैर्लिखिता इव ॥ २,२४ ॥ वेगभङ्गाः कथममी सर्वे च मरुतोऽभवन् ॥ २,२५॥ हृद्राणां मीलयश्रीय कथं चन्द्रार्धवर्जिताः॥ २,२६॥ अयमिः कथं देवा दृश्यते ह्यात्विचिवत्। सोमोऽयं श्वामवर्णोऽभूत् पीयुषपरिवर्जितः ॥ ऐरावतगजी होष भगदन्तस्त दश्यते । कलपुष्पावहीनस्तु मूलोत्पाटितदुर्यथा ॥ यदेतदुक्तं भवता नानृतं सत्यमेव हि । सर्वभुतान्तरात्मासि कथं न ज्ञास्यति प्रभो।।। अमी गुकाद्यों देवा भ्रष्टराज्याः पराजिताः विचरन्ति महीपृष्ठे तारकेण बळीयसा ॥ महासुरस्तारकारूयस्त्वत्तः प्राप्तपराक्रमः। सर्वेलोकविनाशाय केतुराजिरिवोध्यितः ॥ २, ३२ तदन्तःप्रवर्तिन्यो दीर्घिकाः सन्ति याः प्रभो । तासां पद्मोद्यायेव विवस्वान् माति केवलम् ॥ २,३३ ॥ शनैः शनैवाति वायस्तद्याने च भीरुवत् । पतने कुसुमानां च पुष्पस्तेची भविष्यति ॥ २,३५ ॥ ऋतवस्ते स्वकालं च विद्यायासुरभीरवः। युगपच तदुद्यानं फलपुष्पैरुपासते ॥ २,३६ ॥ चन्द्रस्त तं सदाकालं कलामिः परिषेवते । बन्द्रशेसरमूर्द्रस्थां कलामेको विहाय च ॥ २,३४ ॥ समुद्रः सर्वरत्नानि तस्मै योग्यानि वै ददी ॥ २,३७॥

नहां

ज्वलमणिशिसो रात्रों वासुकिस्तं निषेवने ॥ २,३८ ॥

अग्निस्त तस्य वस्त्राणि विमलानि करोति हि। यीष्मे तदङ्गे शनकेमें वा वर्षनित शीकरै: ॥ यज्ञभागं स चाश्नाति विनिवत्यं दिवीकसः ॥ २,३९ ॥ अहं तस्याग्रतो गत्वा कथयामि शुभाशुमम् । एवमाराधितश्यापि स क्रिश्नाति जगत्त्रयम् । शास्येत् प्रत्यपकारेण नोपकारेण दुर्जनः ॥ २, ४० ॥ चिच्छेद् नन्द्नतह्न् देवस्तीपरिठालितान् ॥ २, ४१ ॥ मन्दाकिन्या जलं सर्वे स्ववाद्यां स्थापितं प्रभो ॥ २, ४४ ॥ कनकाचलशृङ्गाणि समुत्पाट्य महासुरः। कींडास्थलेप तान्वेव स्थापयामास वेश्मनि ॥ २, ४६॥ अस्माकं सकलोपाचा अस्मिन्नस्ता महासुरे ॥ २,४८ ॥ मेघच्छना रविकरा यथा तेजस्थिनो भवि॥ तिद्च्छामो विभो स्रष्टुं सेनान्यं तस्य शान्तये। कर्मबन्धिच्छदं धर्म मवस्येव मुमुक्षवः ॥ २,५१ ॥ हन्तारं परसेन्यानां गोप्तारं त्रिदिवीकसाम् । दातारं शकलक्ष्यात्र्य महावीर्यपराक्रमम् ॥ २,५२ ॥ भविष्यति भवत्कामः सहध्वं सुरपुङ्गवाः ॥ २,५३ ॥ तपःफलविपाकस्त् तस्यासदिधुना महान् ॥ मया तस्मे वरो दत्तो न हन्तव्यो ह्यसो मम ॥ विषवृक्षो हि संवर्ष्य स्वयं छेतुमसाम्प्रतम् ॥ २,५५ ॥ युध्यन्तमाहवे तं च महाबलपराक्रमम्। समर्थः को भवे़ज्जेतुं विना शंभुसुतं सुराः ॥ २,५७ ॥ यज्ञामी या पुरा दुम्धा उमेति परिकीर्तिता । सापि तत्राधुना देवाः वर्तते शिदसन्त्रिधौ ॥ उमाश्रयति गौरीशं तत्वरिंग्रहणेच्छया । ततस्तत्र प्रयत्नं च कुरुष्वं विबुधेश्वराः ॥ आकाङ्ख्रिति तथा शंभुरुमां च नगनिद्नीम् ॥ वोढुं शंकररेतस्तु नान्या स्त्री सेव शक्यते ॥ २,६० ॥ तयोः पुत्रो यदा भूयासदा वो मङ्गलं भवेत् ॥ इत्युदाहृत्य तान् देवान् गृहान्तः प्राविशत्प्रभुः ॥ २,६२ ॥

बह्मोवाच ।

Kumārasambhava

देवास्ते क्रतक्त्यास्तु नमस्क्रत्य ययुर्डिवम् । तिस्मन् कार्ये विनिश्चित्य कन्दर्पे सिद्धिदायकम् ॥ २,६३ ॥ मघवान् तमुवाचेदं पुष्पवाणधनुर्धरम् ॥

इन्द्र उवाच । त्वमेव सर्वकार्येषु सहायो महद्दर्थके । रक्षाये सर्वळोकानां मद्वाक्यं हि करिष्यिति ।।

कामदेव उवाच । धन्योऽहं रुतरुत्योऽहं मय्यस्ति त्वद्नुग्रहः ।
।कें करिष्यामि देवेन्द्र समाज्ञापय सत्वरम् ॥ ३,२ ॥
असंमतः कस्तवेन्द्र मुक्तिमार्गमपेक्षते ।
तं सुन्दरीकटाक्षेस्तु बन्नाम्याज्ञापयस्व मे ॥ ३,३ ॥
कस्य शत्रोरिष हरे धर्मार्थों पीडयाम्यहम् ॥ ३,६ ॥
करिष्ये कां सतीं देव तवाये त्यक्तराज्ञिकाम् ॥ ३,० ॥
वजं तव सुराधीश यत्कार्थं न करिष्यति ।
तत्करिष्यामि पुष्पास्तेः सर्वासुरिवमोहनम् ॥ ३,९ ॥
धेर्यंच्युतिं करिष्येऽहं भवस्यापि तवाज्ञया ॥ ३,९० ॥
अन्येषां चेव देवानामसुराणां च का कथा ॥
अवैमि तेऽनज्ञः वीर्य हरधेर्यहरं प्रम् ॥ ३,९३ ॥
तत् कुरुष्वामराणांत्र्य स्थितये त्रिदिवस्य च ॥ ३,२० ॥

त्द्र उवाच । अवैभि तेऽनङ्ग वीर्य हरधेर्थहरं प्रम् ॥ ३,१३॥ तत् कुरुष्वामराणांश्य स्थितये त्रिदिवस्य च ॥ ३,२० ॥ हिमवच्छितरं गत्वा यत्रास्थे भगवान् हरः ॥ ३,१०॥ उमा गिरिस्रता चैव तं च तस्यां नियोजय ॥

वमा गारसुता चव तं च तस्यां नियोजय ॥
वामदेव उवाच । इत्युक्तस्तेन कन्द्र्यः स जगाम हिमालयम् ।
नियोजयितुकामस्तु उमायां चन्द्रशेखरम् ॥
तत्सहायो मलयजः पवनस्त्वन्यगात् मुने ।
तत्सहायो माधवश्येव कामोत्सवपरायणः ॥ ३,२२-२३॥
तिसम्बने संयमिनां मुनीनामूर्व्यरतसाम् ।
समाधः प्रतिक्लस्तु कामो विजयते मुने ॥ ३,२४॥
तदा शरीरिणां तत्र कामासक्तममून्मनः ।
सर्वत्र विपरीतं तु जातं कुसुमितं वनम् ।
कामो धनुषि संयोज्य पुष्पबाणं तद्रा मुने ॥ ३,६४॥
पार्वतीसंमुसे स्थाणो मोक्तुकामो स्यवस्थितः ॥ ३,६६॥
हरस्तु धेर्यमालम्ब्य किमेतादिति चिन्तयन् ।
दद्र्श पृष्ठतः कामं पुष्पबाणधनुर्धरम् ॥ ३,६४॥

विवृद्धमन्योस्तस्याथ तृतीयनयनाद् मुने । स्फुरन्नुद्धिरप्रिस्तु पपात मद्नोपरि ॥ ३,७१ ॥ क्रोधं संहर हे देव इति यावद्वदन्ति से । इन्द्रादिसकला देवास्तावद्रस्मीचकार तम् ॥ ३,७२॥ उपस्थितं विघ्रमिदं ज्ञात्वा च चन्द्रशेखाः। अन्तर्द्धे स विश्वात्मा महिमानं च दर्शयन् ॥ ३,७३ ॥ गतिरेषा भवेत्तर्ण महादेवापराधिनाम् । मस्मशेषोऽभवस्कामो दक्षस्वासीच्छिरो यथा ॥ ङ्ति श्रीशिवपुराणे उत्तरसण्डे कन्दर्पदहनो नाम चतुर्दशोऽध्यायः।

अन्तर्हिते भगवाति सा शिलतनया मुने । निराशा धृतल्जा च सस्रीभ्यां भदनं ययौ ॥ ३,७५ ॥ तां दीनवद्नां दृष्टवा गिरिर्दुहितरं मुने । उवाच मधुरं वाक्यमाश्वास्य च पुनः पुनः ॥ किमधी वद्नं दीनं मृगशावकलोचने ।

ाईमवानुवाच ।

उमावाच ।

रुद्रः किं कृपितो देवि सेवया गुद्धिहीनया ॥ मत्सेवा महती भुद्रा शिवः शान्तमनास्तदा । मम कर्मविपाकेन सा सेवा विफलाभवत् ॥ शृणु तात प्रवश्यामि तत्र चैको गतः पुमान् । पुष्पचाणधनुर्बाहुरेकचा सह वे स्त्रिया । तिसम्तत्रागते तात मारुतो मलयाचलात् । ववी कुसुमिताः सर्वे तिलकाशोकपादुपाः ॥ कुजन्ति कोकिलाः सर्वे पश्चमस्वरराञ्जिताः। इतस्ततो भ्रमन्तव्य भ्रमराः पुष्पमञ्जरीः ॥ तस्मिञ् शरादि कालेऽपि सर्वसंभारसंवृतः। चमूव कामसंसर्गाद्वसन्तो देहवानिव॥ तदा मम नितम्बस्था काश्ची चश्चलतां गता। हरस्यापि मनो धैर्याचितितं मा निर्राक्य च ॥ , तदा स भगवान् शंभुः पृष्ठभागे ददर्श ह । धनुधरं हि पुरुषं तं द्दाहाक्षिवद्विना ॥ तत्रश्चान्तद्धे सोऽपि भगवान्त्रमधेः सह । मस्मीभूतश्च पुरुषस्तत्रेका स्त्री च पर्वते ॥

Kumārasambhava

वामदेव उवाच । श्रुत्वेतद्दुहितुर्वाक्यं हिमालयगिरिमुंने । एवं वद्न्तीं वृत्तान्तं गृहीत्वा तां ययो गृहम् ॥ सापि कंदर्भवनी तु शिवमन्तर्हितं पतिम् । भरमीमूर्त समालोक्य विललापातिदुः खिता ॥ ४,२४ १० ततो वह्निं समादाय सा रितः कामवल्लमा । अनुगन्तुं स्वमतीरमुद्योगमकरोत् मुने ॥ ४,३२॥ बतो रतिं कामपत्नीं स्थितां देहविमुक्तये। आकाशसंभवा वाणी भाहेदं मधुराक्षरम् ॥ ४,३९ ॥ प्रजापितः स्वतनयां यदा कामितवान् पुरा ॥ ४,४० 🎼 मृगद्धपधरं तं च विवेद भगवान् हरः ।। तदा स लिजितो भूःवा शशाप मनसा तव ॥ ४,४१ ॥ मर्तारं भव भस्म त्वं हरलोचनवह्निना ॥ ततः शंकरनेत्राप्तिर्भस्मशेषं चकार तम् । पुनस्तव पतिभूँयाच्छंकराराधनात्ततः ॥ ४,४२ ॥ इमामन्तर्हितां वाणीं श्रुत्वा सा कामवलमा ॥ ४,४३ 🎼 तत्रेव पूजवामात शंकरं लोकशंकरम् ॥ (ततः पासङ्गिककथां समाप्य तत्रेव ।) गत्वा पितृगृहं देवी विषष्णवद्ना सती। पितरं मातरं गत्वा प्राह वाक्यमिदं तु सा ॥ सेवा मे निष्कला जाता थूर्जटे: पुरवैरिण: 1 विफलाय बभूवेदं पुनर्मे नवयोवनम् ॥ आज्ञापय महादेवपदाम्भोजार्चनां प्रति । अहं तपः करिष्यामि गत्वा शिसरकाननम् ॥ ब्ह्माविष्णुसुरेशायौरपरिच्छेय ईश्वरः । योऽसो कथं मया ह्मन्न लभ्यते वे विना तपः 🎼 तस्माद्हं गमिष्यामि तपः कर्तुं च कानने । तपसा रुभ्यते शम्भूयोगिगम्यः परंतपः॥

वितरावृचतुः।

कचतुर्दुःसिते। भूत्वा बाष्पगद्भद्या गिरा ॥ शंकरस्तु तपोगम्यो नान्यथा कथितम्त्वया । भक्त्या तु लम्यते भूयो भक्तियोगपरो हि सः ॥

इति स्वतनयावाक्यं श्रुत्वा तु पितरी मुने ।

Appendix A: Extract from Sivapurana

तस्माद्रिकं समास्थाय साविकीं वेमलक्षणाम् । पूजय स्वगृहे देवं चन्द्रशेखरमन्त्रिके ॥
स्त्रीणां वनिनवासस्तु नोचितो नुनिभावितः ।
कथमेकािकनी मातः वनं गन्तुं त्विमच्छिति ॥
एवं तु रोचतेऽरमभ्यं न गन्तव्यं वनं त्वया ।
वनेऽपि दोषो भवित योगिनां सदनं वनम् ॥
वनवासोद्रवो धर्मो वनस्थानां विधीयते ।
नोचितः स च विज्ञेयो गृहस्थाश्रमवासिनाम् ॥
स क्रित्तवासा हे मातः सर्वभूतान्तरिश्यतः ।
सर्वद्शीं च सर्वज्ञः सर्वेश्वरपतिभवः ॥
आराधितो मिक्युकेर्यत्र कृत्रापि शंकरः ।
प्रकाशमेति मकानां तमसामिव मास्करः ॥
तस्माच्वं भिक्तियुक्तेन पूजय स्वगृहे शिवस् ।
उ मा गच्छ वनं घोरं सर्वविद्रास्पदं सदा ॥

नामदेव उवाच । पित्रोरिति वचः श्रुत्वा सर्वशास्त्रार्थसंमतम् । तद्नाहत्य भक्तिज्ञा पार्वती प्रत्यमापत् ॥

प्रभंत्युवाच । स धर्मो नास्ति मे तात गृहस्थाश्रमसंमतः । गृहधर्माद्वहिर्मुत्वा भवामि बह्मचारिणी ॥ ब्रह्मचर्य वनस्थानां वनवासो नियुज्यते । तस्माद्वनं गमिष्यामि शिवेच्छा ब्रह्मचारिणी ॥ विशेषतो महादेवो वनौकोमुनिभावतः । श्रांघं प्रसादमायाति तद्वकानां वनौकसाम् ॥

श्विम्मदेव उवाच । इत्युवस्या विकसत्ययलोचना गिरिनन्दिनी । शिवस्मरणसंयोगादानन्दाश्वरलुलामवत् ॥ अभिवाद्य ततस्तातं स्थिवरान्नगजान् गुरून् । स्रुहृद्भिवार्यमाणापि जगाम तपसे वनम् ॥ गोरी विजयया सख्या जयया च स्रुनेत्रया । साकं ससीभ्यां सुमुसी सां गोरिशिखरं ययो ॥ चकार वसतिं यस्माद्गीरशिखग्मुच्यते ॥ ५,०॥ गोरिशिखरमासाय सा गोरी सलिसंयुता । Kumārasambhava

तपश्चर्त समारेभे पीत्ये भगवतो मुने ॥ जजाप परमं मन्त्रं शैवं पञ्चर्णसंज्ञकम् । ध्यायन्ती मनसा शेवं पञचवक्त्रं त्रिलोचनम् ।। हेमन्ते जान्हबीतोचे करकाभ्यधिशीतले । धाकण्ठममा ध्यायन्नी संस्थिता चन्द्रशेखरम् ॥ शिशिरे शीतलिशालातले चैवाईवाससा । युक्ता चन्द्रकलाशीर्षे पूज्यामास पार्वती ॥ ५,३६॥ वसन्ते तद्भवेः पृष्पेर्निराहारा गतक्कमा । श्रद्भया परया युक्ता पुजयन्ती महेश्वरम् ॥ यीष्मे पञ्चामिमाधाय मध्ये भूता रुताञ्जलिः ॥ ५,२० ॥ ध्यायन्ती कामद्हनं नान्यभावा मनेऽभवत् ॥ वर्षायामुचकै: स्थित्वा वर्षतो मध्यतस्तु सा । धाराभिर्मुस्ळाग्राभिर्नान्यभावा तद्भवत् ॥ ५,२३॥ शरकाले महापूजामकरोदिन्दुशेखरे। षष्ठकालाशना भूत्वा तत्पादाम्बुजमानसा ॥ एवं वर्षत्रिकेष्वेषा षष्ठकालकताशना । चतुर्थे त्यक्तपर्णा च अपर्णाख्यामवाप सा ॥ ५,२८॥ पञ्चमे वायुभक्ष्यं च परित्यज्य समाहिता । एवं पञ्चिमितं वर्षे सा चकार तपो भृशम् ॥ तपोविपाककाळे ता जिज्ञासुर्भगवान् शिवः। बह्मचर्यवतधरो विवेश तपसोऽचलम् ॥ अजिन।पाढधारी च प्रगल्मवचनो मुनिः। ज्वलन्तिव जटाधारी बह्मज्ञो बह्मतेजसा ॥ ५,३० ॥ दृष्वा तमतिथं गौरी पूजयामास आद्रात् । मह्यमोज्यैरशेषेश्य सशस्यासनवारिभिः॥ स बह्मचारी जिटलः प्रतिगृह्य च सिक्रियाम् । पश्यन्तुमामुखाम्मोजमित्युवाच सुकोमलम् ॥ ५,३२ ॥ अपि कियार्थं सुलमं पुष्पवारिसामित्कुशम् । अपि देवि तयो मूर्त्रि स्वशक्त्यापि प्रवर्तसे ॥ ५,३३ ॥ एषा ते योवनावस्था तपः कर्तु न युज्यते । तपसे मुनयत्र्याहुरुत्तरं वपुषो वयः ॥

जय

जि

जटिल उवाच।

वृद्धकालोचिते शेषे जटावरकलवाससी । कथं विभाषे सुश्रोणि नोचितं तव योवने ॥ ५,४४॥ किमर्थमेतद् घोरं च तपः कर्तुं त्वमर्हिस । किमाकाङ्क्षासि सुश्रोणि मया त्विय न लक्ष्यते ॥ घोरेण तपसा देवि भर्तारं चिद् वाञ्छिस । रखनीया तदा भर्जा त्वं भवत्या न वे पतिः ॥ ५,४५॥

किमाकाङ्क्षि सुश्रोणि कथयस्य ममायतः ।
 कुत्हरेन गुश्रुपुरहं तद नगेन्द्रजे ॥

जबोबाच । एषा गिरिस्नता वित्र सती कमलळोचना । वाचं परस्य साक्षान्तो ददाति भवसंविनी ॥ अतोऽहं ते भवस्यामि सख्या वाञ्छितमुत्तमम् । यद्र्थश्च तपो घोरं करोति गिरिकन्यका ॥ ५,५२ ॥ यदा हरेक्षणाग्निस्तु ददाह मदनं द्विज । तत: अभृत्यसो बाला वाञ्छतीन्दुकलाधरम् ॥ ५,५ ३ ॥

जिटल उवाच । साधु साधु महाभागे शोभनं वरमिच्छिस । इन्द्रादिप्रमुखान् देवान् परित्यज्य दिवीकसः ॥ ५,५३ ॥ श्मशानचारी सततं व्यालाभरणभिवतः। निन्दितः सर्वलोकेषु स कथं वाञ्छचते खया ॥ ५,६६ ॥ चितामस्मविलिप्ताङ्गं वातुलं जटिलं हरम् ॥ ५,६९॥ यावेतौ तव पादौ तु लाक्षारकविराजितौ । पुतिमांसयुती भस्मलिप्ती ती च भविष्यतः ॥ ५,६९ ॥ नाजुहावाध्वरे दक्षस्तं कथं वरमिच्छिति ॥ यः कपाली करात्रश्च भूतवेतालसंवृतः। दिम्वासा विगतवीडः स कथं वियते त्वया ॥ धन्यासि कतपुण्यासि ह्येतदर्थे परं तपः। उपहासं करिष्यन्ति श्रुवितद् गृहमेधिनः॥ दुक्लं तव मुश्रोणि तद्वासस्त गजाजिनम् । विवाहकालसंभूतवलकलेनोपहास्पर्म् ॥ ५,६० ॥ तस्योद्घाहनकाले च हाहा कर्त् भविष्यति ।

फणिकङ्कणसंयोगं यदा ते कंकणं भवेत् ॥ ५,६६ ॥

部科

तत्पारित्यज्य गिरिशमुपेन्द्रं वा शचीपतिम् । वरय त्वं विशालाक्षि वरयोग्यों त तो तव ।।

शामदेव उवाच । इति तस्य वचः श्रुत्वा पारंती ब्रह्मचारिणम् । नियमं सा पान्यज्य वाक्यमेतदभाषत ॥

उमोवाच ।

ब्राह्मण त्वं सर्ववेत्ता सत्यं वद्सि नान्यथा । इन्द्रादिसकला देवाः परित्याज्याः शिवेष्मुःभिः॥ आब्ह्मम्तम्बपर्यन्तं भरमीभृतं चराचरम् । महाप्रलयकाले च श्मशाने चरते हर: ।। अशेषजगतां शेषः शेषोऽहिः परिकार्तितः । शेषकाले युतः कट्यां कालाभरणभाषितः ॥ निन्दितः सर्वलोकेषु यः सदानन्ददायकः। सत्यमुक्तं द्विजश्रेष्ठ स कथं वाञ्छचते मया॥ महाप्रलयसंभतं चिताभरम च दृश्यते । तं कथं वरमिच्छामि सत्यमुक्तं न संशयः ॥ वकारं पीयूषं विद्यादत्व्योऽसी सनातनः । तस्माद्सो वातुलस्तु मानिभिः परिकीर्तितः ॥ यः सर्वपापसंघातं समरणाद्धरति प्रभुः । तं इरं पापमोक्तारं वरमिच्छामि भो द्विज ॥ कथं दक्षी वरेण्यं तमावाहयति शंकरम् । न जहाव वरेण्यं यस्तस्य स्थायक्षवद् गतिः। कं स्वर्गः पालितो यस्मात् पुरा त्रिपुरदाहनात् ॥ तस्मात् शिवः कपालीति मुनिभिः स्त्यते सदा । करेरळं भूषिनश्य विवस्वान् परिकीर्तितः ॥ अष्टमूर्तिधरत्वेन कराली परिकथ्यते । पृथिच्यादीनि भूतानि तेषां वेतालको गणः॥ ततोऽसो पोच्यते सद्धिभूतवेतालसंवृतः । पादौ यस्य तुं पांताळं कटिमूंची: शिरस्तथा ॥ दिशो वासांसि यस्यासन् दिग्वासस्तेन स स्मृतः। विशेषतो गटा बीडा यस्माद् वे पदायोनिना । स्वस्तामोगसमये विगतबीड एव सः ॥ एवंभूतो यः सदात्मा सर्वदेवैनं लभ्यते । सत्यमुक्तं द्विजश्रेष्ठ स कथं वियते भया॥

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

धन्याहं कतपुण्याहमेतद्थें तपो मम। नोपहासं करिष्यन्ति अत्वैतद् बह्नवादिनः ॥ आमदेव उवाच । एतत् श्रुत्वा वचस्तस्य जिंदेलस्तु ततो मने । पुनर्वकतुं समारेमे चन्द्रशेखरनिनद्नम् ॥ पुनर्विवक्षं तं दृष्ट्वा जाटिलं बह्मचारिणम् । उमा प्रोवाच विजयामितोऽसो सिख नीयताम् ॥ ५,८३ ॥ यः करोति महादेवनिन्दामात्मविनाशिनीम् । स पापिष्ठतरस्तस्मात् यः श्रृणोति स पापमाक् ॥ ५,८३॥ तस्माद्यं चटुर्वादी नीयनां नीयतामिति । महादेवापराधश्य कतोऽनेन महानमि ॥ शिवद्वेषी नरो यत्र तस्माद् धर्मः पलायते । धर्माह्रदो महादेवस्तरमादेनभितो नय ॥ नामदेव उवाच। इति बुवाणां तां देवीं भक्तिवेमपरिष्ठताम् । दृष्ट्वा स जिटलस्तुष्टः प्रोवाच मधुरं गिरम् ॥ जानामि त्वां महाभागे जगन्मात्रमिकाम् । लपःफलं तु ते सत्यं भव त्वं भवभाविनी । इत्युक्तवा भगवांस्तत्र पश्यन्तीं तां कशोदराम् । स्वरूपं दर्शयामास पञ्चवक्त्रं त्रिलोचनम् ॥ ५,८६॥ उवाच नीलपदाक्षि मम त्वं भवभाविनी । क्रीतस्तवाहं दासोऽहं घोरेण तपसामुना ॥ ५,८६ ॥ इतो गच्छ जगनमातः गृहं हिमवतो शुभम्। उद्वाई च करिष्यामि धर्मशास्त्रोक्तवर्मना ॥ अहं चेन्न करिष्यामि वेदोक्तविधिमन्बिके । तदा कथं भवेयस्ते लोकाः श्रेष्ठानुगामिनः ॥ आया शक्तिर्मम त्वं हि यानले उन्तर्दधे परा। इदानीमावयोयोंगाज्यशतां मङ्गलं भवेत्।। त्वमेताभ्यां पितुर्गेहं सस्तीभ्यां याहि सुन्द्रि । स्वयंवरं पिता देवि करोतु तंव मङ्गलम् । तत्रैवाहं गमिष्यामि लोकधर्म प्रवर्तयन् । गच्छ त्वं द्शीयिष्यामि सर्वलोकसमीपतः ॥ चामद्रेव उवाच । इत्युक्ता भगवांरतां तु ह्यन्तर्धानमुपा मत् ।

उमापि गिरिकन्या सा'सङ्गीभ्यो म्वनं यथौ ॥

इमं जटिलसंवादं पार्वत्या यः पटेन्नरः । श्रृणुयाद्रक्तियुक्तश्य स प्रयाति शिवां गनिम् ॥ इति शिवपुराणे उत्तरसण्डे भण्डियामदेवसंयादे उमा नटिलसं वादे नाम षोडशो, दृध्यायः ॥ १६॥

ब्रह्मप्राणे उत्तरखण्डे शिवमाहात्म्ये किञ्चद्रकृत्योक्तम् । कोकिलासेन्यसंयुक्तो हिमाद्रिं पययो समरः। तत्रापश्यत शम्भोः सः पुण्यमाश्रममण्डलम् ॥ तत्रापश्यत्त्रिनेत्रस्य वीरभद्रं महाबलम् । यथा साक्षान्महेशानं गणांत्र्यायृतशोऽस्य च॥ ददर्श तत्र चेशानं नासायरुतलोचनम् ॥ ३,४७ ॥ देवदारुद्रमच्छायावेदिकामध्यमाथितम् ॥ ३,४४॥ समकायं सुसासीनं समाधिस्थं महेश्वरम् ॥ ३,४५ ॥ तं तथाविधमालोक्य सोउन्तर्भेदाय यत्नवान् । पटपद्विनिव्याजेन विवेश मद्नो मनः ॥ एतस्मिन्नन्तरे देवो विकासितविलोचनः । सस्मार नगराजस्य तनयां रक्तमानसः ॥ ३,६७ ॥ निवेदिता वरिकेण विवेश च गिरे: मुता ॥ ३,६० 🕪

तर्जेवाध्यायान्तरे । विज्ञाय सा ससीमाह किमध्येप विवक्षति । वार्यनामालि विवादयं महददवणभाषकः । न केवलं पापभागो श्रोता वै स्यान्त संशयः ॥ ५,८३॥ अथवा किञ्च नः कार्य वादेन सह ब्राह्मणैः। कर्णीं पिधाय यास्यामो यथार्थः स्यात्तथास्तु सः ॥ ५,८२ 🕩 इत्युक्त्वोत्थाय गच्छन्त्यां पिधाय श्रवणानुभौ । स्वरूपं समुपाश्चित्य जगृहे वसनं हर: ॥ ततो निर्राक्ष्य तं देवं संभ्रान्ता परमेश्वरी ॥ प्रणिपत्य महेशानं तृष्टाव च उमा तदा ॥ देव्युवाच । मनसस्वं प्रभुः शम्भो दत्तं तच मया तव । वपषः वितरावीशो संमानवितुमहासि ॥ ६,१ ॥ (प्रासाङ्गिककथां समाप्य तत्रैवोक्तम् ॥)

ततः सप्त मुनीन् देवः चिन्तिताभ्यागतान् पुरः॥ ७,३ 🗈

Appendix A: Extract from Brahmapurana

305

पाहिणोदान्विकायाश्य स्थिरपत्रार्थंमीश्वरः॥ सारुन्धतीकास्ते तत्र ह्वाद्यन्तो हिमाचलम् । उद्घाहार्थे ततो देवो विश्वं सर्व न्यमन्त्रयत् ॥ समागतं तु सर्वे च विना देत्येदुंगत्माभिः। स्थावरं जंगमं यच विश्वं विष्णुपुरोगमम् ॥ ततस्तं विधिराहेदं गन्धमाद्सपूर्वते । पुरे स्थितं विवाहस्य देव कालः प्रवर्तते ॥ ततस्तस्य जटाजुटे चन्द्रखण्डं पितामहः। कपर्दशोभनं विष्णुर्वचन्ध चण्डिका ततः। उवाच चापि गिरिशं पुत्रं जनय शंकर । यो दैत्येन्द्रकुलं हत्वा मां रक्तेस्तर्पायिष्यति ॥ हरो विभूष्यते देवेवृषभं भूषयन्ति च। शको गनाजिनं गृह्य स्वयमेव व्यवस्थितः॥ चिताभस्म समाद्य कपाले रजतप्रभे। मनुष्यास्थिमधीं मालां प्रेतनाथश्य चन्द्नम् ॥ विद्विस्तेजोमयं दिःयमिजनं पददौ स्थितः। एवं विभूषितः सर्वेर्भृत्येरीशो बभी भृशम् ॥ ततो हिमाद्रेः पुरुषा वीरकं प्रोचिरे वचः । मा भूत्कालात्ययः शोघं भवस्यतिन्नवेद्यताम् ॥ ततो देवं प्रणम्याह वीरकः करसंपुटी। त्वरयन्ति महेशान हिमाद्रेः पुरुषास्त्वमी॥ इति श्रुत्वा वचो देवः शीघ्रमित्येव चावर्वात् । ततो बद्धाञ्जालिधीमान् स्थाणुं प्रोवाच केशवः ॥ शोभसेऽनेन रूपेण जगदानन्ददायिना । करमालम्बय विष्णोश्य वृषमं रुरहे हर:॥ ततस्तु वसवो देवा शुलं तस्य न्यवेदयन् । धनदो निधिमियुंकः समीपस्थस्ततोऽभवत् ॥ देवदुन्दुभिनादेश्य पुष्यसारेश्य गीतकेः। नृत्यमानाप्सरोभिश्य जयोति च महास्वनै: ॥

TE THE

Kumārasambhava

सन्यदक्षिणसंस्थानौ बह्मविष्णू च जम्मतुः । अथादितिर्दितिः सा च दनुः कटुमुसास्ततः ॥ कोटिशश्य महादेवं महेन्द्राद्याः स्ववाहनाः । अनुजम्मुमहादेवं कोटिशोऽर्युदशश्य हि ॥ गणाश्य पृष्ठतो जम्मः कोटिशो लक्षशस्तथा । महोत्सवेन देवेशो गिरिस्थानं विवेश सः ॥ प्रभासस्वर्णकलशैस्तोरणानां शतैर्युतम् । ततो बह्माणमचलो गुरुत्वे शर्थवत्तदा ॥

APPENDIX B

Proverbial passages from the Kumārasambhava (I-VIII)

- 9 अनन्तपुष्पस्यं मधोर्हि चूने द्विरेकमाला सविशेषसङ्गा। I. 27
- २ अपेक्ष्यते साधुजनेन वैदिकां श्मशानश्लुष्ठस्य न यूपसिक्तिया। V. 73
- э अव्यप्रसिद्धं यशसे हि पुंसामनन्यसाधारणमेव कर्म । III. 19
- 🔻 अभ्यर्थनामङ्गभयेन साधुर्माध्यमिष्टेऽत्ववलम्बितेऽर्थे । I. 52
- प अलोकसामान्यमचिन्त्यहेतुकं द्विषन्ति मन्दाश्यरितं महात्मनः । V. 75
- ६ अशनेरमृतस्य चोमयोर्वशिनश्राम्बुधराश्र्य योनयः । IV. 43
- अशोच्या हि पितुः कन्या सद्भर्तुः प्रतिपादिता । VI. 79
- < असाति त्वाये वारुणीमदः प्रमदानामधुना विडम्बना । IV. 12
- ९ आत्मेश्वराणां न हि जातु विद्याः समाधिमेद्प्रमवो भवन्ति । III. 40
- ९० ऋते रुशानोनं हि मन्त्रपूतमहंन्ति तेजांस्यपराणि हन्यम् । I. 51
- 🥱 एको हि दोषो गुणसंनिपाते निमज्जतीन्दोः किरणोविवाङ्कः । I. 3
- १२ क इंग्तितार्थस्थिरानिश्रयं मनः पयश्र निम्नाभिमुखं प्रतीपयेत् । V. 5
- १३ ...कः करं प्रसारयेत् पन्नगरत्नसूचये । V. 43
- १४ ...कठिनाः खलु ख्रियः । IV. 5
- १५ कमपरवशं न विप्रकुर्युर्विभुमित तं यद्मी स्पृशान्ति मावा: I VI. 95
- १६ कालप्रयुक्ता खलु कार्यविद्भिविद्भापना भर्तृषु सिद्धिमेति । VII. 93
- १७ कियाणां खलु धर्म्याणां सम्वत्न्यो मूलकारणम् । VII. 13
- १८ क्लेशः फलेन हि पुनर्तवतां विधत्ते । V. 86
- १९ क्षुद्रेऽपि नूनं शरणं पपन्ने ममत्यमुचैः शिरसामतीव । I. 12
- २० द्यितास्वनवस्थितं नृणां न स्नु प्रेम चलं सुहुज्जने । IV. 28
- २१ ...न कामवृत्तिर्वचनीयमीक्षते । V. 82
- २२ न केवलं यो महतोऽपमापते शृणोति तस्माद्पि यः स पापमाक् । V. 83
- २३ ...न धर्मवृद्धेषु वयः समीक्ष्यते । V. 16
- २४ ...न रत्नमन्विष्यति मृग्यते हि तत् । V. 45
- २५ न पट्वद्श्रेणिमिरेव पङ्कर्ज सरीवलासङ्गमि प्रकाशते । V. 9
- २६ न हीश्यरच्याहृतयः कदाचित् पुष्णिन्ति छोके विपरीतमर्थम् । III. 63
- २७ पदं सहेत भ्रमरस्य पेळवं शिरीषपुष्पं न पुनः पतत्रिणः । V. 4
- २८ परस्परेण स्ट्रहणीयशोभं न चेदिदं द्वन्द्वमयोजायिष्यत् । अस्मिन्द्वये रूपविधानयन्तः पत्युः प्रजानां वितथोऽभविष्यत् ॥ VII. 66

Kumārasambhava

25	प्रयोजनापेक्षितया प्रमुणां प्रायश्वलं गौरवमाश्चितेषु । III. 1
30	प्रायेणैवंविधे कार्ये पुरन्ध्रीणां प्रगरुभता । VI. 32
39	प्रायेण गृहिणीनेत्राः कैन्यार्थेषु कुटुन्यिनः । VI. 85
32	प्रायेण सामप्रचिवधौ गुणानां पराङ्मुसी विश्वसृजः प्रवृत्तिः । III. 28
33	प्रायः प्रत्ययमाधत्ते स्वगुणेषूत्तमादरः । VI. 20
3.4	प्रियेषु सोभाग्यकला हि चारुता । V. 1
34	भवन्त्यन्थभिचारिण्यो भर्तृरिष्टे पतिव्रताः । VI. 86
36	मवन्ति साम्बेऽपि निविष्टचेतसां वपुर्विशेषेष्वतिगौरवाः क्रियाः । V. 31
30	मनोरथानामगतिर्ने विद्यते । V. 64
. 36	यद्ध्यासितमहंद्रिस्ताद्धे तीर्थं प्रचक्षते । VI. 56
35	यदुच्यते पार्वति पापवृत्तये न रूपित्यव्यभिचारि तद्वचः। V. 36
40	रविपीतजला तपात्यये पुनरोघेन हि युज्यते नदी । IV. 44
29	बद प्रदोषे स्फुटचन्द्रतारका विभावरी यदारुणाय कल्पते । V. 44
25	विकारहेतों सति विकियन्ते येषां न चेतांसि त एव धीराः ।
*3	विकियाये न करण्नते संबन्धाः सद्नुष्टिताः । VI. 29
AA	विकिया न सलु कालदोषजा निर्मलप्रकृतिषु स्थिरोद्या । VIII. 65
*4	विनियोगप्रसाद्। हि किंकराः प्रभविष्णुषु । VI. 62
s.é	विषवृक्षोऽपि संवर्ष्यं स्वयं च्छेतुमसांप्रतम् । II. 55
20	शरीरमायं सुलु धर्मसाधनम् । V. 33
re	शशिना सह याति कीमुदी सह मेबेन तडित प्रलीयते ।
	प्रमदाः पतिवर्त्मगा इति प्रतिपन्नं हि विचेतनैरिष ॥ IV. 33
26	शाम्येत्प्रत्यपकारेण नोपकारेण दुर्जनः । II. 40
40	समीरणो नोद्यिता भवेति न्यादिश्यते केन हुताशनस्य । III. 21
49	स्वजनस्व हि दुःसमग्रतो विवृतद्वारिमवोपजायते । IV. 26
42	स्त्रीणां प्रियालोकफलो हि वेष: । VII. 22
43	स्त्रीपुमानित्यनास्थेषा वृत्तं हि महितं सताम् । VI. 12.
	"3 Sa is also mand 1 1 To 17

con as i as i is f it i pād the

nou

Pā of (中

are are fau syl cal

YOW

thre in the remainst

राघव सादिग् Expi

APPENDIX C

A Note on Metre

A Sanskrit stanza or padya is a combination of four Pādas or quarters, which are regulated either by the number of syllables (সন্ত্য), or by the number of syllabic instants (মানা).

If the number and position of syllables in each quarter are fixed, the padya is called बृत. It is समञ्ज्ञ if all the quarters are similar, अर्थसमञ्ज्ञ if the alternate quarters are similar, and विषयच्च if all the quarters are dissimilar. If the number of syllabic instants in each quarter is fixed, the padya is called जाति.

A syllable or अक्षर is as much of a word as can be pronounced at once, i.e. a vowel with or without one or more consonants. A syllable is उष्ट (short) or गुरु (long) according as its vowel is short or long. अ, इ, उ, ऋ and ल are short vowels; आ, ई, ऊ, ऋ, ए, ऐ, ओ, and ओ, are long ones. If a short vowel is followed by an anusvāra or visarga or a conjunct consonant, it becomes long in prosody. So also the last syllable of a pāda is either long or short according to the exigence of the metre (सानुस्वारश्च द्विश्च विसर्गी च गुरुभवेत्। वर्ण: संयोगपूर्वश्च तथा पादान्तगोऽपि वा).

In stanzas of the जाति class, one मात्रा is allotted to a short vowel and two to a long one.

For the purpose of scanning stanzas regulated by the number of syllables, a quarter is divided into गणड (feet) of three syllables each, and in case the number of syllables in the quarter is not exactly divisible by three, each of the remaining syllables becomes a गण. The following verse gives the names and scheme of possible गणड. (आदिमध्यावसानेषु परता यान्ति राधवम्। भजसा गौरवं यान्ति, मनौ नु गुरुलाधवम्॥ also मिल्लगुरुलिलघुश्च नकारो गादिगुरुः पुनरादिलघुर्थः। जो गुरुमध्यगतो रलमध्यः सोऽन्तगुरुः कथितोऽन्तलघुस्तः॥). Expressed in symbols (the symbol — denoting a short syllable, and—along one), the different गणड may be represented as follows:—

यति is the pause which we have to make in reciting a line.

In all eight different metres are used in the Kumāra-sāmbhava (Cantos I-VIII).

- अनुष्ट्रस्—8 syllables in a quarter. The fifth syllable of each quarter should be short, the sixth long, and the seventh short in the second and the fourth quarter (स्ट्रोके पष्टं गुरुं ज्ञेषं सर्वत्र लघु पञ्चमम्। द्विचतुःपादयोहेस्वं सप्तमं दोवमन्ययोः॥). The following 157 verses are in this metre (II) 1-63; (VI) 1-94.
- उपजाति:—This is a composite metre formed of the combination of इन्द्रबज़ा and उपेन्द्रबज़ा. इन्द्रबज़ा—11 syllables in a quarter. यति at the fifth. (स्यादिन्द्रबज़ा यदि तो जगी गः) गणड त, त, ज, ग, ग. उपेन्द्रबज़ा is exactly like इन्द्रबज़ा, except that its first syllable is short. गणड ज, त, ज, ग, ग. The following 226 verses are in this metre (I) 1-59; (III) 1-74; (VII) 1-93
- माहिनी—15 syllables in a quarter, यति at the 8th. (ननमयय्युतेयं माहिनी भोगिलोकै:) गण्ड न, न, म, य, य. The following six verses are in this metre (I) 60, (II) 64. (III) 76, (VII) 94, 95, (VIII) 91.
- रथोद्धता—11 syllables in a quarter, यति at the 5th. (रान्नराविहें रथोद्धता लगो) गणंड र, न, र, ल, ग. The following 90 verses are in thie metre (VIII) 1-90.
- वंशस्थम—Also called वंशस्थिवल and वंशस्तिनत. 12 syllables in a quarter, यित at the fifth. (वदन्ति वंशस्थिवलं जती जरी) गणड जन त, ज, र, The following 84 verses are in this metre (V) 1-84.
- वसन्ततिलका—14 syllables in a quarter, यति at the 8th. (उक्ता वसन्ततिलका तभजाजगी गः) गणं त, भ, ज, ज, ग, ग. The following four verses are in this metre (III) 75, (IV) 45, (V) 85, 86.

Appendix C: A note on Metre

311

All the above metres are समग्रतः. Of the अर्थसमग्रतः, the following are used.

पुष्पताया—(अयुजि नयुगरेफतो यकारो युजि तु नजी जरगाश्च पुष्पिताया।) गणड न, न, र, य (odd quarter, 12 syllables), न, ज, ज, र, ग (even quarter, 13 syllables). Two verses are in this metre (IV) 46; (VI) 95.

वियोगिनी—Also called सुन्दरी or वैतालीयम्. (विषमे ससजा गुरुः समे सभरालोऽथ गुरुवियोगिनी) गणड, स्न, स्न, ज. ग (odd quarter, 10 syllables), स्न, भ. र, ल. गः (even quarter, 11 syllables). This metre can be treated in the Mātrā scheme also, the definition being षड्विषमेऽष्टी समे कलास्ताथ समे स्युर्विरन्तराः। न समात्र पराश्रिता कला वैतालीयेऽन्ते रली गुरुः। The following 44 verses are in this metre (IV) 1-44.

APPENDIX D

3 æ

37

भ अ H आ अह अल आं अव अव अव अव अवृ अवैश अवी अवै अशो असंव असंभ असंम असह अस्त असृत अस्तो अस्त्य अहमेत अहो वि ्रं आज्ञाव न आत्मा आत्माः भारलुत

An alphabetical index of stanzas in the Kumārasambhava (I-VIII)

		The state of the s
छाकिंचनः सन्प्रभवः	4100	अधाह वर्णी विदि	पा६प
असण्डितं प्रेम लभ	७१२८	अथेन्द्रियक्षोभम्य	3167
अगूडसंद्राव मिति	५।६२	अथोपनिन्ये गिरि	3164
अङ्कार्ययावङ्कमुदी	014	अथोरुदेशाद्वता	319 9
अङ्गुलीमिरिव केश	<163	अथोषधीनामधिष	٠٠. ١٩
म िछन्नामलसंतानाः	६1६९	अयप्रमृति भूताना	६।५६
अणिमादिगुणोवेत	६१७५	ं अय प्रभृत्यवनता	4174
अत आहर्नुमिच्छा	६1२८	अद्भिरातनये तप	11.4
अतिद्भिता सा स्वय	4198	अधः प्रस्था पिताश्वेन	والا
अतोऽत्र किंचिद्रव	٠٠. ١١٢٥	अध्यापितस्योशनसा	318
अथ ते मुनयस्सर्वे	६194	अनन्तरत्नप्रभवस्य यस्य	519
अथ ते मुनयो	Elvo	धनन्यभाजं पतिमा	31€ 3
अथ तैः परिदेविता	*124	अनर्ध्यमध्येण तम	9146
अथ मद्नवधूस	٠ ١٢٤	अनेन धर्मः सविशे	4136
अथ मोहपरायणा	*19	धानेन संबन्धमुपे	9186
अथ मौलिगतस्येन्दो	६।२५	अन्योन्यमुत्पीडयदु	9180
अथ वा सुमहत्त्रेषा	६।२४	अपमेघोद्यं वर्ष	६१५४
अथ विबुधगणस्ता	6162	अपि कियार्थ मुलभ	4133
अथ विश्वात्मने गौरी	६19	आप स्वद्।वार्जितवा	•413*
अथ सर्वस्य धातारं	213	आपि प्रसन्तं हरिणे	4134
अथ स लितयोषि	١٤٣٠	छाव्यवस्तुनि कथाप	4
अथ सा पुनरेव वि	YIY	अभिलाषमुद्गीरिते	* ۲9
अथायहस्ते मुकुछी	٠.٠١٤٦	अभ्युन्नताङ्गुष्ठनस	9313
अथाङ्गिरसमग्रण्य	६१६५	अमी च कथमादि	२ २४
अथाङ्गुलीभ्यां ह	و ۱۱٥٠٠٠	अमी हि वीर्यप्रभवं	3174
अथाजिन।बाडधर	4130	अमुना ननु पार्श्वव	જાર૬
अधानु रूपाभिनिवे	410	अमुनेव कषायित	x13x
अधावमानेन पितुः	9179	अयाचितारं निह	9142

Service Control	Ap	pendix D.	Index of Stanzas	313
-	अयाचितोपंस्थितम	412	आमेस्ट संचरतां	••• 914
	अयि जीवितनाथ जी	٠ ١٠:		<108
	अयि संगति देहि द	४१२८		६13२
į	अयुक्तरूपं किमतः	५१६९		4/3
-	अरण्यबीजाञ्जलिदा	4194		vicr
-	मधीचिता सत्वरमु	७१६ १	आवर्जितजटामोलि	२।२६
-	अछं विवादेन यथा	५।८२	आवर्जिता किश्चिदिव	3142
A	अलका मातिवा ह्येव	६ ३	अ।विशद्भिरुटजाङ्ग	<13
1	अलभ्यशोकाभिभवे	4123	आशंसता बाणगतिं	3197
1	अ हिपङ्किरनेकश	8194	आसक्तवाहुलतया	६१८
-	अवगम्य कथीकृतं	7/93	इच्छाविभक्तचोरनुरूप	9129
1	अवचितचीलेपुष्पा	9180	इतः स द्वेत्यः प्राप्त
	अवधानपरे चका	٠٠٠ ٢١٦	इति चापि विधाय दी	२१५५
	अवस्तुनिर्बन्धपरे	पाइइ	. इति चाह स धर्मया	7173
}	अवृष्टिसंरम्भामेवा	3126	इति चेनमुवाच दुः	٢١૨૭
	अवैमि ते सारमनः	3193	इति तेभ्यः स्तुतिः
	अवेमि पूतमात्मानं	६।५७	इति देहिविमुक्तये	२११६
	अवैमि सौभाग्यमदे	५१४९	इति द्विजाती प्रतिकृ	7135
	अशोकनिभैर्दिसतप	3143	इति धुवेच्छामनुशा	4108
	असंपद्स्तस्य वृषे	4160	इति प्रवेश्याभिहिता	414
	असंभृतं मण्डनम	9139	इति क्याहृत्य विद्य	4149
	असंमतः कस्तवमु	314	इति गमिष्याम्यथवे	२१६२
	असह्य हुं कारनिव	4148	इत्थं रतेः किमपि	4152
	भस्त सदाः कुमुमा	3178	इत्थं विधिज्ञेन पुरो	* Alad
3	अस्त सा नागवध्	1120	इत्थमाराध्यमानोऽपि	•७।८६ २।४०
	अस्तोतुः स्त्यमानस्य	६।८३	इत्यद्भुतेकप्रभवः	२१४०
*	अस्युत्त(स्या दिशि	919	इत्यभीममनुभूय	9136
3	अहमेत्य पतङ्ग	٠ ٢١٦٥	इत्यूचिवांस्तमेवार्थः -	4126
3	महो स्थिरः कोऽपि	4180	इत्योषधिप्रस्थाविला	६1६४
3	माज्ञापय ज्ञातिवशे	313	इदमत्रोत्तरं न्याय्य	७१६९
	तिसानमात्मना वे	२११०		६१८७
	ात्मानमालोच्य च		इयं च तेऽन्या पुर	पा७०
	^{Пट} ळुतास्तीरमन्दार	७।२२	इयं महेन्द्रप्रभृती	4143
The second	न्युतारतास् नन्द् ।र	६14	इयेष सा कतुंमव	412
	10

Kumārasambhava

ईप्सितार्थिकियोदारं े	6190	एव मिन्द्रिय सुसस्य	< ?
इंश्वरोऽपि दिवसा	6140	एष चारु।रिव योग्य	<103
उचैरचैश्रवास्तेन	5120	एष वृक्षशिखरे क	<136-
उत्तरन्ति विनिकीयँ	<134	एहि विश्वात्मने वत्से	8166
उत्पाट्य मेरुश्रुङ्गाणि	2173	कण्ठस्य तस्याः स्तन	3125
उद्घातः प्रणवो यासा	2/92	कदाचिदासन्नसंबी	५१६-
उद्वेजयन्यङ्गु ळिपा	9 99	कपालनेत्रान्तरलब्ध	3 Jac
उन्नतावनतभाव	दा६९	कपोलकण्डुः करिभि	919
उन्नतेन स्थितिमता	9130	कम्पेन मूर्प्रः शतपः	alse
उन्नतेषु शशिनः म	हाइइ	कथासि कामिन्धुरता	31<
उन्मीलितं तुलिकये	9132	कर्णार्वितो लोधकषा	0196
उपपन्नमिद्ं सर्वं	६।६६	कर्तव्यं वो न प	6189
उपमानमभूद्विला	* 4	किलितान्योन्यसा	६१७६.
उपात्तवर्णे चरिते	५।५६	करगवृक्षशिस्रोषु	٠٠٠ ١٩٠٠
उपाददे तस्य सह	יים אותייי	काठिन्यं स्थावरे	61 03.
उमे एव क्षमे वोढु	3180	कामस्तु बाणावसरं	318x.
उमापि नीलालकम	3 62	कामेकपत्नीयतदुः	310
उमाह्येण ते यूयं	रापुर	कालक्रमेणाथ तयोः	1175
रमा वधूर्भवान्दाता	६।८२	कि येन मृजिस	६।२३
उमास्तनोभेदमनु	9128	किं चायमारिंदुर्वारः	२१२१
ववाच चैनं परमा	4104	किंचित्भकाशस्तिमि	3120.
ऊरुमूलनसमार्ग	< < 0	किमित्यपास्यामरणा	· diss
ऋजुतां नयत सम	7123	किमिदं द्यतिमात्मी	3195
एकेव मूर्तिभिभिदे	olak	किर्याचं ध्राम्यास	4140
एकेव सत्यामपि पु	ola	कुबेरगृप्ता दिशमु	3124.
एतदु च्छुविसतपीत	<100	कुचेरस्य मनःशल्यं	२।२२
एतावता नन्वनुमे	9130	कुले प्रसृतिः प्रथम	4179
एतावदुक्त्वा तनया	६1८ ९	क्रुमुमायुध्यति दु	x (x o.
एते वयममी दाराः	6163	कुम्रमास्तरणे सहा.	रा३५
एवं यदास्थ मगव	2139	कतवानास विशियं	410
एवं वाच्यः स क	६139	रुतानिषेकां हुतजा	4198
एवंवादिनि देवर्षी	6/5		9146
एक्मालि निगृहीत			217
र्यनाल ।नर्नहात	<14	केनाभ्यस्या पदका

Appendix D: Index of St.	tanzas
--------------------------	--------

			313
केवलं प्रियतमाद	cles	ज्वलन्माणाशिसाश्येनं	2136
कतवेन शियते कु	<13	तं यथात्मसदृशं व	<198
क्रियतां कथमन्त्यम	४१२२	तं लोकपालाः पुरुहू	9189
कोधं प्रभो संहर सं	3/02	तं विस्य वेपथुमती	٠٠. ١٠٠٧ - ١٠٠٠
क्रमं ययौ कन्दुकली	4119	ततः परमामित्युक्त्वा	६1३५
क्रिष्टकेशमव लुप्त		तनो गणैः शुलभूत	9170
क नु ते हृद्यंगमः	1152	ततो भुजङ्गाधिपतेः	3149.
क नु मां खद्धीनजी	ं भाइ	ततो मन्दानिलोद्धृत	२।२९
क्षीरोदवेलेव सफे	७२६	तरकतानुग्रहापेक्षी	२।३९.
सं प्रमुप्तिव संस्थि	6183	तत्क्षणं विपरिवार्ति	< 09
से सेलगामी तमुवा	0189	तः प्रयातौषि विषस्धं	5133.
गगनांद्वतीणां सा	$126	तत्र काञ्चनशिलात
गङ्गास्त्रोतः परिक्षिप्तं	६13 <	तत्र निश्चित्य कंद्षे	२१६ ३٠
गणा नमेरुपसवा	9144	तत्र वेत्रासनासीना	६१५ ३-
गत एव न ते निव	7 30	तत्र हंसधवलोत्तर	4163
गामघास्यत्कथं ना	६ 1६ ८	तत्राप्रिमाधाय समि	914,00
गीतान्तरेषु श्रमवा	3136	तत्रावतीर्याच्युतद्	0100
गुरु:प्रगलमेऽपि वय	5149	तत्रेखरो विष्टरमा	0103
गुरोर्नियोगाच नगे	3190	तथातितसं सावितः	4129
गोप्तारं सुरसेन्यानां	3142	तथापि तावस्करिंम	६१६२
घूर्णमाननयनं स्स	<100	तथा समक्षं दहता	419
चतुष्कपुष्पमकरा	५१६८	तथिति शेषामिव म	3 22
चन्द्रं गता पद्मगुणा	9173	तदङ्गसंसर्गमवा	4109
चन्द्रपादजनितश	टाइ७	तदनु ज्वलन् मद	٠٠٠١١٤ -
'चलिक्छसायो विक	9176	तदा गमनकार्य नः	8102.
चुम्बनादलकचूर्ण	<198	तदाप्रभृत्युनमद्ना	4144
चुम्बनेष्वधरदान	416	तिद्च्छामो विमो	२149
चूताङ्कुरास्वाद्क्षण	3132	तदिदं क्रियतामन	7 32
जगद्यों निरयोनिस्तं	٠٠٠ २ ١١	तादिदं परिरक्ष शो
जंगमं प्रेष्यमावे वः	६।५८	तद्वियास्तोयदेष्य	२१५०
जयाशा यत्र चास्मा	3185	तद्भिदाद्रांरुणग	७/६२
जालान्तरप्रेषितद	७१६०	तद्गच्छ सिद्च्ये कुरु	198
जित्रसिंहभया नागा	6135	तद्गीरवानमङ्गलम्	10138
	41.7	Wilding Lod	613 1

3.

:316

Kumārasambhava

तेन ते ते ते ते ते ते ति ति ति

त्वा त्वा त्वा दद

देश दिवे दिवे दिवे दुवा देवा

हुमें ह्यं द्विध धर्मे

धातु

तदुर्शनाद्भूच्छंभो		तस्याः करं शैलगुरु	७। ७६
तद्बृत वस्ताः किमि	रा२८	तस्याः प्रविष्टा नत	9136
तं देशमारोपित ग	313Ÿ	तस्यातमा शितिकण्ठ	रा६१
तन्मातरं चाश्रमुखीं	६1९२	तस्यानुमेने भगवा	6163
ंत न्मुह्तम नुमन्तु	6/46	तस्याः शलाकाञ्जननि	9180
न्तपः परामर्शविवृ	3109	तस्यः ससीभ्यां प्र	3169
त्तपस्विन: स्थाणुवनौ	313 ×	्तस्याः सुजातोत्पलप	७१२०
तमन्वगिन्द्रशमुखा	0109	तस्योपकण्ठे घननी	6149
तमभ्यगच्छत्प्रथमो	0183	तस्योपायनयोग्यानि	2130
तमर्थमिव मारत्या	६ ! ७९	तां विलम्बितपनीय	<169
तमवेह्य रुगेद सा	४।२६	तां वीक्य सर्वावयवा	3140
्तमातिथेयी बहुमा	4139	तो इंसमाला शरदी	9130
तमाशु विघ्नं तपस	3 vr	तानध्यानध्यमादाय	६।५०
-तमृ।द्वेमद्वन्धुजना	9142	तां नारदः कामचरः	9140
तमेकदृश्यं नयेनः	७१ ४	तामगीरवंभेद्रेन	६192
तं मातरो देवमनु	9130	तामार्चिताभ्यः कुलदे	७१२७
तथा दुाहेत्र। सुतरा	9128	तामस्मद्धि युष्मामिः	६।२९
तया प्रवृद्ध्याननच	0/08	तामिमां तिमिरवृद्धि	<143
त्या व्याहृतसंदेशा	६१२	तां पार्वतीत्यामिजने	१।२६
तयोः समापत्तिषु का	0104	त्। पुलोमतनयाल	6120
तव मसाद्गतकुसुमा	3190	तां भणाम।द्रस्त्रस्त	६1९१
तस्मात्पदेशाच विता	912	ता पाङ्मुसी तत्र	6193
-तस्मिन्नुपायाः सर्वे नः	2/46	तां लेधकल्केन हुता	019
तिरमन्मघोनिस्त्रिद्शा	319	तावस्पताकाकुरुमि	७१६३
तस्मिन्मुहूर्ते पुरस्र	७।५६	ताबद्भवस्यापि कुबेर	4130
तस्मिन्वने संयमिना	3128	तासां च पश्चात् कनक	0135
त्तस्मिन्विप्रकृताः काळे	219	तासा मुझैरासवग	७।६२
-तस्मिन्तयामिनामाद्ये	६१३४	तिर्यगुष्वंमधस्ताच	६१७१
्तस्त्रन्मुराणां विजया	211€	तिसृ।भेस्त्वमवस्थाभिः	रा६
तस्म जयाशीः ससृजे	טיוט	तीवाभिषङ्कप्रमवे	3103
-तस्मे शशंस प्रणिप	3160	तुषारसंवातशिलाः	914€
तस्मे क्षिमाद्रे भयतां	3198	ते चाकाशमसिश्याम	६13६
बस्य जानु मलयस्थ	<134	तेन भिन्नविषमोत्त	0105
		या विश्वाननवाच	1000

App	endix D:I	ndex of Stanzas	317
तेनामरवधूहस्तै:	२।४९	धूपोष्मणा त्याजितमा	Viole
ते प्रभामण्डलेन्यॉम	६१४	धुवेण मन्नां धुवद्	619 m
तेषां मध्यगता साव्वी	६१११	न केवलं दरीसंस्थं	٠ ١٥٤٧
तेषामा विरभुद्बह्मा	२।२	न नुनमारूढरुपा	६१६ ० ७१६ ७
ते सदानि गिरेवेंगा	$180	नमास्त्रिमूर्तये तुभ्यं	२१४
ते हिमालयमामम्ज्य	6192	नयनान्यरुणानि घू	٢١١૨
ते क्षणं शिथिलितोप	دادو	नवपग्णियलजा	١٠٠٧ نوء
तो दंपती त्रिःपरि	010	न वेद्यि स प्रार्थितदु	159
तो सन्धिषु व्यक्षित	७१९१	नागेन्द्रहस्तास्त्वाचि	9138.
त्रिभागशेषास्च निशा	५१५७	नामिदेशनिहितः स	cls
त्वत्संभ।वितमात्मानं	६1२०	निकामतप्ता विविधे	4123
त्वमेव तावःपरि	पाइ७	निनाय सात्यन्तह	4128
त्वमेव हब्यं होता	3 94	निर्भितेषु पितृषु स्व	= 142
लं पितृणामासे पिता	२ १४	निर्वाणभूयिष्ठमथा	5112
लामामननित प्रकृति	२ १९ ३	निर्विभुज्य दशनच्छ	clas
ददौ रसात्पङ्कजरे	3130	निवर्तयास्माद्सद्।	:see14
दर्पणे च परिभोग	<139	निवायंतामालि किम	4163
दश्तामरसकेस	<132	निवेदितं निःश्वसित	yire
दष्टमुक्तमधरोष्ट	<19 <	निशम्य चैनां तपसे	413
दिने दिने सा परिवर्ध	9124	निष्कम्पवृक्षं निमृत	:183
दिवं यदि प्रार्थयसे	4124	नीलऋण्टपरिभुक्त
दिवाकराद्रक्षति यो	9192	नूनमुन्नमाति यजव	6146
दिवापि निष्ठयूत मरी	७।३५	नोध्वमाक्षण गतिनं
दुक्द्रवासाः स वधू	0103	न्यस्ताक्षरा धातुरसे	910
दूरमग्रपरिमेय	<140	पत्युः शिरश्चन्द्रकला	9 . 5
दृष्टिवपातं पिष्ह	3173	पत्रान्तलमेः जलवि	0159
देवास्तद्न्ते हरमूड	0142	पदं तुषारश्रुतिधौत	916
द्वः संघातकठिनः	2199	पद्मकान्तिमरणात्रें	(130
दुमेषु सरुपाः कृतज	भा६०	पदानामचरणाङ्कि	< 12 3.
द्वयं गतं संभिति शो	पा७१	परलोकन्त्रप्रवा	7170
द्विधा भयुक्तेन च	0190	परलोकविधौ च मा	4136.
धर्मेणापि पदं शर्वे	६११४	परस्परेण स्पृहणीयशोमं	७१६६
धातुताम्त्राधगः पाग्रु	६१५१	परिणेष्यति पार्वतीं	xIx5

:318

Kumārasambhava

मेने

में ये यः यह यह

य5 य5

-यश् यश् यश

यद

यद् यद्

चन्। चम

यर या या या

चोव

पर्यङ्क्तयन्वास्थरपू	3179	बबन्ध चास्राकुलद	424
'पयांकुळत्वान्मरुतां	२१२५	बभूव भरमेव सिता	७१३२
• पर्याप्तपुष्पस्नवक	7616	ब्भो च सम्पर्कमुपे	٠, ٠٠. ١٠٠
ंपर्यायसेवामृत्सू ज्य	२१३५	बालेन्दुवक्राण्यवि	312 ९
पशुपतिरपि तान्य	६१९५	भवत्यानेशाद्पि ना	4 22
पश्य कल्पतरुलम्ब	1 <109	भवत्संभावनोत्थाय	६1५९
पश्य पक्ककालिनीक	< ६ 9	'भवलुद्धवरोदीर्ण	२1३२
पश्य पाश्यमादिगनत	6132	मविष्यतः पत्युरुमा	314=
पश्य पार्वति नवेन्दु	618 *	भागीरथी निर्झरसी	9194
पाकभिन्नशरकाण्ड	re15	भावसू चितमदृष्ट	< 194
पाणिपींडनविधे	<19	भुजङ्गमोन्त्रद्वजटा	318€
्पार्वती सदुपयोग	<100	भुवनालोक्सनप्रीतिः	२१४५
पुनर्यं हीतुं नियम	4173	भूमेदिभिः सकम्पोष्ठे	812A
पुराणस्य कवेस्तस्य	२।१७	मद्नेन विनास्ता	*154
ुरे तावन्तमेवास्य	313 3	मधु द्विगेफ: कुसुमै	3136
पुष्यं भवालोपहितं	6122	मधुश्र ते मन्मथ सा	3129
पूर्वभागातिमिर प	<130	मध्येन सा वेदिविल	9135
मणम्य शितक	: ६१८१	मनीषिताः सान्ति गृहे	··· Ale
मतिक्षणं सा कतरो	4190	मनो नवद्वारानिषि	3140
शतिगृहीतं प्रणयी	3166	मन्द्रान्तरितमूर्ति	6148
प्रतिपद्य मनोहरं	4118	मन्दाकिनी सैकतवे	9125
प्रत्यर्थिभूतामपि 💮 💮	9145	मन्दााकिन्याः प्रयः	···stax
प्रदाक्षिणप्रक्रमण।	0109	महाईशय्यापारिब	4193
त्रमामहत्या शिस्रये	9126	महीभृतः पुत्रवतो	११२७
प्रयुक्तपाणियहणं •	3010	मान्यभाक्तिरथवा स	6100
भ्यक्त सत्कार विशे	٠٠٠٠٠١٩١٩٩	मुक्तायज्ञीपवीतानि	६1६
प्रवातनीलोत्पलन ि	91×4	मुखेन सा पद्मसुग	पार्ष
भशमाद चिषामेत	रा२०	मुश्च कोपमानिमित्त	16/12
पसन्त्रदिक्पां सुविवि	9123	मुनिबतस्त्वामातिमा /	4126
अक्षाधिकालम्बितम ,	પાત્રદ	मूडं बुद्धभिवातमानं	द्रापप
मंसीद् विश्राम्यतु	315	मूर्त च गङ्गायमुने	·" alas
शक्तनानां विशुद्धानां	६110	मृगाः शियारुद्धमम	3131
बद्दकोशमपि तिष्ठ	<135	मृणालिकापेलवमे	483.5

	Appendix D:1	Index of Stanzas	319
जिने मेनापि तत्सर्वे	६।८६	रक्तशीतकपिशाः प
मेरुमेत्य मरुदाशु	< 122	रक्तभावमपहाय	···claid
मैत्रे मुहूर्त शशला	७1३	राचिनं रातिपण्डित	< & 4 .
यं सर्वशैलाः गरिक	912	रजनीतिमिरावगु	YI9C
यः पूरयन् की चकर	310	रात्रिवृत्तमनुयोक्त	<199
यज्ञभागभुजां मध्ये	६।७२	रावणध्वानितभीत	< २४
यज्ञाङ्गयोनित्वमवेश्य	٠٠١٥)٠٠٠	रुद्धनिर्गमनमादि	<140
यज्वाभिः संभृतं हन्यं	२१४६	रेसाविभक्तः सुविभ	0192
यत्र कल्प्टुमैरेव	६१४१	रोमोद्रमः प्रादुरम्
यत्र स्फाटिकहर्म्येष	६१४२	लप्तद्विरेकाः परिभ	७११६
यत्रां ग्रुका क्षेपविल	9197	लप्रद्विरेफाञ्जनम	3130
यत्रोषधि प्रकाशेन	4173	लजा तिग्श्रा यदि	19[YC
यथा प्रदेशं भुजगेश्व	4132	लतागृहद्वारगतो	3189
्यथा प्रसिद्धेमंधुरं	419	लब्धमतिष्ठाः प्रथमं	२१२७
यथा श्रुतं वेद्विद्ां	. अपादम	लाङ्गुलविक्षेपविस	9193
यथैव श्लाध्यते गङ्गा	६१७०	लोहिताकंमणिभाज	0164
यद्व्यक्षेण जगतां	६19 ७	वचस्यवसिते तस्मि	२१५३
यदमोघमपामन्त	રાષ	वधूं द्विजः प्राह तवे	७१८३
यदा च तस्थाधिगमे	4148	वध्विधात्रा प्रतिन	0100
यदा फलं पूर्वतपः	4196	वनेचराणां वनिता	9190
यदा बुधेः सर्वगत	414	वपुर्विरूपाक्षमल	पाण्य
यदुच्यते पार्वाते पा	4138	वर्गां वुभी देवमही
यदेन पूर्वे जनने	9143	वर्ण शकर्षे सित क	3 20
यद्बह्म सम्यगाम्नातं		वासराणि कतिचित्क	<193
चन्मुखग्रहणमक्ष		विकाणसप्तिषिचली	पा३७
यमोऽपि वि।लेख	२ २४	विदितं वो यथा	६।२६
यश्याप्सरोविभ्रमम	917	विधिना रुतमध्वे	$100
यस्य चेतास वर्तथाः	6190	विधिनयुक्तसत्कारै	६।५२
या नः प्रतिविक्रिपाक्ष	६।२१	विधिप्रत्युक्तां परिगृ	५।३२
यामिनीदिवससं	< 144	विन्यस्तवेदूर्याशेला	9190
यावन्त्येतानि भूतानि	६१८०	विन्यस्तशुक्तृगृरु च	4
योगीनो यं विचिन्व	६१७७	विपत्वतीकारपरे	4108
योवनान्तं वयो य	६१४४	विवृधेरित यस्य दा	7195
			400 417

Kumārasambhava

स्रा स सा सा सा

मुं सो सो सी

विभूषणोद्राप्ति पिन	५१७८	स गोपति नन्दिभुजा	0130
विमुच्य सा हारम	412	स तथेति प्रतिज्ञाय	६13
विरो धिसरवोजिसतपू	4190	स ते दुहितरं साक्षा	$100
विलोचनं दक्षिणम	७१५९	सत्यमकांच सोमाच	६1१९
विवक्षता दोषमपि	4169	स दक्षिणापाङ्गनिवि	3100
वियुण्वती शैल प्रता	३]६ €	स देवदारुद्धमवे	31xx.
विश्वावसुप्रायहरैः	שורכ	सदाः प्रवालोद्गमचा	3120
विसृष्टरागाद्धरा	4199	स द्विनेत्रं हरेश्वक्षः	3130
वीज्यते स हि संख	2122	सन्तानकतरुच्छाया	 81x E
वृतं तेनेद्मेव पा	२।५६	सन्तानकाकीर्णमहा	413
वृत्तानुपूर्वे च न चा	9134	संध्ययाप्यनुगतं र	clrr
वैवाहिकों तिथि पृष्टा	6193	सपदि मुकुलिनाक्षीं	310€
वैवाहिकै: कीतुकसं	ייי טיב	सप्तर्षिहस्तावचिता	919€
ब्यावृत्तगतिरुगाने	२१३५	स प्रजागरकषाय	clee
ब्याहृता प्रतिवचो न	613	स प्रापद्शासपरा	9140
शक्यमङ्गलिभिरुत्थि	= 102	स प्रियासुस्रतं दि	<190
शक्यमोपधिपतेः	८१६२	स प्रीतियोगाद्विकस	जापप
शङ्खान्तरयोति विलो	4133	सभाभिः सहचराः	··· clad
शाशिना सह याति	*133	समदिवसनिशीथं	<199
शिसराप्तकमेघाना	6120	स माधवेनाभिमते	3123
शिरसा प्रणिपत्य या	190	स मानसीं मेरुसखः	9196
शिरीषपुष्पाधिकमसी	9179	संपत्स्यते वः कामो	3142
शिलाशयां तामनिके	4124	सर्गशेषप्रणयना	६1९
शिष्यतां निधुवनीप	<19.0	सर्वे ससे स्वय्युपप	3192
ग्रुची चतुर्णा ज्वलती	पा२०	सर्वाभिः सर्वदा चन्द्र	२।३४
शुद्धमाविलमवास्थ .	<140	सर्वो भाद्रव्यसमु	3126
श्रुहिनः करतहद्व	<10	स वासवेनासनसं	315
शैलः संपूर्णकामोऽपि	६१८५	स व्यबुध्यत बुंधस्त
शैलात्मजाऽपि पितुरु	3104	सस्वजे प्रियमुरोनि	< 98
श्रुताप्सरोगीतिरापि	3120	स हि देवः परं ज्योति	२१५८
संयुगे सांयुगीनं त	2140	साक्षाद्दष्टोऽसि न पुन	६।२२
स कृतिवासास्तपसे	9148	सा गौरसिद्धार्थानिवे	616
सर्सा तदीया तमुवा	4142	सांध्यमस्तमितशेष	eiyr

App	endix D:I	ndex of Stanzas	321
सा भूधराणामधिवे	9122	स्थाने त्वां स्थावता	٠٠٠ ١٤٠٥
सा मङ्गलस्नानविशु	9199	स्थिताः क्षणं पक्ष्म	485 A
सामाभिः सहचराः स	< 12.8	स्मरासे स्मर मेखला
सा राजहंसीरिव सं	9138	स्मास्तथाभूतमयु	3149
ता लाजधूमाञ्जलिमि	9 69	स्रस्तां नितम्बाद्वल	3144
सा संभवद्भिः कुसुमः	ध२१	स्वकालपरिमाणेन	3194
सिंहकेसरसटाम्र	<128	स्वयंविशीर्णांद्रुमप	412
सीकरच्यतिकरं म	<139	स्वरेण तस्याममृत
मुगान्धानिश्वाससविवृ	3148	स्वागतं स्वानधीकारा	9124
सुराः समभ्यर्थियता	3176	हरस्तु किंचित्पारिल	3196
सोऽनुमान्य हिमव	= 29	हरितारुणचारुव	31६७
सोऽयमानतशिरो	5125		2682
सोऽहं तृष्णातुरैर्वृष्टि	६।२७	हिमन्वपायाद्विशद्	3133
स्त्रीपुंसावात्मभागौ ते	२१७	हृद्ये वससीति म	18
स्थानमाहिकमपास्य स्थाने तपा दुश्यरमे	<133	हेमतामरसताडि	८१२६
रवान तमा पुत्रस्य	जाहप	ह्यीमानभूद्भूमिधरो	4148

APPENDIX E

Index of Important Words and Topics

fudex of important words and ropics
, अङ्गयष्टि: I-31 *	कथीकृत IV-13
, अम्रहस्त V-63	कद्म्ब III-68
ं अजिन V-30	कन्दर्प II-62
ं कंधित्यका III-17	करण I-31
अधीकार II-18	करभोरु I-36
अध्वर II-46	करेणु III-37
अनर्ध्य I-58	कल्पद्रुम II-39
अन्त्यमण्डन IV-22	किंनर I-8
अपर्णा V-29	किरात I-6
अप्सरस् I-4, III-17	कुवेर II-28
अभिजात I-43	कुलिश III-12
अभिनिवेश V−7	कृशानु I-51
्अभिसारिका IV-11	केशपाश I-48
अयाचितारम् 1–52	कैतव IV-9
अर्घ I-58	कोकिल I-43; III-32; IV-16
ા સચ્ચે II−3	क्षेत्रविद: III-50
अर्घहरा I-50	खण्डिता III-25
अरुणित V-11	गान्धार I-8
अवग्रह V-16	गिरिश I-37
अक्षमुख I-8	गुह V-14
अष्टम् ति I-57	गोत्रस्खलित IV-8
असर् 11-32	चक्रवाक V-26
आदित्य II-24	चतुर्भुख II-3
आतिथेयी V-31	चतुरस्र I-32
आतेव IV-18	चतुष्क V-68
आरेचित III-5	चतुष्ट्यी प्रवृत्तिः II-17
आशंसता III-14 आषाढ V-30	चमर I-15
इतः II–28	जातवेदस् II-16
इत: 11-20 उपात्तवर्ण V-86	तपात्यय IV-44
उपास्त्रण V-00 उमा I-26	तिरस्करिणी I-14
उमा 1-20 उम्रानस् III-6	तिलक III-30
ऋतवः II-36	निद्रश् ^{रदा-1}
ऐरावत II-25	त्रादेव I-28
एरापरा मा था

to the notes.

Appendix E: Index of Important Words and Topics 323

पुरारि V-3 !

पुर: ग्रुक III-43

पुरुष II-13 पुत्र I-29 पुष्करावर्तक II-50 9थ I-2 प्रकृति II-13 प्रणव II-12 प्रचेतस II-21 प्रतिकृष्ठं IV-7 प्रतिपन्नकल्प III-14 प्रतिहार III-58 प्रत्यार्थेन् I-59 प्रसंख्यान III-40 प्रष्टमनाः V-40 बन्धर I-42 ब्रह्मतेजस् V-30 वह्याङ्गभः III-15 भगवन् II-31 भागीरथी I-15 भामिनी V-38 मघवन् III-1 सनस्विनी V-6 मन्मथ III-20 समर III-31 महत् I-26, II-25 महाई V-12 मानदण्ड I-1 मायी II-46 मृगाङ्गना I-46 भैनाक -20 मौजी V-10 म्लेच्छ I−6 यज्ञाङ I-17 यम I-23 युग II-8 रथाङ्गनामन् III-37 रस III-33 रात्रिंदिव II-8 ललाटिका V-55

Kumarasambha

लॉबण्यं I-35 लोक II-32 वर्णिन V-52 बलित्रय I-39 वारणी IV-12 गसन II-29 विद्र I-24 विद्या 1-30, I-34 विद्याधर I-7 विबुध II-62 विरूपाक्ष V-72 विलासिन IV-5 विषवृक्ष 11-55 fagg III-20 वेदि 1-39 वेधस 11-14 वेशस IV-31 शक्ति I-22 शतमख II-64 शफरी IV-39 शिखण्डिवर्ह I- 5 शेष III-13 शेषा III-22 शैलेय I-55 इयामा I-36 सता I-21 सप्ति I-16 समित्कश V-33 संमोहन III-06 सरल I-9 सरस्वती IV-41 सवित्री I-24 संस्कारवती गी: I-48 साप्तपदीन V-39 सामुद्रिक I-33

324

सानिपातिक II-48 सांयगीन II-57 सिद्धि I-5 सीता V-61 स्त्रीपुंसौ II-7 सुदती I-53 ਚਸ਼ V-43 सुराय्थ II-20 स्तनसंवाधम् IV-26 स्थली III-29 स्पर्शवती I-55 स्थाणु ।।।-17 हयरत्न II-47 हरित: II-43 हृद्यंगस IV-24, II-16 Arrows-names carved on them III-27 -of Madana III-66 Artificial blossoming of flowers III-26 Aśramas V-30 Atomic theory II-11 Dhanurveda III-70 Gods-Celebrating events on the earth I-23 -Pastimes of I-29 -the drinking of the moon by II-34 -day of II-8 Laksmī-Fickleness of I-43 Mountains—with wings I-20 Rasa-Manifestations of III-35 Sāmkhya theory II-13

Sources of pearls I-13

19.40

SAMPLE STOCK VERIFICATION

VERIFIED BY..

CC-0. In Public Domain. Gurukul Kangri Collection, Haridwar

	पुस्तकालय
	गुरुकुल कांगड़ी विश्वविद्यालय विषय संख्या ००1.01
-	श्रागत पंजिका संख्या · २ · 12 ·
-
The same of	54,67
-	तथि	संख्या	तिथि	संख्या
100	>		+
Y
1
1			-
L
-
	- Control of

Standard Editions of Sanskrit Texts

(For University Students)

WRITTEN BY

Prin, R. D. Karmarkar and the late Prin. A. B. Gajendragadkar

Kar	rmarkar	Pages	Price Rs. As.
(1)	Mālavikāgnimitra	258	3-0-0
	Mṛcchakaṭika	550	4-8-0
		568	4-0-0
(4)	Kādambarī (portion Pp. 124-17)	6
	Peterson's Edition)	220	1-8-0
(5)	Meghadūta	140	2-8-0
(6)	Śākuntala (in Print)
(7)	Kumārasambhava (I-V)		4-8-0
By Karmarkar & Gajendragadkar
(1)	Intermediate Sanskrit Selections	163	2-8-0
(2)	For the Universities in Bombay	State)
(4)	Tarkasamgraha	110	1-8-0
	(1) (2) (3) (4) (5) (6) (7) Karr (1)	 (2) Mṛcchakaṭika (3) Mālatīmādhava (4) Kādambarī (portion Pp. 124-17) Peterson's Edition) (5) Meghadūta (6) Śākuntala (7) Kumārasambhava (I-V) Karmarkar & Gajendragadkar (1) Intermediate Sanskrit Selections (For the Universities in Bombay 	Karmarkar (1) Mālavikāgnimitra 258 (2) Mṛcchakaṭika 550 (3) Mālatīmādhava 668 (4) Kādambarī (portion Pp. 124-176 Peterson's Edition) 220 (5) Meghadūta 140 (6) Śākuntala (in Print) (7) Kumārasambhava (I-V) Karmarkar & Gajendragadkar (1) Intermediate Sanskrit Selections 163 (For the Universities in Bombay State)

All these editions contain

- (1) A carefully edited text;
- (2) Complete English Translation printed below the text;
- (3) Critical and Explanatory notes;
- (4) Introduction dealing exhaustively with all important points;
- (5) General information necessary for the proper appreciation of the texts.

AVAILABLE AT

ARYABHUSHAN PRESS, Poona 4.